HISTORY

"Santa Feans need to develop a deep sense of place and history regardless if they have been here for ten generations or a year."

"One aspect of this process is to help people WANT to gain a fuller understanding of Santa Fe history. Look for ways to engage with stories. These can come through different formats ... memoir, poetry/expressive writing, film, biography ... Images will be key ... documentary photographs, paintings that reveal cultural and natural history."

"I think it's important that we expand the history of Santa Fe beyond the history of the conquistadors to highlight the stories of the indigenous populations and lesser-known communities such as the stories of African Americans, Jewish and Middle Eastern populations."

"There are many ways for us all to more fully understand our unique history and culture. We do offer great museums, lectures, programs, events, art, poetry, music, historical sites and more and these should continue. More appreciation of our Pueblo values and history can and should be encouraged. A Southside 'Plaza del Sur' would be a great way to allow for more understanding and experience of more varied cultures living here."

"Education, education, education. What I remember being taught in school (oh those many, many years ago) about history was all what we all now realize was so incomplete and inaccurate."

"We need a Museum of Santa Fe that specifically focuses on the history of the land we live on and how it has changed culturally and environmentally...The mission of the museum needs to be both historic and current and include a relationship with the Public Schools that is educational, everything from archaeology to ecology to the visual and performing arts."

"Teaching history is critical and being honest on who's land this was at any given time is paramount. It's important to teach that lands, peoples, cultures, and nations are fluid and have always changed throughout time. However, in the context of three cultures in Santa Fe, it must be acknowledged that this was Tewa land first, and Santa Fe was a Tewa Pueblo. Yes, Hispanics have been here for hundreds of years and this is now their home, but they were colonizers, as was America unto them. Hispanics are now feeling the trauma of colonialism; something the Pueblo people have felt for centuries. Colonialism was the "way" historically, and there isn't a place on earth that hasn't been impacted by colonialism. We, as Santa Feans, and as citizens of the earth, need to decide if colonialism is something we wish to continue or let go. Colonialism is the alpha and omega of this issue, and it's where the conversations and decisions of CHART must lie. If we agree to continue colonialism, then all past cultures will eventually be erased. If we say "no more" to colonialism, then we need to give voice and justice to the original inhabitants. We need to stop colonizing all aspects of life: no more patenting of seeds, no more "ownership" of waters, no more "rights" to own what was always here."

"I think that things have gone from looking for a better understanding of history to our way or no way. Our history is a living history, and we need to find a way to move forward."

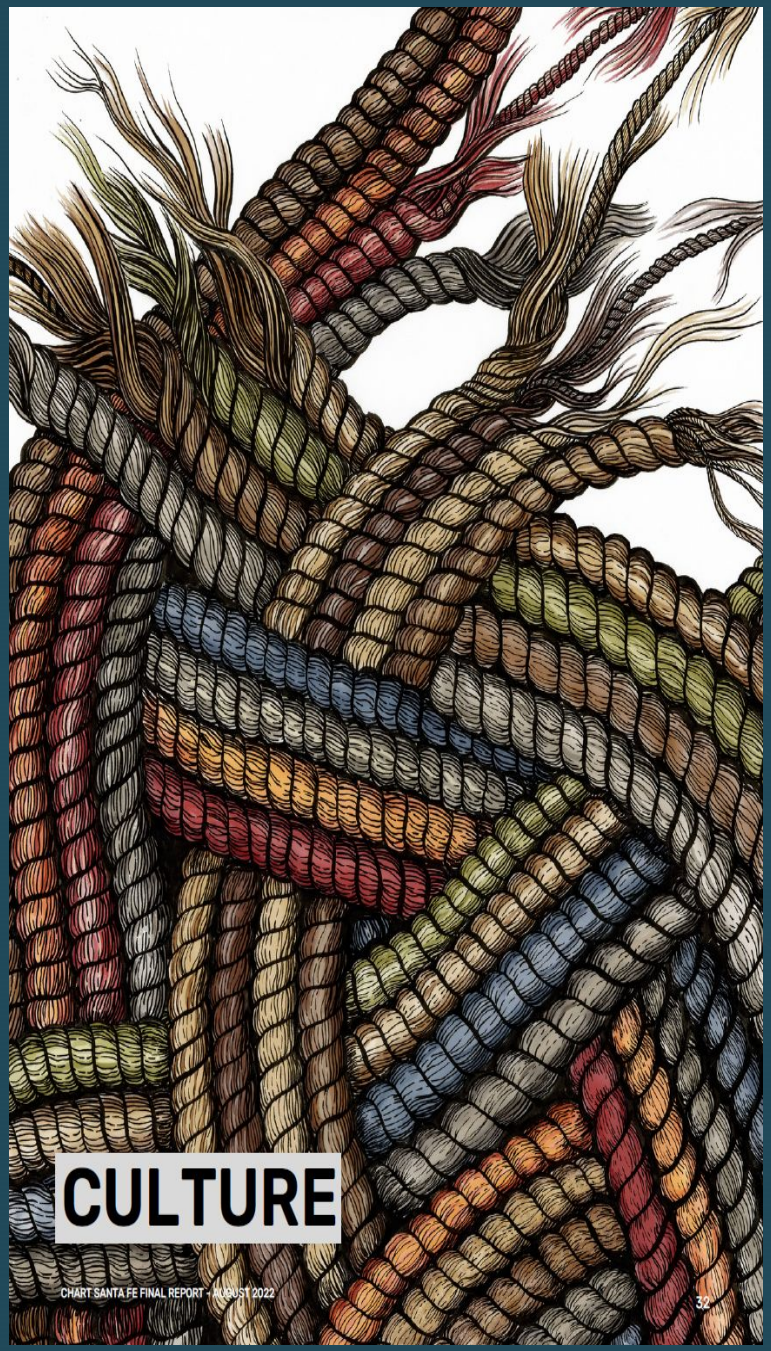

"In order to keep relevancy throughout future generations, we have to keep current in how younger generations learn or engage. Have youth groups comprised of the different cultures planning for the future and how to take pride in their history."

"Support diverse perspectives of history education in the schools, even for the youngest students, presented in the form of storytelling, music, dance and other arts."

2. Intercultural Sensitivity
3. What is the Culture of Santa Fe?
4. Celebrating Culture
5. Promoting Multicultural Understanding
6. Recommendations: Culture

"All of these topics, and the issue of intercultural sensitivity, came up consistently over the course of the CHART project. Participants spoke about the challenges of cultural change, no matter where it came from. Some harken back to life before the 21st century, with nostalgia, as if it were 'a simpler time;' others address 21st century changes as being rapid and jarring. Others replied that 'the only constant is change' and feel grateful for new cultural perspectives on old ways of life. Many advised that Santa Feans need to be much more culturally sensitive, culturally tolerant, and culturally inclusive."

1. Stepping Out of Our History Comfort Zone
2. Where We Learn About History
3. Understanding the City's Complex History
4. A Santa Fe History Museum
5. History and Education
6. Recommendations: History

"CHART participants spent twelve months talking about the history of Santa Fe and their views are as varied and diverse as our multicultural community itself. What is clear from the results of the CHART project that there is a great desire for a fuller understanding of Oga Po'gay's/Santa Fe's history. While we use the term as if there were one true story, it is clear from participants that the history of this place is manifold. There are multiple, parallel, and contradictory histories. We differ in our views as to the importance of historical events, even methods of collecting and legitimizing history. We heard some refer to the 'real history' of Santa Fe as beginning with Spanish conquest, confirmed in books and papers. Most emphatically disagree and embrace a history thousands of years before conquest, told by sun, sky, wind, water, land, earth and its creatures and carried down in both orature and literature."

10. Why Public Space Matters

"Over the course of the CHART project, we heard a lot about art, including monuments, memorials, and works of public art. It is clear that:

- Santa Feans value the arts and their place at the heart of community life;
- Residents believe that the arts have a unique ability to express diverse identities, cultures, traditions, and perspectives;
- Citizens see inequal, geographical distribution of public art (and the funding/revenue associated with it) in the city and county;
- Residents believe that the "tricultural myth" is not reflective of the current population of Santa Fe, marginalizes certain residents, and misrepresents the community;
- Some art, particularly in the form of monuments, requires new and considered attention and assessment that includes an inclusive public process;
- Controversies about monuments (particularly Soldiers Monument/"Obelisk") have deeply wounded the Santa Fe community while also encouraging us to address deeply-rooted problems; and
- The arts have a unique ability to promote truth, healing, and reconciliation."

RESULTS WITH RECOMMENDATIONS

1. What is Reconciliation?
2. Addressing and Promoting Reconciliation
3. Respect
4. Recommendations: Reconciliation

"CHART participants are largely committed to a process of truth, healing, and reconciliation while recognizing that it is difficult and must be ongoing and indefinite. They favor a range of approaches to this process with a particular emphasis on respect, educating ourselves about history, multicultural events promoting mutual understanding, collaboration between tribal and governmental agencies, sustained public dialogues, and truth commissions. They acknowledge that "historical truth" is complicated and that children, youth, adults and elders must grapple with complexity and nuance, with multiple perspectives on the truth, no matter how difficult. They affirm that doing this requires the tenacity to stay with difficult conversations about the past, the humility to confront the actions of our ancestors, the courage to accept responsibility for our actions in the present, and the resilience to keep going for the betterment of our community."

1. Racism
2. Recommendation: Racism
3. Equity and Quality of Life
4. Recommendations: Inequity
5. Belonging
6. Recommendation: Belonging
7. An Engaged Citizenry
8. A Comprehensive Approach to Community Engagement
9. Recommendations: Community Engagement

"It is fitting that 'Truth' serves as the concluding section of this final report. Though it may appear last in the acronym of CHART and last in this document, we understand the entire as a cycle–truth, culture, history, art, reconciliation all-at-once circular, sequential, spiral. All are important, dynamic, mutually interdependent, and all came up in relation to each other throughout the duration of the project…CHART participants caution that the community is still deeply embedded in the "truth-telling" part of this process and that we need to face the realities that are preventing all Santa Feans from thriving. Some of these truths are harsh–painful to acknowledge and urgent to address."

Artful Life is a New Mexico-based arts and community development organization that is dedicated to transforming communities through the beauty and power of creative collaboration. Our large-scale community engagement projects involve a wide range of New Mexicans of all ages, races, ethnicities and economic realities, and result in collaborative works that express a powerful sense of history, people, and place.

The work of Artful Life is deeply influenced by its Founding Director, Valerie Martínez, who has 14 years of broad and deep expertise with community-centered practice; facilitation and co-facilitation with community-based teams; engagement with stakeholders of diverse backgrounds; complex administrative and multi-layered projects; effective communication and collaboration; and program evaluation.

In other ways, Artful Life is deeply rooted in New Mexico community life. Many of our artists, project teams, and administrative staff are Indigenous to this place and/or descended from many generations of families living here. Others are more recent immigrants and/or transplants who have lived in New Mexico for anywhere from 5 years to more than 30. Each place-based project team reflects the communities where the work happens, have abiding relationships with their fellow residents, and in other ways are part of the social fabric of community life.

Artful Life's approach to cross-cultural understanding as well as ending racism and inequity is integrated into the design and plan of each project. Our trained teams carefully and intentionally envision, design, and implement each encounter, convening, and art. These consistently promote access, inclusion, compassion, empathetic dialogue, and active listening in an atmosphere of safety and respect. This kind of engagement lays the groundwork for truth, healing, and reconciliation.

Each Artful Life project also involves consultation and collaboration with a wide range of partners (CBOs, municipal agencies, neighborhood associations, etc.); recruitment and training of project team members; community outreach (including one-on-one and family meetings, meetings with neighborhood-based organizations; dialogue and listening sessions; art activations, family interviews and surveys), community convenings (art-making, civic dialogue, collaborative mapping and planning); analysis of information gathered from outreach activities and convenings; and evaluation and reporting.

Artful Life believes that communities have a remarkable depth of expertise–ancestral and contemporary–that emerges through a creative, collaborative process. This genius can chart the path forward, fueled by collective will and imagination.

*I*n 2016, the City of Santa Fe issued a document–Culture Connects Santa Fe - A Cultural Cartography–presenting the results of a public engagement initiative led by Creative Strategies 360⁰. It begins with an eloquent description of the city which is still largely apt today:

Located at the intersection of the 35th parallel north and the 105th meridian west, at 7,199 feet above sea level, the City of Santa Fe covers an area of 52.502 square miles. More than 70,000 [1] people live here. It is a place set in the context of indigenous homelands. Beneath the modern city lay the remains of a village including gardens, middens, and wall footings delineating houses dating from between A.D. 600 and 1425. Contemporary Native American Tewa communities still recognize the site as Po'oge (White Shell Water Place) [2].

When Spain would officially occupy what were former indigenous homelands, beginning about 1607, this particular land would eventually come to be resettled and named La Villa Real de la Santa Fé. Since the 17th century, the city has reflected the significance of Hispanics in a rich variation of lineage (Indigenous, African, European). This hybridity, though unique in longevity of place, makes it a part, still, of the Mexican-American diaspora.

Over time, people from every state, continent and many ethnic and cultural backgrounds have settled in Santa Fe, a complexity that at times has contributed both synergy and tension. It is a dynamic rather than static social environment, made rich by people whose values, experiences, histories, traditions, languages, philosophies and creativity make Santa Fe unique among world cities.

…Santa Fe is an international destination set in a breathtaking landscape steeped in culture, and is home to some of the nation's most revered pioneering arts-based institutions. Paradox, however, boldly presents itself in the community: even with Santa Fe's significant concentration of writers and editors, it bears a high rate of illiteracy…it faces a crisis in the lack of affordable housing; and its high number of PhDs is mirrored by one of the nation's worst high school graduation rates…There is great and conspicuous wealth, yet the poverty rate is a shocking 16.7% [3] (compared to the national rate of 14.5% [4[). People have written eloquently about the power of place here, its climate, light and beauty, and yet the community-eroding effect of displacement and gentrification is apparent in every quarter of the city. These disparities are evident in the places where people live and work. Santa Fe regularly ranks among the nation's most desirable places to live — both in work and in retirement — though data also indicate that the number of families with children and people under age 30 has decreased, particularly in the affluent historic and cultural districts.

Santa Feans live in a place where joy and pain co-exist, and yet, here beauty and creativity hold transformative power for the entire community. Given this crossroad — a city of contradictions where cultural identity holds the power of transformation to turn it around — the question is how to proceed, tapping the experiences of everyone, and serving the interests of all."

SUMMARY

This final report of the CHART (Culture, History, Art, Reconciliation and Truth) initiative presents a history of the project (from first mention to substitute resolution and finalized contract), a summary of project activities, a discussion of methods (iterative process, public engagement, data collection and analysis), a thorough discussion of results and recommendations, and a wealth of information in the form of appendices.

Organized into “Culture,” “History,” “Art,” “Reconciliation,” and “Truth” topic areas, we present 53 recommendations to the City of Santa Fe Governing Body that are based on 11 months of public engagement and data collection. These include: hosting more multicultural events that are free and take place in all neighborhoods of the city and county; undertaking a review of historical, cultural, and other events/programs currently hosted by the City to assess whether they reflect the community’s current diversity; investigating the possibility of creating a “Santa Fe History Museum;” creating more public art (excluding monuments and memorials) and locating it more equitably among neighborhoods; establishing and implementing official processes for creating and assessing public monuments, memorials, and works of art; soliciting public input for all of these processes; immediately beginning a process to reach a resolution between two most favored options for the disposition of Soldiers Monument/”Obelisk;” establishing a “Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion” office/department dedicated to dismantling systemic barriers to racial, gender, health, socio-economic and other forms of equality; undertaking the creation of an updated General Plan that identifies racism and inequity as continuing challenges for the city and initiates action, establishing a new “Department of Community Engagement” that will (among other things) cultivate healthy relationships and two-way channels of communication with community-based organizations, implement a diverse public engagement strategy, and develop effective mechanisms for relaying public input to city entities and the Governing Body; and immediately implementing a continuing process of truth, healing, and reconciliation for its citizens.

If the City of Santa Fe and its residents are courageous enough to undertake these and other changes as well as a many years-long process of truth-telling and reconciliation, we can “act as stewards of something greater than ourselves,” co-create a community of belonging for all who live in the city and county, and “choose the right path today, so that in the future they call us good ancestors.”

INTRODUCTION

Oghá Po'oge, Yootó, Ts'u'yala, Santa Fe de Nuevo México, La Villa Real de la Santa Fe de San Francisco de Asís, Santa Fe [5,6,7]

This is a story about stories–passed down by our ancestors, in petroglyphs and orature, in maps and treaties (held and broken), historical documents, poetry, fiction, and nonfiction. There are stories we know, overhear, discover in the pages of books, flash across social media, witness in the language of water, land, sky, and sun. Some stories we cling to; some we hold tentatively; some fail us when we discover they are frail under the harsh light of facts.

Stories are at the heart of community life. They inform us, guide us, confront us, confound us. They are reflected in storefront signs, works of art, historical markers, monuments, book jackets, speeches, quiet and loud conversations, in the faces of those we know and love and in those who are strange to us. We absorb them consciously and unconsciously from the moment we wake until we close our eyes to sleep.

The Santa Fe River, from its headwaters in the Upper Watershed and its long, fitful course to confluence with the Rio Grande, is perhaps the oldest story of Santa Fe. Water is why Oga Po'gay and Santa Fe exist, feeding the flora and fauna long before humans arrived and then nurturing indigenous and subsequent communities from settlement forward. The river–where it flows, where there is only a memory of flowing–bears witness to the history of Santa Fe and its peoples.

We keep the endangered Santa Fe River in our mind's eye as we present this report from the CHART project to the Governing Body of the City of Santa Fe. It helps us embrace history in its broadest sense and signals a brighter or darker future for our community. We must be caretakers of water in order to secure a living future for ourselves and our descendants just as we must serve as caretakers of our community in order for it to thrive.

Santa Fe is at a crossroads. This is not the first time in our history, and it will not be the last. The toppling of Soldier's Monument/"Obelisk," and its aftermath, unearthed long-standing and new feelings, opinions, and perspectives about who we are, where we've been, what we've done, and what we've failed to do. These are passionate, often strident, and they have dominated a great deal of public discourse since October of 2020. The aftermath of what happened to Soldiers Monument/"Obelisk" also sparked a municipal process that created the Culture, History Art, Reconciliation and Truth (CHART) project.

This is our story, and it continues.

The controversy over Soldiers Monument/"Obelisk" did not happen in a vacuum. In the wake of the murder of George Floyd by City of Minneapolis police officer Derek Chauvin–who pressed his knee on Floyd's neck for 9 minutes and 29 seconds on May 25, 2020–thousands of protesters entered U.S. streets and cried out against historic and systemic racism and oppression. Some protests resulted in the toppling of statues and memorials to Confederate soldiers and generals. Statues of Christopher Columbus were also targeted as activists for Indigenous representation and rights called for action around Land Back and sovereignty movements, justice for Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women, and reparations after discoveries of mass graves of children buried at boarding schools. In the midst of this feverish period of social unrest Soldiers Monument/"Obelisk," on the Santa Fe Plaza, was damaged and toppled by protesters on October 20, 2020.

We mention this context because it explains, in part, why monuments and statues everywhere–no matter how similar or different their particular histories–became flashpoints and, in some cases, sites of violence. And we are still in the midst of this period in U.S., New Mexico, and Santa Fe history, when old and new questions about the past ask us to reckon once more, reckon anew, with who we were, who we are, what we stand for, and how we move forward.

This is the difficult and significant terrain–a thicket of questions, emotions, opinions, facts, demands, and stories–that was the focus of the CHART project. Our job was to engage as many Santa Feans as possible in order to listen and listen and listen and listen and listen as well as create safe spaces and processes for residents to share their stories and the stories that have rocked the community. We worked to promote a mutual understanding of values we hold dear and values we share. We did not presume that answers or solutions were guaranteed in the short, 12 months of the contract period, not with the challenge of such cultural, historical, and aesthetic complexity. Nevertheless, we believe the wisdom of the community shines through, in this report, enough to move us along in significant ways.

We believe that if the City of Santa Fe and its citizens are courageous enough to undertake change and a many years-long process of truth, healing and reconciliation, we can co-create a community of belonging for all who live in the city and county. The information we gathered and present here is in service to this goal–the hope for a better future, a better story, for ourselves, our children, their children, and the generations to come.

"In the last days of the fourth world I wished to make a map for those who would climb through the hole in the sky.

My only tools were the desires of humans as they emerged from the killing fields, from the bedrooms and the kitchens.

For the soul is a wanderer with many hands and feet.

The map must be of sand and can't be read by ordinary light. It must carry fire to the next tribal town, for renewal of spirit."

–Joy Harjo, U.S. Poet Laureate [8]

"Lo que nos llevamos al pozo cuando muremos es nada más que un puño de tierra. Pero lo que dejamos son recuerdos e historias de quien fuimos y come caminamos entre la gente. Por feos, bonitos, ricos, pobres, buenos o malos, inteligentes, medio zafa'os, generosos o cuscos, si no van a decir 'tan bueno que fue' or 'pobrecita, tan buen corazón que tenía,' pues tan siquiera que digan, 'tanto que peleó por su pueblo, aunque nada se llevó.'

(All we take to the grave when we die is a handful of dirt. But what we leave behind are memories and histories of who we were and how we walked among people. Whether we are ugly, pretty, rich, poor, nice or mean, intelligent, kind of slow, generous or greedy, if they are not going to say 'he was such a good person' or 'poor thing, she had such a big heart,' well, at least they should say, 'he fought so hard for his community, although he took nothing with him."

HISTORY OF CHART

The story of CHART, itself, is a complicated one. First mentioned in October, 2020, in the midst of the whirlwind after the toppling of the Soldiers Monument/"Obelisk," Mayor Alan Webber publicly announced:

"I've introduced the resolution to form a commission on culture, history, art, reconciliation and truth: CHART. Its job is to chart a path forward for all of us. It will create a place where everyone's voice can be heard and where everyone's views will count.

This is a critical step in our city coming together and developing solutions and a way forward—for the Plaza and beyond. The resolution will work its way through all three of our City Council committees and in the end it will be shaped by every member of the Governing Body. I invite you to give input, too. It's going to take all of us. Once it's adopted, we will put it to work with intention, inclusion and speed."

By December 16, 2020, members of the Governing Body had decided to alter the Mayor's original approach (a CHART commission to be "shaped by every member of the Governing Body") for a new one:

"A substitute resolution for the Culture, History, Arts, Reconciliation and Truth committee (CHART) is on the agenda for presentation at tomorrow evening's meeting of the Governing Body. The resolution is sponsored by Mayor Webber and Councilors Romero-Wirth, Rivera, and Abeyta.

The substitute resolution eliminates for now the idea of an appointed commission, and instead calls for a widespread, inclusive, and democratic process for community-based engagement. The focus is not on an oversight body, but on as much participation from the people of Santa Fe as possible. It takes a different approach to increase inclusivity and community participation, while understanding this is a call to action to discuss the City's cultural histories and current viewpoints to seek solutions for a future of peace, justice, healing, and reconciliation. This substitute resolution focuses on creating a process for community engagement to encourage all people to speak, to be heard, and to listen."[10]

At the January 13, 2021, City of Santa Fe Governing Body meeting the "Substitute CHART resolution" was unanimously approved.

"The evolution of this resolution from its inception to its final form exemplifies democracy in action. The original proposal was for the formation of a committee that would deliberate and make recommendations for the disposition of monuments and statues that became controversial flashpoints last summer. Upon further research and reflection, the sponsors–Mayor Alan Webber, Councilor Carol Romero-Wirth, Councilor Roman “Tiger” Abeyta, and Councilor Chris Rivera–decided that far better outcomes would be achieved through a grassroots process that invites and facilitates community-member-to-community-member dialogue. The substitute CHART resolution eliminates, for now, the original idea of an appointed commission, and instead calls for a democratic, grassroots process of community-based engagement. The focus is not on creating an official oversight body, but on fostering as much participation from the people of Santa Fe as possible…the process will require patience—there are no durable quick fixes to historic grievances—but the reward will be an outcome that’s the result of grassroots democracy in action and reflective of the community as a whole.” [11]

At this meeting, several City of Santa Fe city councilors commented on the revised approach this way:

“‘The focus of CHART needs to be our community members participating, being heard, and sharing their stories and experiences. Community healing and moving forward is our goal. It is about understanding each other, and this resolution allows for that opportunity,’ said Councilor Abeyta.

‘This resolution allows the focus to be on giving our residents the opportunity to be heard, to feel heard, and to heal,’ said Councilor Romero-Wirth.

Councilor Rivera echoed the desires for community healing, while emphasizing, ‘We need to start the process, we need to provide an opportunity and platform for all residents to participate, not just group leaders and organization representatives, but members of groups, grandmothers, cousins, and friends.’ He continued, ‘We need to listen to what people want and find a way forward. I also want to acknowledge and thank the many individuals that have reached out to this point, and shared comments, feedback, and feelings.’”[12]

In a public letter dated January 19, 2022, Mayor Webber commented on the progress of the CHART initiative:

“After months of committee hearings involving every member of the City Council, we unanimously adopted a resolution to begin the CHART process….Patterned after a community-led process used in Albuquerque, our Culture, History, Art, Reconciliation, and Truth process represents a grass-roots, open, transparent, and democratic way for everyone in our community to have their voice heard—and to hear the voices of friends, neighbors, and all who want to participate. The process calls for courageous conversations, where we honestly and respectfully listen to and learn from each other. Importantly, the elected officials in City government—including me—will take a step back. These discussions will belong to you. Your voice, your values, your personal and family stories and your recommendations are what matter."[13]

Here, and during public meetings, there was mention of the Albuquerque process, specifically its "Race, History, & Healing Project (RHHP)," a three month initiative created by the City of Albuquerque after protests and a shooting at the site of a statue of Oñate resulted in the removal of this statue.

The RHHP focused on one question –whether the "Oñate statue"[14] should be reinstalled at the site. Here's a description of the project from the RHHP project summary:

"The Race, History & Healing Project launched in summer 2020 in response to community concerns about the Oñate statue that forms part of La Jornada public art installation on the grounds of the Albuquerque Museum. The project supported community-centered dialogue (community members talking with each other) which led to community-generated recommendations from the community to City leadership."[15]

The results of the Albuquerque project were as follows:

"The Race, History and Healing Project Community Solutions Table recommends the following regarding the Oñate statue and La Jornada:

- The Oñate statue will not be returned to the installation at 19th & Mountain.
- La Jornada will not remain, as is, on the land at 19th & Mountain. By this we mean that La Jornada may be re-envisioned and/or re-contextualized.

Where the Oñate statue will end up and how La Jornada might be re-envisioned has NOT been determined. Hence, we the facilitation team also make the following recommendations to the Arts Board and the City Council:

- Create more time and space for healing, recognizing needs are different for the represented groups.
- Create additional opportunities for participants to advise what happens with the statue and installation in response to the above recommendations."[16]

The recommendations, above, were made to the Albuquerque City Council in December of 2020. To date (August 3, 2022), per the RHHP organizers, the City Council has not acted on these recommendations, a source of considerable frustration on the part of those who took part in the process, and others.

We mention the RHHP because it shaped the Governing Body's idea for CHART but was significantly different in scope, breadth, and duration. This caused confusion on the part of many residents about what the CHART Santa Fe project was actually supposed to do. For example, the substitute CHART resolution includes two kinds of language around community dialogue sessions including, repeatedly, "community dialogue sessions" and, once, "all three dialogue sessions" (the latter in reference to the Community Solutions Table). There is also mention of Rounds One, Two, and Three which describes general topic areas for "community dialogue sessions" rather than specific numbers of sessions.

We understand the singular mention of "all three dialogue sessions" and Rounds One, Two, and Three to vaguely refer to the RHHP process in Albuquerque which lasted only three months.

Fortunately, the CHART contract clarifies, for the lead consultant, how the resolution should be carried out in regards to dialogue sessions: "The CHART consultant team will be the lead to fulfill the Resolutions framework through…Convene community dialogue sessions by organizations; Convene and facilitate, as appropriate, community dialogue sessions open generally to community members unaffiliated with a particular community organization… Facilitate Community Solutions Table."[16] Readers can view the complete list of contract obligations on pp. 12-13 of this report.

Because of confusion about the Albuquerque process in relationship to CHART, we spent many, many hours, in the first three months of the project, responding to confused and angry residents, many of whom were under the impression that CHART was solely focused on whether Soldiers Monument/"Obelisk" would be reinstalled (like the singular question at the center of the RHHP), that the CHART consultant and/or team would make this decision; that the decision was "already made" because of the final recommendation made by the RHHP about the Oñate statue in Albuquerque; that there would be only three dialogue sessions and that a select few who attended these, the Community Solutions Table, would decide the fate of Soldiers Monument/"Obelisk," and more.

All of the above impressions do not reflect the CHART process as undertaken and completed by Artful Life in fulfillment of the contract. Also, it's important to note that Artful Life applied for the contract based on its grassroots approach to arts and community development which emphasizes a robust process of public engagement in which communities–dozens and dozens of participants working together–make decisions for themselves.

For these reasons, it bears repeating that at the heart of the CHART process, administered by Artful Life, is the following:

“...a grassroots process that invites and facilitates community-member-to-community-member dialogue. The substitute CHART resolution eliminates, for now, the original idea of an appointed commission, and instead calls for a democratic, grassroots process of community-based engagement. The focus is not on creating an official oversight body, but on fostering as much participation from the people of Santa Fe as possible.”

This grassroots process, as articulated in the substitute CHART resolution, focuses on local and larger historical, social, and cultural issues that affect where we are today:

"WHEREAS, the City of Santa Fe (“City”) recognizes the political and cultural divisions in the United States at this time and has observed the destruction of the Soldier’s Monument (the Obelisk) on the Plaza, the removal of the Don Diego de Vargas statue from Cathedral Park by Executive Order, and the boarding up of the Kit Carson memorial; and

WHEREAS, the City understands there is an urgent call to action by city residents, diverse stakeholders, and the Governing Body to discuss the City’s cultural histories and current viewpoints to seek solutions for a future of peace, tolerance, racial equity, social justice, healing, and reconciliation; and

WHEREAS, the City’s leadership recognizes the need to create a process for community engagement to encourage people to speak, to be heard, and to listen.”[17]

Over the course of the project we engaged 1,372 unique participants in the CHART project and had almost 10,000 engagements (attendance, including repeats, at events and activities; survey responses; interviews; arts activities, and more). The results serve as the collective voice of the community telling a complex and sometimes contentious story.

METHODS

ENGAGEMENT

At the heart of the CHART process was public engagement, and Artful Life dedicated itself to as broad and inclusive a process as possible. One of the challenges of a municipal engagement process is reaching as many residents as possible–many of whom do not attend town hall meetings and public dialogues, engage with their elected officials, or know about municipal initiatives that seek their knowledge and opinions.

For this reason, CHART reached out to Santa Feans in a wide variety of ways–facilitated by a large and diverse project team–in order to gather as many stories, feelings, beliefs, perspectives and opinions as possible. These included both online and in-person activities. We hosted Zoom and in-person dialogues with emphasis on small group interaction. We met with dozens of organizations for listening sessions and discussion. We conducted one-on-one interviews. We visited schools to engage with K-12 students. We presented talks with experts in the field. We conducted two public surveys, available online and in-person (paper). We presented short films followed by dialogue. We created social media campaigns and launched a Culture Blog. We made art with children, youth, and adults. We reached out in English, Spanish, ASL, and the universal language of games, poetry, fingerpaint, and song.

We invite readers to view a short video here to get a sense of how we engaged with Santa Feans during the project.

During the first half of the project, we faced challenges related to the Covid-19 pandemic which prevented us from indoor activities and meant limited access to businesses that were still shuttered or employing fewer workers on-site (as many employees were working remotely). Nevertheless, we worked hard to create and implement a wide range of mechanisms regardless of limitations.

For example, our first survey was distributed primarily online though we also gathered paper surveys at public venues while adhering to public health orders. Our first Cultural History Series talk was online (and then available on YouTube) followed by a limited capacity talk in February (also subsequently available online) with the audience in masks. Both were followed by a live event in March (also subsequently available online). Public dialogue sessions were held by Zoom until we could safely convene in person. We visited classrooms online until it was physically safe to visit schools. We launched a Culture Blog to facilitate online engagement for those who were still nervous about leaving home and those who favor engaging from the comfort of their desktop, laptop, or tablet. In other words, we worked hard to adhere to public health orders while continuing to move forward with CHART activities throughout the contract period.

Overall, the wide range of project activities were designed to gather valuable data (the basis for this report) whether in the form of notes from interviews, dialogues and listening sessions; responses to qualitative and quantitative surveys, data from evaluation forms, poetry, drawings, paintings, collage; content from phone calls and email messages; comments on blog and social media posts, and more.

DIALOGUE

Central to public engagement in the form of dialogues was the small group. Both online and in-person dialogue ushered participants into small groups of 4-6 persons with prompt questions. The questions were available on the CHART website ahead of the scheduled events as well as emailed to those who registered so that participants would have time to consider the questions beforehand.

We also employed a “talking circle” format for each small group, allowing equal time (usually 2 minutes per round) for each person to speak and share, moving around the circle in the same order each time. This format not only ensured that speakers were given equal time, but it allowed for a lot of listening. The necessity for listening came up repeatedly in responses to our first survey–respondents felt strongly that listening was desperately needed in public dialogue about difficult subjects.

“The CHART process can go a long way to building the culture we want. A culture in which we are both candid and caring in which it is natural to practice deep, reflective listening. A culture in which we are able to let the other in...into our psyche, our heart. Invite people to use their imagination to try to really feel what it's like to be someone very different from oneself.” (Survey 1 respondent)

The emphasis on small group interaction is a best practice that Artful Life has used very effectively for many years and is used widely in the field of arts and community development.

“‘The small group is the unit of transformation. The small group is the structure that allows every voice to be heard. It is in groups of 3 to 12 that intimacy is created. This intimate conversation makes the process personal. It provides the structure where people overcome isolation and where the experience of belonging is created…The small group is the bridge between our own individual existence and the larger community...Something almost mystical, certainly mysterious, occurs when citizens sit in a small group, for they often become more authentic and personal with each other there than in other settings.”[18]

During small group dialogue sessions, trained CHART facilitators kept time for each person and the entire activity as well as guided participants through the prompts and questions. CHART facilitators expressed no opinions, nor did they advocate for any position on an issue. Their job was to ensure equal time for participants and assist each small group in moving through the process while another team member took careful notes. When CHART met with organizations, at their request, we suggested this same format for the meetings.

Readers are invited to watch a short video of a CHART dialogue in March here.

Readers can view a detailed CHART event plan in Appendix E. Find our guidelines for civil dialogue, provided to participants during public dialogue sessions, in Appendix J.

COMMUNITY SOLUTIONS TABLE

One additional activity worth mentioning here is the Community Solutions Table (CST). The CHART contract includes the following instructions for implementing this part of the process: “Facilitate Community Solutions Table” and “Design the …Community Solutions Table with an evaluator to ensure equity, inclusion, and non-bias questions/framing.” In keeping with these requirements and the methodology of the project, Artful Life developed the following, more detailed description of the CST:

“The members of the Community Solutions Table will consist of individuals who have consistently engaged with the project and its range of activities and will be determined after the majority of the public engagement events have occurred. Membership on the Community Solutions Table shall be intentionally diverse and representative of the Santa Fe community in of age, gender identity, sexual orientation, race, and cultural background. It will include a balance of perspectives and opinions on the City’s culture, histories, and stories, as well as a balance of perspectives on the obelisk and other monuments and statues of the community.

Table members will review the body of data collected over the course of public engagement activities (surveys, dialogue session notes, one-on-one interview notes, results of art activations, responses to Cultural History Series events, and more) and use this as a basis for proposing recommendations to be included in the final report. This process ensures that recommendations are based on the hundreds of responses by community members that reflect a robust and diverse public engagement process rather than the views of a few. This was the intention of the Governing Body when it rejected a process limited to a commission or board of a limited number of individuals.”

Artful Life compiled results of public engagement (notes from dialogues and interviews, survey results, analysis of Survey 1, and additional data) for study and review by the members of the CST–two binders consisting of 330 pages of information. The members received the material three weeks prior to a weekend of meetings. At the meetings, CST members discussed the findings, deliberated, and decided which issues/topics they wanted to address in the form of recommendations to the City of Santa Fe Governing Body. The recommendations of the CST (a subset of all recommendations in the report) appear in this report.

TRACKING

Throughout the project we tracked attendance at every activity and event, as well as for meetings and phone calls. We analyzed the data to determine how many participants were “unique” as well as the total number of “engagements” which included repeat attendance/participation. We also tracked “outreach,” that is, how many people were sent CHART emails, MailChimp updates and newsletters; City of Santa Fe CHART-related news blasts and updates, as well as approximate numbers of readers/viewers of newspaper articles about CHART (the latter with readership numbers provided by media outlets). These produced the following statistics:

1,372 Unique Participants
9,911 Engagements
37,199 Outreach

We also tracked, as often as possible, who was participating in CHART activities in terms of the following demographics: age, zip code and/or ethnicity and race and/or other descriptors volunteered by participants. Sometimes this was easy–e.g., asking for such information with online pre-registration forms–but for other CHART activities (e.g., drop-in events at parks and malls and homeless shelters and libraries) collecting demographic information might have resulted in cumbersome registration processes or discouraged some residents from participating. We were cognizant, throughout the project, that we were consistently asking participants to be forthright about their opinions and that discussion about, for example, monuments and equity might bring up sensitive issues of racism and discrimination.

