4. [PR UPDATES & RECENT MEDIA COVERAGE]

The public relations team had a busy month in June 2025, with attending the IPW International Media Marketplace in Chicago and hosting eight media on press trips with a wide variety of themes. Pitching efforts continued and highlighted the Route 66 centennial, stargazing, Santa Fe's summer offerings and programming, including art and cultural markets and the Santa Fe Opera. We also received our first requests for "Where to Go in 2026," from several national publications including Condé Nast Traveler, Fodor's Travel, AFAR, & Travel + Leisure.

A major focus this month was preparing promotional efforts and social media amplification for Travel + Leisure's 2025 World's Best Awards announcement on July 8, and planning New York City media meetings for members of the Tourism Santa Fe team visiting July 15-18. We are now preparing for July and August media visits to Santa Fe, including a freelance writer for Houston Chronicle's Chron and D CEO Magazine's Will Maddox who will be flying on JSX's new Santa Fe route from Dallas.

SOCIAL MEDIA

Summary

June 2025 Performance Metrics

In June, social media channels experienced some unexpected increases and decreases. Facebook had a large engagement bump, which was mainly due to a sharp decrease last month. YouTube and Pinterest had decreases, along with Instagram. The number for Instagram show that many of the collaborative posts with a couple influencers throughout the month may have performed lower than expected, and by-and-large, those videos get less traction than organic “owned” content. And TikTok kept up its nice growth as a still relatively new platform, with carousel posts oddly far outperforming any videos for the month.
