What experience or special knowledge can you bring to your area(s) of interest?

I'm a teenager who has lived in Santa Fe for most of her life. I've been involved with programs such as Global Santa Fe and Reading Quest so I feel I bring the perspective of a Santa Fe teenager, student, volunteer, and representative. I have community and connections from every part of Santa Fe and it's always been important to me to hear there stories and try to always better my community. I feel I have issues, solutions, and things to celebrate about Santa Fe and I want to see my community and I represented on a high level.

Please list community organizations to which you belong:

Reading Quest, Global Santa Fe, Santa Fe Prep Model United Nations, as well as running and leading art related clubs for my school.

What are your principal areas of interest in City Government?

My principal areas of interest in City Government include youth engagement and Santa Fe's role in global issues such as climate change, migration, and cultural diplomacy. I'm passionate about international affairs and plan to study it in college, and I believe that effective global leadership starts with understanding and improving local communities. Being part of the Mayor's Youth Advisory Board would help me develop leadership and communication skills while learning how city-level decisions connect to the broader challenges we face in an interconnected world.

What experience or special knowledge can you bring to your area(s) of interest?

I bring a unique combination of global awareness and personal discipline to my areas of interest. I've participated in Model UN for the past three years, where I've developed skills in negotiation, public speaking, and understanding international policy. These experiences have helped me think critically about how local issues connect to global challenges. I've also attended multiple ballet intensives in Austin and Chicago, which have taught me dedication, time management, and how to work collaboratively in high-pressure environments, as well as broadening my global understanding, as I met many people who come from diverse backgrounds. These experiences have shaped me into a focused, thoughtful, and creative leader, eager to contribute to meaningful conversations in Santa Fe.

What are your principal areas of interest in City Government?

My principal areas of interest in city government are youth engagement, equitable public services, and environmental sustainability. I'm passionate about making sure young people have a voice in decisions that affect their lives. I also care deeply about equity and ensuring all neighborhoods, regardless of income or demographics, receive fair access to quality services like transportation, libraries, and clean parks. Finally, I'm interested in how Santa Fe policies can combat climate change through green infrastructure, better public transit, and local climate action plans. I believe local government has the power to create real change where people live, and I want to be part of that.

What experience or special knowledge can you bring to your area(s) of interest?

I've volunteered with organizations like Tomorrow's Women and Global Santa Fe, where I developed skills in cross-cultural communication and civic engagement. Through programs like Breakthrough, I've seen firsthand how access to education and resources can change lives for underrepresented youth. I've also studied media literacy and misinformation through the Council of International Educational Exchange, which helps me understand how public trust in government can be built or broken. These experiences give me a unique perspective on equity, inclusion, and how city policies can either uplift or overlook communities. I'm passionate about making sure young voices like mine are reflected.

What are your principal areas of interest in City Government?

My principal areas of interest in City Government are community development, civic engagement, and local policy. I'm especially interested in how local policies impact public safety, education, and access to public needs such as housing and transportation. I'm eager to see how youth programs like this one can be expanded to better support the next generation of community leaders and ensure the voices of young people are heard.

What experience or special knowledge can you bring to your area(s) of interest?
My participation in Mock Trial, Model UN, and Speech and Debate has fueled my passion for public service. Although all of these clubs have improved my public speaking skills, I have also learned different things from them individually that have provided me with great city government skills. In the fall, I participated in Model UN, which taught me how to advocate for local issues in a certain country and create strategies to fix them. In Mock Trial, which I am the president of and have participated in for two years, I learned a lot about city government, and how to fight for people's rights. Lastly, Speech and Debate has taught me how to properly and appropriately debate important topics (especially surrounding government systems) and how to speak in front of an audience confidently. These experiences have inspired me to take part in city government, and they each provide aspects that help me better understand my areas of interest.

What experience or special knowledge can you bring to your area(s) of interest?

I bring experience in grassroots community building, youth mentorship and student leadership. As a children's class teacher and junior youth animator, as a member of the Baha'i community, i've worked to create spaces where young people feel empowered to reflect, consult, and serve their communities. On my schools student council, I've learned how to listen and advocate effectively, and during my time as a lacrosse team captain, I've developed strong skills in collaboration and responsibility. These roles have taught me the value of inclusive leadership and the importance of bringing diverse voices- especially youth- into decision making spaces.