Many participants were also keenly aware of vitriolic dialogue around Soldiers Monument/”Obelisk” present in public forums and the media, and some expressed worry about being unsafe if they honestly shared their opinions. For example, one resident told us, “We have kids in the schools” while expressing a reluctance to speak honestly in the company of others about what it is like to be a Black person living in Santa Fe. Others distrust demographic data for other reasons.

“According to Kader et al. (2022), there are privacy concerns related to disaggregating results, especially for small populations. For example, there are fears that findings can be used to target specific populations and can lead to willful misinterpretation to support stereotyping and discrimination. Additional issues are posed when limiting response options, and some individuals may not respond because they feel excluded if the race/ethnicity they identify with is not listed or when none of the responses apply.”[19]

For this reason, we were sensitive about “gatekeeper” requirements at CHART events and also made the decision to anonymize any notes from dialogues, meetings, listening sessions, and discussions to protect our participants.

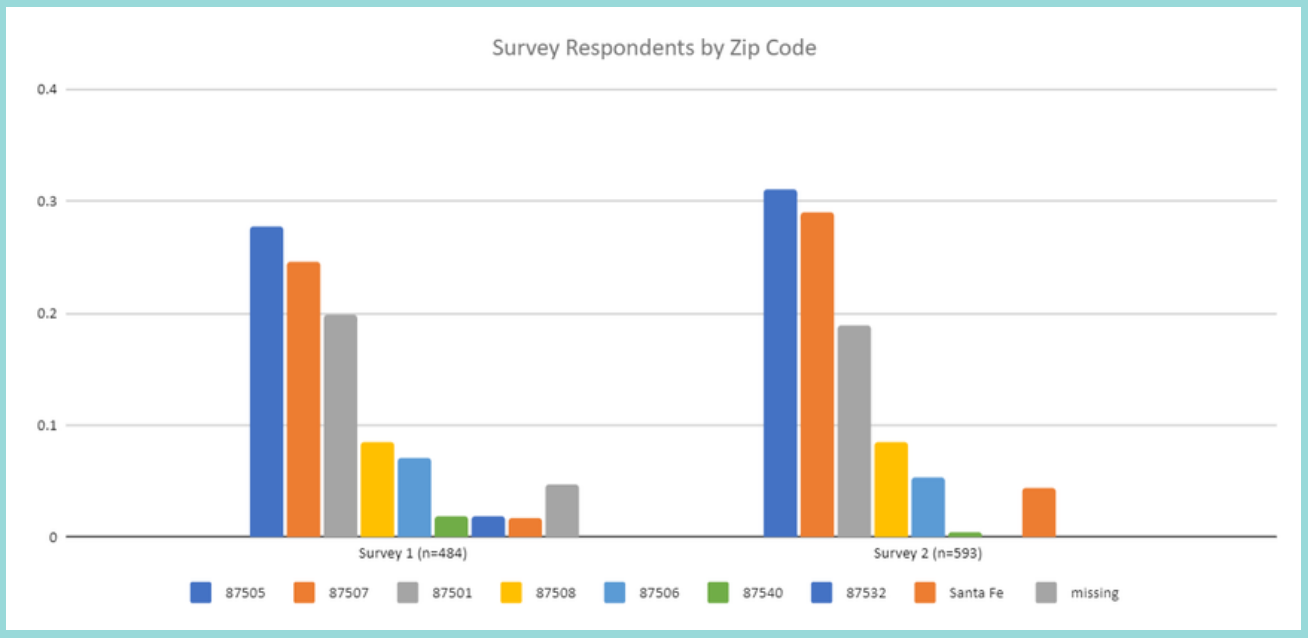

With the demographic information we were able to gather and through careful observation of who was engaging with the project, we tracked who was attending and who was not. Where we saw gaps, we redoubled our efforts to reach those whose voices needed to be heard. Reaching residents of color was a particular focus, as was the segment of the city and county populations aged 20-29.

We reached out, in particular, to the four Pueblos located in Santa Fe County–Tesuque/Tet-Sugeh; San Ildefonso/Po-Woh-Geh-Owingeh; Pojoaque/P'o-suwae-geh, and Nambé/Nanbé Owingeh–as well as the Institute for American Indian Arts and organizations serving the Indigenous people of the city and county. We also held several events at Santa Fe Place Mall where we were able to engage with individuals whose first language is Spanish, more recent immigrants to Santa Fe, and teens and younger families. We held events with teens at Pojoaque and Capital High Schools, and the Santa Fe Public Schools were especially helpful in promoting surveys and events to students, teachers, and staff. CHART also attended special events like the Midtown Block Party, Indigenous Ways Festival, and Juneteenth. We also spent an afternoon at Pete’s Place, making art and talking with homeless members of our community.

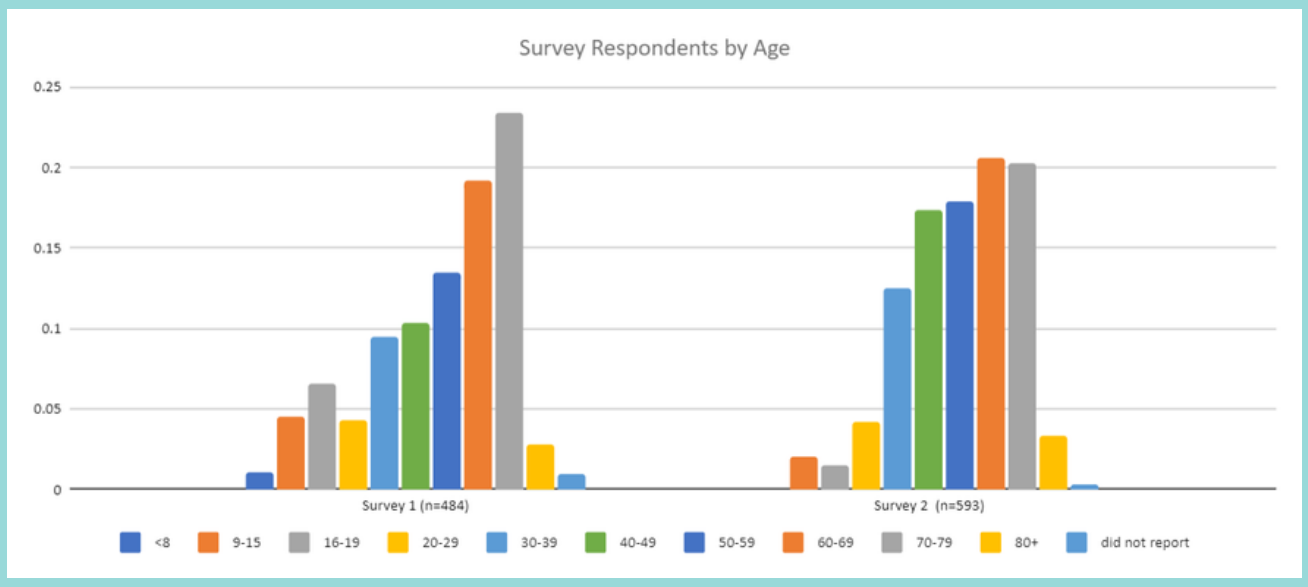

CHART also created and utilized a list of over 140 Santa Fe-based organizations (see Appendix A) to reach out via email and/or MailChimp newsletters inviting their members/clients and staff to participate in CHART activities. This list includes such organizations as the Caballeros, NAACP, EarthCare, Human Rights Alliance, Japanese American Citizens League (New Mexico Chapter), Fiesta Council, Old Santa Fe Association and the Exploring Whiteness and Understanding Privilege, among many others. In response to these invitations, we met with 44 of the organizations on this list.

In terms of age, zip code, and ethnicity and race, the most reliable picture of who participated in CHART is best reflected in the results of Surveys 1 and 2 (age and zip code) and Survey 2 (ethnicity and race). As mentioned previously, we did not require demographic information at every event, for the reasons stated above. Because of this, the following tables do not perfectly reflect, as a whole, everyone who participated in CHART, but they give us some indication.

The chart shows that the majority of CHART Survey 1 and 2 respondents–who provided this information–live in three zip codes: 87505, 87507, and 87501.

In terms of participation by age, those ages 60-69 and 70-79 accounted for 19.2% and 23.3% (respectively) of Survey 1 respondents and 20.2% and 20.6% (respectively) of Survey 2 respondents. Based on the 2019 American Community Survey (ACS), these percentages are consistent with Santa Fe's population, overall. [20]

In terms of ethnicity/race (as discussed above), we have only partial results–the data from Q38 of Survey 2. Though we collected information about race/ethnicity on public dialogue registration forms in the form of the following question:

“Please tell us a little about your background. Creating diverse discussion groups is important to CHART. Knowing more about your race, ethnicity, background, etc. will assist us with this”

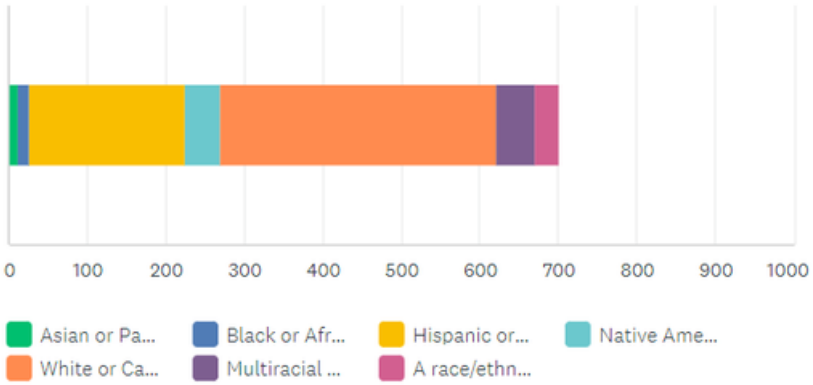

A response to this question was voluntary. Forty-eight percent (48%) did not provide an answer. Of the remainder, 21% self-identified as Hispanic; 25% self-identified as White, and 4% self-described in a variety of other ways.

Q38

Which of the following best describes you? (Check all that apply)

Answered: 589 Skipped: 50

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Asian or Pacific Islander | 2.04% |
| Black or African American | 2.55% |
| Hispanic or Latino | 33.62% |
| Native American or Alaskan Native | 7.47% |
| White or Caucasian | 59.93% |
| Multiracial or Biracial | 8.15% |
| A race/ethnicity not listed here | 5.43% |
| Total Respondents: 589 | |

It is important to note that respondents could “Check all that apply,” and filtered results show that 60% of those who self-identify as Black or African American checked more than one box; 57% of those who self-identify as Native American or Alaskan Native checked more than one box; 50% of those who self-identify as Asian or Pacific Islander checked more than one box; and 31% of respondents who self-describe as “Hispanic/Latino” checked more than one box.

In the “Culture” and “History” sections, below, we discuss the remarkably complex nature of the current Santa Fe community. It is why tracking demographics, using exclusive categories, is problematic.

PROJECT TEAM

Also essential to a robust process of public engagement was our project team. Co-Directors Valerie Martínez and Jenice Gharib provided the expertise and experience to successfully undertake and complete the project. Alexis Kaminsky joined the team as the project evaluator as did Kearsley Higgins as Administrative Coordinator. In terms of the facilitation team, in September of 2021, Artful Life issued an open call for any Santa Fean to apply. CHART received 155 applications for a 14-member team (including 4 high school intern positions), selected applicants for interviews, and then hired the team on a part-time, contract basis.

In choosing team members, the Co-Directors focused on a) diversity (age, race, ethnicity, LGBTQAI+, residential zip code, years living in Santa Fe, etc.) and b) ability to serve as facilitators of a community process as opposed to advocates for a particular cause, position, or opinion. Because the CHART contract required art activations, it was also important to hire artists as well as cultural practitioners with experience in community engagement. All team members, except for Martínez (who was born and raised in Santa Fe but currently lives in Albuquerque) and Kaminsky, are residents of the city or county of Santa Fe.

Team members came to the project with considerable expertise in a wide range of areas and disciplines. Even so, they had not previously worked together and so underwent team building activities as well as training in community facilitation. During the project, we worked as a large ensemble and also in smaller groups on specific tasks.

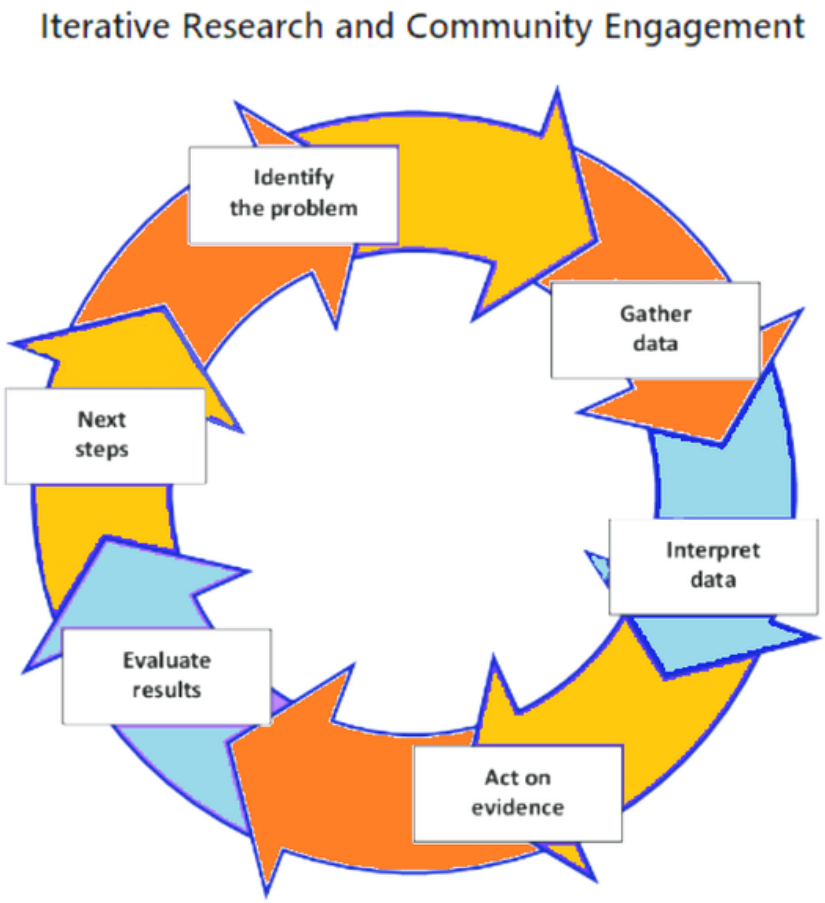

We name our team members here to acknowledge their remarkable dedication, work and service to this large and complex project: Maureen Burdock, Hernan Gomez Chavez, Tintawi Kaigziabiher, Simesha McEachern, Peter Cuong Nguyen, M.O. (High School Intern), Kenneth Pin, Trace Rabern, A.R. (High School Intern), Tomás Romero (in memoriam), Santiago Sanchez y Lucero, R.T. (High School Intern), and Mark Westberg. Tomás Romero, a much-loved and admired member of the CHART team, passed away during the project. It broke our hearts and we are eternally grateful for his contributions to the project.

ITERATIVE PROCESS

CHART relied on an iterative process for data collection, reflection, and action throughout the project, beginning with Survey 1. Such methodologies are well-established in participatory action research and have a long history in the fields of education, project management, and community-based research. [21] The figure below, “Iterative Research and Community Engagement” shows the stages of iterative methodologies. [22]

Initial steps focus on identifying a problem or issue. Data about the problem is gathered to better understand it from multiple perspectives and a variety of sources. Data is then analyzed to examine themes and trends as well as areas of convergence and divergence. The findings are then used to design interventions from which further data are gathered to evaluate the impact of the activities and define future action. The cycle continues in a helical manner with each iteration building on what was learned previously.

CHART’s iterative process began with Survey 1. The survey was composed of three broad and open-ended questions designed to elicit a wide range of views and experiences from Santa Fe residents and was intended to help identify key concerns within the community. The survey questions were:

1. How can we come to a fuller understanding of the history of Santa Fe?
2. How can we build healthier relationships while acknowledging our differences?
3. How can we become good ancestors to our children, their children, and generations to come?

Survey responses were gathered from October through December of 2021, both online and in-person, at various physical locations while adhering to state public health guidelines for COVID 19.

By the survey deadline, December 31, 2021, CHART gathered 484 usable survey responses [23], 78,269 words, or close to 300 single-spaced pages of text. [24] Issues, claims, and concerns emerging from analysis of these responses were used to inform subsequent program activities and to focus further data collection.

CHART acted on what was learned from Survey 1 to select topics for public dialogue, the Cultural History Series, and Art Activations. Monuments (generally, and Soldiers Monument/"Obelisk" in particular) served as the focal topic for the January public dialogues and the "Monumental Dreams and Conversations" program. Equity and belonging were also important topics to residents based on responses to and analysis of Survey 1. These topics then became the focus of public dialogue sessions in February and March.

Evaluation data is also important to the iterative process and CHART employed different mechanisms for gathering feedback during the project. For example, a short evaluation form was sent to participants who pre-registered and attended public dialogue sessions as well as those who registered "on-site" (whether online or in person) and results of these refined subsequent activities. [25] At the exits from Frenchy's Field, for the November 14, 2021 CHART event, we provided large pieces of white paper and markers on tables so that participants could write responses to the event as they left. At Santa Fe Place Mall, for a drop-in event, large Post-it notes on the wall encouraged responses from those who attended.

The iterative process employed by CHART was also used to develop Survey 2, a 39-item questionnaire based on the data collected during the first seven months of the project and looking forward to forming recommendations to the Governing Body. Specific items were designed to gather quantitative information. For instance, Survey 2 included multiple questions about public art in Santa Fe based on the issues and concerns raised earlier in the CHART process. These items asked about city procedures for approving or objecting to public art, distribution of public art throughout the city, and the role of public input in public art decisions. The seven options listed under the question about what to do with Soldier's Monument (Survey Q18) were drawn from the recommendations made about the obelisk in the first survey. [26]

Finally, the iterative process also informed the work of the Community Solutions Table (CST). Recommendations from Survey 1, results of Survey 2; notes from dialogues, interviews and other CHART activities, and additional data comprised two binders of information (330 pages) that members of the CST were required to review, study, and use as the basis of their deliberations and recommendations.

[23] 497 survey responses were submitted in total. Thirteen were excluded because they were from non-Santa Fe residents.
[24] These analyses were presented to the Santa Fe Governing Body as part of the second quarter update.
[25] Response rates reported under Data Collection.
[26] Question 18 read: What should be done with Soldier's Monument ("Obelisk") on the Santa Fe Plaza? Response options: (a) Restore the monument with its original signage; (b) Restore the monument with its original signage and add language that encourages it to be fully understood and assessed; (c) Restore the monument with different signage; (d) Move the monument to a different location; (e) Replace what's left of the monument with something else; (f) Remove what's left of the monument and leave the space unoccupied; and (g) No opinion: what happens to the monument isn't important to me.

DATA

CHART collected data throughout the project's lifespan. Information was gathered at every dialogue session, each activity and event, every meeting, each interview, every email and phone call, through the website and social media, and through surveys. This resulted in a very large body of information that is the basis for this report.

CHART analyzed data in several different ways depending on its type and how it was going to be used. Two primary types of data were collected: 1) open-ended, qualitative data and 2) close-ended quantitative data. Analysis was conducted for the purposes of project planning, project implementation, and reporting.

Quantitative data were collected through outreach and engagement logs, on evaluation forms, and through Survey 2. Simple frequencies were calculated using Excel 2016 for Mac and SurveyMonkey. Data were displayed using barcharts. Demographic data, where collected, was also analyzed to determine the ages, locations, and, in some cases, race/ethnicity of participants. This information was used to inform outreach and reporting.

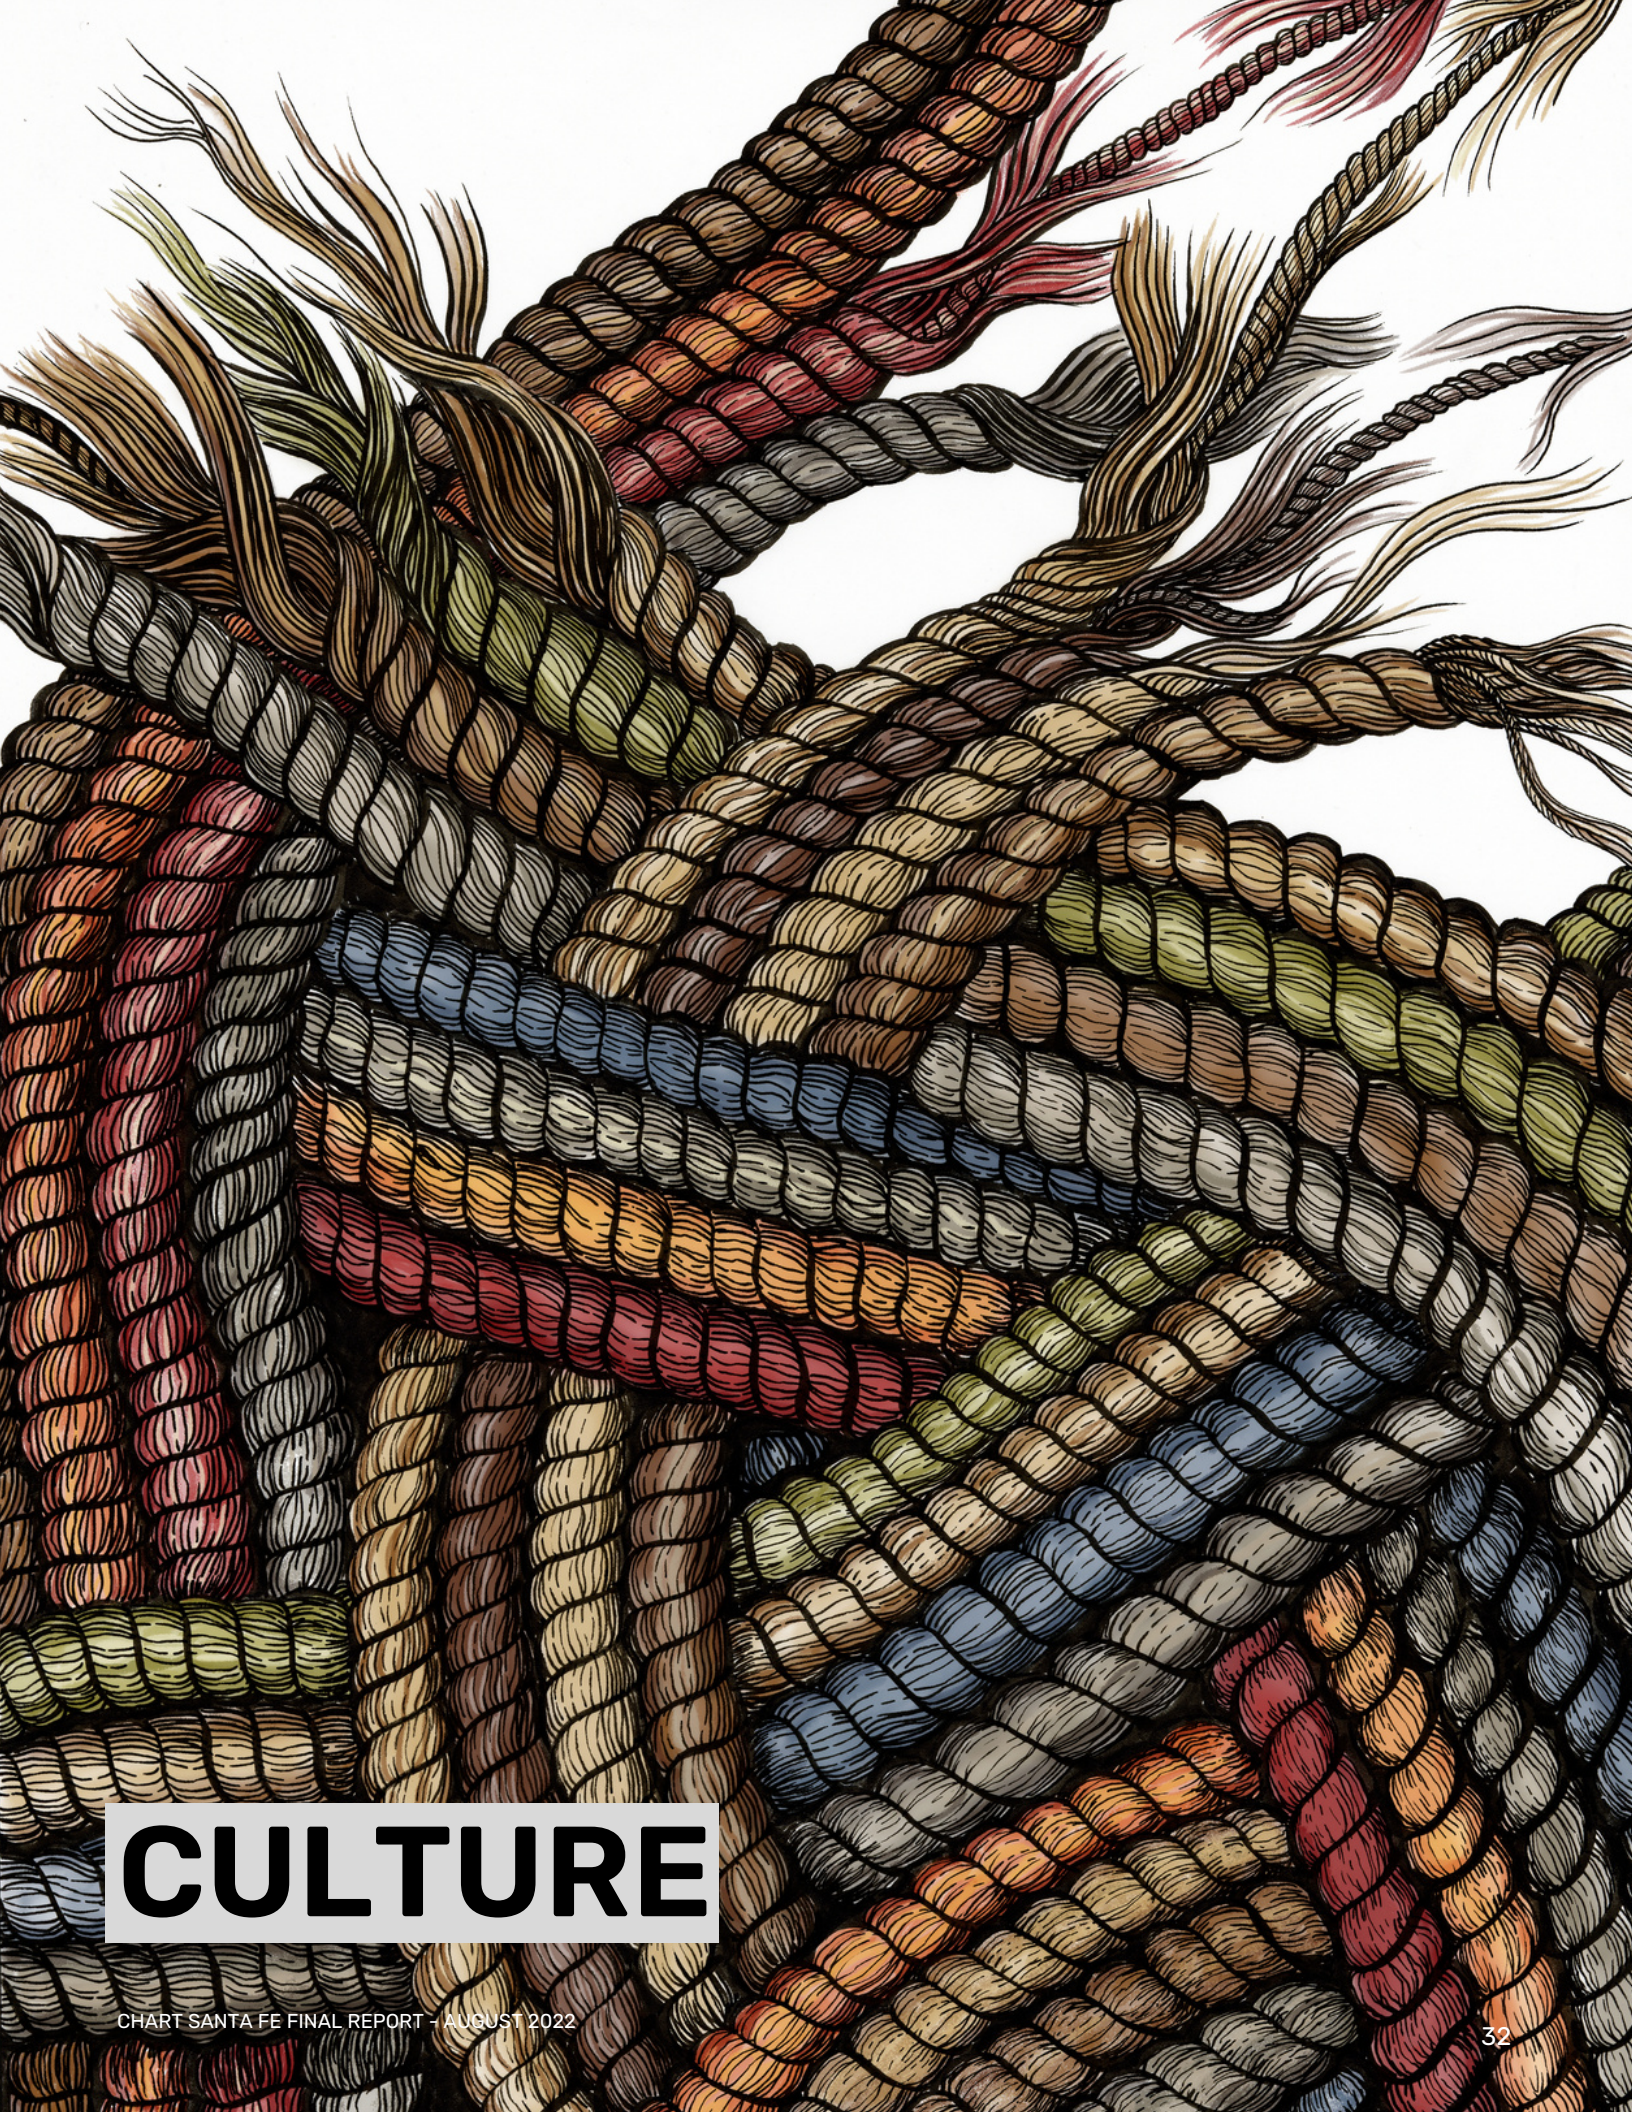

Qualitative data from Survey 1 was analyzed using several strategies appropriate to qualitative methods. A small analysis group made up of experienced CHART team members was formed early on to identify recommendations as well as emergent themes, issues, claims, and concerns. Coding was conducted in Dedoose 9.0, a qualitative analysis platform (www.dedoose.com) and Excel 2016 for Mac.

Additional detail about data collection and analysis, including methodologies for Surveys 1 and 2, is available in Appendix D, F, and H.

Overall, in terms of methods, the CHART project was dedicated to robust public engagement, informed and refined by an iterative process, that encouraged broad and inclusive participation. The body of data collected and analyzed, as a result of this approach, is significant and revealing. It allows us to tell a complex story that unfolds in the findings and recommendations that appear in subsequent sections of this final report.

CULTURE

CULTURE

"What I have seen is that the community thrives off of Native culture, but they aren't often acknowledged or consulted."

"… we should help children understand the beauty and goodness in each culture, and how to understand that differences are to be valued and not one chosen as better than another. It is important we also emphasize the beauty of other cultures that are underrepresented in our community".

"I would really love to see more interactive art pieces rather than monuments or statues, plaques.... Items like splash parks, playgrounds, interactive music installations, labyrinths, gardens, orchards, berry patches, fountains, river parks (interesting things to do along the parkways and picnic tables). I think of cities I've lived in and the places you meet people that are different from you, and it is open spaces with an experience we are all having together. Santa Fe feels very stagnant in its art choices around town. There is so much potential out there."

"By respecting and learning from our predecessors' art, stories and traditions we enrich our present lives in a present context and hopefully resist repeating mistakes from the past. Enduring characteristics of a culture develop with time and thru organic evolution throughout a population, informed by the past."

"The City of Santa Fe should sponsor and host a multicultural, anthropological history conference in conjunction with some major annual festival that always attracts residents and tourists."

"In order to keep relevancy throughout future generations, we have to keep current in how younger generations learn or engage. Have youth groups comprised of the different cultures planning for the future and how to take pride in their history."

"Involve our offspring in civic events that celebrate all cultures."

"We need to have youth employment programs IN and FOR THE CITY, so that the youth are invested in making the city better and have something gainful to do besides school. The locations for these need to be on a bus line, and some should be in the South part of town. These programs should focus on getting youth from as wide a spatial spread as possible. They should also be associated with "invite your family" celebrations, award ceremonies, or events after the program has been in place for a while so that engaged youth encourage their families to take part. These events should encourage public discourse and bonding (games)?"

CULTURE

“The customary beliefs, social forms, and material traits of a racial, religious, or social group; also: the characteristic features of everyday existence (such as diversions or a way of life) shared by people in a place or time; e.g., popular culture, *Southern culture

Expressions of culture may include music, dance, art, designs, foods, clothing, names, signs and symbols, performances, ceremonies, architectural forms, handicrafts and narratives, or many other artistic or cultural expressions.” [27]

*(Source: Merriam-Webster Dictionary Online)

“The representations of people of this place we now call New Mexico are often reduced to an early 20th century invention of three typologies — Anglo, Indian and Spanish — an enduring and yet deeply flawed mythology that continues to conflate distinctions between sovereign tribes and obscure the reality of centuries of mixture, born from acts of both love and violence. This myth also functions to erase entire groups of people from our history, including the presence and contributions of African origin people.”[28]

That the city we now call Santa Fe reflects the sweat and creativity of many cultures, over time, is certainly not in question. That its population and the cultures represented here have expanded, over time, is also not in doubt. Santa Fe is both a melting pot and a city built from ingredients that are difficult to mix–oil and water. Its cultural story began long ago, with the Puebloan people, and was enriched by other area tribes–Apache, Navajos, Utes and others. Then came the Spanish colonizers–with cultures of their own–followed by White/Anglo settlers from a myriad of countries and cultures of origin, many spurred on by the ideology of U.S. Manifest Destiny.

This confluence of cultures perhaps once had the vague characteristics of a triad, but it wasn't until the 20th century that the "tricultural" myth became a tourism branding campaign for Santa Fe. Over the course of the CHART project, we heard a lot about the "tricultural myth" –especially in terms of how it misrepresents the current population of Santa Fe and how it marginalizes people from other cultures. We discuss this in more detail, below.

Most CHART participants agree that we now live in a multicultural Santa Fe, with all the richness and challenges of a diverse community.

"Whereas traditional societies can be characterized by a high consistency of cultural traits and customs, modern societies are often a conglomeration of different, often competing, cultures and subcultures. In such a situation of diversity, a dominant culture is one whose values, language, and ways of behaving are imposed on a subordinate culture or cultures through economic or political power. This may be achieved through legal or political suppression of other sets of values and patterns of behavior, or by monopolizing the media of communication."[29]

During Oga Po'gay's/Santa Fe's long history, dominant cultural groups have shifted and, to this day, remain in a state of flux as new residents arrive year after year. Traditionally, the "dominant culture" attempted to set values and norms and traditions (e.g., determining official languages spoken and public rituals and celebrations). It dominated public spaces and appointed the official keepers of history. Cultural shifts were sometimes sudden and traumatic and sometimes slow and incremental.

During public dialogues hosted by CHART, we heard and witnessed the individual, ancestral, and collective trauma that many Santa Feans feel from these cultural changes, whatever their cultural background. For example, a participant from Acoma, who grew up in Santa Fe, described the pain he felt every time he walked past the Soldier's Monument/"Obelisk" while a Hispanic participant spoke of the trauma of having the obelisk torn down.

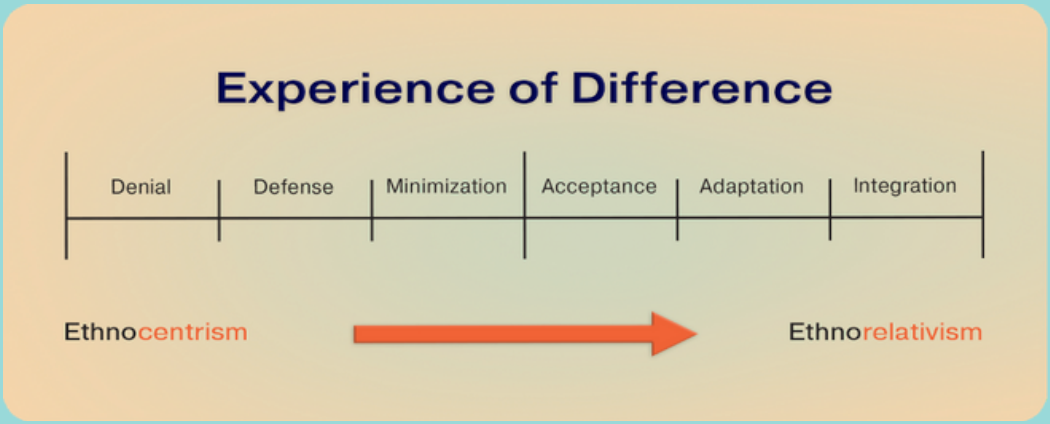

In addition to cultural changes throughout the city's history, it's true that people beyond the tricultural myth have lived in Santa Fe for some time, even generations. Acknowledging their presence in the community urges us to view Santa Fe as multicultural and presents us with an opportunity to engage with the experience of difference in contemporary Santa Fe.

