- Your Comment: As a pedestrian living in the city, I don't feel safe. It would be great to have more convenient pathways that aren't along all of the roads as well as benches and vegetation. Inviting people to feel comfortable walking in the entire city is a boon for our environment and our health. Supplement this with safe bicycle paths, understandable pedestrian and bicycle rules as is done in other parts of the world would make Santa Fe a more desirable place to visit while curbing our growing traffic concerns. This needs to be coupled with handy bus, light rail, and state of the art public transportation. Also, there are new materials for roadways and sidewalks that are made of recycled materials and that are light in color so they don't produce the heat we have come to endure.