Intercultural Sensitivity

Milton Bennett's "Developmental Model of Intercultural Sensitivity" (DMIS) describes how engagement with cultures different from own can shift an individual/community from "ethnocentrism" to "ethnorelativism:"

The Developmental Model of Intercultural Sensitivity
by Milton J. Bennett, Ph.D. (Revised 2014)

"The underlying assumption of the model is that as one's perceptual organization of cultural difference becomes more complex, one's experience of culture becomes more sophisticated and the potential for exercising competence in intercultural relations increases. By recognizing how cultural difference is being experienced, predictions about the effectiveness of intercultural communication can be made and educational interventions can be tailored to facilitate development along the continuum."[30]

Why are cultural dominance and intercultural sensitivity important? They influence decisions about, for example, the stories we tell each other and the truths we promote, how we speak and interact, our relationships with land and water, the use of public spaces and monuments, and what kinds of reconciliation we might be able to achieve.

All of these topics, and the issue of intercultural sensitivity, came up consistently over the course of the CHART project. Participants spoke about the challenges of cultural change, no matter where it came from. Some harken back to life before the 21st century, with nostalgia, as if it were “a simpler time;” others address 21st century changes as being rapid and jarring. Others replied that “the only constant is change” and feel grateful for new cultural perspectives on old ways of life. Many advised that Santa Feans need to be much more culturally sensitive, culturally tolerant, and culturally inclusive. Participants made dozens of additional recommendations available in Appendix G.

One way in which the CHART project responded to what we heard from Santa Feans as well as encouraged an increased understanding of Santa Fe, past and present, is with our Culture Blog. Below are just a few of the total 37 blog posts. The entire series can be viewed on the CHART website.[31]

Another valuable and informative resource for understanding culture in Santa Fe is the 2016 Culture Connects Santa Fe project and its report, “A Cultural Cartography.” Culture Connects was “a community-wide effort to shape the cultural future of our city. Through a series of creative, hands-on input sessions, we explored notions of culture, shared our dreams for Santa Fe’s future and created a ‘roadmap’ to realize our vision.”[32] The Culture Connects process included residents, cultural organizations, creative professionals and community groups and provides the City of Santa Fe with wise advice and recommendations culled from a community process.

What is the Culture of Santa Fe?

In an effort to further understand how residents think and feel about culture, Question 1 in CHART’s second survey asked residents to describe the culture of Santa Fe. This question was designed to generate a snapshot of the current cultural community as residents understand it today.

Q1: "In a few words, how would you describe the culture - people, history, traditions, heritage - of Oga Po'gay/ Santa Fe?"

As the word cloud shows, the answers were many and varied. Some spoke directly to culture while others described their city, the changes they've seen (both good and bad), and how they feel about it. There was no overriding description and many conflicted with each other. Even so, a few descriptions rose to the top: diverse, complex, multicultural, rich, beautiful, deep, proud, unique, traditional, Hispanic, inclusive, welcoming, creative, accepting, mixed, Native, tolerant, ancient, conflicted, progressive, colorful, complicated.

Other respondents described, in more detail, their view of Santa Fe's culture and cultural changes:

"Santa Fe has a rich cultural history of Native American, Hispanic/Spanish cultures and traditions. European white culture as well. That's what makes us the City Different."

"The OP/SF culture is comprised of many peoples who have inhabited this terrain for centuries or for only a few years. All have contributed in a variety of ways, both good and bad. There is a strong Latino/Mexicano heritage, Indigenous, Genizaro, European (especially Spanish) and a smaller percentage of people of African heritage."

"Three well-known ethnic groups and a few others, living mostly harmoniously in the same area but not having too much interaction"

“I love the culture! And thinking it is what brings people here. The traditions are rich and just the love for them will always keep in my heart”

“Fifty years ago, a relatively harmonious blend of Anglos and Hispanics, with a smattering of Native American. This all has gradually become more contentious, with each subgroup blaming the others of horrible, long-ago crimes that cannot be forgotten. Although Santa Fe is certainly not unique in becoming more divided by ethnicity, it is still a place where these various ethnic groups get along better than other places.”

“The culture and history were once rich and diverse. Then outsiders who didn't understand this culture began to impose their values and try to change who and what we are.”

“The culture is deep and rich, although slightly limited in spectrum when one thinks of all the cultures in this country”

“Originally populated by native peoples, then Spanish, Jews, and Mexicans, then Anglos. Now inhabited by all of their descendants and many other cultures as well.”

“The culture of Santa Fe is varied, unique, and complicated but very attractive to many including our visitors”

“Hispanos are in clear danger of losing their history in a city that they struggled to survive in for centuries.”

“Dominated by narratives of Spanish colonial, Native American and Anglo history with too little recognition of Asian and African American stories”

These quotes, of several hundred that we heard and read over the course of the project, demonstrate the complexity of culture and, especially, cultural relations as understood by Santa Feans.

CHART also received questions about our use of the name Oga Po'gay ("White Shell Water Place") [33] , given to the Santa Fe area by its original Tewa inhabitants. We used it to indicate the time period before the Spanish colonizers arrived.

Oga Po'gay - What's in a Name?

"1st of all, what is Oga Pogay?"

"Never heard of Oga Po'gay"

"I don't know what Oga Po'gay means"

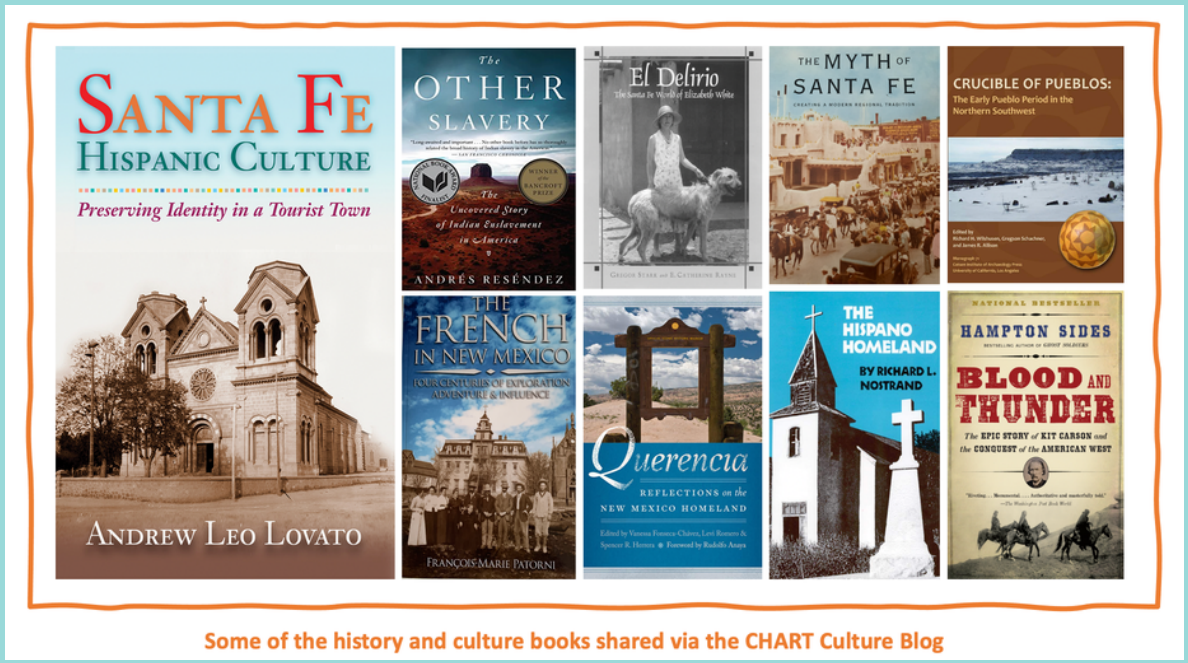

"I don't want to hear about "Oga Po'gay."

"Santa Fe is the name!!!!"

"Olga pick gay is a new term for me That's bad"

"Let's say I would not use the term Oga Po'gay"

"The name of the city is Santa Fe. Much of the history of the city as it exists today is due to Spanish that began settling in the area in the 1600s, although there has been Anglo/US influence in more recent times" [34]

Some of the history and culture books shared via the CHART Culture Blog

CHART also asked residents, in Survey 2, to describe their own culture ("Q3 I describe my culture this way"). They answered in different ways, including how they experienced their culture (joyful, fun), how their culture expressed itself (food, music, song), the length of their cultural history (ancient, multi-generation) or, in a few cases, by expressing that they didn't know about their culture or they felt it unimportant. Most, however, did have a sense of their own culture, and their descriptions were many and varied. Responses reveal the remarkable diversity "within" general terms for ethnicity, race, culture, continent as well as the vibrant elasticity (and descriptive power) of language.

In his introduction to the second talk in CHART's Cultural History Series, "Journey Down the Rio Santa Fe: Pueblo, Spanish, Mexican History of the Santa Fe River Communities," Hilario Romero, former New Mexico State Historian, said this about culture:

"I always start with an old saying my grandfather used to say in Spanish and translated in English for all of you and that is 'Blood is thicker than water.' I know we used to say, 'We have Spanish blood,' 'We have Indian blood,' 'We have Mexican blood.' We have all this blood in us. But it's only thicker than water, folks.

It is more important that you learn culture through your family, your extended family, through your friends, and then out to your county, your state, country and world. And eventually you find out that it exists in your first language, at home for the most part, unless you are bilingual, trilingual, then you belong to more than one culture then. With language that automatically gives you that ticket.

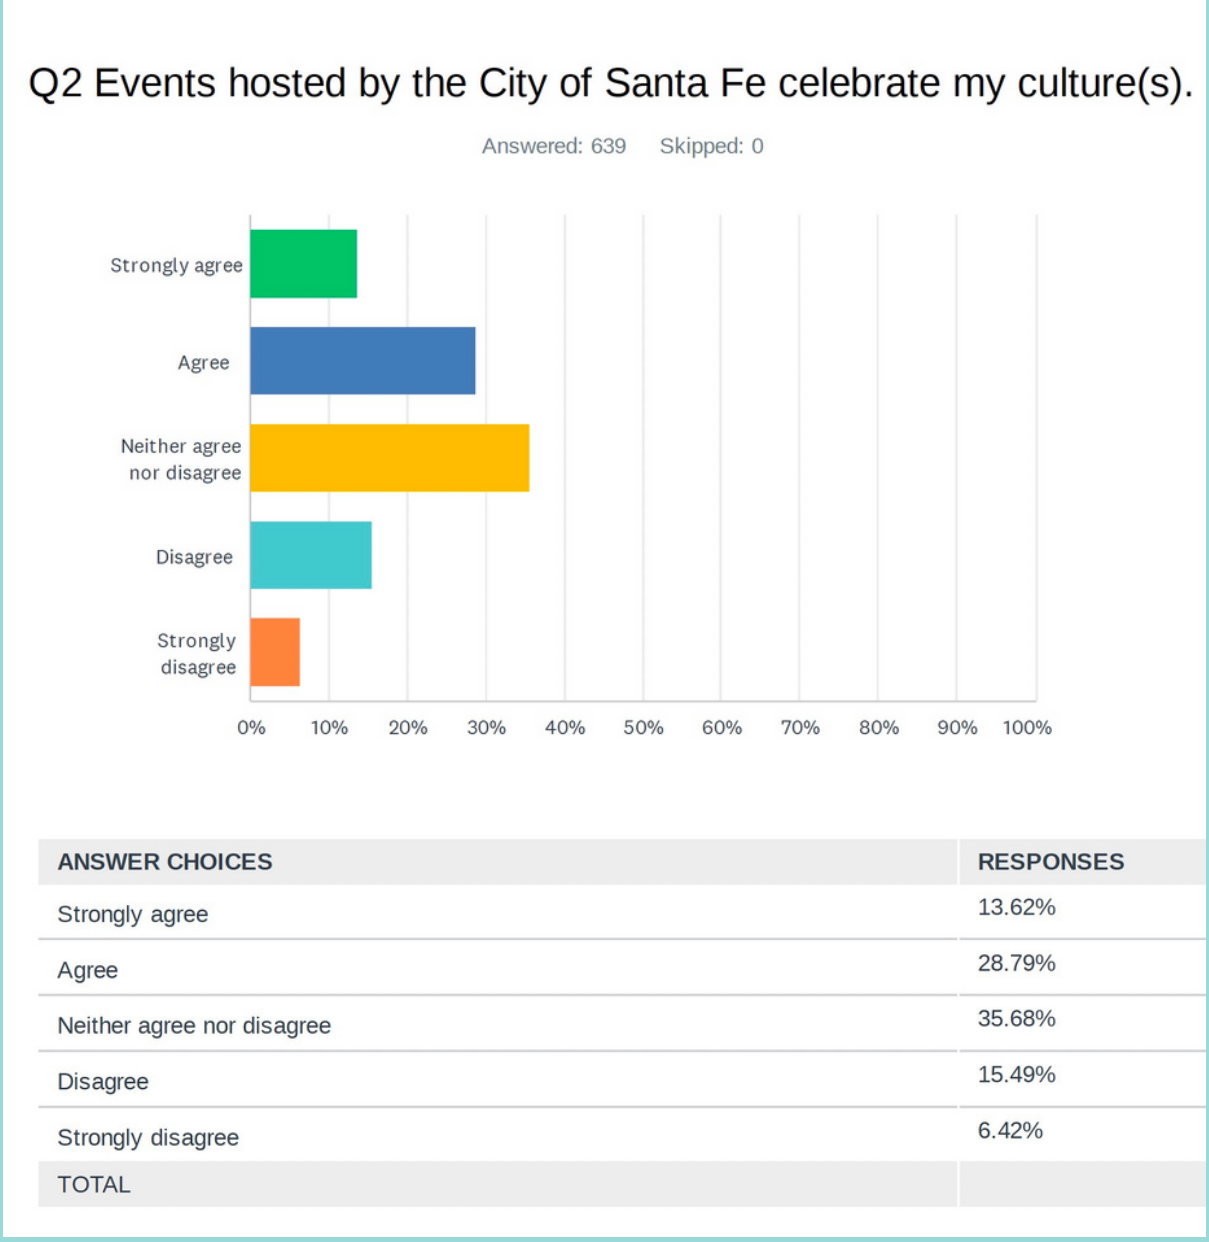

Then it's within your belief system. How you were raised and what you believe in. And then, of course, in your daily life.

So, culture as it relates to identity. Genealogy and DNA, they show your familial and genetic past, but it doesn't fully reflect on your cultural identity. The reason for that is because you didn't live with your ancestors. They passed something down to you, but you are not really them nor do you have the same way of life or the same economic status or social status. But I know now the new thing is DNA. Everybody's going with DNA. I did genealogies for about 12 years while I worked my way through college along with music and dance and other things.

Of course, genetics does reflect your skin color. It reflects your facial and body features and all of that. But it really doesn't totally represent you culturally – like language, your social environment, your world view, and all that you learned being raised the way you were raised." [35]

Celebrating Culture

Additional questions in Survey 2 were designed to tell us whether Santa Feans see the richness of their own and other cultures reflected in events hosted by the City of Santa Fe. The results are below.

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Strongly agree | 13.62% |
| Agree | 28.79% |
| Neither agree nor disagree | 35.68% |
| Disagree | 15.49% |
| Strongly disagree | 6.42% |
| TOTAL | |

Overall, 42% of respondents agree or strongly agree with the statement while 36% can neither agree nor disagree and 22% disagree or strongly disagree.

The picture, however, is quite different when responses are filtered by race/ethnicity. As the table below shows, the only group of respondents who agree or strongly agree with the statement that "events hosted by the City of Santa Fe celebrate my culture" in the range of 50% or above are those who self-identify as “Hispanic or Latino.”

Q2 Events hosted by the City of Santa Fe celebrate my culture(s)

| | Strongly Agree | Agree | Neither agree nor disagree | Disagree | Strongly disagree |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Asian American or Pacific Islander | 0% | 8.33% | 41.67% | 25% | 25% |
| Black or African American | 13.33% | 6.67% | 26.67% | 26.67% | 26.67% |
| Hispano or Latino | 25.76% | 30.30% | 22.73% | 15.66% | 5.56% |
| Native American or Alaska Native | 15.91% | 29.55% | 22.73% | 20.45% | 11.36% |
| White or Caucasian | 8.78% | 31.16% | 42.78% | 11.90% | 5.38% |
| Multiracial or Biracial | 16.67% | 16.67% | 25% | 29.17% | 12.50% |

responses filtered by self-identified race/ethnicity

We also asked whether residents believe the City celebrates the many cultures of Santa Fe:

Q4 Events hosted by the City of Santa Fe celebrate all the cultures of the city and county.

Results tell us that 43% agree or strongly agree, 28% can neither agree nor disagree, and 29% disagreed or strongly disagreed.

These results indicate, overall, that the City could do a much better job of celebrating the many and varied cultures of its residents, in particular those of Asian American and Pacific Islander, Black or African American descent, and those who are multiracial and biracial.

CHART recognizes that events that take place within the city are not all City of Santa Fe events (e.g., those produced by private organizations on City property) and that the whole of events in the city may do a better job of celebrating its multiple cultures. Even so, the City can be a powerful player in leading the way in this regard, utilizing its channels to attract and promote events that celebrate different cultures, and encouraging access to City space via permitting and other legal processes.

multicultural (adjective) of, relating to, reflecting, or adapted to diverse culture; a multicultural society, multicultural education.

diverse (adjective) differing from one another: people with diverse interests; composed of distinct or unlike elements or qualities: a diverse population

(Source: Merriam-Webster Dictionary Online)

CHART also asked Santa Feans whether the City needed to host more multicultural events. The answer was an emphatic “yes”–67% of respondents agreed or strongly agreed.

Q5 The City of Santa Fe needs to host more multicultural events.

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Strongly agree | 30.83% |
| Agree | 35.84% |
| Neither agree nor disagree | 21.60% |
| Disagree | 7.36% |
| Strongly disagree | 4.38% |
| TOTAL | |

This result was also reflected in CHART events and activities (Survey 1, public dialogue, etc.) during the eight months before we launched the survey. And, rather than hosting separate events by culture (say, Spanish Market or Indian Market), residents emphasized that multicultural events would do a much better job of both celebrating and showcasing the kind of complex diversity reflected in Survey 2 responses, above. An example, though not directly related to New Mexico, is the International Folk Art Market which brings together peoples from different countries and cultures around the world and reflects the richness and complexity of global culture.

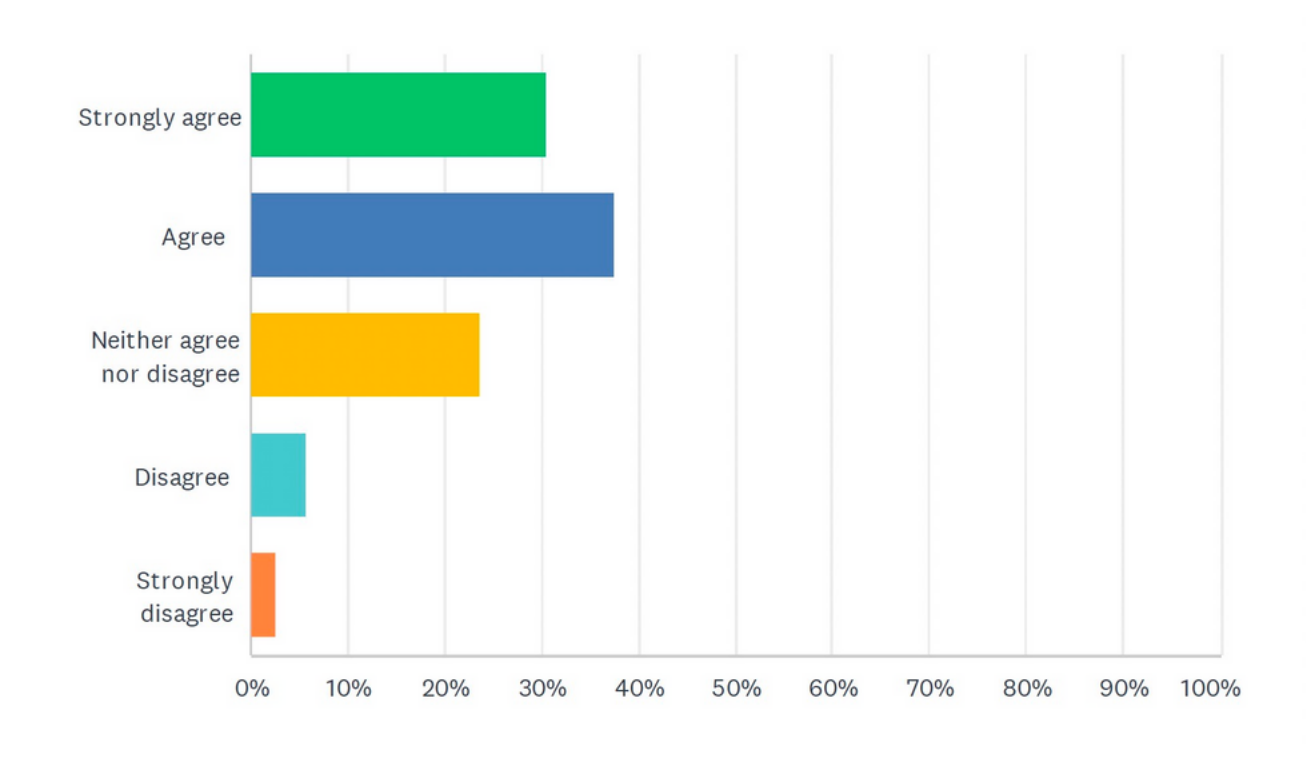

Over the course of the CHART project, we also heard a lot about engaging younger residents in cultural activities and events. Santa Fe, like much of the rest of the country, has seen its average age increase. In addition, according to the New Mexico Tourism Office website [36], the average age of New Mexico visitors remains high–at the mid-40s–while the 2015 Visitor Information Survey [37] for Santa Fe reports the average visitor age even higher–at 59. This has resulted in events geared towards older adults, whether visitors or locals.

Many CHART participants expressed that this emphasis is a disservice to younger members of the community, leaving them fewer opportunities to both experience and learn about culture. Responses to questions in Survey 2 confirm what residents want, in this regard.

Q6 The City of Santa Fe needs to host more cultural events that appeal to CHILDREN AND YOUTH.

Q7 The City of Santa Fe needs to host more cultural events that appeal to AGES 20-29.

Santa Feans agree (Strongly Agree and Agree) there is a great need for more City events that are geared towards youth (76%) and those aged 20-29 (68%).

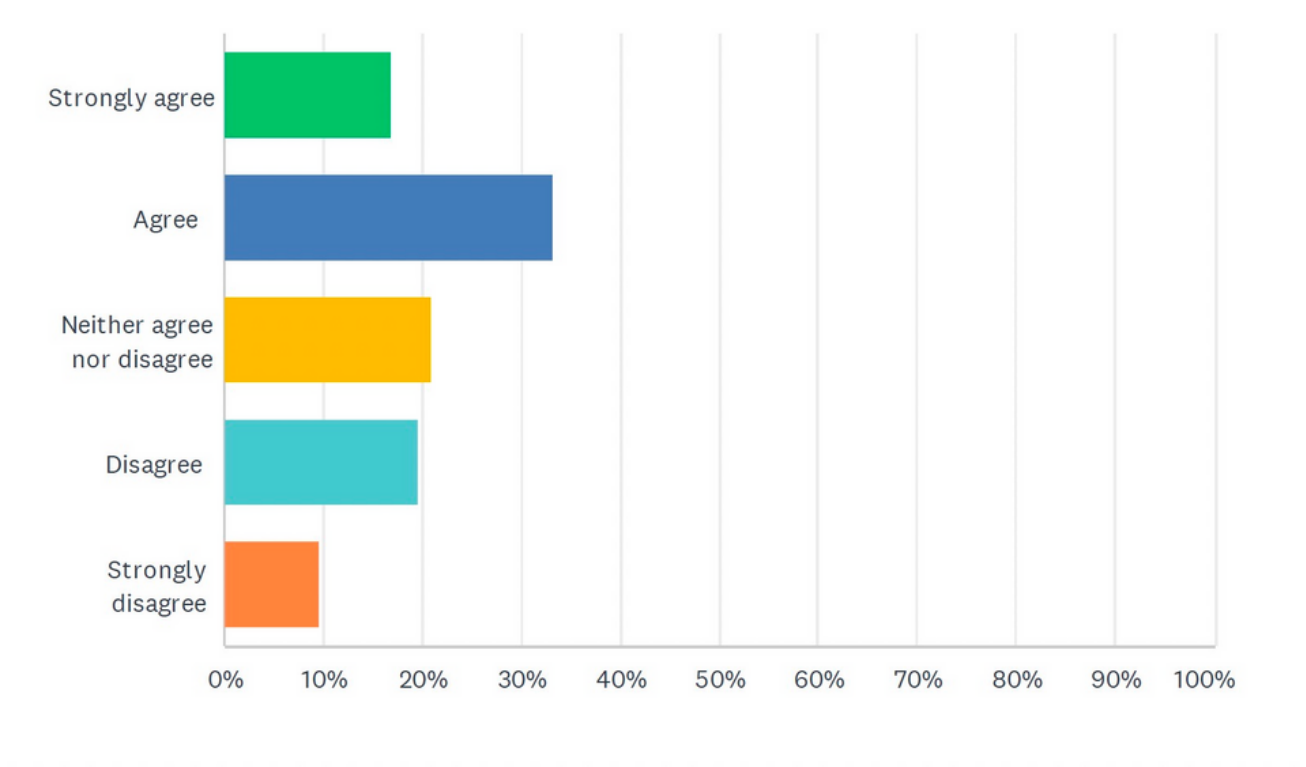

Once again, CHART recognizes that events that take place within the city are not all city-sponsored and that events hosted by other organizations place emphasis on young people. Even so, the City should be a leader in this regard, hosting more cultural events for younger Santa Feans, and using its promotional and permitting capabilities to support private/other organizations doing this important and necessary work.

Promoting Multicultural Understanding

Because we heard much about the tricultural myth (a tourism branding campaign) versus the reality of our multicultural community we included a question in Survey 2 that was designed to assess whether the City is doing a good job of promoting an understanding of our complex community to visitors.

Q8 The City of Santa Fe encourages visitors to understand the multicultural community of Santa Fe

Approximately 50% of Survey 2 respondents generally agree (Strongly Agree or Agree) that the City encourages visitors to understand the multicultural community of Santa Fe. Twenty one percent (21%) neither agree nor disagree with 29% disagreeing (Disagree or Strongly Disagree). This mixed response asks us to take a closer look at how visitors are encouraged to understand our city, in terms of culture, and whether their understanding reflects what we know about contemporary Santa Fe.

As a result of the above findings, we make the following recommendations:

RECOMMENDATIONS: CULTURE

1. In terms of challenges related to cultural and artistic expression in Santa Fe, we believe the findings and recommendations of the 2017 Culture Connects Cultural Cartography [38] (funded by the City) address these issues and should continue to be implemented, specifically:

    - "Inspire the cultural transformation and revitalization of neighborhoods" (p.55)
    - "Catalyze the transformation of the city by elevating open and empty spaces, corridors and commercial cultural hubs" (p.56)
    - "Advance equity and inspire connection and community transformation" (p. 57)
    - "Strengthen the cultural sector's capacity, sustainability, and impact" (p. 58)
    - "Optimize the impact of City of Santa Fe funding" (p. 60)
    - "Optimize City of Santa Fe operational structure and strategies" (p. 61)

In order to represent the complex cultural community of contemporary Santa Fe:

2. The City of Santa Fe should undertake a review of events it hosts to determine whether these celebrate the city and county's many cultures;
3. The City should fund, design, and host more: multicultural events; cultural events that appeal to CHILDREN AND YOUTH; cultural events that appeal to AGES 20-29;
4. In designing these events, the City of Santa Fe should consult with community-based organizations, especially those that serve youth and ages 20-29, for their expertise and experience;
5. The City of Santa Fe should review its advertising, marketing, and communications with tourists and visitors to cultivate a better understanding of Santa Fe's multicultural community and to celebrate contemporary Santa Fe.

The Community Solutions Table of the CHART project identified multicultural events in Santa Fe as a significant need and recommends the following:

6. Multicultural events presented by the City of Santa Fe must be absolutely free for all;
7. Multicultural events presented by the City of Santa Fe must be located in different neighborhoods;
8. The cultures represented in City of Santa Fe multicultural events must reflect the diversity of the current population of Santa Fe; and
9. The City of Santa Fe should establish a "Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion" office/department (by this or some other name) to create and/or promote and/or implement multicultural events.

Please see the “Truth” section of this report for additional information about the above recommendation for a "Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion" office/department.

CHART recognizes that various City initiatives currently acknowledge the need for multicultural events (e.g., Department of Arts and Culture). Nevertheless, CHART participants are asking for more.

HISTORY

HISTORY

"Santa Feans need to develop a deep sense of place and history regardless if they have been here for ten generations or a year."

"One aspect of this process is to help people WANT to gain a fuller understanding of Santa Fe history. Look for ways to engage with stories. These can come through different formats … memoir, poetry/expressive writing, film, biography … Images will be key … documentary photographs, paintings that reveal cultural and natural history."

"I think it's important that we expand the history of Santa Fe beyond the history of the conquistadors to highlight the stories of the indigenous populations and lesser-known communities such as the stories of African Americans, Jewish and Middle Eastern populations."

"There are many ways for us all to more fully understand our unique history and culture. We do offer great museums, lectures, programs, events, art, poetry, music, historical sites and more and these should continue. More appreciation of our Pueblo values and history can and should be encouraged. A Southside 'Plaza del Sur' would be a great way to allow for more understanding and experience of more varied cultures living here."

"Education, education, education. What I remember being taught in school (oh those many, many years ago) about history was all what we all now realize was so incomplete and inaccurate."

"Teaching history is critical and being honest on who's land this was at any given time is paramount. It's important to teach that lands, peoples, cultures, and nations are fluid and have always changed throughout time. However, in the context of three cultures in Santa Fe, it must be acknowledged that this was Tewa land first, and Santa Fe was a Tewa Pueblo. Yes, Hispanics have been here for hundreds of years and this is now their home, but they were colonizers, as was America unto them. Hispanics are now feeling the trauma of colonialism; something the Pueblo people have felt for centuries. Colonialism was the "way" historically, and there isn't a place on earth that hasn't been impacted by colonialism. We, as Santa Feans, and as citizens of the earth, need to decide if colonialism is something we wish to continue or let go. Colonialism is the alpha and omega of this issue, and it's where the conversations and decisions of CHART must lie. If we agree to continue colonialism, then all past cultures will eventually be erased. If we say "no more" to colonialism, then we need to give voice and justice to the original inhabitants. We need to stop colonizing all aspects of life: no more patenting of seeds, no more "ownership" of waters, no more "rights" to own what was always here."

"I think that things have gone from looking for a better understanding of history to our way or no way. Our history is a living history, and we need to find a way to move forward."

"We need a Museum of Santa Fe that specifically focuses on the history of the land we live on and how it has changed culturally and environmentally…The mission of the museum needs to be both historic and current and include a relationship with the Public Schools that is educational, everything from archaeology to ecology to the visual and performing arts."

"Support diverse perspectives of history education in the schools, even for the youngest students, presented in the form of storytelling, music, dance and other arts."

HISTORY

“The letter “H” comes second in the acronym “CHART.” Even so it winds its way through all the sections of this report and above, below, and beside its neighbors–culture, art, reconciliation, and truth. All are related; all influence each other; all contribute to a view of our story that is undeniably labyrinthine, tangled, and contentious.

CHART participants spent twelve months talking about the history of Santa Fe and their views are as varied and diverse as our multicultural community itself. What is clear from the results of the CHART project that there is a great desire for a fuller understanding of Oga Po’gay’s/Santa Fe’s history. While we use the term as if there were one true story, it is clear from participants that the history of this place is manifold. There are multiple, parallel, and contradictory histories. We differ in our views as to the importance of historical events, even methods of collecting and legitimizing history. We heard some refer to the “real history” of Santa Fe as beginning with Spanish conquest, confirmed in books and papers. Most emphatically disagree and embrace a history thousands of years before conquest, told by sun, sky, wind, water, land, earth and its creatures and carried down in both orature and literature.

Most CHART participants consistently expressed their desire to go deep into the past, to include the history of Oga Po’gay before colonization and to embrace histories beyond the tricultural myth. They also urge the rest of us to do the same. History should, most said, include all “histories” –Indigenous, captives, slaves, women, colonizers, immigrants, refugees, and so many more–with a particular emphasis on stories that have been forgotten, ignored, or purposefully marginalized. In other words, history is and should be inclusive and expansive.

That said, CHART surveys and dialogue revealed that this expanding view of history makes some feel their own is being displaced, shifted from prominence, willfully denied. What looks to many like raising up the stories of those who have been historically marginalized seems to others as diminishing theirs, by contrast. The toppling of the Soldier’s Monument/”Obelisk” brought these and other issues to the surface during the CHART project.

Of course, this tension is not new–students of history, especially in the post-Modern age–have been discussing the idea of multiple stories, marginalization, dominant narratives, and the accuracy of "truth" for decades. Even so, events in our recent history are demanding that we engage with these issues, reckon with them again, as we are forced to reexamine historical events in terms of what we knew, what we thought we knew, and what we might know differently as the present informs the past.

What we know now is that the most populous groups of Santa Feans–Indigenous, Hispanic, Anglo/White–are far from monoliths. Indigenous/Native Americans are composed of tribes with different languages, histories, traditions and governing structures. Those identifying as Hispanic/Latino descend from different lineages, some generations-long in Santa Fe and others from Mexico and Latin America more recently. "Anglos," who may be described as White or Euro-Americans, descend from multiple countries, cultures, and languages. To speak of any of the cultures or their history as heterogeneous is misleading. At the same time, there was/is intermarriage in New Mexico (as is true elsewhere) which furthers complicates and/or enriches who we are as Santa Feans.

What we also know is that the Santa Fe community is much richer, historically, than the peoples above. African history in New Mexico started in 1539 when Esteban, an African Moor, explorer and original member of the Pánfilo de Narváez expedition from Cuba, visited Zuni. After the Civil War, almost 4000 African American soldiers served in the New Mexico Territory as "Buffalo Soldiers." Chinese immigrants looking for jobs in railroads and mining first came to New Mexico in large numbers in the 1800s. Japanese Americans came under different and difficult circumstances during World War II, with two Japanese internment camps located in the state.

And there are others with rich histories who live in our community. This "history of histories" was reflected in much of the dialogue during the CHART project and, as discussed in the "Culture" section above, Santa Feans understand their city and county to be multicultural and want to celebrate its complexities.

Because of this complexity, the CHART project hosted a series of free in-person and online Cultural History events that enlisted experts in their fields to encourage a complex engagement with Santa Fe's stories and histories

Stepping Out of Our History Comfort Zone

The first CHART Cultural History presentation, on November 18, 2021, featured New Mexico State Historian Rob Martinez and City Historian Valerie Rangel in conversation. In the following excerpt, they urge us to accept the challenges of understanding a complex history of Santa Fe:

CHART:
The first survey question that CHART posed was: How do we come to a fuller understanding of the history of Santa Fe? We spent a lot of time on that word – fuller - because it seemed to us that a lot of us have a certain view of the history of the city, but maybe not the whole picture. What's your perspective on that, do we need to step outside our history comfort zone?

ROB MARTINEZ:
Yes, we do need to step out of our comfort zone. A fuller understanding of history to me also means a broader understanding and a deeper understanding. And to gain that we all must have open eyes, open minds, open hearts. And we need to get out of our comfort zone because it's our comfort zone, I think, that can create problems because it keeps us from having empathy. We need to have empathy for people who aren't in our comfort zone. A comfort zone is a great place to be if it's just you. But history here in Santa Fe, and here in the state of New Mexico, is about all of us. It's about everybody. So, I think we need to do just that, which is get out of those things that make us happy and feel good about history because that's not what history is for. It's not supposed to make us happy or feel good. It's supposed to teach us. History is a teacher and we're the students, so that deeper way of looking at it is something we all need to work on. I mean, we were talking earlier about how there was a Native American name for this area before Santa Fe was named La Villa Real de la Santa Fe de San Francisco de Asís. Well, that's a matter of having a fuller understanding of our history here, and going deeper, that we're not just one kind of people with one kind of history and that history goes back before 1610, it goes back before 1608 here in this area. There's centuries of history and culture, and people, our fellow New Mexicans who still live with us.

VALERIE RANGEL:
When I think of a fuller understanding, I must bring into some other dynamics and bring in other realms that shouldn't be forgotten and that's starting with something like cultural migration and origin stories. It's tremendously important. There's a lot of history that's contained in traditional ecological knowledge. It took hundreds of thousands of years for people to learn how to communicate with nature, how to use the plants, how to live within the means of the day to day living so that ethnobotany, geology, artifacts, those can tell a story about how people once lived and what the environment was like in those days. We tend to forget that humans were scientists, they were observers for a long, long time and they recorded special historic significant events, have recordings of the cosmos and pictographs and petroglyphs and that's yet another element that we should not forget in our history.

When I also think of a fuller perspective, there are perspectives that are missing. And it's not just women who are missing from that fuller perspective it's slaves, it's folks that were coming into Nuevo Mexico hundreds of thousands of years ago to trade. And can you imagine all those people when they're speaking different languages, and they're coming together and they weren't just communicating oral history, they were telling stories they were telling legends, lived experiences they were sharing fashion. They were talking about their latest invention and how to make a recipe for chocolate better or whatnot. Right? And they weren't using one language. They were using theater and dance and music. They were drawing pictures. They were communicating in other ways that we forget. And it's not just the oral history that's been passed down with all these nuances and cultural knowledge but all of that should be brought to a fuller understanding.

ROB MARTINEZ:
I like what Valerie was saying about looking at history from different perspectives. I mean, yes, women, slaves, the marginalized and also looking at different disciplines. Even as a historian, looking at anthropology, archaeology, sociology, ethno- ethnic studies, these are all part of a bigger picture that helps us to get a fuller understanding of history and of ourselves. If we don't do that, we're really limiting ourselves. We're limiting our perspective and our views, and we need to remember when we look at a book that we don't agree with that helps us broaden our perspective. We need to realize that there are voices in historical documents. We just need to look deeper. Women are there, they're suing men who are abusing them. They're buying and selling land and animals. There are wills, where we learn the kinds of lives that they lived. But we must search for this stuff because it's not always going to jump out at us, but they're there.

The other point I want to make is, if we decide to go beyond our comfort zone, we're not erasing our history, we're not getting rid of our culture, we're just adding to it, adding what's already there, things that we need to just acknowledge and embrace. It's our heritage. It's our history here in New Mexico. New Mexico is a multiracial multicultural place. We don't lose anything by saying, oh, you know, there's this Spanish past here but there's a Mexican past too. In fact, our Spanish past comes from Mexico, and that doesn't erase our Spanish past it just helps us to understand it a little better that, wow, this is a journey these people took from Spain and North Africa to Mexico up the Camino Real following trails that were already blazed by Native Americans before the Spanish came. Or the Americans on the Santa Fe Trail, there are already Native Americans crisscrossing the North American continent for centuries, so we need to understand that and that just helps us get a deeper understanding. It doesn't erase the Santa Fe Trail, or the Camino Real. It just helps us understand that a lot of people contributed to making us who we are today.

As mentioned in the "Culture" section, above, CHART responded to what we heard from Santa Feans as well as encouraged an increased understanding of Santa Fe, past and present, through our Culture Blog. Below are just a few of the total 37 blog posts that appear on the CHART website. [40]

Where We Learn About History

CHART was also interested in where Santa Feans go to learn about history in order to get a sense of the kinds of resources they favor, and the breadth. Q9 in Survey Two helped us quantify the results, below

Q9 Which of the following resources have you used to learn more about the history of Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe? (Check all that apply)

|---|---|
| City of Santa Fe Historian | 22.84% |
| Museum of Indian Arts and Culture | 61.83% |
| Museum of Spanish Colonial Art | 44.37% |
| New Mexico History Museum | 72.59% |
| New Mexico Jewish Historical Society/Oral Family Stories | 10.28% |
| New Mexico State Archives (in person) | 17.46% |
| New Mexico State Archives (online) | 15.17% |
| New Mexico State Library (in person) | 22.19% |
| New Mexico State Library (online) | 12.56% |
| Office of the New Mexico State Historian | 12.07% |
| Palace of the Governors (National Park Service) | 51.88% |
| Poeh Cultural Center | 23.82% |
| Santa Fe Public Libraries | 53.83% |
| Wheelwright Museum of the American Indian | 39.48% |
| Website of the City of Santa Fe: www.santafe.org | 24.96% |

Respondents favored books (80%), the New Mexico History Museum (73%), the Museum of Indian Arts and Culture (62%), Santa Fe Public Libraries (54%) and the Palace of the Governors (52%). The next tier named the Museum of Spanish Colonial Art (44%) and the Wheelwright Museum of the American Indian (39%).

In addition to the resources identified in the question, CHART participants mentioned family, schools, New Mexico PBS, tribal elders, Institute of American Indian Arts, Indian Pueblo Cultural Center, newspapers, Historic Santa Fe Foundation, and Old Santa Fe Association as important sources of historical information. These and other responses are reflected in the word cloud, below.

Q9 CHART Survey Two "Other" Responses

Below are a few more resources. We also recognize that there are others, not named here, that serve the community well:

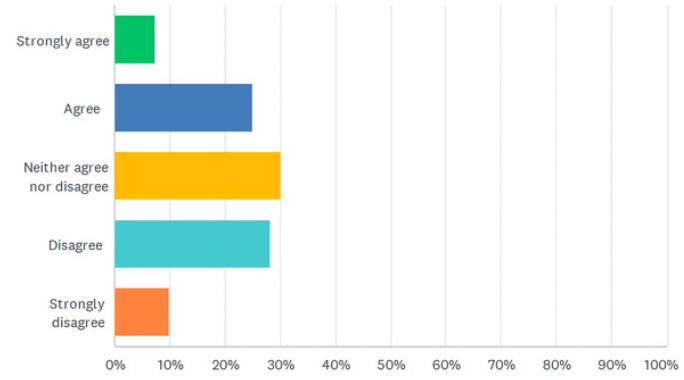

UNM's Institute for American Indian Research
School for Advanced Research Center for the Southwest
Southwest Hispanic Research Institute
Women's International Study Center
African American History in New Mexico

Additionally, readers may want to consult the CHART Culture Blog for a list of books about Santa Fe History, New Mexican History, Spanish History, and other historical topics.[41]

Understanding the City's Complex History

The second CHART survey also asked important questions about city-sponsored events and whether they encourage residents and visitors to engage with the complex history of the area. The results are mixed and, thus, interesting:

Q10 Events hosted by the City of Santa Fe encourage RESIDENTS to understand the complex history of Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe

|---|---|
| Strongly agree | 7.18% |
| Agree | 24.96% |
| Neither agree nor disagree | 30.02% |
| Disagree | 28.06% |
| Strongly disagree | 9.79% |
| TOTAL | |

Q11 Events hosted by the City of Santa Fe encourage VISITORS to understand the complex history of Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Strongly agree | 6.53% |
| Agree | 27.08% |
| Neither agree nor disagree | 29.20% |
| Disagree | 26.75% |
| Strongly disagree | 10.44% |
| TOTAL | |

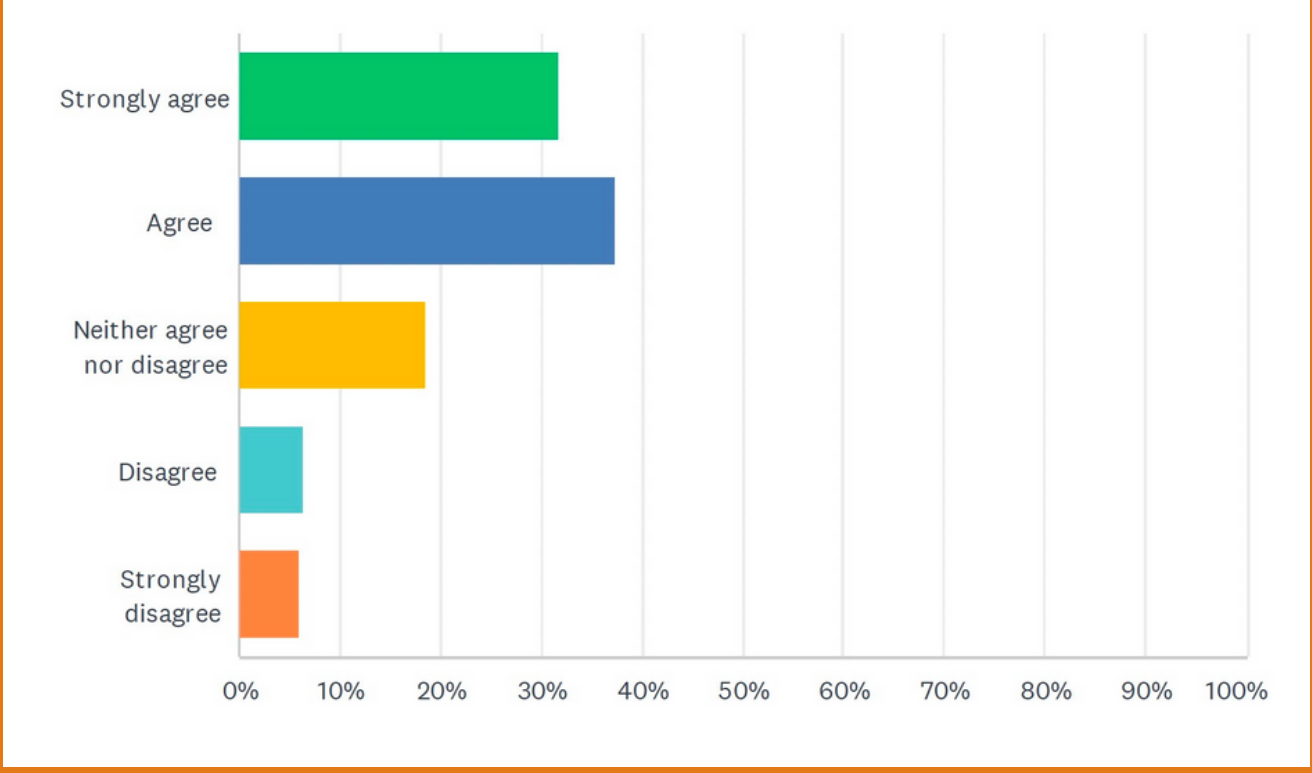

In the case of residents, 38% of respondents disagree or strongly disagree with the statement while 37% disagree or strongly disagree that city events encourage visitors to understand our complex history. In both cases, 30% of respondents can neither agree nor disagree. In terms of agreeing, 32% of respondents agree that residents are encouraged while 34% agree when it comes to visitors.  Clearly, Santa Feans have mixed feelings about what the city is currently doing.

When these results are considered in relation to Q14 in the survey, “Understanding the complex history of Oga Po’gay/Santa Fe will improve relationships between residents who are from different races, ethnicities, cultures, and backgrounds” (see below), we believe that roughly 30 percent results (Q10 & Q11) are not good enough. Doing better provides us with an opportunity to improve relationships in our multicultural community.

A Santa Fe History Museum

Over the course of the project, many CHART participants recommended the idea of a history museum devoted specifically to the history of Santa Fe (what one participant called a “Santa Fe History Museum”) so we put this question to residents in Survey 2.

Q12 I like the idea of a “Santa Fe History Museum” that would promote a fuller understanding of the history of Oga Po’gay/Santa Fe.

Historian Hilario Romero
Cultural History Series #2

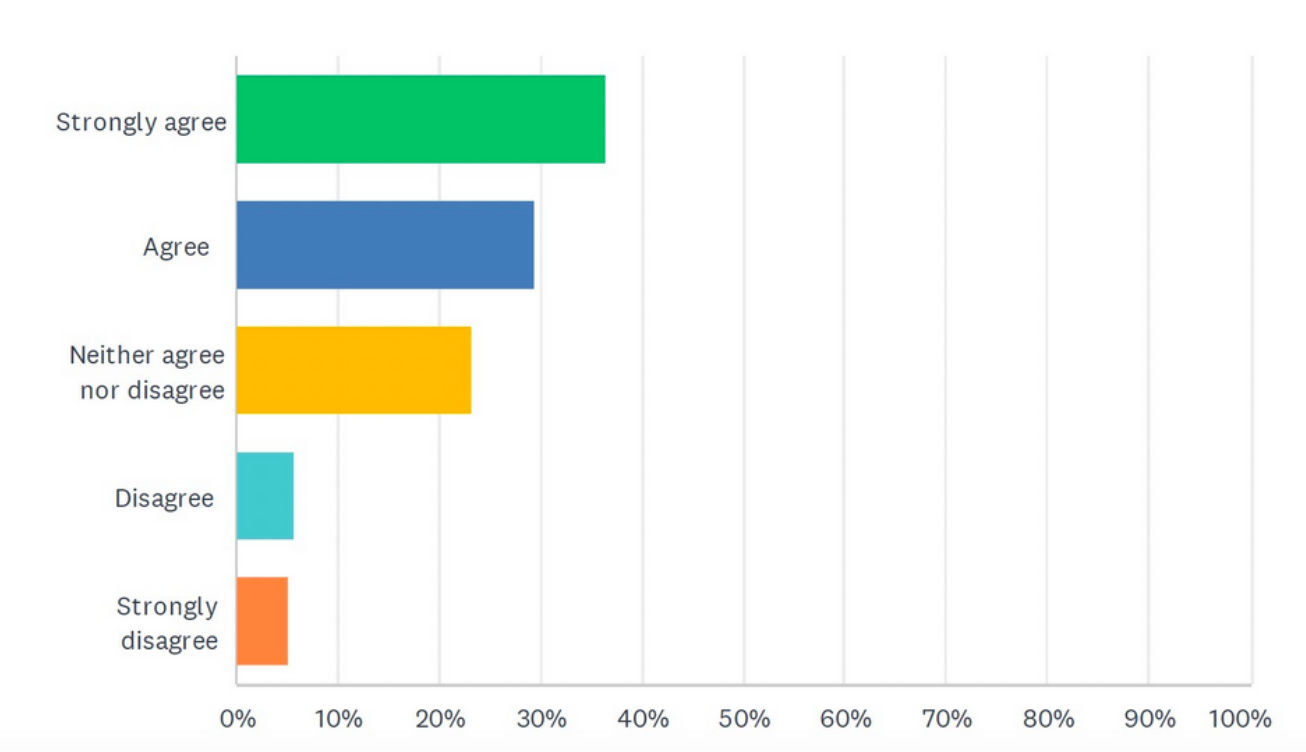

The responses are overwhelmingly in favor of this idea.

History and Education

Additionally, CHART participants repeatedly spoke to the need for the K-12 educational curriculum to do a better job of teaching the complex history of Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe. Results of Q13 reveal that 66% of respondents agreed or strongly agree with this idea.

Q13 The K-12 educational curriculum needs to do a better job of teaching the complex history of Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe.

In order to clarify the relationship between education about history (accessed by adults via community resources and taught to K-12 children in the schools), we added another questions in Survey 2 asking whether there is a link between knowing our complex history and the quality of our relationships with those who are different from us. See the results, below.

Q14 Understanding the complex history of Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe will improve relationships between residents who are from different races, ethnicities, cultures, and backgrounds.

A majority of survey respondents (74%) agree or strongly agree that understanding our complex history–all of us, young and old–will better our relationships with each other in a diverse and multicultural community. This makes it very clear that the past plays a significant role in our present-day relationships and that historical knowledge–deep, broad, inclusive–can make a difference for the present and future.

For the reasons and results discussed above, we make the following recommendations to the City of Santa Fe.

Dr. Setha Low
Cultural History Series #3

RECOMMENDATIONS: HISTORY

The City of Santa Fe should:

1. Undertake a review of historical, cultural, and other events/programs hosted by the City to assess whether they encourage both residents and visitors to understand the complex history of the city as discussed in this report;
2. The review, above, should enlist a skilled, diverse, inclusive group of advisors;
3. Use the results of reviews to improve current events/programs;
4. Fund, create, and present additional events that promote the understanding of the complex history of Santa Fe, and
5. Investigate the possibility of creating a museum devoted specifically to the complex history of Santa Fe that will draw and benefit both residents and visitors.

The Community Solutions Table of the CHART project identified K-12 education and education, in general, about the history of Santa Fe as an important issue and recommends the following:

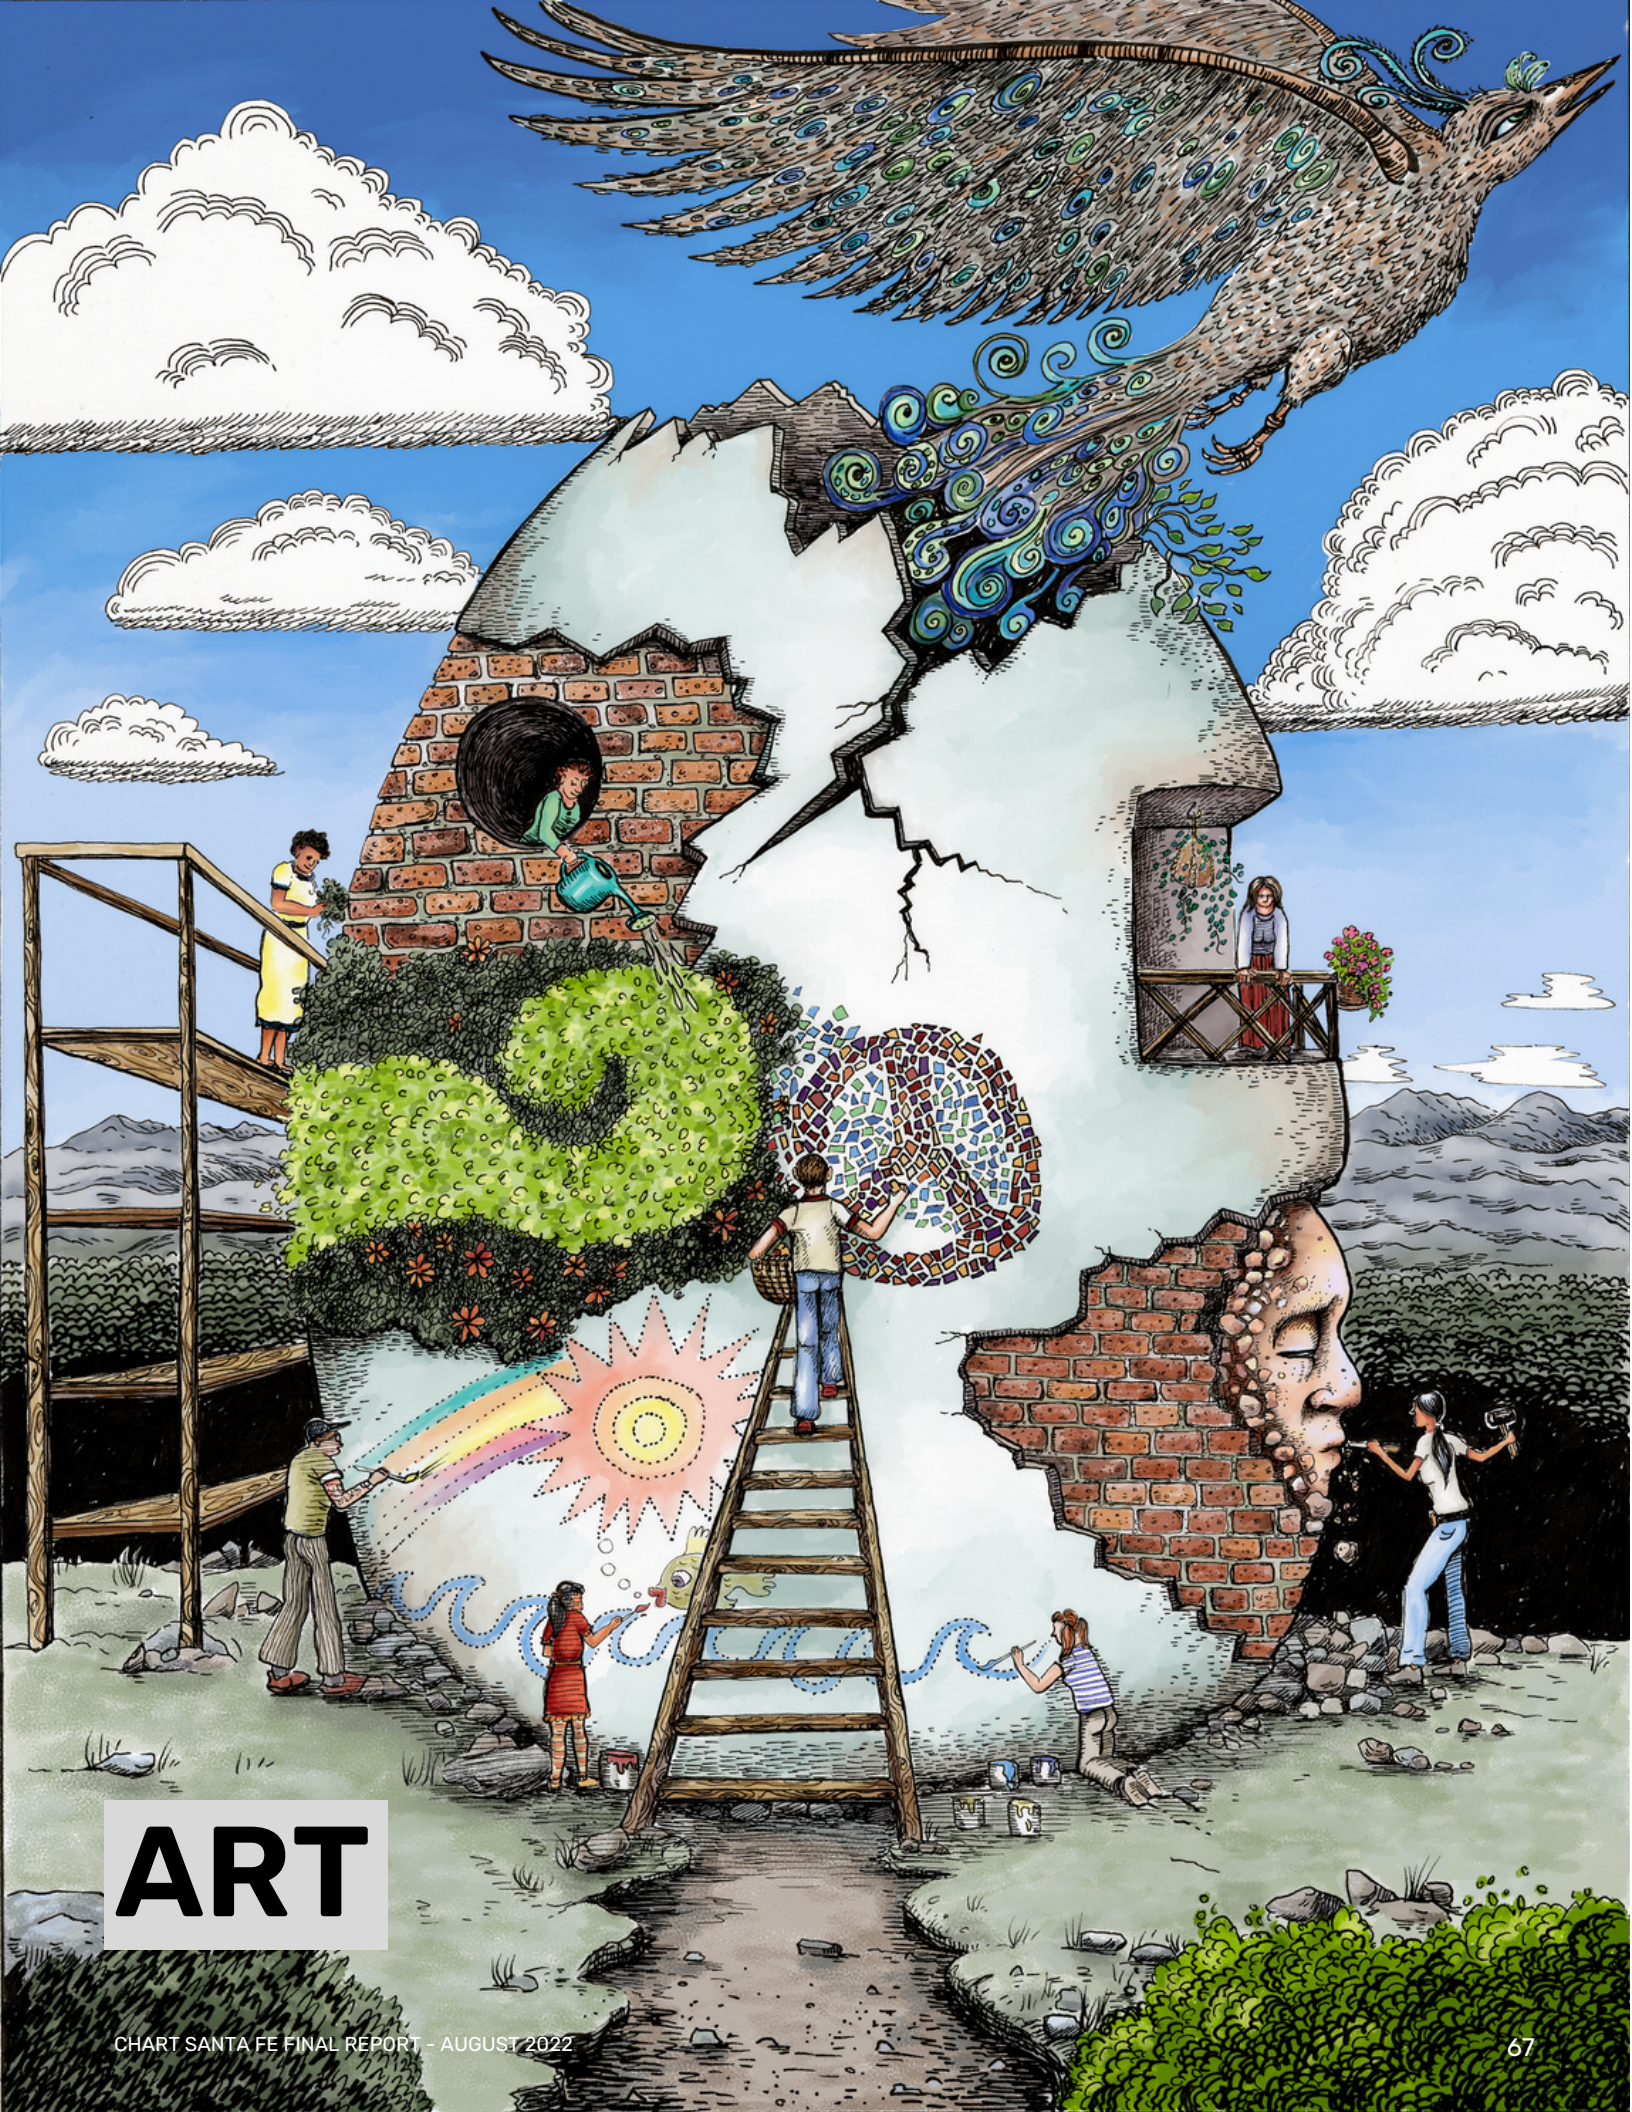

6. The history of Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe, as taught in the Santa Fe Public Schools via state standards and reflected in in museum exhibits and public art, should be reviewed by the City of Santa Fe for inclusion and for accuracy, acknowledging that there are often differing accounts of the same event(s). This is especially important because Santa Fe is the capital city of New Mexico. The City should perform such reviews via a skilled, diverse working group, committee, or commission, including representatives from Indigenous communities, and make recommendations to the Santa Fe Public Schools and museums and other institutions that educate students.

The Community Solutions Table acknowledges the recent update to the State of New Mexico Social Studies Standards by the New Mexico Public Education Department and its work on diversity and inclusion of peoples and perspectives. https://webnew.ped.state.nm.us/wp-content/uploads/2022/02/NM-Standards-508.pdf

CHART recognizes that the city's past Education Advisor, Carmen Gonzales (appointed in 2018 by Mayor Alan Webber), and Dr. Veronica Garcia co-chaired a "Supporting Education" Working Group that developed action items[42] (June 11, 2018) for collaboration between the city and the Santa Fe Public Schools. Though the teaching of Santa Fe's history was not addressed in this document, a similar process might be used for recommendation 6, above, with special attention to including Indigenous members of the working group.

Readers may also want to consult Appendix G for recommendations made by participants in response to Survey 1.

ART

"Allow all local traditions to shine not just the ones that make $$$...More free local events and entry to museums for families who cannot afford it. ...the Railyard is the new plaza but it does not welcome...locals as much as tourists and others, and it shows."

"Public art is intrinsic to public life, especially during controversial and challenging times and can also be reflective of and responsive to sociopolitical and historical issues, cultures, and human experiences."

As a young poet thinker Amanda Gorman states. 'Never underestimate the power of art as the language of the people. Poetry is the lens we use to interrogate the history we stand on and the future we stand for. It's no coincidence that at the base of the Statue of Liberty, there is a poem. Our instinct is to turn to poetry when we're looking to communicate a spirit that is larger than ourselves. Whenever I'm writing, I'm looking at the history of words. The specific history of words in the Inaugural poem was: 'We have seen the ways in which language has been violated and used to dehumanize. How can I reclaim English so we can see it as a source of hope, purification and consciousness?'"

"There are many ways for us all to more fully understand our unique history and culture. We do offer great museums, lectures, programs, events, art, poetry, music, historical sites and more and these should continue. More appreciation of our Pueblo values and history can and should be encouraged. A Southside 'Plaza del Sur' would be a great way to allow for more understanding and experience of more varied cultures living here."

"A live theatre experience or a video (either a documentary/interview style or motion graphics) that powerfully and artfully present different viewpoints and giving space to each with the fullest human divinity and empathy. Perspectives solicited should expand beyond the triad of cultures that typically is present as the face of New Mexico—Native American, Spanish, and Anglo. Human identity is beyond their race. Acknowledge the fullness of who lives here now, too, and why they chose to be here."

"Put out a call for people–making sure to include everyone (tribal representatives, educators, students, scientists, artists, retirees, historians, curators, everyday folks–everyone who may have relevant stories and information) to share their stories whether written or otherwise recorded and start a repository where anyone can access this information."

"Support outdoor public art and events throughout Santa Fe, the more public art that is accessible, the more diverse perspectives can be shared and discussed."

"...the art scene of Santa Fe is almost exclusively in the downtown area, therefore more economic activity in the area, and therefore more economic prosperity in the surrounding properties. This provides a trend of which has taken place largely in the last 50 years; less people of color...live in the now 'historic' district... Without that community, the district would not have the culture that made the area so desirable. In truth we cannot have a culture of mutual admiration and collaboration if different pieces of that mosaic are further disenfranchised from the growth of the culture at hand."

"Due to legislation, however, the greatest percentage of funds is allocated to large organizations often associated with the tourism industry, an important economic driver for Santa Fe. It should be noted that based on the data gathered during the Public Engagement phase, there is some community perception that a "tourism focus" does not directly support residents and that it leads to a distortion of the city's cultural identity." from Cultural Cartography, 2016

"Shared experiences through the arts is an excellent way to listen and process those stories with others."

At the heart of CHART's acronym is the letter "A" for Art. So it is with the Santa Fe community–whether reflected in the lines and curves of mesa, mountain, riverbed, the gentle corners of adobe and shimmer of metal roofs, the jewelry, santos, rugs, pottery, fashion, murals, sculpture, poetry, opera, theater, dance, monuments, museums, immersive art experiences, sunsets skimmed by rainbow, and more. Art, too, is ritual–secular and spiritual–Zozobra, Pet Parade, Hoop Dance, Deer Dance, Las Posadas, Shabbat, the Lighting of Candles, Ritual Prayer.

In Santa Fe, art is heavily marketed for tourists but "art," in its largest sense, is an integral part of daily life for residents and has the potential to do much more than draw visitors and generate revenue. It can reflect Santa Fe's multicultural community and, in doing so, nurture relationships between residents and promote understanding of people, history, place, and heritage.

Over the course of the CHART project, we heard a lot about art, including monuments, memorials, and works of public art. It is clear that:

- Santa Feans value the arts and their place at the heart of community life;
- Residents believe that the arts have a unique ability to express diverse identities, cultures, traditions, and perspectives;
- Citizens see inequal, geographical distribution of public art (and the funding/revenue associated with it) in the city and county;
- Residents believe that the "tricultural myth" is not reflective of the current population of Santa Fe, marginalizes certain residents, and misrepresents the community;
- Some art, particularly in the form of monuments, requires new and considered attention and assessment that includes an inclusive public process;
- Controversies about monuments (particularly Soldiers Monument/"Obelisk") have deeply wounded the Santa Fe community while also encouraging us to address deeply-rooted problems; and
- The arts have a unique ability to promote truth, healing, and reconciliation.

ART

During the project, conversations about art commonly focused on whether public works do a good job of reflecting the diversity of the current population and on process (what went wrong with Soldiers Monument, what should be done with monuments). In this section, we will start with what CHART participants had to say about public art and about process, address the “Monumental Dreams and Conversations” program of CHART, and then direct our attention to Soldiers Monument/”Obelisk.”

As with the other sections of this report, it is important to mention that results and recommendations are based on the large body of data collected over 11 months of public engagement activities.

PUBLIC ART

“Simply put public art is art in public spaces. The term ‘public art’ may conjure images of historic bronze statues of a soldier on horseback in a park. Today, public art can take a wide range of forms, sizes, and scales—and can be temporary or permanent. It often interprets the history of the place, its people, and perhaps addresses a social or environmental issue. Public art can include murals, sculpture, memorials, integrated architectural or landscape architectural work, community art, digital new media, and even performances and festivals!” [43]

For the purposes of this report, CHART uses “art” as an overarching term that includes public art, monuments, and memorials. Sometimes, during the CHART process, participants discussed all three under the same umbrella and other times (especially in terms of current controversies) they tended to separate public art from the other two.

We are aware that the lines between works of public art, monuments, and memorials are tentative, at best. Historically, works of public art have generated controversies as heated as any around monuments and memorials, including the “Multicultural Mural,” by Gilberto Guzman, at the site of the new New Mexico Museum of Art (NMMOA) Vladem Contemporary. Here, we do our best to honor the distinctions that CHART participants made as well as the commonalities.

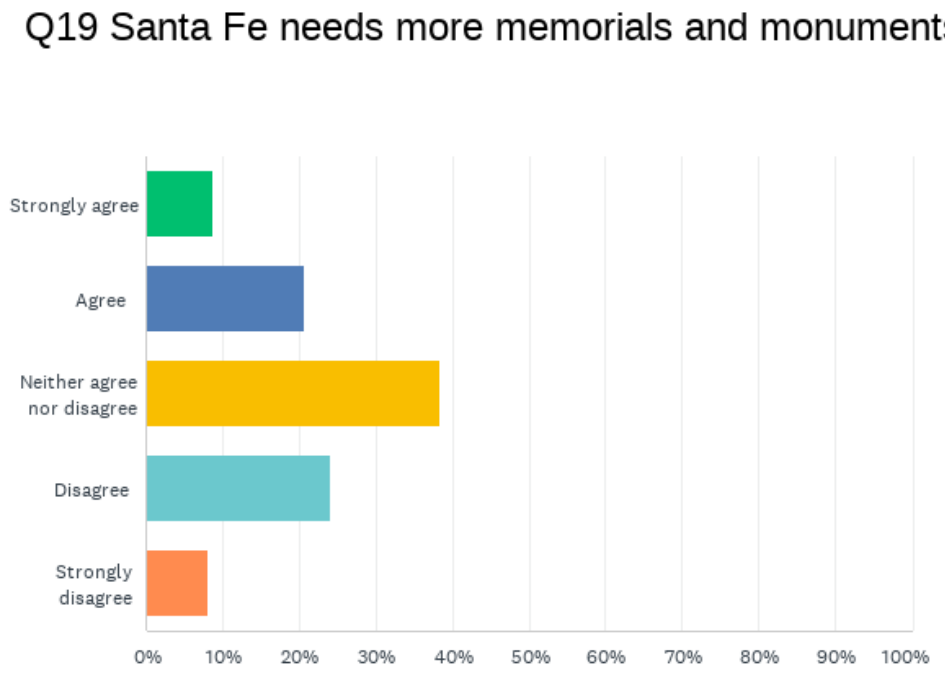

CHART’s second survey included a section on art with questions based on responses received from participants gathered over the first 8 months of the project. Survey questions were designed to confirm (or deny) what we heard over the course of public engagement as well as tease out some of the distinctions we heard.

Responses to Q20 tell us whether Santa Feans want to see more public art defined as “art created for the general public through a public process:”

Over 70% of Santa Feans agree or strongly agree that Santa Fe needs more public art. This result reflects what we heard over many months of engagement with an emphasis less on more art for tourists and more on art for residents.

Results for Q20 are in stark contrast with responses to Q19 (“Santa Fe needs more memorials and monuments”):

Here, only 29.4% agree or strongly agree with the statement. Because of this contrast, we interpret the data to indicate that residents believe that Santa Fe needs more public art that is not a monument nor a memorial.

Diversity and Distribution

During the project, CHART also heard a lot about the "tricultural myth"--a branding campaign with tenacious persistence–and the different ways in which it misrepresents the community, perpetuates cultural stereotypes, and marginalizes arts from cultural traditions other than the "tri."

"Santa Fe is made up of a wide range of cultures and ethnicities that extend beyond the tri-cultural myth that is perpetuated here." –Survey 1 Respondent

"...we are not just TRI-CULTURAL. By listening to each other's personal histories without blame or shame or judgment. We need to own each of our cultures Shadow sides as well as the Light, otherwise the Shadow aspect defeats us in our unity and diversity." –Survey 1 Respondent

For this reason, CHART included the following question in the second survey to learn how these views pertain to current works of public art in Santa Fe. The results are interesting:

Under half (41%) of respondents agree or strongly agree that "current works of public art in Santa Fe reflect the diversity of its residents;" 29% neither agree or disagree, and 30% disagree or strongly disagree with this statement. Because the results are mixed–roughly half and half–CHART examined the results based on respondents self-identified race and ethnicity:

Agree or Strongly Agree: "Current works of public art in Santa Fe reflect the diversity of its residents"

|---|---|
| Asian American or Pacific Islander | 25 |
| Black or African American | 20 |
| Hispanic or Latino | 43 |
| Native American or Alaskan Native | 34 |
| White or Caucasian | 41 |
| Multiracial or Biracial | 46 |
| A race/ethnicity not listed here | 34 |

Only 20% of survey respondents who identify as Black or African American believe that current works of art reflect the community's diversity, with 25% of those who identify as Asian American or Pacific Islander following close behind. All the percentages, above, are under or well under 50% and indicate that a majority of survey respondents do not see the diversity of the community reflected in public art.

CHART asked a related question (Q22) in Survey 2 based on what we heard during the public input phase of the project: "There is public art in all of Santa Fe's neighborhoods:"

Over 65% of respondents disagree or strongly disagree with this statement, with 24% neither agreeing or disagreeing. Just under 11% agree or strongly agree. There is a strong consensus, here, that public art–one very important way to reflect and celebrate people, place, and culture–is not equitably situated throughout the city and county.

In response to the results above, we make the following recommendations related to the Diversity and Distribution of Public Art in Santa Fe.

RECOMMENDATIONS:
DIVERSITY AND DISTRIBUTION
OF PUBLIC ART

1. The City of Santa Fe should allocate more resources to the Department of Arts and Culture in order to support the creation of more public art. Meanwhile, the Dept. of Arts and Culture should continue to seek out public-private partnerships, grants, and other sources of additional revenue for public art;
2. The Department of Arts and Culture should acknowledge the distinction that Santa Feans make between public art and monuments and memorials and focus their efforts on the creation and installation of new works of public art that are NOT monuments and memorials;
3. New works of public art must do a better job of reflecting the current, multicultural population of Santa Fe, defying the “tricultural myth;”
4. City of Santa Fe Tourism campaigns should concentrate their efforts on dispelling the tricultural myth of Santa Fe;
5. New works of public art (distinct from memorials and monuments) should be distributed more equitably among the neighborhoods and spaces of the city and county;
6. The creation of new works of art should follow the processes recommended in the section below; and
7. The creation of new public art should engage citizens, especially those who live in the location where a new work of art will be located, in the vision and design of new works.

MONUMENTAL DREAMS

As a corollary to dialogue and survey results regarding public art, a special program of the CHART project revealed additional information about the kinds of works envisioned by Santa Feans for their community. CHART's contract with the City of Santa Fe required an art activation that would "engage Santa Fe's artistic and cultural community to produce 5-8 art activations modeled on but not exclusive to Paper Monuments."

The Paper Monuments project of New Orleans:

"is a public art and public history project designed to elevate the voices of the people of New Orleans, as a critical process towards creating new narratives and symbols of our city that represent our collective visions, and to honor the erased histories of the people, events, movements, and places that have made up the past 300 years as we look to the future."[44]

CHART's version of the project, "Monumental Dreams and Conversations" (see full description, Appendix I) asked Santa Feans, "What deserves a monument, memorial, or work of art in Santa Fe?" We invited any resident of the city or county to submit a simple proposal. The goal was to create a pool of prospective monuments, memorials, and works of public art that communicate what is important to residents as well as generate conversations about the movements, events, things, places, and people that matter to Santa Feans.

CHART encouraged artists and non-artists, alike, to submit proposals and emphasized that no specialized (i.e. artistic skills) were required. Simple text responses were as acceptable as more complex images and drawings. The response was robust and diverse. We received 85 proposals of the widest variety, including submissions from children, teens, and adults as well as organizations. All can be viewed on the CHART website under "Proposals."

In order to fulfill the "conversations" aspect of the program, CHART posted the proposals for public view, comment, and dialogue at two events, on June 11 and July 17, and also provided means for anyone to view the proposals and submit public comments online. There were dozens of "conversations" generated by the proposals, whether in person at the "gallery" events or in the form of online commentary. In all, CHART received 760 comments (from 144 individuals) about the entries. Below is additional information about the submissions.

In terms of what Santa Feans value (as reflected in the proposals), the range was broad. However, a few common themes emerged. Twenty-four of the 85 proposals honored the natural world--water, sun, earth, trees, sunsets, seeds, even bees, as well as habitat restoration. Several proposals feature water fountains as well as symbolic water features acknowledging that “el agua es vida por todos.” Fourteen of the 85 proposals honor the diverse community of Santa Fe, honoring “diverse cultures,” “blended cultures,” and the idea of “many journeys, one world.” Another 14 are dedicated to heroes–especially veterans (“Nuevo Mexicanos on the Union side of the Civil War”) and women (Claudette Covin, Virgin de Guadalupe, New Mexico Women). Six of the proposals honor ancestors, elders and families and five are dedicated to teenagers–their dreams, their desires to leave, even their bad behaviors. Four emphasize Indigenous history before colonization, Indigenous identity and culture, and the “often silenced story of Native enslavement.” Other proposals honor memory, artists, music, civil rights, liberty and justice, peace/nonviolence, whimsical bunnies, and hugs.

We encourage readers of this report to spend some time viewing the proposals on the CHART website.

The Monumental Dreams and Conversations proposals serve as a vital resource for consideration and conversation—a snapshot of what residents might see as they move through public spaces in the neighborhoods of their community.

Because of the enthusiastic response to the CHART “Monumental Dreams and Conversations” project we make the following recommendation:

RECOMMENDATION:
“MONUMENTAL DREAMS AND CONVERSATIONS”

1. The City of Santa Fe Department of Arts and Culture should consider the proposals submitted for the “Monumental Dreams and Conversations” program of CHART in their deliberations about what kind of new monuments, memorials, and works of art might be created for the community of Santa Fe.

PROCESS: PUBLIC ART

"As monuments and statues fall across the United States, activists and towns are left wondering what to do with empty spaces that once honored historic figures tied to Confederate generals and Spanish conquistadors. They also are debating how to remember civil rights figures and events in areas where they have been forgotten. The opportunity to reimagine spaces has created a debate: whose history should the U.S. now honor and why?"[45]

"What to do" about memorials and monuments leads us to the idea of process–how are decisions made to create, assess, and (if necessary) dispose of public art? Who is part of the process? What kinds of limitations exist?

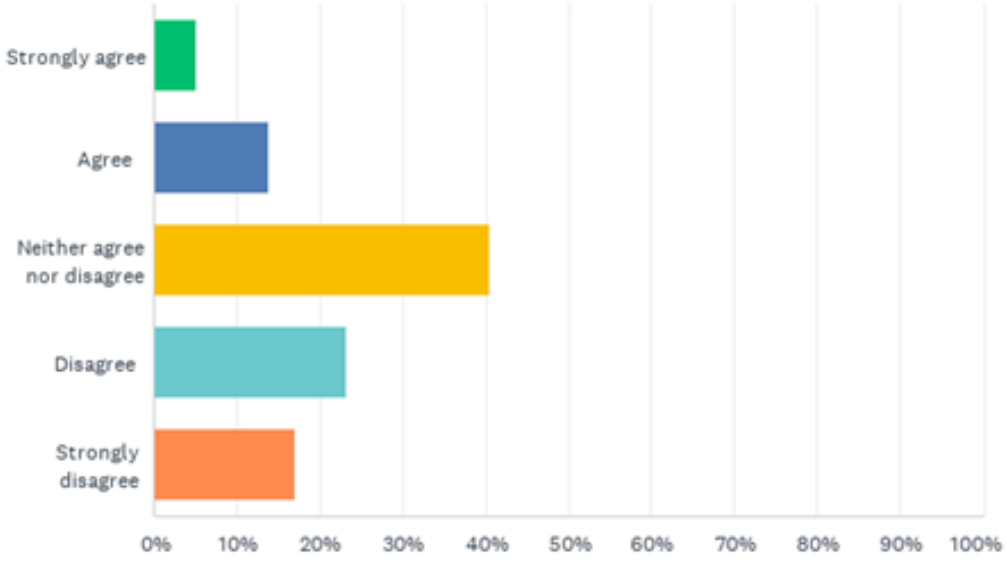

Many who responded to Survey 1 addressed process, especially what happened and did not happen with Soldiers Monument/"Obelisk." We heard the same during the public dialogue phase of CHART. This led to related conversations (with many questions) about processes related to public art, in general. Because of this, CHART included several questions in Survey 2 that were meant to give us a clearer idea of what residents know and don't know about such processes.

The graphs, below, provide results:

Q15 Currently, the City of Santa Fe has a process for creating new public monuments, memorials, and works of public art (art created for the general public through a public process).

Q16 Currently, the City of Santa Fe has a process for objecting to existing public monuments, memorials, and works of public art.

Responses to questions Q15 and Q16 were similar when it comes to respondents NEITHER agreeing nor disagreeing that there are existing processes for both creating and objecting to monuments, memorials, and works of art (40.56% and 40.79% respectively).

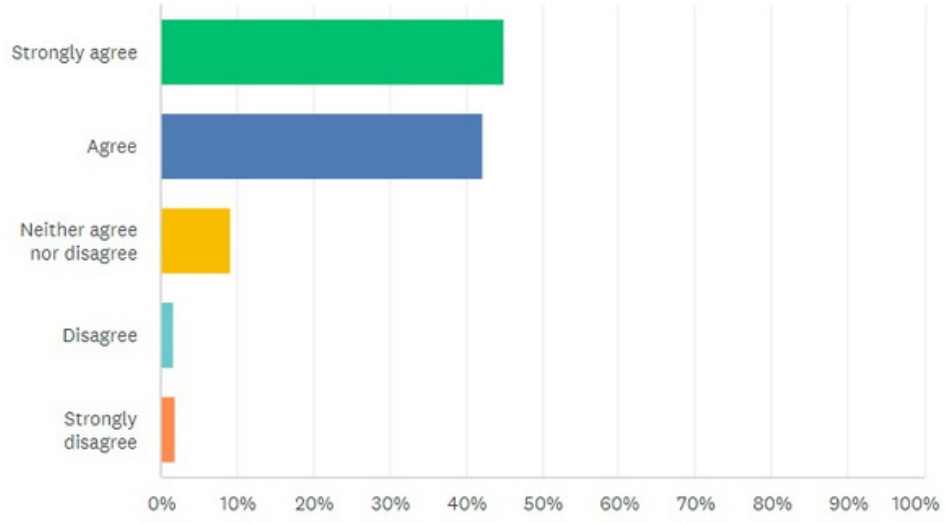

In terms of creating works (Q15), 28% strongly agree or agree that the city has a process while 19% (Q15) strongly agree or agree that there is a process for objecting. On the other hand, 31% of respondents disagree or strongly disagree that there is a process for creating works while 40% disagree or strongly disagree there is a process for objecting.

In regards to public input during these processes, the results of Q17 provide a clear directive to the City of Santa Fe in terms of the role of public input in decisions about public monuments, memorials, and works of art.

Q17

Public input should be part of the City of Santa Fe's decisions about public monuments, memorials, and works of art.

Answered: 606 Skipped: 33

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Strongly agree | 45.05% |
| Agree | 42.24% |
| Neither agree nor disagree | 9.08% |
| Disagree | 1.65% |
| Strongly disagree | 1.98% |
| TOTAL | |

Over 87% of survey respondents agree or strongly agree that public input should be part of the decision-making processes around public art.

These survey results confirm what we heard over the course of the CHART project. Whether processes are currently in place or not, many residents aren't certain that they exist or doubt their existence. Also, support for public input regarding these processes is overwhelming. Because of this, CHART makes the following recommendations:.

RECOMMENDATIONS: PROCESSES
PUBLIC MONUMENTS, MEMORIALS, WORKS OF ART

The Community Solutions Table of the CHART project identified the processes around establishing, assessing, and objecting to monuments/memorials/works of public arts as a major issue and recommends the following:

1. The City of Santa Fe should establish, and implement, in a timely manner, official policy, processes and/or ordinances for creating/erecting public monuments, memorials, and works of art;
2. The City of Santa Fe should establish, and implement, in a timely manner, official policy, processes and/or ordinances for objecting to public monuments, memorials, and works of art;
3. If such policy, processes and/or ordinances already exist, the information should be easily accessible on the city website with information about which city department/division is responsible for them, how each policy and process was established, whether each policy and process undergoes periodic review; and how these incorporate public input;
4. Public input should be part of any process for establishing/erecting new public monuments, memorials and works of art;
5. Public input should be part of any policy and process for objecting to existing public monuments, memorials and works of art;
6. Public input as part of the above processes should engage the diverse citizenry of the city and county of Santa Fe;

7. The City of Santa Fe should utilize the proposals collected by CHART through the “Monumental Dreams and Conversations” program in the consideration of new public monuments, memorials, and works of art for the city and county of Santa Fe;
8. The City of Santa Fe should make every effort, in the creation and installation of new public monuments, memorials, and works of art, to distribute these more equitably in the city and county of Santa Fe; and
9. Decisions about public monuments, memorials, and works of art raise moral and ethical questions about memorializing acts of colonialization, conquest, genocide and the perpetuation of offensive/derogatory/racist terms as well as persons who participated in such actions or used such terms. For this reason, the city should address these issues during any process of creating new works as well as review its current inventory of public works with these in mind.

Regarding recommendations #1 and #2, above, there are models for establishing ordinances around monuments that are instructive and should be considered by the City of Santa Fe as options for action:

- Public Monuments/Removal (New Orleans): § 146-611. Removal from public property., Article VII. PUBLIC MONUMENTS, Chapter 146. STREETS, SIDEWALKS AND OTHER PUBLIC PLACES, Code of Ordinances, New Orleans (elaws.us)

SOLDIERS MONUMENT

"...monuments and memorials are dynamic sites of meaning disposed to elicit multiple interpretations and various emotional responses."

Though CHART's mission and purpose (discussed in detail in the "Introduction" section) was much wider in scope–thus the breadth of this report–it is true that CHART was sparked by the controversy over Soldiers Monument/"Obelisk." And though CHART participants discussed a wide range of topics (also reflected in this report) the most passionate public dialogue was largely about what happened to the "Obelisk" and what it represents to members of the Santa Fe community.

For a concise history of Soldier's Monument prior to its toppling on October 20, 2020, CHART can recommend an essay by former New Mexico State Historian, Estevan Rael-Gálvez, entitled "Centering Truths, Not So Evident."[46] This article is available on the CHART Culture Blog.

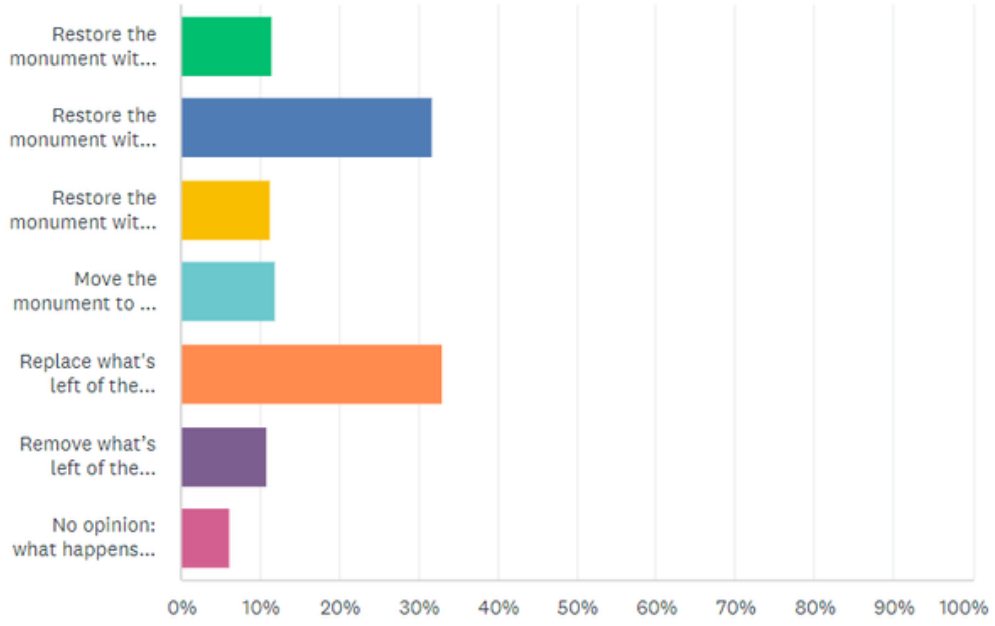

Data collected over 11 months of public engagement (including dialogues, meetings, conversations, interviews, phone calls and email communications) and the results of two surveys indicate that the Santa Fe community is still divided about what to do about Soldier's Monument.

Responses to Q18 in Survey 2 reflect what we heard over many months of community input:

Q18

What should be done with Soldier's Monument ("Obelisk") on the Santa Fe Plaza?

Answered: 606 Skipped: 33

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Restore the monument with its original signage. | 11.55% |
| Restore the monument with its original signage and add language that encourages it to be fully understood and assessed. | 31.68% |
| Restore the monument with different signage. | 11.39% |
| Move the monument to a different location. | 12.05% |
| Replace what's left of the monument with something else. | 33.00% |
| Remove what's left of the monument and leave the space unoccupied. | 10.89% |
| No opinion: what happens to the monument isn't important to me. | 6.27% |

It is important to note that the seven options provided in the questions came from community input over the months prior to the survey; the CHART team was faithful to the iterative practice that public engagement would determine both questions and response options.

Integral to all discussions about Soldiers Monument/"Obelisk" was history. Participants repeatedly stressed the importance of people knowing or educating themselves about the "accurate" history of the monument and the history of Santa Fe. In other words, those who DISAGREED about what should happen with the monument nevertheless AGREED that knowing the accurate history of the monument, or history in general, was crucial.

In terms of the two most favored options: 33% of respondents recommend "replace what's left of the monument with something else." This opinion is reflected in the data collected before the second survey. Reasons for taking this stand coalesced around the following:

- Soldier's Monument was created and erected during the time of the Indians Wars and its accompanying language reflects the racist attitudes and actions that led to the enslavement and genocide of Indigenous peoples.
- The phrase "savage Indians"–regardless of being scratched out–is so offensive that even its "echo" or memory should have no place in this or any other public place in the city or county of Santa Fe. As one CHART participant articulated this: "Any word or any part of history that hurts someone or their race should not be flaunted in any way–be it a piece of art or plaque."
- Soldier's Monument has been controversial for decades and continues to spark divisions in the Santa Fe community.
- Removing the monument and replacing it with something else will promote truth, healing and reconciliation.

Another 31.68% of respondents recommend "restore the monument with its original signage and add language that encourages it to be fully understood and assessed." Original signage includes the language of the four 1867 marble tablets (with "To the heroes who have fallen in the various battles with the savage Indians of the Territory of New Mexico"). During public dialogue, most participants who recommended this option were aware that the original language is problematic and/or offensive and/or racist. Even so, they cited the following reasons for choosing this option:

- Soldier's Monument honors Hispanic and Pueblo veterans who sacrificed their lives in the war to end Black slavery.
- The monument represents relationships (a "brotherhood"–as several CHART participants articulated it) between Hispanic and Pueblo peoples.
- History should reflect "the good, the bad, and the ugly" (as one CHART participant wrote). Including the original 1867 signage with new, contextual language allows residents and visitors to simultaneously engage with the complexity of the monument and acknowledge why many find it offensive.
- Restoring the monument with contextual signage will promote truth, healing and reconciliation.

It is also important to note that, for most, Soldier's Monument is a reflection of historical "truths" that are complex, nuanced, and contradictory. Hundreds of recommendations from CHART participants (see Appendix G) suggest sources of historical information–including written records and oral stories–that we are urged to consult as we move forward with any process around Soldier's Monument/"Obelisk."

At the same time, Soldier's Monument has become a less complex and more singular symbol for some CHART participants who associate the monument, alternately, with "Hispanic Culture," "White Supremacy," "Colonization," and "Manifest Destiny." This has fueled heated discussions at the crossroads where "literal" and "symbolic" meet.

Federico Bellentani and Mario Panico, in their article, "The Meanings of Monuments and Memorials: Toward a Semiotic Approach" address this conundrum this way:

"...monuments considered sacred by their owners may become the object of scorn and ridicule. Atkinson & Cosgrove (1998) show how the Vittoriano, a huge monument commemorating the first king of united Italy in Rome, has been derided throughout its history. These cases show that the meanings of monuments are never fixed once and for all and that designers cannot fully control monument interpretations. Moreover, they show that unexpected and alternative uses continuously reinterpret the original meanings of monuments in ways the designers would never have thought of. Therefore, monuments and memorials are "dynamic sites of meaning" (Osborne 1998: 453) disposed to elicit multiple interpretations and various emotional responses. The semiotic approach can be useful to analyze the multiple interpretations of monuments drawing attention to both the officially sanctioned meanings of monuments and the various ways they are interpreted or resisted at the social level." [47]

There were two additional views, related to Soldier's Monument, that were shared consistently during the CHART process. Both were expressed by a majority of CHART participants. Santa Feans believe that the City of Santa Fe severely mismanaged what happened with Soldier's Monument, for reasons including the following:

- Without a public process Mayor Webber announced, on June 17, 2020, that Soldier's Monument and two others would be removed;
- Police action/inaction during the illegal destruction of the monument on October 20, 2020, was mismanaged and inadequate;
- The City of Santa Fe has failed to present to the public any local, state, and federal laws or legal limitations that will limit what can happen with Soldier's Monument/"Obelisk."

At the same time, most CHART participants agreed that the toppling of Soldiers Monument/"Obelisk," by a small group of protesters, was not only illegal but took place without the consideration of a potential public process that could address objections to the monument.

Overall, even those who wish that Soldiers Monument/"Obelisk" will NOT be returned to the plaza agreed that illegal destruction was wrong and has done damage to a community that, through the CHART process, expresses its willingness to undertake a truth, healing, and reconciliation process, no matter how difficult (see the "Reconciliation" section of this report).

As a result of the findings of the CHART project regarding Soldiers Monument/"Obelisk" we make the following recommendations:

RECOMMENDATIONS:
SOLDIERS MONUMENT/"OBELISK"

The Community Solutions Table of the CHART project identified Soldier's Monument as a major issue and recommends the following:

1. The City of Santa Fe should leave in place the/a place-holder box around what remains of Soldier's Monument/"Obelisk";
2. The City of Santa Fe should add signage on the plaza or on the place-holder box about the process to-date and process to-come for deciding the future of the monument;
3. The City of Santa Fe should immediately begin the process of allocating resources (staff, funds) and implementing a process to:

- Reach a resolution of the two most favored options revealed by the second survey:
  – "Replace what's left of the monument with something else;" and – "Restore the monument with its original signage and add language that encourages it to be fully understood and assessed";
- Promote reconciliation as a significant part of the deliberation and decision-making process.

4. The process should engage the diverse citizenry of the city and county of Santa Fe and the four Pueblo nations located in Santa Fe County as well as the Navajo and Mescalero Apache tribes, and other Indigenous communities;

In terms of the City's failure to present to the public any local, state, and federal laws or legal limitations that will limit what can happen with Soldier's Monument, this creates a potential risk that CHART recommendations might be nullified from implementation. For this reason, the Community Solutions Table makes the following, additional recommendation:

5. The City of Santa Fe should be absolutely transparent with the general public about any local, state or federal laws and limitations, or any funding limitations, that affect the disposition of Soldier's Monument/"Obelisk."

Finally, the process and disposition of Soldier's Monument should be informed by all the sections and recommendations in this report. For example, the controversy around Soldier's Monument is inextricably bound to issues of racism/discrimination and whether residents feel a sense of belonging in the Santa Fe community (see the "Truth" section, below).

PUBLIC SPACE MATTERS

"Civic life in a just city is based on diversity, equity, and inclusion, and the recognition of all people's right to the city"
–Setha Low

Art in Santa Fe–whether monuments, memorials, or works of art–encourages us to think about public space. Setha Low, who was CHART's featured speaker for our third Cultural History Series, is a Distinguished Professor of Earth and Environmental Sciences, Anthropology, and Women's and Gender Studies at the City University of New York. Her research is focused on the anthropology of space and place. During her talk on March 20, 2022, at the Santa Fe Convention Center, she talked about plazas (including the Santa Fe Plaza) and addressed the reasons why public space matters.

We encourage readers to watch the Cultural History Series talk by Setha Low on the CHART You Tube channel [48]

Below are two slides from Low's presentation which underscore the importance of public space. When we consider these in light of the fact that residents want more public art (art in public places) and that they desire more art in all of Santa Fe's neighborhoods ("expansion of the public sphere"), the potential effects are significant–an increase in civic life with all the attendant benefits of promotion of democratic practices, including diversity, equity, and inclusion; the recognition of cultural and racial diversity, diversity, equity, and the recognition of people's "right to the city."

Why Public Space Matters

Societal and Global Level

- Symbolic center of civic life
- Forum for discussion and democratic practices
- Recognition of cultural and racial diversity
- Circulation of information
- Recognition of publics and counter-publics
- Expansion of the public sphere

Public Space & Civic Life

- Public space provides the potential for civic life by offering physical and virtual sites for people to come together in a safe forum for discussion, cooperation and at times, conflict.
- Civic life in a "just city" is based on diversity, equity and inclusion and the recognition of people's right to the city.
- Based on 30 years of public space research the PSRG has found that there are social processes, power dynamics and design and planning decisions that influence whether this happens or not.

RECONCILIATION

"How can we become good ancestors? By cultivating peace rather than lies. By teaching them the truth. It is only by not whitewashing what happened here, by making the tragedy of what happened here known, acknowledged, and reconciled, as in truth and reconciliation, that change will happen."

"We can do a better job of sharing the Rights and wrongs in society and engage our following generations to be and become a better and more inclusive society. If we don't learn from our past and share with our children we are sure to repeat many mistakes and therefore our Children will suffer for it. We must change our course and sail toward betterment."

"It has to start with a deep examination of one's own attitudes, prejudices, and a desire to change oneself first."

"'As we bear witness to the harsh reality of race and racism and begin to heal habits of harm, we will initially be more sensitive and less confident, even uncomfortable. We are learning how to be present and more honest with ourselves, learning how to talk to others without turning away. We will feel appropriately unskilled, as though we are learning a new language. And we will discover that often being present, open to learning, and kindhearted is not only the best we can do but also all that is required in the moment.'"--Ruth King from Mindful of Race: Transforming Racism from the Inside Out, Sounds True --(shared by Survey 1 Respondent)

"To break the vicious cycle in which we have trapped ourselves, we must define and agree on new rules of engagement for the commons, online and off. First, we must make new, open space: places where people of good will, operating in good faith, can speak and listen, with authenticity and vulnerability, without fear that they're using the wrong word or phrase, without self-censorship. Perhaps this is how we begin to reject the zero-sum thinking that says, 'If the other side wins on anything, my side loses on everything." –Darren Walker, These Truths We Hold–and Share

"...make amends; move toward reconciliation; honor diverse cultures and experiences, and be a holistic Santa Fe that values and pours resources into Airport Rd. as much as we value and pour resources into Canyon Rd."

"More effort needs to be made to develop neighborhood associations and use them to host cross neighborhood events. Our parks and our schools need to become places to meet our neighbors with members of City Council, Mayor and staff encouraging/hosting such events. I also think our public servants like police, firefighters, parks and recreation staff need to be better ambassadors of Santa Fe."

"We will be good ancestors if we create and implement a truth and reconciliation process that genuinely reveals truths and guides us through reconciling so we can move forward together peacefully."

"The word reconciliation is being used as a shield, like a protective armor of good intentions, when the work that is being done isn't always different from other ugly things that came before." –Andrea V. Breen, from Research & Reconciliation: Unsettling Ways of Knowing Through Indigenous Relationships

RECONCILIATION

Reconciliation is a tricky business. From the beginning of the CHART project through to the end, we heard a lot from Santa Feans about different ways to approach reconciliation. In general, those who participated in CHART expressed their love for Santa Fe and, consequently, their deep desire for reconciliation especially after a couple of years of controversy and confrontation, and particularly in regards to Soldier's Monument/"Obelisk."

At the same time, residents see reconciliation very differently–many emphasize that we are still very much in the "truth phase" which they consider distinct from and a critical prerequisite for reconciliation. Others believe "reconciliation" inherently involves truth-telling (there is no end to examining truths) and both are constantly and necessarily in a circular process. And some believe that "reconciliation" is a pacifying term used by those who want to avoid processes of reckoning with colonization, accountability, and reparations.

For several of the reasons above, readers may want to skip forward to the "TRUTH" section. Though it comes last as the fifth letter in the acronym of "CHART"–the organizing principle of this report–its complex relationship with reconciliation asks us to consider the two subjects simultaneously.

What is Reconciliation?

Daniel Bar-Tal and Gemma H. Bennink, in "The Nature of Reconciliation as an Outcome and as a Process" examine reconciliation as both process and outcome. Their definitions are helpful as concepts for clarification and action. Even though Bar-Tal and Bennink are examining relationships between countries in a state of conflict, the concepts are also illuminating when considering communities experiencing internal conflict and with more than two parties:

"Instead, we should distinguish between reconciliation and peace building. In its most fundamental sense, reconciliation concerns how two countries deal with their unhappy past; it is a process in which two former foes reach agreement on perceiving and treating their inimical history. Peace building denotes the actions to upgrade the state of peace; it is the process of reducing the probability of war between two countries significantly. Reconciliation is one of the mechanisms that lead to changes in the state of peace, yet it is not peace building itself." [49]

We are also aware of the fraught nature of the use of the term “reconciliation” when, as articulated by Andrea V. Breen in the introduction to Research and Reconciliation: Unsettling Ways of Knowing Through Indigenous Relationships:

“...some say reconciliation is about following specific recommendations of Canada’s Truth and Reconciliation Commission, while for others it's about giving back land or creating entirely new institutions and practices, and some people’s answers are still along the lines of ‘saving Indigenous people.’”[50]

Breen warns that the word “reconciliation” should not be “used as a shield, like a protective armour of good intentions” while her colleague, Shawn Wilson cautions us not to “tick the box of reconciliation in a bullshit way.” We are reminded to undertake any process of reconciliation with extreme accountability for how we understand and use the term.

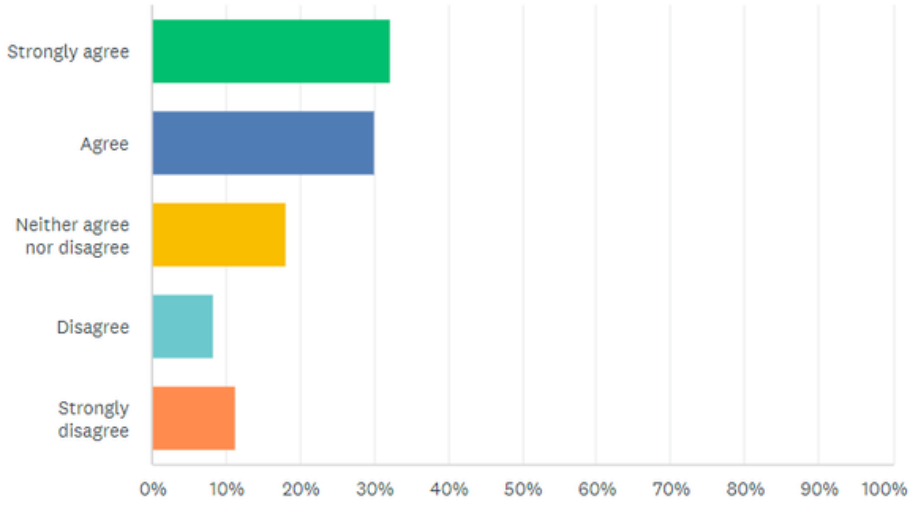

Over the course of the CHART project, Santa Feans had a lot to say about how we should deal with our “unhappy past”--including the last two years of controversy over monuments. In this, we have learned a lot about how Santa Feans think about reconciliation.

Addressing and Promoting Reconciliation

Let’s begin with whether residents believe that reconciliation is important. Q30 of Survey 2 asked residents to agree or disagree with the following statement: “A reconciliation process (confronting the past in order to create a healthier future) needs to be a priority for the City of Santa Fe:

A reconciliation process (confronting the past in order to create a healthier future) needs to be a priority for the City of Santa Fe.

| Agree | 30.10% |
| Neither agree nor disagree | 18.06% |
| Disagree | 8.36% |
| Strongly disagree | 11.20% |

Results show that ” 62.37% of respondents strongly agree or agree with the statement, a clear majority.

When we asked residents whether they agree that “Currently, there are many programs in Santa Fe that address truth, healing and reconciliation,” over 50% disagree or strongly disagree and almost 42% can neither agree nor disagree.

Currently, there are many programs in Santa Fe that address truth, healing and reconciliation:

| Neither agree nor disagree | 41.64% |
| Disagree | 36.29% |
| Strongly disagree | 14.88% |
| TOTAL | 598 |

Altogether, 92% of respondents either disagree or cannot agree nor disagree that there are many ways to engage with a truth, healing, and reconciliation process in Santa Fe.

Because we are aware that truth, healing, and reconciliation efforts do exist in Santa Fe (whether survey respondents are aware of them or not), we added a follow-up question asking for information that might be valuable in terms of next steps. Q33 of Survey 2 asked: "Which programs addressing truth, healing, and reconciliation are you familiar with?" Responses (below) enable us to compile a list of existing efforts and potential resources and sources of information that might be helpful to both the City of Santa Fe and the community.

We are also aware that programs and initiatives currently in-progress may be unknown to survey respondents and so do not appear in the list below.

Responses to Q33 (by mentions):

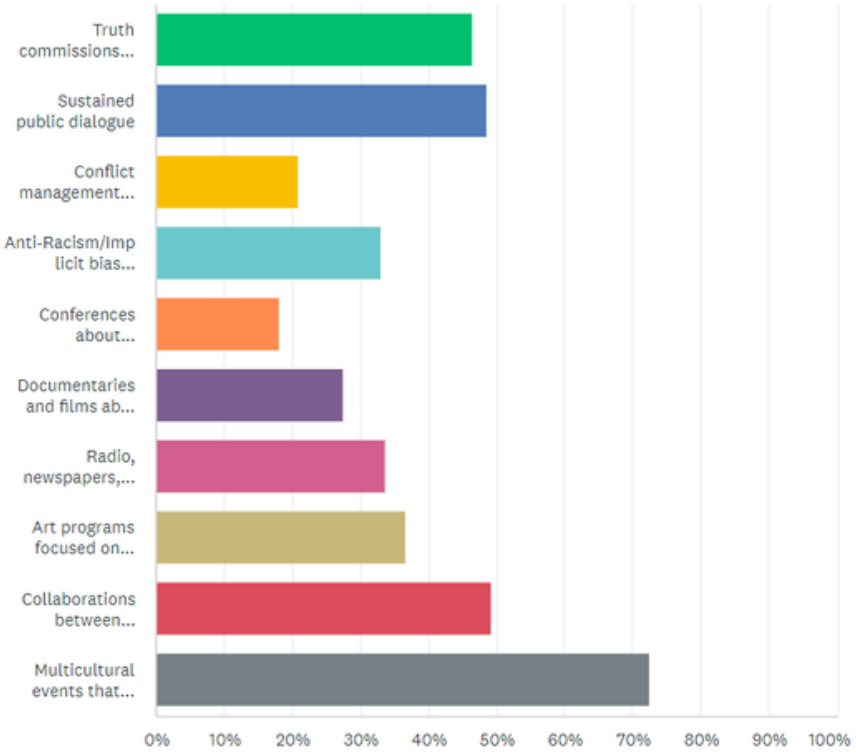

Singular mentions: Alas de Agua; All Pueblo Council of Governors; Alliance of Santa Fe; "All traditional Santa Fe celebrations;" "Archdiocese of Santa Fe with the Pueblos;" City of Santa Fe Public Art, Colleges/Universities; "Daily Indian Market under the PORTAL;" Government agencies events and programs; Internet; Institute for American Indian Arts (IAIA); Littleglobe; Midtown Project; NAACP; NM History Museum Offerings; NM League of Women Voters; "Programs of Santa Fe Indigenous Peoples Center;" Restorative Justice programs "run by the DA;" ReUnity Resources Farm; Santa Fe Indian Center workshops; Santa Fe Rodeo; Somos Un Pueblo Unido; "St. John's thing about 25 years ago;" Teatro Paraguas; Tewa Women United; Three Sisters Collective; Tulsa; United World College Programs; "Yearly Markets on the Plaza;" Youthworks.

CHART also learned a lot, over the course of the project, about how reconciliation should or could happen, according to participants. Many of these responses can be found in Appendix F. Based on this data and public dialogue we created Q31 in the second survey, in order to quantify a range of options:

Which of the following activities would promote reconciliation (confronting the past in order to create a healthier future) in Santa Fe? (Check all that apply):

Answered: 598 Skipped: 41

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES | |
|---|---|---|
| Truth commissions (acknowledging the truths of the past) | 46.49% | 278 |
| Sustained public dialogue | 48.66% | 291 |
| Conflict management workshops | 20.90% | 125 |
| Anti-Racism/Implicit bias trainings | 33.11% | 198 |
| Conferences about reconciliation | 18.06% | 108 |
| Documentaries and films about reconciliation | 27.59% | 165 |
| Radio, newspapers, television and other media about reconciliation | 33.61% | 201 |
| Art programs focused on reconciliation | 36.62% | 219 |
| Collaborations between government and tribal agencies | 49.33% | 295 |
| Multicultural events that encourage mutual understanding | 72.41% | 433 |

It's clear that survey respondents favor a range of initiatives that they believe will aid the community in undertaking the complex process of reconciliation. By far, the most popular option is (72.41%) "multicultural events that encourage mutual understanding" which is also discussed, above, in the “Culture” section of this report. Again and again, CHART heard about the necessity of multicultural celebrations, festivals, activities and events that defy the tricultural myth and promote interaction, education, and understanding.

Other popular and important options favored by survey respondents are collaborations between government and tribal agencies (49.33%); sustained public dialogue (48.66%), and truth commissions (46.49%). Taken together, the responses to this question provide a roadmap for a robust reconciliation process.

Though all the options in Q31 could be considered forms of education, the results of Survey 1 and input by residents during the dialogue phase emphatically emphasize education in the form of learning and understanding the complex and unvarnished history of Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe. Participants stressed that this education is crucial not only for K-12 students but for every adult living in the city and county. Many also emphasized that this complex and unvarnished history should also permeate information provided to tourists and visitors so that they, too, can learn and understand.

Read more about what CHART participants had to say about the past in the “History” section.

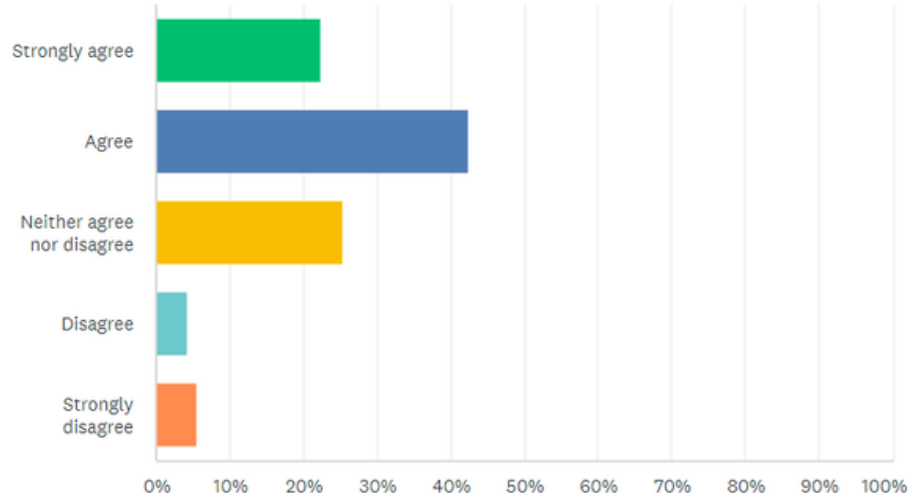

The good news is that Santa Feans have a deep desire for a process of truth, healing and reconciliation and for their participation in it (see results of Q35, below). Most of those who participated in the CHART process expressed this desire with a commitment to addressing the controversies and conflicts sparked by what happened to Soldiers Monument/”Obelisk.” Most are deeply troubled by the fissures (old and new) that have come to the forefront and the angry public rhetoric while acknowledging that the difficult truths that must be confronted. And though a few participants expressed that reconciliation is “hogwash” or “a waste of time,” this was not the view held by a clear majority of those who took part. Sixty-five percent (65%) of respondents are committed to the process.

Q35

I am committed to participating in a truth, healing, and reconciliation process in Santa Fe.

Answered: 598 Skipped: 41

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Strongly agree | 22.41% |
| Agree | 42.47% |
| Neither agree nor disagree | 25.42% |
| Disagree | 4.18% |
| Strongly disagree | 5.52% |
| TOTAL | |

Based on these results, we can safely state that Santa Fe is a community that is ready and willing to undertake this kind of work.

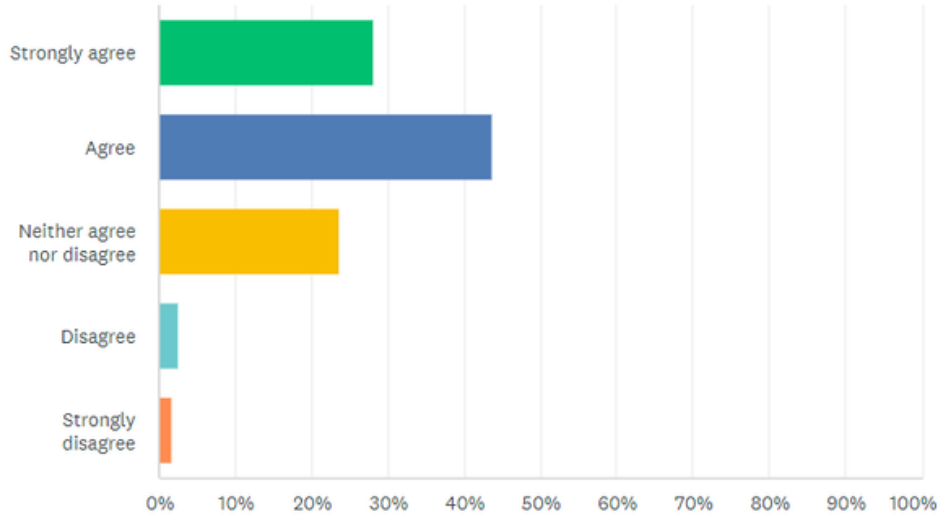

When we correlate the responses to Q35 with those from Q24 (“I would like to expand my circle of friends to include people from different racial, ethnic, religious and other backgrounds”) the results are enlightening.

If we agree that cultivating relationships (whether through public dialogue, collaborations, and multicultural events) is part of a truth, healing, and reconciliation process, survey results tell us that CHART participants want to know their multicultural community on a deeper level:

Q24

I would like to expand my circle of friends to include people from different racial, ethnic, religious and other backgrounds:

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |

| Neither agree nor disagree | 23.75% |
| Disagree | 2.66% |
| Strongly disagree | 1.66% |
| TOTAL | 602 |

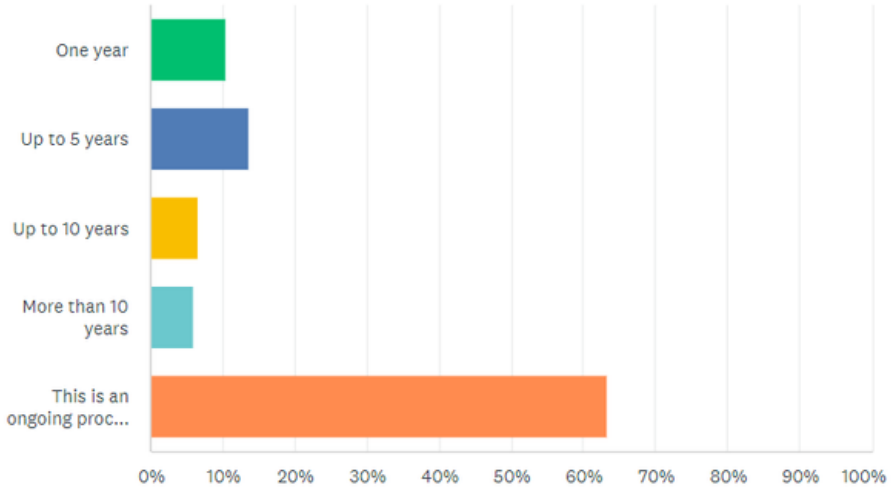

Seventy-two percent (72%) of survey respondents agree or strongly agree with this statement. Most want to befriend fellow residents who are different from themselves.

Santa Feans are also keenly aware that the process of truth, healing, and reconciliation is not a simple or short-lived undertaking. What we heard over months of public engagement is reflected in the results of Q34:

Q34

In my opinion, a truth, healing and reconciliation process in Santa Fe would take this long:

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| One year | 10.54% |
| Up to 5 years | 13.55% |
| Up to 10 years | 6.52% |
| More than 10 years | 6.02% |
| This is an ongoing process that should continue indefinitely | 63.38% |
| TOTAL | 598 |

A full 63.38% of those answering this question agree that the process should continue indefinitely.

Respect

Finally, we'd like to emphasize one aspect of a truth, healing and reconciliation process that was mentioned over and over again during the CHART project: respect. In responses to Survey 1, for example, respect came up continually as something much needed and often missing in public dialogue: respect in how we communicate with each other, respect for other cultures and cultural differences, respect for Santa Fe's history – good and bad– respect as a form of equity, respect for the old and the new, respect for the established Santa Fean and the newcomer.

Survey 1 respondents suggested: "Talk to each other with respect;" "We need to have respect for the culture and the individual;" "There must be ground rules for communication based on mutual respect and the incorporation of cultural humility practices when more advantaged groups are in power;" "Read the history of Santa Fe, respect the history of Santa Fe;" "We do not need to change history...only understand and respect the history…all of it;" "Put more $ and respect into other areas and roads in town. Not just Gonzalez Road. And the East Side;" "Respect the communities that have existed for over 400 years;" and "Newcomers need to show respect for traditions and some old school folks need to appreciate the investment that generations of migrants bring."

Respect, for some, starts with respecting the earth and letting this be a model for how we behave with each other, with all our individual and cultural differences. Others emphasize that without respect reconciliation is simply not possible.

From the results discussed above it's clear that Santa Feans are not only committed to the process of truth, healing, and reconciliation and aware that it is an indefinite undertaking, but want the City of Santa Fe to make it a priority. For this reason, we make the following recommendations.

[49] Bar-Tal, Daniel, and Gemma H. Bennink. 2004, from "The nature of reconciliation as an outcome and as a process," in From conflict resolution to reconciliation, ed. Yaakov Bar-Siman-Tov, pp. 11–38. Oxford: Oxford University Press.

RECOMMENDATIONS: RECONCILIATION

The City of Santa Fe should immediately begin the process of funding, creating, and implementing a continuing process of truth, healing, and reconciliation by taking the following actions:

1. Research and identify innovative and effective approaches to truth, healing, and reconciliation around the U.S. and internationally, especially approaches taken by governments/municipalities in the area of reparations (mentioned by Survey 1 respondents) and laws/ordinances (discussed by the Community Solutions Table. For example, U.S. Senate Bill 2400 [51] regarding derogatory place names);
2. Because of the particular history of Oga Po'gay and our Indigenous communities, the City should pay particular attention to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada (TRC) [52] which emphasized deepening Canadians' understanding of the history of Indigenous Peoples, historical trauma, and awareness of Indigenous cultures and knowledge systems. Its findings include the following:

"Reconciliation is a process of healing of relationships that requires public truth sharing, apology, and commemoration that acknowledge and redress past harms… Reconciliation requires constructive action on addressing the ongoing legacies of colonialism that have had destructive impacts on Aboriginal peoples' education, cultures and languages, health, child welfare, the administration of justice, and economic opportunities and prosperity." [54]

3. Identify innovative and effective local and regional truth, healing, and reconciliation initiatives and their processes;
4. Consult and collaborate with other municipalities and local organizations and initiatives doing the work of truth, healing and reconciliation as well as Santa Fe-based organizations willing to participate in a city initiative;
5. Consult and collaborate with the four Pueblo nations located in Santa Fe county and other indigenous people and organizations about how to undertake the process of truth, healing, and reconciliation;
6. Design and implement a truth, healing, and reconciliation process based on best practices gleaned from 1-5 above; and
7. Include in the above process the most favored means of addressing truth, healing, and reconciliation identified in the results of Q31 in Survey 2.

TRUTH

TRUTH

It is fitting that “Truth” serves as the concluding section of this final report. Though it may appear last in the acronym of CHART and last in this document, we understand the entire as a cycle–truth, culture, history, art, reconciliation all-at-once circular, sequential, spiral. All are important, dynamic, mutually interdependent, and all came up in relation to each other throughout the duration of the project.

As discussed above (in “Reconciliation”), CHART participants are largely committed to a process of truth, healing, and reconciliation while recognizing that it is difficult and must be ongoing and indefinite. They favor a range of approaches to this process with a particular emphasis on respect, educating ourselves about history, multicultural events promoting mutual understanding, collaboration between tribal and governmental agencies, sustained public dialogues, and truth commissions. They acknowledge that “historical truth” (addressed in the History section) is complicated and that children, youth, adults and elders must grapple with complexity and nuance, with multiple perspectives on the truth, no matter how difficult. They affirm that doing this requires the tenacity to stay with difficult conversations about the past, the humility to confront the actions of our ancestors, the courage to accept responsibility for our actions in the present, and the resilience to keep going for the betterment of our community.

At the same time, CHART participants caution that the community is still deeply embedded in the “truth-telling” part of this process and that we need to face the realities that are preventing all Santa Feans from thriving. Some of these truths are harsh–painful to acknowledge and urgent to address.

Racism

For the most part, CHART public dialogue sessions, interviews, conversations, and meetings drew residents who care about Santa Fe and are deeply concerned about the community. They were intent on engaging in civil and meaningful dialogue–despite different opinions and passionate views. And, overall, the dialogue was civil. Even so, over the course of the project, the CHART team documented, witnessed, and/or experienced racist language and attitudes that were deeply disturbing and made participants as well as members of the CHART team feel unsafe. They also reveal an ugly truth about Santa Fe.

"What is your music? It has the word 'black' in it. Turn it off. It's Black aggression."

"I was pregnant with my youngest, in the hospital, and my husband turned the TV to a Spanish station. The other woman in my room was furious and yelled at us to turn it off--'F*%&$# Mexicans!'"

"All of you, White people, have ruined this town. Go back to where you came from."

"You think it's okay to replace the obelisk? Then you're a traitor to your Hispanic culture."

"Oga Po'gay is bullshit. No one cares. The place, history, and culture is called The Royal City of Saint Francis of Assisi. Everything else is from the devil."

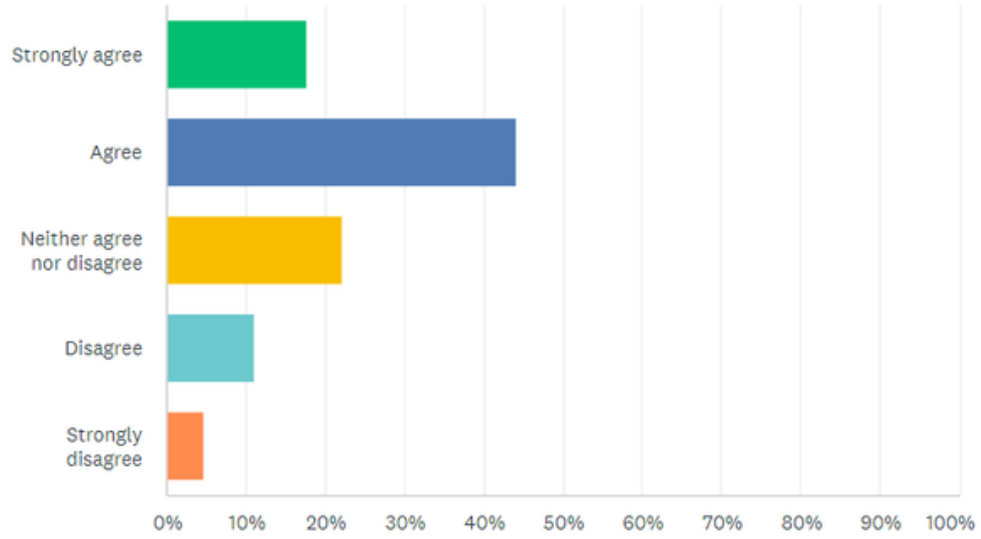

Notably, most of those who made comments like these did so with the “anonymity” of sharing them in response to surveys or as protesters (rather than participants) at CHART events. Most did not show up to participate in the process of engaging with their fellow residents whether for reasons of truth-telling or encouraging understanding. But if we want to dismiss these comments as merely anecdotal or extreme, results from Survey 2 tell us otherwise.

Q26 in the second CHART survey asked respondents to agree or disagree with the following statement: ”We have a problem with racism/discrimination in Santa Fe.” These are the results:

Q26

We have a problem with racism/discrimination in Santa Fe.

Answered: 602 Skipped: 37

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Strongly agree | 17.77% |
| Agree | 44.19% |
| Neither agree nor disagree | 22.26% |
| Disagree | 11.13% |
| Strongly disagree | 4.65% |
| TOTAL | |

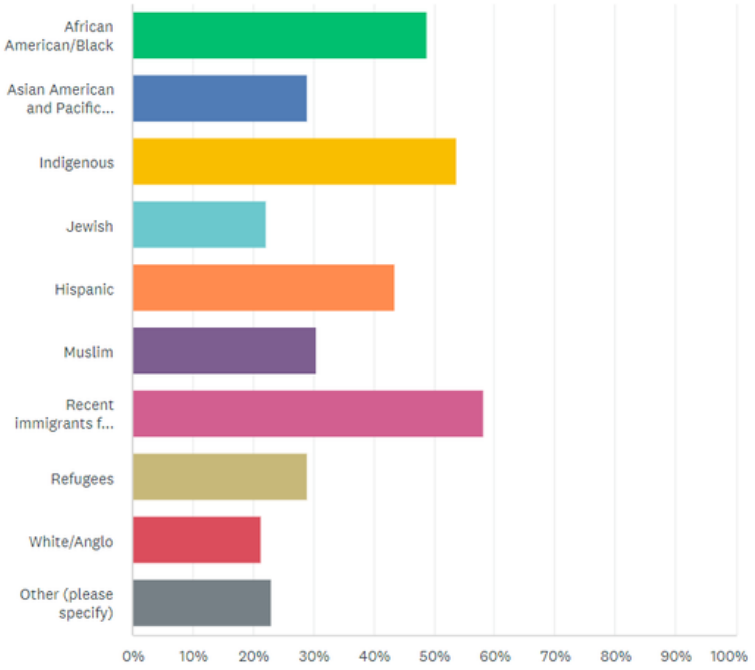

Sixty-two percent (62%) of respondents–a clear majority–agreed or strongly agreed with the statement with only 16% disagreeing.

A follow-up question (Q27), “Which groups of people are negatively affected by racism/discrimination in Santa Fe?”) produced the following results:

Q27

Which groups of people are negatively affected by racism/discrimination in Santa Fe? (Check all that apply)

Answered: 602 Skipped: 37

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| African American/Black | 48.84% |
| Asian American and Pacific Islander | 28.90% |
| Indigenous | 53.65% |
| Jewish | 22.09% |
| Hispanic | 43.52% |
| Muslim | 30.40% |
| Recent immigrants from Mexico and Central America | 58.14% |
| Refugees | 28.90% |
| White/Anglo | 21.43% |
| Other (please specify) | 23.09% |
| Total Respondents: 602 | |

Question 27 allowed for multiple answers and embraced whether the respondent feels that she/he/they is affected as well as whether she/he/they believes others are affected. It thus provides a snapshot of whether the community, in general, feels and/or sees racism/discrimination.

One important note: CHART acknowledges that answer options for Q29 do not include all the populations in Santa Fe that might experience racism/discrimination (e.g. LGBTQIA+, religions in addition to Judaism and Islam). We included those that were mentioned most frequently during public dialogues and other CHART activities.

The same question, when filtered by respondents' self-identified ethnicity/race, confirms that a majority of respondents (except the 8% who identify as "a race/ethnicity not listed here) agree that Santa Fe has a problem:

Agree or Strongly Agree: "We have a problem with racism/discrimination in Santa Fe."

| | % |
|---|---|
| Asian American or Pacific Islander | 67 |
| Black or African American | 67 |
| Hispanic or Latino | 64 |
| Native American or Alaskan Native | 64 |
| White or Caucasian | 65 |
| Multiracial or Biracial | 54 |
| A race/ethnicity not listed here | 34 |

At the same time Q27, when filtered by ethnicity/race, reveals how residents perceive the effects of racism/discrimination on themselves and those who self-identify as they do.

Agree or Strongly Agree: "Which groups of people are negatively affected by racism/discrimination in Santa Fe."

|---|---|
| Asian American or Pacific Islander choosing "Asian American and Pacific Islander" as being negatively affected | 75 |
| Black or African American choosing "Black or African American" as being negatively affected | 67 |
| Hispanic or Latino choosing "Hispanic or Latino" as being negatively affected | 62 |
| Native American or Alaskan Native choosing "Native American or Alaskan Native" as being negatively affected | 75 |
| White or Caucasian choosing "White or Caucasian" as being negatively affected | 26 |

The “Other” response in Q27 (which groups are negatively affected by racism/discrimination) allowed survey respondents to submit up to 50 words of text. It yielded words and phrases reflected in the following word cloud:

Those who submitted text for this response largely believe that everyone in Santa Fe is negatively affected by racism/discrimination.

The CHART team, both at the beginning of the project (cognizant of racist epithets in the news media, at public meetings, and online as a result of the controversy over Soldiers Monument/”Obelisk”) and along the way, put in place various practices and mechanisms to encourage safe spaces and safety for CHART participants–security guards at events, guidelines for dialogue (see Appendix J), opportunities for residents to share their opinions and perspectives outside of public dialogues, etc. Participants were also promised that any notes from dialogues that might be shared publicly would not include their names.The identities of the members of the Community Solutions Table–a diverse subgroup of CHART participants who studied and reviewed hundreds of pages of data collected by the project in order to form recommendations for this report–are also being protected by Artful Life from public scrutiny and potential harassment.

The need for these safeguards is another indication that Santa Feans feel unsafe–even during a process that encourages truth, healing, and reconciliation.

Over the course of the project, residents not only acknowledged the existence of racism in Santa Fe, but many also expressed a desire to address it. CHART provided implicit bias training (a requirement of our contract) to city department and division directors and to the Governing Body [53] in the spring of 2022. Twenty division/department directors attended two sessions led by the University of New Mexico's Dr. Finnie Coleman (Co-Founder of the Dellsly Group). Evaluation forms, returned after the sessions, revealed that 85% would like to attend additional trainings, 69% believe that these kinds of trainings would benefit their employees, and 92% believe the trainings expanded their understanding of implicit bias.

One director commented: "There seems to never be a good time (during working hours) to go deep on a subject that affects us all, but [this was] a good presentation/format of terms to know, obstacles to watch out for and exercises that kept us engaged. The Moderator stated our takeaways are perishable, so I am wondering if we should revisit this in the new year."

Thus, there is a willingness on the part of city staff leadership to address implicit bias/racism. This willingness was also expressed by many CHART participants who not only identified racism as a real problem but stated a desire to reckon with it.

Data collected during the project makes it clear that Santa Fe, like so many other cities, counties, and communities not only in the U.S. but elsewhere in the world, has critical work to do when it comes to racism.

> "The United States is in a profound moment of public reckoning with its history of racial injustice. In the time since George Floyd's murder, national and local initiatives seeking truth, redress, and reform (TRR) for historical racial injustices have multiplied across the country. These efforts include national proposals for a truth, racial healing, and transformation commission and a reparations commission, as well as dozens of subnational initiatives on reparations, truth, and reform. Diverse in form, these efforts are united in their goal of seeking remedies for state-sanctioned racial violence and discrimination." [54]

Because of the above results, we make the following recommendation:

[53] Offered to all Governing Body members, 4 of 9 attended the training specifically designed for elected officials (offered by UNM's Sonia Gipson Rankin, Associate Professor of Law) and 1 of 4 returned an evaluation form

RECOMMENDATION: RACISM

The Community Solutions Table of the CHART project identified racism in Santa Fe as a critical issue and recommends the following:

1. The City of Santa Fe should fund, create, and staff an office/department specifically dedicated to dismantling systemic barriers to racial, gender, health, socio-economic and other forms of equality.

In other municipalities, such offices/departments have different names–" Department of Equity and Inclusion" (Albuquerque), "Office of Diversity and Equity" (Sacramento), "Social Equity and Innovation" (Denver), "Equal Opportunity" (Tucson). Interestingly, in the mission statements of these departments, the word "racism" seldom appears and there is a preference for the euphemisms, above. Consequently:

2. The City of Santa Fe should honestly address racism/discrimination in the mission/purpose statement of this new office/department to courageously acknowledge that Santa Fe has a problem.

CHART recognizes that various City of Santa Fe departments, divisions, and initiatives acknowledge issues of inequity and discrimination. These do not, however, negate the need for an updated General Plan in which the city makes a dedicated commitment to addressing racism/discrimination as one of the cornerstones of its approach to municipal governance. Consequently:

3. In addition to current city initiatives that highlight racism/discrimination as a challenge to address and resolve, the City of Santa Fe should fund, create, and implement an updated General Plan (last completed in 1999) that identifies racism/discrimination as a continuing challenge for the city and outlines steps to mitigate its effects.

A resolution to prepare an updated General Plan was proposed by Councilor Lindell on August 25, 2015, with the following wording:

- “City Staff is hereby directed to prepare an updated General Plan, that focuses on land use and urban design issues while also addressing transportation, affordable housing and other pertinent issues, consistent with the community's goals in moving toward the future while respecting Santa Fe's great history; and
- Staff shall obtain public input via meetings tor the purpose of reviewing and soliciting input on the updated General Plan, especially goals for the future, in a geographically balanced way, which could include input mechanisms that would be representative of the city as a whole through a statistically significant sample, rather than relying only those who attend meetings; and
- An updated General Plan that reflects community-wide goals and sentiment and desire for Santa Fe's future then be brought forth for recommendation by the Planning Commission and adoption by the Governing Body.”

CHART wrote to Councilor Lindell on July 14 and 29, 2022 about the status of this proposed resolution as we could not locate any discussion or action in the minutes of any subsequent city meeting. Councilor Lindell responded that “it was clear to all we did not have the resources or personnel to complete a new general plan.”[55]

In addition to the above recommendations from the Community Solutions Table, CHART recommends:

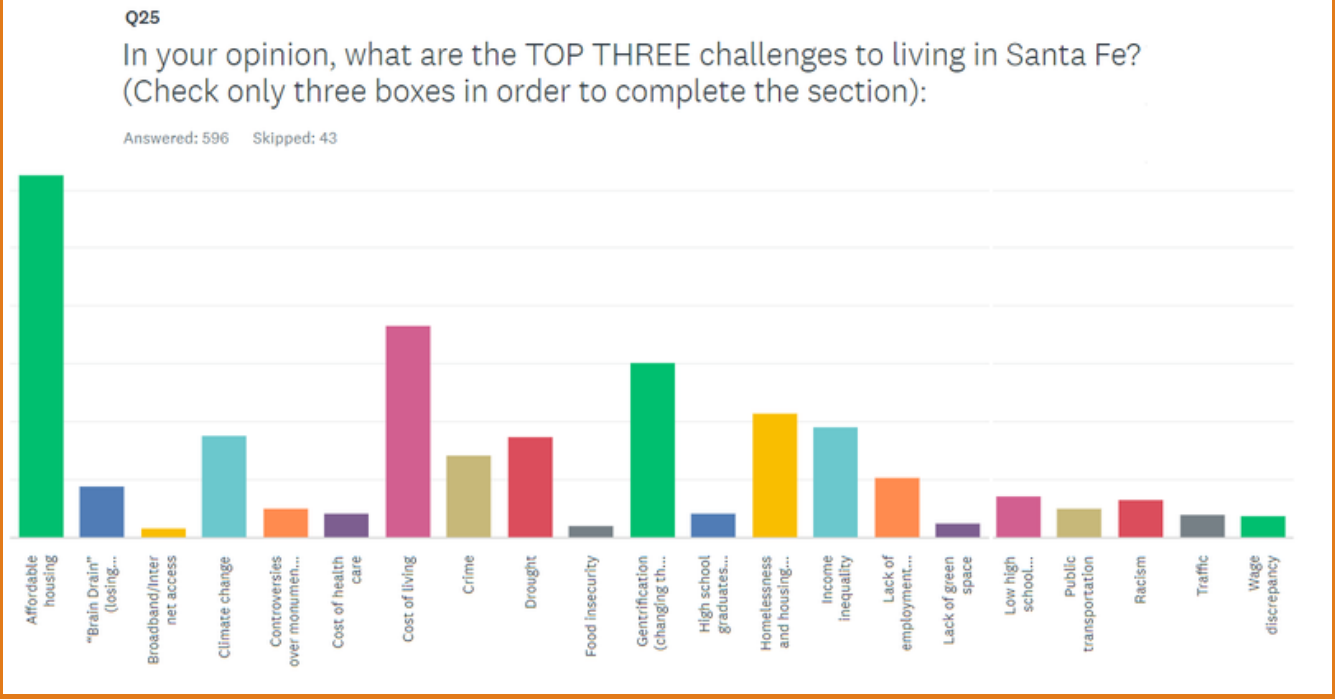

4. In response to feedback data from implicit bias trainings provided to City of Santa Fe Division/Department directors by CHART, these kinds of in-person trainings (i.e., implicit bias, anti-racism, etc.) should be standard practice and provided on a periodic and sustained basis for city leadership and staff, including the Governing Body. Every encouragement should be made for attendance at these trainings based on the results presented in this report.

Equity and Quality of Life

Over the course of the project, The CHART team also consistently heard about serious challenges that the community of Santa Fe is facing in terms of equity/inequity and quality of life issues. Because of this, equity/inequity was the focus of public dialogue sessions held in February. Those who participated repeatedly addressed discrepancies between the "haves" and the "have nots" and identified these as a serious problem. Many participants also linked inequity to race and ethnicity and believe that addressing quality of life issues will enable the community of Santa Fe to work toward racial healing.

As a result of what we read and heard, we included a question in Survey 2 in order to quantify which issues are most important for residents of Santa Fe. Q25 asked: "What are the TOP THREE challenges to living in Santa Fe?" The results are consistent with what we heard over many months of public engagement.

A breakdown with percentages is as follows:

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Affordable housing | 62.75% |
| “Brain Drain” (losing valuable residents to out-of-state jobs) | 9.06% |
| Broadband/Internet access | 1.68% |
| Climate change | 17.62% |
| Controversies over monuments and statues | 5.03% |
| Cost of health care | 4.36% |
| Cost of living | 36.74% |
| Crime | 14.26% |
| Drought | 17.45% |
| Food insecurity | 2.18% |
| Gentrification (changing the character of a neighborhood through the influx of wealthier residents and businesses) | 30.37% |
| High school graduates leaving the city/state | 4.19% |
| Homelessness and housing instability | 21.48% |
| Income inequality | 19.30% |
| Lack of employment opportunities | 10.40% |
| Lack of green space | 2.52% |
| Low high school graduation rates | 7.21% |
| Public transportation | 5.20% |
| Racism | 6.71% |
| Traffic | 4.03% |
| Wage discrepancy | 3.86% |
| Total Respondents: 596 | |

A majority of respondents (62.75%) checked “Affordable Housing” as a top challenge followed by “Cost of Living” (36.74%) and “Gentrification” (30.37%). And all three were discussed, during the public engagement phase of the project, in the context of inequity. Participants agreed, overall, that Santa Fe cannot be an equitable community, a thriving community, until we make significant progress on these issues.

"Be sensitive to economic and market forces that are pushing out the presence of older, traditional communities and structures and counter them with incentives and policies that allow them to survive and thrive." –Survey 1 Respondent

"It may not be our fault for the injustices of the past racial discrimination in housing, medical care, or economic opportunity, but we must face the fact that those policies have left a scar upon us, and many of us enjoy privileges due in part to the happenings of the past. If we are to be brave, we must have the courage to encounter these realities and tackle them before we can even talk about growth." –Survey 1 Respondent

"We want to be so focused on pointing out the differences among one another that we forgo creating unity. WE overlook the HUGE socio-economic divide in our city so that we can figure out who has the correct color of brown skin."
–Survey 1 Respondent

CHART acknowledges that the City of Santa Fe is aware of the top challenges raised in CHART's second survey and there are several, current city initiatives that are designed to address them, including:

- Office of Affordable Housing: Affordable Housing | City of Santa Fe, New Mexico (santafenm.gov)
- September 11, 2019 City of Santa Fe Climate Resolution : A9R1j23lfi_109nkb6_5es.tmp.pdf (santafenm.gov)
- Gentrification: All-In Cities Anti-Displacement Network: allincities.org
- Living Wage Information: Living wage information | City of Santa Fe, New Mexico (santafenm.gov)

- Homelessness and Housing Instability - Built for Zero Coalition: $100 Million to City Partner Housing Organization | City of Santa Fe, New Mexico (santafenm.gov)
- City of Santa Fe Resolution 2015-65/July 29, 2015:"Directing staff to seek solution to Santa Fe's housing affordability crisis specifically as it relates to gentrification, inequity, and the widening gap between rich and poor in Santa Fe; providing a framework for housing and urban planning policy:" 2015 Resolutions | City of Santa Fe, New Mexico (santafenm.gov)

Still, it's clear from what we heard from residents that progress on the above issues seems slow or stalled and the consequent damage to our sense of community, belonging, and racial justice continues to be felt on a daily basis.

"Equitable communities are places of opportunity where all children and families can develop, grow and contribute–where people realize that community well-being depends on the participation of every person.

Making communities more equitable requires all of us to confront how racism and bias affects our history and present-day experiences, to heal from the resulting fractures to our relationships, and to begin reshaping the systems that hold back so many among us."[56]

RECOMMENDATION: INEQUITY

The Community Solutions Table of the CHART project identified inequity in Santa Fe as a major issue and recommends the following:

1. In addition to current city initiatives that highlight equity/inequity as a challenge to address and resolve (e.g. Sustainable Santa Fe 25 Year Plan, Land Use and Urban Design Study, Culture Connects, Resolution 2015-65), the City of Santa Fe should fund, create, and implement an updated General Plan (last completed in 1999) that identifies inequity as a continuing challenge for the city, addresses issues of inequity in all city departments and divisions, and outlines steps to mitigate its effects.

A resolution to prepare an updated General Plan was proposed by Councilor Lindell on August 25, 2015 with the following wording:

- "City Staff is hereby directed to prepare an updated General Plan, that focuses on land use and urban design issues while also addressing transportation, affordable housing and other pertinent issues, consistent with the community's goals in moving toward the future while respecting Santa Fe's great history; and
- Staff shall obtain public input via meetings tor the purpose of reviewing and soliciting input on the updated General Plan, especially goals for the future, in a geographically balanced way, which could include input mechanisms that would be representative of the city as a whole through a statistically significant sample, rather than relying only those who attend meetings; and
- An updated General Plan that reflects community-wide goals and sentiment and desire for Santa Fe's future then be brought forth for recommendation by the Planning Commission and adoption by the Governing Body."

CHART wrote to Councilor Lindell on July 14 and 29, 2022 about the status of this proposed resolution as we were not able to locate any discussion or action in the minutes of any subsequent city meeting. Councilor Lindell responded with "it was clear to all we did not have the resources or personnel to complete a new general plan." [57]

Belonging

Issues of belonging are inherently related to the realities of racism, discrimination, and inequity in any community. Belonging, or the lack of it, came up frequently in responses to Survey 1, so much so that public dialogue sessions in March were devoted to discussion of it.

During the CHART project, some participants referred to belonging by using words and phrases that evoke its opposite: “excluded,” “marginalized,” “us” and “them.” By far, the word “outsiders” was the most frequent and used the most passionately, or it was referred to as significant in stoking divisions between residents. Here are some examples of what we read and heard:

“...do not listen to outsiders who have no idea of local history.”

“Unfortunately you are going to have outsiders who are chosen to moderate and facilitate during CHART and these people will not have any understanding of the History of Santa Fe.”

“...many of the events that have occurred within the city have been brought forward by ‘outsiders’- Anglo and Native American populations from outside of the state.”

“Bring local businesses Back to plaza, cap rents so outsiders with $ who don't care about our city and history make the rent so high”

“Seems as though once outsiders move in they want to change this culture and make it one of guilt and reconciliation.”

“It seems that outsiders move here because they love it. Then once here proceed to make changes here to try and make our city like the one they left???”

“There needs to be a reckoning in the so-called ‘from here’ Hispanos, who see all people whose ancestors haven't been here for hundreds of years as outsiders who should leave. It's really a disgusting and backwards form of discrimination that is widely acceptable in this city and it's gross”

”It would probably be best to bring long-time locals to these sessions, because they understand the city’s attitudes and history. That will be pretty hard when outsiders come in and think and act like they are privileged and better than locals.”

“...there are certain outsiders, extremists groups, and people who don't understand or ‘get it’ and who want to change things for their personal agenda, and that has created division, are the ones who come in like bulls in a china shop who have created this divisiveness.”

“Our Pueblo Brothers and Sisters do not have any ill will towards the Spanish as the Spanish have no ill will towards the Pueblos. It's a few radical outsiders who have the ear of the Mayor and councilors that have created this unfortunate time in our city.”

What is troubling about this kind of language, according to CHART participants, is that it often communicates that certain residents “own” the community and others do not, that certain residents belong to the community and others do not, that certain residents deserve to make decisions for the community and others do not.

During the project, we also heard some participants refer to “other” groups of people as a monolithic “they.” “They do this…;” “They think this,” “All of them are…” suggesting that all people of a particular group, race, or ethnicity (e.g., transplants,”Anglos,” Native Americans," “Hispanos,” “locals,” Pueblo Brothers and Sisters” and even “radicals”) are the same–think and act and live in the same way and come from the same history and background.

Some Indigenous participants emphasized differences in the histories, cultures, languages, traditions and perspectives of different sovereign tribes; some Hispanic participants noted the diversity of “Hispano” backgrounds and perspectives; some White/Anglo participants described many generations of their families in Santa Fe. In the “Culture” and “History” sections of this report, we discuss the complexity of the Santa Fe community in more depth.

At the same time, CHART participants recognized that there ARE disparities that are generally distinguishable by race and ethnicity (wealth, health, housing, etc.) and that the legacies of slavery, colonization, and other forms of oppression affect ethnic and racial populations differently.

Because these truths–as well as a range of others–exist simultaneously, CHART participants continually expressed the need for residents to hold multiple truths at once, to embrace complexity, and to avoid referring to people of a particular ethnicity and/or race as having the same opinions, perspectives, and histories. Many also stressed that everyone who lives in a community is part of the community; no one has more rights, or fewer, than another.

As a result of what we heard about inclusion and exclusion, CHART wanted to get a qualitative sense of how Santa Feans feel about belonging and so included a question about it in Survey 2. Q23 asked residents to respond to the following statement: “Overall, I feel a strong sense of BELONGING in Santa Fe – I am accepted for who I am and the community cares about my well-being.” The results are below:

Q23

Overall, I feel a strong sense of BELONGING in Santa Fe – I am accepted for who I am and the community cares about my well-being.

Answered: 602 Skipped: 37

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Strongly agree | 14.62% |
| Agree | 35.22% |
| Neither agree nor disagree | 21.93% |
| Disagree | 20.60% |
| Strongly disagree | 7.64% |
| TOTAL | |

While 49.84% of survey respondents agreed or strongly agreed with the statement, 21.93% could neither agree nor disagree and 28.24% of our fellow residents do not feel a sense of belonging. Thus, a total of 50% or HALF of the community represented in the survey disagree or cannot agree or disagree that the community cares about them or their well-being–a statistic that demands the focused attention of both the City of Santa Fe and its community.

Why is belonging important?
In his groundbreaking book Bowling Alone [58] Robert Putnam demonstrates that Americans have become increasingly disconnected from family, friends, neighbors, and our democratic structures. Putnam warns that our stock of social capital – the very fabric of our connections with each other–has plummeted, impoverishing our lives and communities. Putnam found (based on a large body of data [59]) that health and safety, educational achievement, local economic strength, and other measures of well-being were dependent on the levels of social capital in a community.

Since 2000, the year Bowling Alone was published, the U.S. has undergone additional social, political, economic, medical and other upheavals (particularly in the past two years) that have only served to increase our sense of disconnectedness and isolation from each other. [60]

A sense of belonging is important as a measure of Santa Fe's social capital. Whether residents feel acceptance, safety, and care depends on the quality of our relationships not only with family, friends, and loved ones, but strangers. Cultivating a sense of belonging for all residents must be a priority for the City of Santa Fe (as well as all Santa Feans) not only to promote safety, educational achievement, a strong economy and other measures of well-being, but also because it encourages interconnectedness and the resilience necessary for residents to acknowledge and confront difficult issues that we face now and others we will confront in the future.

"What is needed is an exploration of the exact way authentic community occurs. How is it transformed? What fundamental shifts are involved?....the essence is to take a step forward in our thinking and design about the way that people in communities come together to produce something new for themselves. By thinking in terms of the structure of belonging, we begin to build the capacity to transform our communities into ones that work for all?" [61]

Because all Santa Feans need and deserve to enjoy a sense of belonging, we recommend the following:

RECOMMENDATION: BELONGING

In addition to implementing the recommendations for multicultural events ("Culture" section), truth healing and reconciliation ("Reconciliation" section) and the recommendations addressing racism/discrimination and inequity (this section, above), we recommend the following:

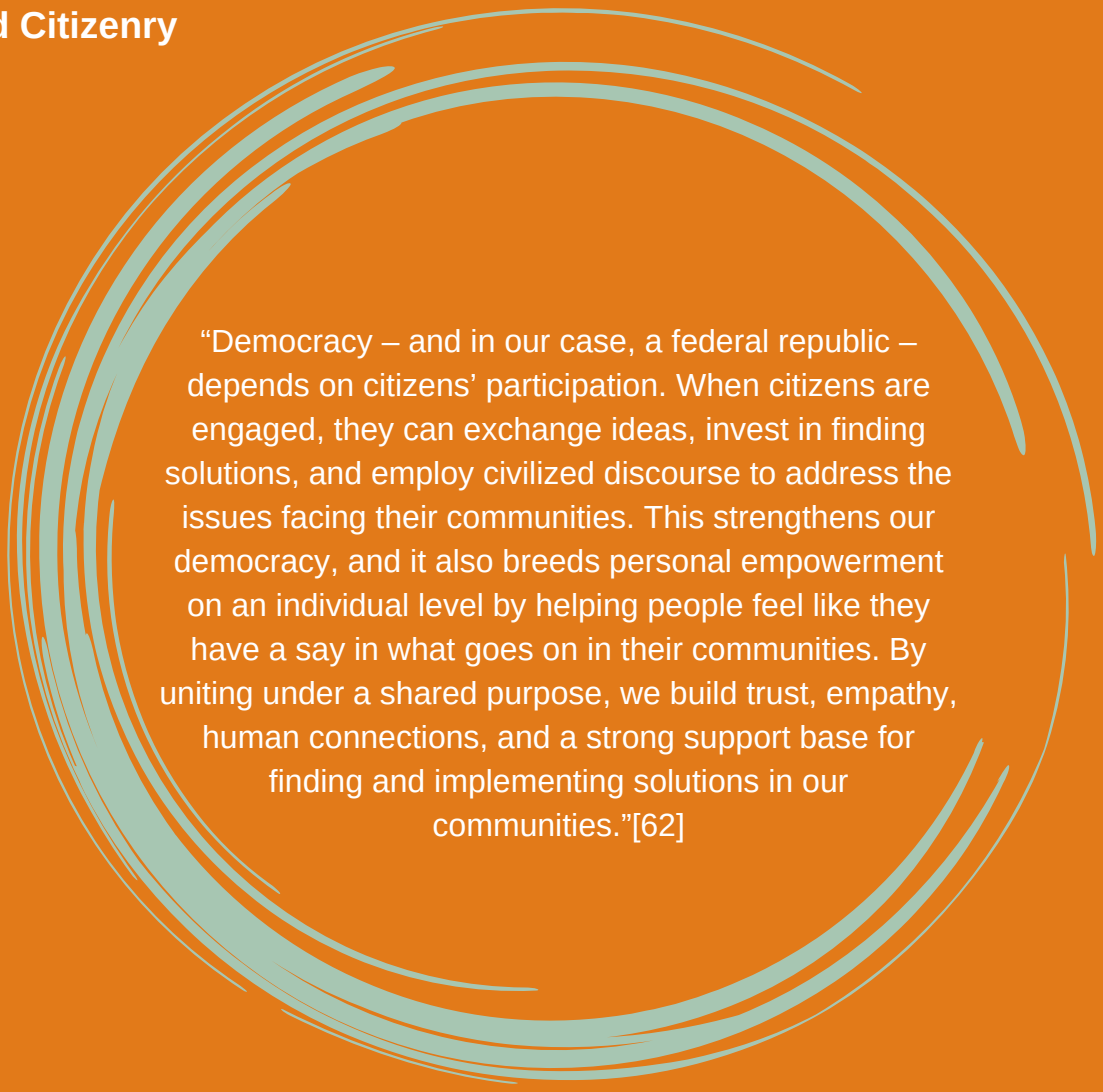

1. The City of Santa Fe should immediately fund, create, and implement regular and sustained opportunities for Santa Feans to engage in activities that nurture a social fabric and transform feelings of isolation within our communities into a sense of connectedness and caring for the whole. These activities should emphasize small group dialogue, facilitated by skilled practitioners, that promotes listening, sharing, and understanding.

Such opportunities and activities could be undertaken by the Department of Civic Engagement recommended in the section below.

At the same time, we recognize that cultivating a sense of belonging is a responsibility not only for city government but for the community as a whole, and most CHART participants acknowledged this as a shared duty.

An Engaged Citizenry

CHART’s emphasis, over the course of the 12-month project, was promoting “civilized discourse” with a belief that “exchange of ideas” and investment in “finding solutions” would move us along the path toward truth, healing, and reconciliation. Those who participated (especially consistently) in the project demonstrated a commitment to civic engagement that CHART is both grateful for, and admires.

Simultaneously, we heard a lot, during the project, about “what people don’t know” and “what the city doesn’t tell us,” and how “city leaders are out of touch” or “don’t represent our views.”

With these sentiments in mind, we included two questions in Survey 2 that would tell us more about information-sharing and democracy-in-action. The results are mixed:

Q29 I know where to go (either online or in-person) to get information about important City of Santa Fe initiatives.

Answered: 602 Skipped: 37

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Strongly agree | 8.97% |
| Agree | 38.21% |
| Neither agree nor disagree | 19.27% |
| Disagree | 24.42% |
| Strongly disagree | 9.14% |
| TOTAL | |

Just under half of respondents know where to go to educate themselves about City of Santa Fe municipal initiatives while more than half neither agree or disagree or disagree with the statement.

In terms of contact with city councilors, the results were disappointing. Almost 60% of respondents “Rarely” or “Never” contact their city councilors. Only 11.46% “Usually” or “Always” contact their councilors to share perspectives and views.

Q28 I contact my city councilor to share my perspectives and views.

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Always | 3.65% |
| Usually | 7.81% |
| Sometimes | 30.73% |
| Rarely | 24.75% |
| Never | 33.06% |
| TOTAL | |

These results raise some important questions: what are the best mechanisms for informing the public about important city initiatives and how can the city promote them? Why do so few residents contact their councilors? If city councilors are hearing from a small percentage of constituents, how are they “polling” the larger community's views on important issues in order to make informed decisions and actions?

Of course, there are many other ways that the City, including the Governing Body, hear the perspectives and views of constituents–there are dozens of public feedback forms and requests for public comment on a wide range of issues on the city website. Even so, we heard consistently over the course of the project that “the City” or “the Mayor” or "the Councilors” aren’t listening to residents, are listening only to a “minority of people,” are making decisions based only on “the loudest voices,” and aren’t in touch with "the people.” Based on public input, we believe there is a critical need for an updated approach to community and civic engagement that will encourage a sense of “being heard” on the part of more city residents and “I have a broad sense of where the community stands on this issue” on the part of city government (including elected officials).

A Comprehensive Approach to Community Engagement

A problem typical to municipal agencies is a piecemeal approach to community engagement. Different municipal departments reach out in different ways; public meetings (sometimes contentious) are attended by a small percentage of the population; engagement depends on limited mechanisms for soliciting public comment; engagement is confused with outreach (news blasts, newsletters); short-term contracts (like CHART) start and stop what might be a sustained process of engagement. Often, offices of community engagement are understaffed or conflated with “communications” or “constituent services” which are largely different from engagement. Sometimes, short-term contracts initiate changes and programs that are eliminated by a subsequent administration (often of a different political party). The result, most often, is a patchwork of engagement activities that are intermittent and disconnected.

Instead, a more sustained, robust, coherent and cohesive approach to community engagement is needed to build, over time, a network of community relationships as well as address a range of problems and issues. We believe that, in doing so, the city will likely spend less money on a piecemeal and contract-based approach to community engagement with far better results.

Because of this we recommend the following:

RECOMMENDATION: COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT

The City of Santa Fe should:

1. Eliminate the “Office of Community Engagement” and establish a “Department of Community Engagement.” The designation of “Department” is important, here, for reporting, and peer- collaboration purposes. Per the City of Santa Fe organizational chart, the department would report to the City Manager (rather than to a department director) who also oversees other departments with which the new department would collaborate (see 3.G. below);
2. Distinguish the “Department of Community Engagement” from “Communications,” “Constituent services” and “Council Services” by placing the latter three in their own office or in other appropriate departments/divisions;
3. Dedicate the new “Department of Community Engagement” to the following activities:

   A. Initiate, nurture, and establish (over time) healthy relationships with community-based organizations that serve the diverse populations of Santa Fe in order to learn from these organizations and their members/clients;
   B. In collaboration with the above organizations, create channels of two-way communications that inform Department staff of residents views and opinions on issues that matter to them and communicate to organizations, and the residents they serve, that the city is listening:
   C. Create and implement a diverse engagement strategy that is non-partisan, comprehensive and sustained, over many years, and enables department staff to receive valuable information from constituents (whether connected to the above organizations or not) on a range of issues of urgency and concern. This engagement strategy should mirror and improve upon the one implemented by CHART and discussed in the “Methods” section of this report;

D. Develop a large contact list of citizens (whether associated with the above organizations or not) who want to be part of the Department's robust engagement strategy, and remain in contact with them with invitations to engage and information;

E. Promote department activities to all city residents, including new arrivals who may want to become part of the social fabric nurtured by the Department of Community Engagement;

F. Develop effective mechanisms for taking information gathered through engagement as well as analyzing the information for presentation to the appropriate bodies, committees, departments and divisions;

G. Develop and nurture, over time, healthy relationships with other city departments/divisions and staff as well as mechanisms for providing these departments/divisions with public feedback that will assist them in understanding where many residents stand on issues under their purview;

H. Develop and implement evaluation/feedback practices and mechanisms that measure success;

4. Fund and fully staff the Department of Community Engagement with full-time skilled experts and practitioners in the disciplines of community engagement who are able to implement the activities above with the tools they need to accomplish department objectives; and
5. Demonstrate an understanding of the complexity of the Department of Community Engagement's work by providing sustained funding and time for it to accomplish its objectives.

CONCLUSION

We know that many wanted the CHART project to come to conclusions. We have provided many in the form of recommendations based on participation and input from hundreds of Santa Feans. We know that many wanted the CHART process to definitively decide the fate of Soldiers Monument/ ”Obelisk.” We recommend a “fate” that asks us to do more work. We are still divided on the issue; we are not there yet.

Residents remind us, over and over again, that the process of truth, healing, and reconciliation is a long-term undertaking and that addressing Soldiers Monument/”Obelisk” is still at the heart of this effort. It requires us to be patient, to be tenacious, to be resilient as we keep going. We are still in the midst of this particular story and, evidently, it cannot be rushed–even in the form of one busy year of community member-to-community member dialogue.

We hope that many of the recommendations of this report will be implemented quickly.  Many CHART participants will demand that this is so. We urge the City of Santa Fe to defy what we heard from many participants, that “the city won’t do anything with your recommendations; this is just a waste of money,” as one participant put it.

Santa Fe: we have listened; we hear you; we honor you.

We would like to conclude this report by invoking the words of the September 2018 City of Santa Fe Proclamation which marked the end of the Entrada pageant of the Santa Fe Fiesta. The proclamation resulted from one year of conversations between the All Pueblo Council of Governors, the Archdiocese of Santa Fe, the City of Santa Fe, the Caballeros De Vargas, and the Santa Fe Fiesta Council.

The deliberations over this very, very divisive issue, were long and difficult. They were characterized by truth-telling, by contentious and compassionate dialogue and, finally, by agreement. The words of the resulting proclamation have guided and inspired the CHART team over the course of the project as an example of how to approach truth, healing and reconciliation. We are grateful for the example provided by those who undertook this process in order to come to a collective understanding.

> ""On this 7th day of September, 2018, we come together to proclaim our love for our city of 'Ogap'ogeh, La Villa Real de la Santa Fe de San Francisco de Asis, Santa Fe: our people, our languages, our way of life, and this sacred land and its blessings, which we gratefully receive.
> We acknowledge the past and its trauma, tragedy, and sorrow; we understand its legacy in the present. We acknowledge wounds older and deeper than any on this continent. On behalf of those from the past who cannot ask for forgiveness, we do so now.
> We also acknowledge the remarkable depth of wisdom and resiliency that comes from struggle. We share in our grief; we share in our strength.
> We acknowledge the ties that bind us together in an unbreakable bond of solidarity with each other, our Creator, and the land we all love.
> We recognize that there is much healing to do. We understand that genuine reconciliation is a generations-long process that is challenging and complex—it will test our resilience. For that reason, we commit ourselves to honest and compassionate engagement no matter how hard, no matter how long. We believe in our capacity to change and be changed.

We rededicate ourselves to our core values: Love, Respect, Compassion, Faith, Understanding, Empathy, and Gratitude.

We ask that our children experience peace and know its spirit; that our families nurture peace in their homes, that our communities practice love; and the world echo this peace.

We stand together today for our children, guided by our sacred duty to know and learn from the past, to acknowledge the present, and to envision a future in which all will thrive.

We join together to make a new offering of peace and resolve to move forward together. We come clothed in gratitude for the gifts of our Creator.

Let us begin our walk, here, as stewards of something greater than ourselves. Let us cultivate a new era for Santa Fe–having listened to and learned from each other, having acknowledged difficult truths, having seen the possibility of a future based on harmony and love.

Let us release our burdens. Let us unlearn and relearn. Let us walk together, one step and then another, that we may speak truth, that we may be transformed, that we may heal, that we may be kin.

We offer these as promises and commit to children to choose the right path today, so that in the future they call us good ancestors."

QUÉ ES ARTFUL LIFE -
CONSULTOR PRINCIPAL DE CHART

Artful Life es una organización para las artes y el desarrollo comunitario ubicada en Nuevo México dedicada a transformar comunidades a través de la belleza y el poder de la colaboración creativa. Nuestros proyectos de interacción comunitaria a gran escala incluyen a una amplia gama de habitantes de Nuevo México de todas las edades, razas, etnias y realidades económicas y conducen a obras colaborativas que expresan un impactante sentido de la historia, la gente y el lugar.

La labor de Artful Life ha sido objeto de una profunda influencia de su directora y fundadora, Valerie Martinez, que cuenta con 14 años de amplia y extensa experiencia en trabajo centrado en la comunidad; facilitación y co-facilitación de grupos comunitarios; interacción con actores de diversos orígenes; proyectos administrativos complejos y estratificados; comunicación y colaboración efectivas; servicio al cliente excepcional y evaluación de programas.

En otras palabras, Artful Life ha desarrollado un firme arraigo en la vida comunitaria de Nuevo México. Muchos de nuestros artistas, equipos de proyectos y personal administrativo son nuevomexicanos; es decir, descienden de ancestros como los Pueblo, Diné y/o Jenízaros y/o colonizadores españoles. Otros son inmigrantes de más reciente arribo y/o se han reubicado y llevan de vivir en Nuevo México desde 5 años y hasta más de 30 años. Cada equipo de proyecto establecido en un lugar es reflejo de las comunidades en las que se efectúa el trabajo y sus miembros desarrollan relaciones entrañables con otros habitantes de la localidad y de diversas maneras forman parte del tejido social que nutre la vida de la comunidad.

El planteamiento de Artful Life para la comprensión intercultural recíproca, así como para poner fin al racismo y la inequidad, se integra en el diseño y el plan para cada proyecto. Nuestros competentes equipos conciben, diseñan y llevan a cabo minuciosa e intencionalmente cada encuentro, convocatoria y arte. Las iniciativas constantemente promueven el acceso, la inclusión, la compasión, el diálogo empático y la atención activa en un entorno seguro y respetuoso. Este tipo de interacción sienta las bases para la verdad, la sanación y la reconciliación.

Cada proyecto de Artful Life incluye también la consulta y colaboración con una amplia gama de aliados (organizaciones comunitarias, dependencias municipales, asociaciones de vecinos, etc.); la contratación y la formación de los miembros del equipo del proyecto; alcance comunitario (incluidas reuniones individuales y con familias, reuniones con las organizaciones de barrio; sesiones de diálogo y atención; activaciones artísticas, entrevistas con familias y encuestas), convocatorias comunitarias (creación artística, diálogo cívico, estructuración y planificación colaborativas); análisis de la información recopilada en actividades y convocatorias de alcance comunitario; evaluación y preparación de informes.

Artful Life opina que las comunidades tienen una extraordinaria profundidad de conocimientos, tanto ancestrales como contemporáneos, que se manifiestan mediante un proceso creativo y colaborativo. Este tipo de ingenio tiene la capacidad de trazar el camino a seguir, impulsado por la voluntad y el imaginario colectivos.

En 2016, la ciudad de Santa Fe publicó el documento “Culture Connects Santa Fe —A Cultural Cartography” [La cultura conecta a Santa Fe: una cartografía cultural] en el que se presentaban los resultados de una iniciativa de interacción pública encabezada por Creative Strategies 360º. El documento comienza con una descripción elocuente de la ciudad que aún hoy reviste gran vigencia:

> Situada en la intersección del paralelo 35 norte y el meridiano 105 oeste, a 7,199 pies sobre el nivel del mar, la ciudad de Santa Fe abarca una superficie de 52,502 millas cuadradas. Aquí viven más de 70,000[1] personas. Se trata de lugar ubicado en el hábitat de algunas tierras indígenas. Debajo de la ciudad moderna yacen los restos de una aldea que incluye jardines, muladares y los basamentos de los muros que demarcan casas que datan de entre 600 y 1425 d.C. Las comunidades indígenas de los Estados Unidos contemporáneas Tewa todavía conocen el lugar como Po'oge (Lugar de agua de concha blanca).[2]
> Aproximadamente a partir de 1607, cuando España concretó la ocupación oficial de las antiguas tierras indígenas, esta área en particular llegaría a repoblarse nuevamente y sería conocida como La Villa Real de la Santa Fe. Desde el siglo XVII, la ciudad ha reconocido la importancia de los hispanos y de una rica variedad de orígenes (indígenas, africanos, europeos). El carácter heterogéneo del lugar, si bien es singular en cuanto a su historia de larga data, lo convierte en parte de la diáspora mexicano-estadounidense.
> Con el tiempo, personas de todos los estados y continentes, de diversos orígenes étnicos y culturales han establecido su residencia en Santa Fe, constituyendo una complejidad que a veces genera sinergia y otras tensiones. Se trata de un entorno social más dinámico que estático, enriquecido por personas cuyos valores, experiencias, historias, tradiciones, lenguas, filosofías y creatividad hacen de Santa Fe un sitio único entre las ciudades del mundo.
> Santa Fe es un destino internacional enclavado entre un imponente paisaje repleto de cultura y que alberga algunas de las instituciones precursoras artísticas más respetadas del país. Sin embargo, resaltan las claras paradojas de la comunidad: si bien existe una importante concentración de escritores y editores en Santa Fe, la ciudad padece de un alto índice de analfabetismo; enfrenta una crisis por falta de viviendas asequibles; y su elevado número de personas con grados de doctorado contrasta con una de las peores tasas de graduación entre las preparatorias del país; existe una gran y evidente riqueza; y sin embargo, la tasa de pobreza asciende a un escandaloso 16.7%[3] (comparada con la tasa nacional del 14.5%).[4] Algunos han escrito con elocuencia sobre el poder del lugar en este sitio, sobre su clima, su luz y su belleza; sin embargo, el desplazamiento y el aburguesamiento y sus efectos que

Santa Fe constantemente figura entre los lugares más atractivos del país para vivir, tanto para trabajar como para jubilarse, aunque los datos también indican que el número de familias con hijos y personas menores de 30 años ha disminuido, sobre todo en los acaudalados barrios históricos y culturales.*

Los santafesinos habitan un lugar donde coexisten la alegría y el dolor; y sin embargo, aquí la belleza y la creatividad ejercen un poder transformador sobre toda la comunidad. Ante esta encrucijada, una ciudad de contradicciones en la que la identidad cultural contiene el poder de transformación para alterarla, la cuestión es cómo avanzar, a la vez que se aprovechan las experiencias y se satisfacen los intereses de todos."

INTRODUCCIÓN

INTRODUCCIÓN

Oghá Po'oge[5], Yootó[6], Ts'u'yala[7], Santa Fe de Nuevo México, La Villa Real de la Santa Fe de San Francisco de Asís, Santa Fe

Esta es la historia de algunas historias narradas por nuestros antepasados, en petroglifos, en mapas y tratados (celebrados e incumplidos), relatos orales, documentos históricos, poesía, ficción y no ficción. Hay historias que conocemos, que escuchamos, que descubrimos en las páginas de los libros, que circulan en las redes sociales, que presenciamos en el lenguaje del agua, la tierra, el cielo y el sol. Algunas historias a las que nos aferramos; otras las mantenemos sin tener certezas; otras que se desmoronan al descubrir que son endebles bajo la implacable luz de los hechos.

Las historias constituyen el corazón mismo de la vida comunitaria. Nos informan, nos guían, nos confrontan, nos confunden. Se encuentran en las fachadas de las tiendas, en las obras de arte, en los monumentos históricos de los caminos, en los monumentos, en las portadas de los libros, en los discursos, en las conversaciones en voz baja y alta, en los rostros de quienes conocemos y queremos y en los de quienes nos son desconocidos. Las asimilamos consciente e inconscientemente desde que despertamos hasta que cerramos los ojos para dormir.

El río Santa Fe, desde su nacimiento en la cuenca alta y su largo y accidentado recorrido hasta la confluencia con el río Bravo, es quizás la historia más antigua de Santa Fe. El agua es la razón por la que existen Oghá Po'gay y Santa Fe, pues ha nutrido la flora y la fauna desde mucho antes de la llegada de los humanos y después sustentó a las comunidades indígenas y a las posteriores desde los primeros asentamientos. El río de ahí hasta hacia donde fluye donde sólo existe el recuerdo de que pasó es testigo de la historia de Santa Fe y de la de sus pueblos.

Al presentar este informe del proyecto CHART a la Junta de Gobierno de la ciudad de Santa Fe tenemos presente el amenazado río de Santa Fe. El río nos ayuda a aceptar la historia en su sentido más amplio y apunta a un futuro quizás mejor, o quizás peor para nuestra comunidad. Debemos ser los protectores del agua para asegurar un futuro vivo para nosotros y para nuestros descendientes, al igual que debemos ser los protectores de nuestra comunidad para que pueda prosperar.

Santa Fe se encuentra en una encrucijada. No es la primera vez en nuestra historia y no será la última. El Monumento a los soldados/“obelisco” derribado y sus consecuencias despertaron sentimientos antiguos y nuevos, opiniones y perspectivas sobre quiénes somos, en dónde hemos estado, qué hemos hecho y qué hemos dejado de hacer. Estos sentimientos son fuertes, a menudo ensordecedores y han dominado gran parte del discurso público desde octubre de 2020. Lo sucedido con el Monumento a los soldados/“obelisco” también desencadenó un proceso municipal que condujo a la creación del proyecto Cultura, historia, arte, reconciliación y verdad (CHART en inglés).

Esta es nuestra historia que continúa.

La controversia sobre el Monumento a los soldados/“obelisco” no se produjo en el vacío. Tras el asesinato de George Floyd a manos del agente de policía de la ciudad de Minneapolis, Derek Chauvin, que presionó su rodilla contra el cuello de Floyd durante 9 minutos y 29 segundos el 25 de mayo de 2020, miles de manifestantes salieron a las calles de Estados Unidos y protestaron contra los históricos y sistémicos racismo y opresión. En algunas protestas el resultado fue que se derribaran estatuas y monumentos dedicados a personajes en honor a soldados y generales confederados. Algunas estatuas de Cristóbal Colón también fueron objeto de ataques, a la vez que activistas por la representación y los derechos de los indígenas se hacían escuchar cada vez más por medio de movimientos por la restitución de tierras y la soberanía, otros por las mujeres indígenas desaparecidas y asesinadas y otros ante el descubrimiento de fosas comunes de niños sepultados en internados. Fue durante este período convulso de descontento social que, el 20 de octubre de 2020 en la Plaza de Santa Fe, algunos manifestantes dañaron y derribaron el Monumento a los soldados/“obelisco”.

[7] Zuni

Aludimos a este contexto porque en parte explica por qué los monumentos y las estatuas de todo el mundo, por muy similares o diferentes que puedan ser sus historias específicas, se convirtieron en focos de tensión y, en algunos casos, en sitios afectados por la violencia. Hoy todavía transitamos por este período de la historia de Estados Unidos, de Nuevo México y de Santa Fe, en el que algunas preguntas de antaño y otras nuevas sobre el pasado nos exigen reflexionar una y otra vez sobre quiénes fuimos, quiénes somos, por qué luchamos y cómo es que podemos avanzar.

Este es el difícil e importante contexto —un entresijo de preguntas, declaraciones, sentimientos e historias en el que se centró el proyecto de CHART. Nuestro trabajo consistió en involucrar al mayor número posible de santafesinos para escuchar, escuchar, escuchar y escuchar, así como crear espacios y procesos seguros para que los habitantes compartieran sus historias y las historias que han impactado a la comunidad. Trabajamos para promover una comprensión recíproca de los valores que atesoramos y de los que compartimos. No anticipamos que las respuestas o soluciones estarían garantizadas en los 12 cortos meses de vigencia del contrato pues existía el reto de la complejidad cultural, histórica y estética.  Sin embargo, opinamos que la sabiduría comunitaria resplandece en este informe lo suficiente como para hacernos avanzar de maneras sustanciales.

Creemos que si la ciudad de Santa Fe y sus ciudadanos son capaces de reunir el valor necesario para emprender el cambio e iniciar un proceso de muchos años de verdad, sanación y reconciliación, seremos capaces de cocrear una comunidad con sentido de pertenencia para todos los habitantes de la ciudad y el condado. La información que recopilamos y presentamos en este informe está orientada a cumplir el objetivo de esperanza de un futuro mejor, una historia mejor, para nosotros, para nuestros hijos, sus hijos y para las futuras generaciones.

Breve historia de CHART

La historia de CHART es complicada en sí misma. Se mencionó por primera vez en octubre de 2020, en medio del torbellino posterior a que se derribara el Monumento a los soldados/"obelisco". El alcalde Alan Webber anunció públicamente:

> "He presentado una resolución para formar una comisión de cultura, historia, arte, reconciliación y verdad: CHART. Su labor será trazar un camino hacia el futuro para todos nosotros. Dará origen a un lugar donde la voz de cada uno pueda ser escuchada y donde se tomen en cuenta las opiniones de cada uno.
> Se trata de una medida trascendental para que nuestra ciudad se una y conciba soluciones y un camino hacia adelante para la plaza y fuera de ella. La resolución pasará por los tres comités de nuestro ayuntamiento y, al final, será creada por todos los miembros de la Junta de Gobierno. Le invito a que usted también haga sus aportaciones. Se necesitará la participación de todos. Una vez aprobada la iniciativa, la pondremos en marcha con intención, inclusión y celeridad".

Para el 16 de diciembre de 2020, los miembros de la Junta de Gobierno habían decidido sustituir el planteamiento original del alcalde (de una comisión CHART "constituida por todos los miembros de la Junta de Gobierno") por el de:

> "La resolución sustitutiva para el Comité de cultura, historia, artes, reconciliación y verdad (CHART) está en la agenda para presentarse en la reunión de la Junta de Gobierno de mañana por la tarde. La resolución fue propuesta por el alcalde Webber y los concejales Romero-Wirth, Rivera y Abeyta.
> La resolución sustitutiva excluye por ahora la idea del nombramiento de un comité, y en su lugar solicita un proceso extenso, inclusivo y democrático de participación comunitaria. La iniciativa no se centra en un órgano de supervisión, sino en la mayor participación posible de los habitantes de Santa Fe. Adopta un enfoque diferente para aumentar su carácter inclusivo y la participación de la comunidad, a la vez que se entiende que se trata de un llamado a la acción para conversar sobre las historias culturales de la ciudad y los puntos de vista actuales para la encontrar soluciones hacia un futuro de paz, justicia, sanación y reconciliación. Esta resolución sustitutiva se centra en la creación de un proceso de participación comunitaria para alentar a toda la gente a hablar, a ser escuchada y a escuchar".[10]

> “La evolución de esta resolución desde sus inicios hasta su forma final ilustra la democracia en acción. La propuesta original consistía en la creación de un comité que deliberaría y haría recomendaciones relativas al destino de los monumentos y estatuas convertidos en focos de tensión el verano anterior. Tras mayor investigación y reflexión, los promotores: el alcalde Alan Webber, la concejala Carol Romero-Wirth, el concejal Román "Tigre" Abeyta y el concejal Chris Rivera decidieron que se obtendrían mucho mejores resultados mediante un proceso de base comunitaria que invitara y facilitara un diálogo entre miembros de la comunidad. Por ahora, la resolución que sustituye a CHART excluye la idea original del nombramiento de un comité, y en su lugar reclama un proceso democrático basado en la participación comunitaria. El objetivo no es crear un organismo oficial de supervisión, sino fomentar la mayor participación posible de los habitantes de Santa Fe. El proceso requerirá de paciencia, pues no hay soluciones rápidas y duraderas para los agravios históricos y la recompensa será un resultado que sea fruto de la democracia comunitaria activa y que represente a toda la comunidad”. [11]

En esta reunión, varios concejales de la ciudad de Santa Fe explicaron el plan modificado:

> El concejal Rivera reiteró el deseo de sanación para la comunidad, a la vez que subrayó: “Precisamos iniciar el proceso, necesitamos brindar una oportunidad y una plataforma para que toda la ciudadanía participe, no sólo los líderes de los grupos y los representantes de las organizaciones, sino los miembros de los grupos, las abuelas, los primos y los amigos”. Y continuó: “Necesitamos escuchar lo que quiere la gente y encontrar una forma de avanzar. También quisiera reconocer y agradecer a las muchas personas que se han acercado hasta ahora y compartido comentarios, retroalimentación y sentimientos”[12].

En una carta pública de fecha del 19 de enero de 2022, el alcalde Webber comentó sobre el progreso de la iniciativa CHART:

incluido yo, demos un paso atrás. Estas conversaciones serán para ustedes. Su voz, valores, historias personales y familiares y recomendaciones son lo más importante."[13]

En el presente, y durante las reuniones públicas, se ha mencionado el proceso de Albuquerque, concretamente su "Proyecto de raza, historia y sanación (RHHP en inglés)", una iniciativa de tres meses organizada por la ciudad de Albuquerque después de que las protestas y un tiroteo en el lugar donde se encontraba la estatua de Oñate[14], protestas que culminarían con la remoción de la estatua.

El RHHP giró en torno a una pregunta de si la "estatua de Oñate" debía volver a instalarse en el lugar. He aquí una descripción del proyecto, extraída del resumen del proyecto del RHHP:[15]

"El Proyecto raza, historia y sanación se inauguró en el verano de 2020 en respuesta a las preocupaciones de la comunidad sobre la estatua de Oñate, que forma parte de la instalación de arte público La Jornada en los terrenos del Museo de Albuquerque. El proyecto privilegió el diálogo centrado en la comunidad (los miembros de la comunidad conversando entre sí), lo que condujo a recomendaciones generadas por la comunidad para los líderes de la ciudad".

Los resultados del proyecto de Albuquerque fueron los siguientes:

"La Mesa de soluciones comunitarias del Proyecto raza, historia y sanación recomienda lo siguiente en relación con la estatua de Oñate y La Jornada:

- La estatua de Oñate no será devuelta a la instalación de la 19ª y Mountain.
- La Jornada no permanecerá como está ahora en el terreno de la 19ª y Mountain. Es decir, que La Jornada podría ser reimaginada y/o recontextualizada.

NO se ha determinado en dónde terminará la estatua de Oñate ni cómo podría reimaginarse La Jornada. Por lo tanto, como equipo de facilitación, formulamos también las siguientes recomendaciones a la Junta de las artes y al ayuntamiento:

- Crear más tiempo y espacio para la sanación, reconociendo que los distintos grupos representados tienen necesidades diferentes.
- Generar oportunidades adicionales para que los participantes sugieran lo que ocurrirá con la estatua y la implementación de las recomendaciones anteriores como respuesta".

Mencionamos el RHHP porque dio forma a la idea de la Junta de Gobierno sobre CHART, aunque fue muy diferente en cuanto a su alcance, amplitud y duración, lo que provocó la confusión de muchos habitantes sobre lo que realmente se debería lograr con el proyecto de CHART Santa Fe. Por ejemplo, la resolución sustitutiva de CHART incluye dos tipos de lenguaje en torno a las sesiones de diálogo comunitario, incluyendo, una y otra vez, "sesiones de diálogo comunitario" y, una vez, "las tres sesiones de diálogo" (esta última en referencia a la Mesa de soluciones comunitarias). También se mencionan la primera, segunda y tercera rondas que describen áreas temáticas generales para las "sesiones de diálogo comunitario", en lugar de un número determinado de sesiones.

Entendemos la mención única de las "tres sesiones de diálogo" y la primera, segunda y tercera rondas hacen vagamente referencia al proceso de RHHP de Albuquerque, que duró sólo tres meses.

Afortunadamente, el contrato de CHART aclara al consultor principal, cómo debe ponerse en práctica la resolución en lo relativo a las sesiones de diálogo: "El equipo de consultores de CHART será el encargado de cumplir las resoluciones mencionadas mediante convocatorias a sesiones de diálogo comunitario para organizaciones; convocatorias y facilitación, según corresponda, sesiones de diálogo comunitario abiertas en general a los miembros de la comunidad sin afiliación a una organización comunitaria en concreto y moderación de la Mesa de soluciones comunitarias".[16] Para la lista completa de las obligaciones contractuales consulte las páginas 13 y 14 de este informe.

Debido a la confusión sobre el proceso de Albuquerque en relación con CHART, en los tres primeros meses del proyecto dedicamos incontables horas a responder a algunos ciudadanos confundidos y molestos, muchos de los cuales tenían la impresión de que CHART se enfocaría únicamente en la cuestión de si el Monumento a los soldados/"obelisco" se reinstalaría o no (como única cuestión central como en el RHHP); que el consultor y/o el equipo de CHART tomarían la decisión final; que la decisión "ya estaba tomada" por la decisión final sobre la estatua de Oñate en Albuquerque; que sólo habría tres sesiones de diálogo y que sólo unos cuantos asistirían, que la Mesa de soluciones comunitarias decidiría el destino del Monumento a los soldados/"obelisco", entre otras cosas.

Ninguna de las impresiones anteriores representa el proceso de CHART tal y como lo desarrolló y completó Artful Life en su ejecución del contrato. Además, es importante señalar que Artful Life solicitó el contrato basándose en su enfoque de base comunitaria para el desarrollo de las artes y la comunidad, que da prioridad a un sólido proceso de participación pública en el que las comunidades toman las decisiones por sí mismas con decenas y decenas de participantes que trabajan en conjunto.

Por estas razones, vale la pena repetir que en el corazón del proceso CHART dirigido por Artful Life se encuentra el siguiente:

> "…proceso de base comunitaria que invita y facilita el diálogo entre miembros de una comunidad. Por el momento la resolución sustitutiva de CHART ha desechado la idea original del nombramiento de un comité, y en su lugar exige un proceso democrático y de participación de base comunitaria. El planteamiento no consiste en crear un organismo oficial de supervisión, sino de fomentar la mayor participación posible entre los habitantes de Santa Fe".

Este proceso de base comunitaria, tal y como se define en la resolución sustitutiva de CHART, se centra en cuestiones locales, históricas, sociales y culturales más amplias que inciden sobre dónde nos encontramos hoy en día:

> CONSIDERANDO que la ciudad de Santa Fe ("la Ciudad") reconoce las divisiones políticas y culturales en Estados Unidos de América en este momento y ha observado la destrucción del Monumento a los soldados (obelisco) en la plaza, la remoción de la estatua de Don Diego de Vargas del Parque de la catedral por decreto ejecutivo y el tapiado del monumento dedicado a Kit Carson; y
> CONSIDERANDO que la ciudad es consciente de que hay un llamado urgente a la acción de parte de los habitantes de la ciudad, los diversos interesados y la Junta de Gobierno para conversar sobre las historias culturales de la ciudad y los puntos de vista actuales para buscar soluciones para un futuro de paz, tolerancia, equidad racial, justicia social, sanación y reconciliación; y
> CONSIDERANDO que el liderazgo de la ciudad reconoce la necesidad de crear un proceso de participación comunitaria para estimular a la gente a hablar, a ser escuchada y a escuchar".".[17]

Actividades del proyecto

Artful Life LLC diseñó y puso en marcha una amplia gama de actividades del proyecto que conforman la iniciativa CHART para el cumplimiento de los propósitos y proceso mencionados. A continuación se incluye una tabla que sintetiza las actividades realizadas por el equipo del proyecto desde el 12 de agosto de 2021 hasta el 31 de agosto de 2022 y de los requisitos contractuales aplicados durante el periodo de ejecución del proyecto. Para conocer más sobre los métodos de Artful Life consulte la siguiente sección del informe.

Las actividades del proyecto generaron la gran cantidad de información y datos que conforman este informe y sus recomendaciones. En el proyecto CHART participaron 1,372 personas individuales y se produjeron casi 10,000 interacciones (asistencia, incluidas las repeticiones de eventos y actividades; respuestas a encuestas; entrevistas; actividades artísticas, entre otros). Los resultados representan la voz colectiva de la comunidad que narra una historia compleja y a menudo conflictiva.

Proceso de participación pública

La participación pública estuvo al centro del proceso CHART y Artful Life se dedicó a crear un proceso lo más amplio e inclusivo posible. Uno de los retos de un proceso de participación municipal es llegar al mayor número posible de habitantes, muchos de los cuales no necesariamente asisten a las reuniones de los ayuntamientos ni a los diálogos públicos, no se comprometen con sus funcionarios elegidos, ni conocen las iniciativas municipales que buscan su conocimiento y opiniones.

Por esta razón, CHART se puso en contacto con los santafesinos de muy diversas maneras, con la ayuda de un equipo de proyecto amplio y diverso, para recopilar el mayor número posible de historias, sentimientos, creencias, perspectivas y opiniones con actividades tanto en línea como presenciales. Organizamos diálogos en Zoom y en persona, haciendo hincapié en la interacción en grupos reducidos. Nos reunimos con decenas de organizaciones para realizar sesiones para escuchar con atención y debatir. Realizamos entrevistas individuales. Visitamos escuelas para comprometernos con los estudiantes desde preescolar hasta decimosegundo grado. Organizamos presentaciones con expertos en la materia. Aplicamos dos encuestas públicas, disponibles en línea y en persona (en papel). Presentamos cortometrajes seguidos de diálogos. Creamos campañas en los medios sociales y lanzamos un blog de cultura. Hicimos arte con niños, jóvenes y adultos. Nos acercamos a ellos en inglés, español, ASL y mediante el lenguaje universal de los juegos, la poesía, la pintura con los dedos y canciones.

Durante la primera mitad del proyecto, enfrentamos desafíos relacionados con la pandemia de Covid-19, lo que nos impidió realizar actividades intramuros y supuso un acceso limitado a los negocios que seguían cerrados o que empleaban a menos personal en sus establecimientos (ya que muchos trabajadores desempeñaban sus funciones a distancia). Aun así, invertimos un gran esfuerzo en crear y aplicar una amplia gama de mecanismos a pesar de las limitaciones.

Por ejemplo, nuestra primera encuesta se distribuyó principalmente por internet, aunque también aplicamos encuestas impresas en algunos lugares públicos, respetando los decretos de salud pública. Nuestra primera plática de la Serie de historia cultural se efectuó por internet (y posteriormente estuvo disponible en YouTube), seguida de una plática de asistencia limitada en febrero (también disponible posteriormente en línea) con el público con cubrebocas. A estas dos interacciones les siguió un evento en vivo en marzo (también disponible posteriormente en línea). Algunas sesiones de diálogo público se celebraron por Zoom hasta que fue posible reunirnos de manera segura en persona. Visitamos las aulas en línea hasta que fue seguro visitar las escuelas en persona. Iniciamos un blog de cultura para facilitar la participación en línea de aquellos que todavía estaban nerviosos por salir de casa y de los que preferían participar desde la comodidad de su computadora de escritorio, una laptop o tableta. En otras palabras, nos esforzamos por cumplir los decretos de salud pública a la vez que seguíamos avanzando con las actividades de CHART durante el período de ejecución del contrato.

Diálogo en grupos reducidos

Un elemento central de la participación pública en forma de diálogos fueron los grupos reducidos. Tanto los diálogos en línea como los presenciales incluyeron dividir a los participantes en pequeños grupos de cuatro a seis personas con preguntas específicas. Las preguntas estuvieron disponibles en la página web de CHART antes de los eventos programados y también se enviaron por correo electrónico a las personas inscritas de forma que los participantes tuvieran tiempo de reflexionar en las preguntas de antemano.

También empleamos un formato de “círculo de conversación” para cada grupo en pequeño, asignando el mismo tiempo (normalmente 2 minutos por ronda) para que cada persona hablara y compartiera, pasando por el círculo en el mismo orden cada vez. Este formato no sólo garantizó que los oradores tuvieran el mismo tiempo, sino que permitió escuchar principalmente. La necesidad de escuchar surgió repetidamente en las respuestas a nuestra primera encuesta: los encuestados consideraron que escuchar era sumamente necesario en el diálogo público sobre temas difíciles.

Durante las sesiones de diálogo en grupos reducidos, los facilitadores capacitados de CHART contaron el tiempo para cada persona y para toda actividad, además de guiar a los participantes con indicaciones y preguntas. Los facilitadores de CHART no expresaron opiniones ni defendieron ninguna postura sobre ningún tema. Su labor consistió en garantizar otorgar la misma cantidad de tiempo a cada participante y ayudar a cada grupo reducido a avanzar en el proceso mientras otro miembro del equipo tomaba notas minuciosas. Cuando CHART se reunió con las organizaciones, a solicitud suya, sugerimos este mismo formato para las reuniones.

El lector podrá consultar un plan de actividades detallado de CHART en el Apéndice E. Encontrará nuestras pautas para el diálogo civil, entregadas a los participantes de CHART, en el Apéndice C.

El énfasis en la interacción de los grupos reducidos es una mejor práctica que Artful Life ha utilizado con gran efectividad durante muchos años:

> “El grupo en pequeño es la unidad de transformación. El grupo reducido es la estructura que permite que se escuchen todas las voces. Es en los grupos de tres a doce personas donde se gesta la cercanía. Esta conversación cercana hace que el proceso sea personal y brinda una estructura en la que las personas salen del aislamiento y en la que se crea la experiencia de sentido de pertenencia. El grupo en pequeño es el puente entre nuestra propia existencia individual y la comunidad más amplia. Algo casi místico, innegablemente misterioso, ocurre cuando los ciudadanos se sientan en un grupo reducido, pues a menudo se vuelven más auténticos y personales entre sí entonces más que en otros entornos”.[18]

Una actividad que cabe mencionar aquí es la Mesa de soluciones comunitarias (MSC). El contrato de CHART incluye las siguientes instrucciones para poner en marcha esta parte del proceso: “Facilitar la Mesa de soluciones comunitarias” y “Diseñar la Mesa de soluciones comunitarias con un evaluador para garantizar la equidad, inclusión y preguntas/encuadre sin sesgos". De acuerdo con estos requisitos y con la metodología del proyecto, Artful Life elaboró la siguiente descripción más detallada de la MSC:

> Como grupo, los miembros de la Mesa revisarán el conjunto de datos recopilados durante las actividades de participación pública (encuestas, notas de las sesiones de diálogo, notas de las entrevistas individuales, resultados de las activaciones artísticas, respuestas a los eventos de la Series de historia cultural, etc.) y los utilizarán como fundamento para proponer las recomendaciones que se incluirán en el informe final. Este proceso garantiza que las recomendaciones se basarán en los cientos de respuestas de los miembros de la comunidad que reflejan un proceso de participación pública sólido y diverso, y no en las opiniones de unos cuantos. Esta era la intención de la Junta de Gobierno al rechazar un proceso limitado a un comité o junta conformada por un número limitado de personas”.

Artful Life recopiló los resultados de la participación pública (notas de los diálogos y las entrevistas, resultados de las encuestas, análisis de la Encuesta 1 y datos adicionales) para su estudio y revisión por parte de los miembros de la MSC: dos carpetas con 330 páginas de información. Los miembros recibieron el material tres semanas antes de un fin de semana de reuniones. En las reuniones, los miembros de la MSC conversaron sobre las conclusiones, deliberaron y decidieron qué cuestiones/temas querían abordar para las recomendaciones a la Junta de Gobierno de la ciudad de Santa Fe. Se incluyen en el informe las recomendaciones de la MSC (un subconjunto de todas las recomendaciones del informe).

Seguimiento de asistencia y datos demográficos

A lo largo del proyecto hicimos un seguimiento de la asistencia a todas las actividades y eventos, así como a las reuniones y llamadas telefónicas. Analizamos los datos para determinar cuántos participantes eran "individuales", así como el número total de "participaciones", que incluía la asistencia/participación repetida. También hicimos un seguimiento del "alcance", es decir, cuántas personas recibieron los correos electrónicos, las actualizaciones y boletines de MailChimp y los envíos de correos masivos de CHART de la ciudad de Santa Fe, así como de los lectores de los artículos de prensa sobre CHART (estos últimos con cifras de lectores proporcionadas por los medios de comunicación). Esta información nos ayudó a generar las siguientes estadísticas:

1,372 participantes individuale
9,911 participaciones
37,199 alcance

También hicimos un seguimiento, con la mayor frecuencia posible, de quiénes participaban en las actividades de CHART usando los siguientes datos demográficos: edad, código postal y/o etnia y raza y/o otros descriptores brindados por los participantes. A veces esto resultaba fácil, por ejemplo, al solicitar dicha información en los formularios de preinscripción en línea; pero en el caso de otras actividades de CHART (por ejemplo, eventos sin cita previa en parques y centros comerciales, refugios para personas sin hogar y bibliotecas) la recopilación de información demográfica podría haber dado lugar a procesos de inscripción engorrosos o haber desanimado a algunos habitantes a participar. A lo largo de todo el proyecto nos aseguramos de solicitar constantemente a los participantes que fueran francos con sus opiniones y de que los debates sobre temas como los monumentos y la equidad podrían sacar a la luz temas delicados de racismo y discriminación.

Muchos participantes estaban muy conscientes del diálogo cáustico en torno al Monumento a los soldados/"obelisco" presente en los foros públicos y en los medios de comunicación y algunos expresaron la preocupación de no sentirse seguros si compartían sus opiniones con franqueza. Por ejemplo, un residente nos dijo: "Tenemos hijos que asisten a la escuela", a la vez que expresaba su reticencia a hablar con franqueza frente a otros sobre lo que supone ser una persona negra que vive en Santa Fe. Otras personas desconfían de los datos demográficos por diversas razones.

> "Según Kader et al. (2022), existen inquietudes de privacidad relacionadas con los resultados desglosados, especialmente entre poblaciones reducidas. Por ejemplo, se teme que los resultados puedan utilizarse para acosar a sectores específicos de la población y que puedan dar lugar a interpretaciones erróneas intencionadas que alimenten estereotipos y discriminación. Se plantean problemas adicionales cuando se limitan las opciones de respuesta y algunas personas podrían no responder porque se sienten excluidas si la raza/etnia con la que se identifican no figura en la lista o cuando ninguna de las respuestas es pertinente para su caso".[19]

Por esta razón, fuimos cuidadosos con los requisitos de los "selección" en los eventos de CHART y también tomamos la decisión de volver anónimas las notas de los diálogos, reuniones, sesiones de atención y debates para proteger a nuestros participantes.

Con la información demográfica que pudimos recopilar y a través de una meticulosa observación de quiénes participaban en el proyecto, hicimos un seguimiento de quiénes asistían y quiénes no. En los puntos donde identificamos lagunas, redoblamos nuestros esfuerzos para llegar a aquellos cuyas voces debían escucharse. Llegar a los habitantes de color fue un objetivo particular, al igual que al segmento de la población de la ciudad y del condado de entre 20 y 29 años.

En lo particular establecimos relaciones con los cuatro pueblos situados en el condado de Santa Fe: Tesuque/Tet-Sugeh; San Ildefonso/Po-Woh-Geh-Owingeh; Pojoaque/P'o-suwae-geh y Nambé/Nanbé Owingeh; así como con el Instituto de artes indígenas de Estados Unidos de América y las organizaciones que prestan servicios a los pueblos indígenas de la ciudad y el condado. También celebramos varios eventos en el centro comercial Santa Fe Place, donde pudimos relacionarnos con personas cuya primera lengua es el español, con inmigrantes de más reciente arribo a Santa Fe y adolescentes y familias jóvenes. Celebramos eventos con adolescentes en las escuelas preparatorias de Pojoaque y Capital y las escuelas públicas de Santa Fe nos ayudaron en especial a difundir las encuestas y eventos entre los estudiantes, profesores y personal. CHART también asistió a eventos especiales como la Midtown Block Party, el Festival de las costumbres indígenas y Juneteenth. También pasamos una tarde en Pete's Place, elaborando arte y hablando con miembros sin hogar de nuestra comunidad.

CHART también creó y utilizó una lista de más de 140 organizaciones de Santa Fe (véase la lista en el Apéndice A) para comunicarnos por correo electrónico y/o boletines de MailChimp invitando a sus miembros/clientes y personal a participar en las actividades de CHART. Esta lista incluye organizaciones como los Caballeros, la NAACP, EarthCare, la Human Rights Alliance [Alianza por los Derechos Humanos], la Liga de ciudadanos nipón-estadounidenses (capítulo de Nuevo México), el Consejo de la Fiesta, la Asociación de la Vieja Santa Fe y la organización Exploring Whiteness and Understanding Privilege [Explorar el ser blanco y comprender el privilegio], entre muchas otras. En respuesta a estas invitaciones, nos reunimos con 44 de las organizaciones de la lista.

En cuanto a la edad, código postal y etnia y raza, la imagen más fidedigna de quienes participaron en CHART se identifica mejor en los resultados de las Encuestas 1 y 2 (edad y código postal) y de la Encuesta 2 (etnia y raza). Como se ha mencionado anteriormente, no solicitamos información demográfica en cada evento, por las razones expresadas más arriba. Por ello, las tablas siguientes no constituyen la representación perfecta general de todos los que participaron en CHART, aunque nos brindan una idea.

El cuadro muestra que la mayoría de los encuestados de CHART de las Encuestas 1 y 2 que proporcionaron esta información viven en tres códigos postales: 87505, 87507 y 87501.

En cuanto a la participación por edad, las personas de 60 a 69 años y de 70 a 79 años representan el 19.2% y el 23.3% (respectivamente) de los encuestados de la Encuesta 1 y el 20.2% y el 20.6% (respectivamente) de los de la Encuesta 2. Con base en la Encuesta de la comunidad estadounidense (ACS en inglés) de 2019, estos porcentajes coinciden con la población de Santa Fe, en general.[20]

En cuanto a la etnia/raza, como se mencionó anteriormente, sólo tenemos resultados parciales: los datos de la pregunta 38 de la Encuesta 2. Aunque recopilamos información sobre la raza/etnia en los formularios de registro del diálogo público mediante la siguiente pregunta:

> "Por favor, cuéntenos un poco sobre su origen. La creación de grupos de debate diversos es importante para CHART. Saber más sobre su raza, etnia, origen, etc. nos ayudará a formarlos"

La respuesta era voluntaria. El 48% no respondió. Del resto, el 21% se autoidentificó como hispano; el 25% se autoidentificó como blanco y el 4% se autodescribió de diversas maneras.

Los resultados de la Encuesta 2, P38, se incluyen a continuación.

| Native American or Alaskan Native | 7.47% |

Es importante señalar que los encuestados podían “Marcar todo lo que corresponda” y los resultados depurados muestran que el 60% de los que se autoidentifican como negros o afroamericanos marcaron más de una casilla; el 57% de los que se autoidentifican como indígenas americanos o isleños del Pacífico marcaron más de una casilla; el 50% de los que se autoidentifican como asiáticos o isleños del Pacífico marcaron más de una casilla; y el 31% de los encuestados que se autodescriben como “hispano/latinos” marcaron más de una casilla.

En las secciones “cultura” e “historia”, más adelante, hablamos de la naturaleza marcadamente compleja de la comunidad actual de Santa Fe. Es por eso por lo que el seguimiento de los datos demográficos con categorías exclusivas resulta problemático.

Equipo del proyecto

Nuestro equipo de proyecto también resultó esencial para un sólido proceso de participación pública. Las codirectoras Valerie Martínez y Jenice Gharib aportaron los conocimientos y la experiencia necesarios para emprender y completar con éxito el proyecto. Alexis Kaminsky se unió al equipo como evaluador del proyecto, al igual que Kearsley Higgins como coordinadora administrativa. En cuanto al equipo de facilitación, en septiembre de 2021 Artful Life lanzó una convocatoria abierta para que cualquier santafesino presentara su solicitud. CHART recibió 155 solicitudes para un equipo de 14 miembros (incluyendo 4 puestos de pasantes de preparatoria), seleccionó a los solicitantes para las entrevistas y después contrató al equipo de medio tiempo por contrato.

Al elegir a los miembros del equipo, las codirectoras se centraron en a) la diversidad (edad, raza, etnia, LGBTQAI+, código postal de residencia, años de vivir en Santa Fe, etc.) y b) la capacidad de fungir como facilitadores de un proceso comunitario en contraposición a ser defensores de una causa, posición u opinión concreta. Dado que el contrato de CHART requería activaciones artísticas, también era importante contratar a artistas, así como a profesionales de la cultura con experiencia en la participación comunitaria. Todos los miembros del equipo, excepto Martínez (que nació y creció en Santa Fe, aunque actualmente vive en Albuquerque) y Kaminsky, son habitantes de la ciudad o del condado de Santa Fe.

Los miembros del equipo llegaron al proyecto con experiencia considerable en una amplia gama de áreas y disciplinas. Aun así, como no habían trabajado juntos anteriormente participaron en actividades de creación de equipos, así como a una formación en facilitación comunitaria. Durante el proyecto, trabajamos como un gran grupo y también en equipos más reducidos en tareas específicas.

Nombramos aquí a los miembros de nuestro equipo para reconocer su notable dedicación, trabajo y servicio a este amplio y complejo proyecto:  Maureen Burdock, Hernán Gómez Chávez, Tintawi Kaigziabiher, Simesha McEachern, Peter Cuong Nguyen, M.O. (pasante de preparatoria), Kenneth Pin, Trace Rabern, A.R. (pasante de preparatoria), Tomás Romero (in memoriam), Santiago Sánchez y Lucero, R.T. (pasante de preparatoria) y Mark Westberg. Tomás Romero, un miembro muy querido y admirado del equipo de CHART, falleció durante el proyecto. Nos destrozó el corazón y estamos eternamente agradecidos por sus contribuciones al proyecto.

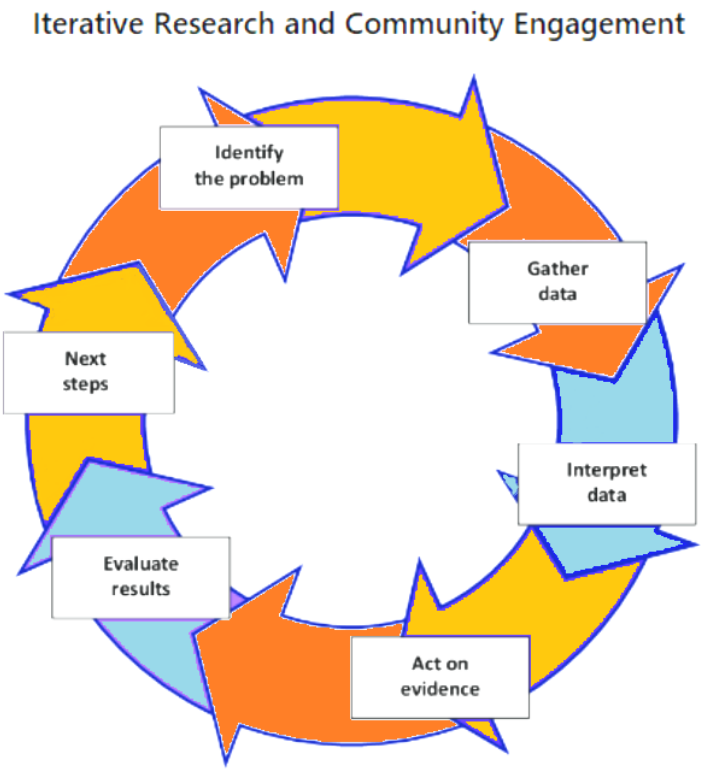

Para consultar las semblanzas del equipo CHART consulte el Apéndice B y la página web del proyecto.

Proceso iterativo

Comenzando con la Encuesta 1, CHART se basó en un proceso iterativo para la recopilación de datos, reflexión y acción durante todo el proyecto. Este tipo de metodologías están bien establecidas en la investigación-acción participativa y tienen una historia de larga data en los campos de la educación, gestión de proyectos e investigación basada en la comunidad[21].  La figura siguiente, “Investigación iterativa y participación comunitaria”[22], muestra las etapas de las metodologías iterativas.

Las etapas iniciales se centran en la identificación de un problema o cuestión. Se recopilan datos sobre el problema para comprenderlo mejor desde múltiples perspectivas y una variedad de fuentes. Después se analizan los datos para examinar los temas y las tendencias, así como las áreas de convergencia y divergencia. Entonces se utilizan algunas conclusiones para diseñar intervenciones de las que se recopilan más datos para evaluar el impacto de las actividades y definir acciones futuras. El ciclo continúa de forma helicoidal y cada iteración se desarrolla con base en los aprendizajes anteriores.

El proceso iterativo de CHART comenzó con la Encuesta 1. La encuesta estuvo compuesta por tres preguntas amplias y abiertas diseñadas para obtener una amplia gama de opiniones y experiencias de los habitantes de Santa Fe y pretendía contribuir a identificar las principales preocupaciones de la comunidad. Las preguntas de la encuesta fueron:

1. ¿Cómo podemos entender mejor la historia de Santa Fe?
2. ¿Cómo podemos establecer relaciones más sanas a la vez que reconocemos nuestras diferencias?
3. ¿Cómo podemos convertirnos en buenos ancestros para nuestros hijos, sus hijos y las futuras generaciones?

Las respuestas a la encuesta se recopilaron de octubre a diciembre de 2021 tanto en línea como en persona en varios sitios físicos, obedeciendo los decretos estatales de salud pública para COVID-19.

Para la fecha límite de la encuesta, el 31 de diciembre de 2021, CHART obtuvo 484 respuestas utilizables,[23] 78,269 palabras, o cerca de 300 páginas de texto a un solo espacio.[24] Los problemas, los reclamos y las preocupaciones que surgieron del análisis de estas respuestas se usaron como información para las actividades posteriores del programa y para centrar la recopilación de datos adicionales.

CHART actuó a partir de lo aprendido en la Encuesta 1 para seleccionar los temas del diálogo público, las Series de historia cultural y las activaciones artísticas. Los monumentos (en general y el Monumento a los soldados/“obelisco” en particular) fueron el tema central de los diálogos públicos de enero y del programa "Sueños y conversaciones monumentales". La equidad y el sentido de pertenencia también fueron temas importantes para los habitantes, según las respuestas y el análisis de la Encuesta 1. Estos temas se convirtieron en el foco de las sesiones de diálogo público de febrero y marzo.

Los datos de las evaluaciones también son importantes para el proceso iterativo y CHART empleó diferentes mecanismos para recopilar opiniones durante el proyecto. Por ejemplo, se envió un breve formulario de evaluación a los participantes que se preinscribieron y asistieron a las sesiones de diálogo público, así como a los que se inscribieron en el lugar (ya sea en línea o en persona) y los resultados de éstos se usaron para mejorar las actividades posteriores[25]. Para el evento CHART del 14 de noviembre de 2021 colocamos grandes hojas de papel blanco y marcadores en las mesas las salidas de Frenchy's Field para que los participantes pudieran escribir sus opiniones del evento mientras se retiraban. En el centro comercial Santa Fe Place, para un evento sin previa cita, se colocaron grandes notas adheribles post-it en la pared para estimular las respuestas de los asistentes.

El proceso iterativo usado por CHART también se utilizó para desarrollar la Encuesta 2, un cuestionario de 39 preguntas basado en los datos recopilados durante los primeros siete meses del proyecto y con la idea de generar recomendaciones para la Junta de Gobierno. Se diseñaron preguntas específicas para recopilar información cuantitativa. Por ejemplo, la Encuesta 2 incluía múltiples preguntas sobre el arte público en Santa Fe, basadas en las cuestiones y preocupaciones planteadas anteriormente en el proceso de CHART. Estos puntos preguntaban sobre los sobre procedimientos de la ciudad para aprobar u oponerse al arte público, la distribución del arte público en toda la ciudad y el rol de las aportaciones del público en las decisiones sobre arte público. Las siete opciones enumeradas en la pregunta de qué hacer con el Monumento a los soldados (Encuesta P18) se extrajeron de la primera encuesta y las recomendaciones hechas sobre el obelisco.[26]

Por último, el proceso iterativo también se utilizó para el trabajo de la Mesa de soluciones comunitarias (MSC). Se usaron las recomendaciones de la Encuesta 1, los resultados de la Encuesta 2; las notas de los diálogos, entrevistas y otras actividades de CHART y datos adicionales para armar dos carpetas de información (330 páginas) que los miembros de la MSC tuvieron que revisar, estudiar y emplear como base para sus deliberaciones y recomendaciones.

[23] Se presentaron 497 respuestas a la encuesta en total. Trece fueron excluidas porque eran de personas que no eran habitantes de Santa Fe.

[24] Estos análisis fueron presentados a la Junta de Gobierno de Santa Fe como parte de la actualización del segundo trimestre.

[25] Los porcentajes de respuesta se indican en el apartado de recopilación de datos.

[26] La pregunta 18 decía: ¿Qué debería hacerse con el Monumento al soldado ("obelisco") en la Plaza de Santa Fe? Opciones de respuesta: (a) Restaurar el monumento con su leyenda original; (b) Restaurar el monumento con su leyenda original y añadir un lenguaje que anime a entenderlo y valorarlo en su totalidad; (c) Restaurar el monumento con una leyenda diferente; (d) Trasladar el monumento a un lugar diferente; (e) Reemplazar lo que queda del monumento por otra cosa; (f) Retirar lo que queda del monumento y dejar el espacio sin ocupar; y (g) Sin opinión: lo que ocurra con el monumento no es importante para mí.

Recopilación y análisis de datos

CHART recopiló datos durante toda la vida del proyecto. Se recopiló información en cada sesión de diálogo, en cada actividad y evento, en cada reunión, en cada entrevista, en cada correo electrónico y en cada llamada telefónica, a través de la página web y medios sociales y mediante encuestas, que resultó en una gran cantidad de información que constituye la base de este informe.

CHART analizó los datos de varias formas diferentes en función de su tipo y de cómo se iban a utilizar. Se recopilaron dos tipos principales de datos: 1) datos cualitativos abiertos y 2) datos cuantitativos cerrados. Se llevó a cabo un análisis con el fin de planificar el proyecto, ejecutarlo y presentar informes.

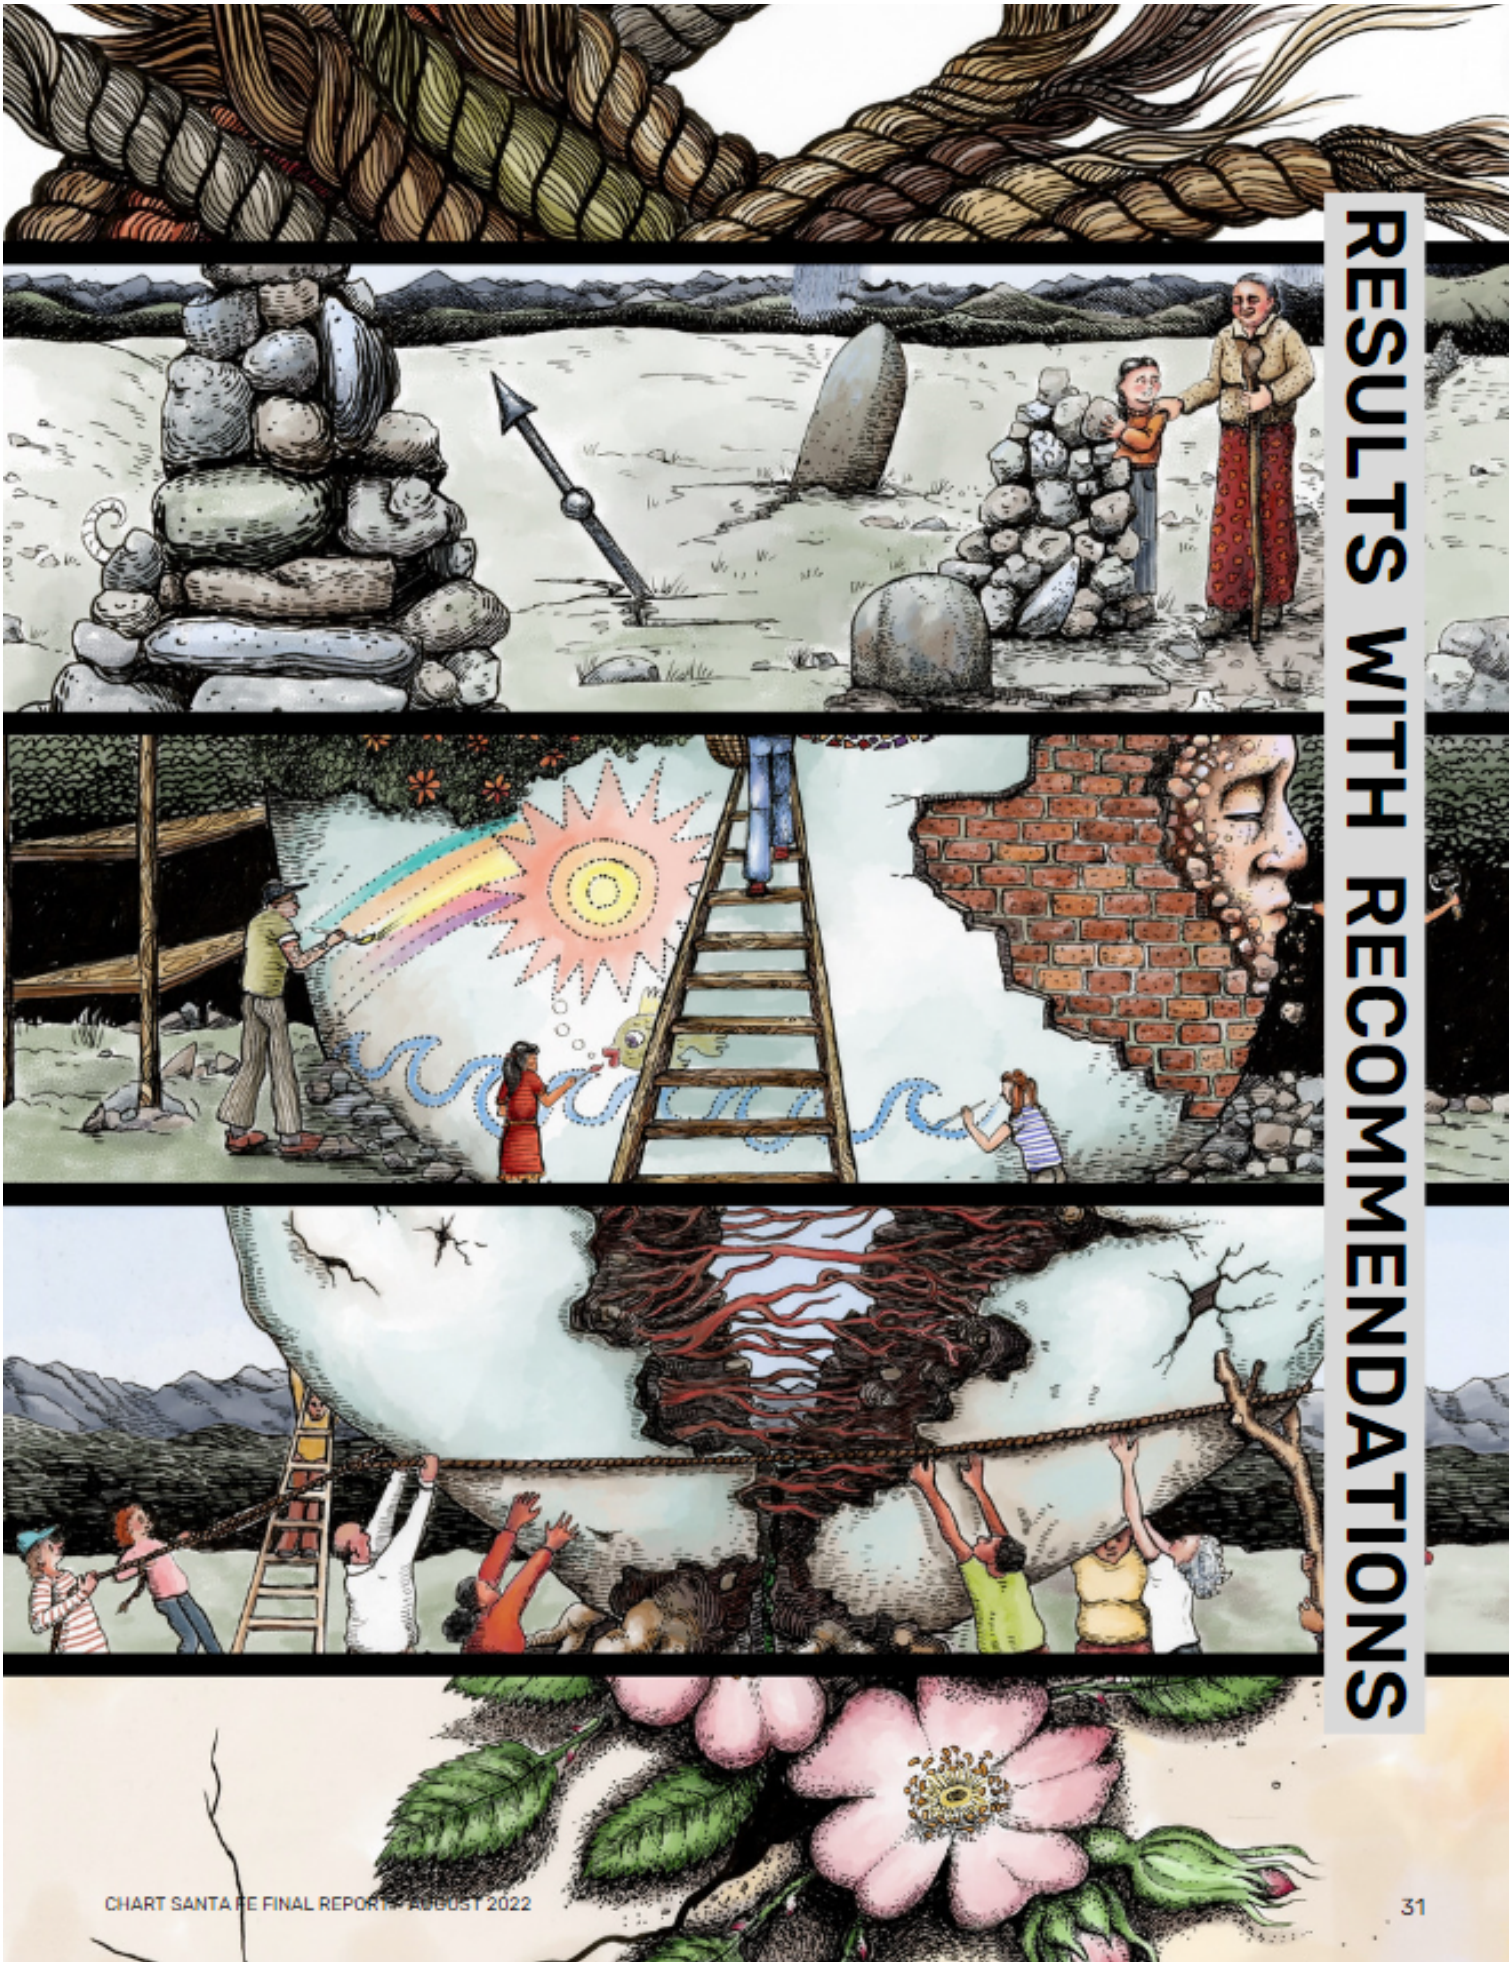

Los datos cuantitativos se recopilaron a través de los registros de alcance y participación, de los formularios de evaluación y de la Encuesta 2. Se calcularon frecuencias simples utilizando Excel 2016 para Mac y Survey Monkey. Los datos se organizaron para su visualización en gráficas de barras. Cuando se recopilaron datos demográficos también se analizaron para determinar las edades, los lugares y, posteriormente, la raza/etnia de los participantes. Esta información se utilizó para informar sobre el alcance y los informes.

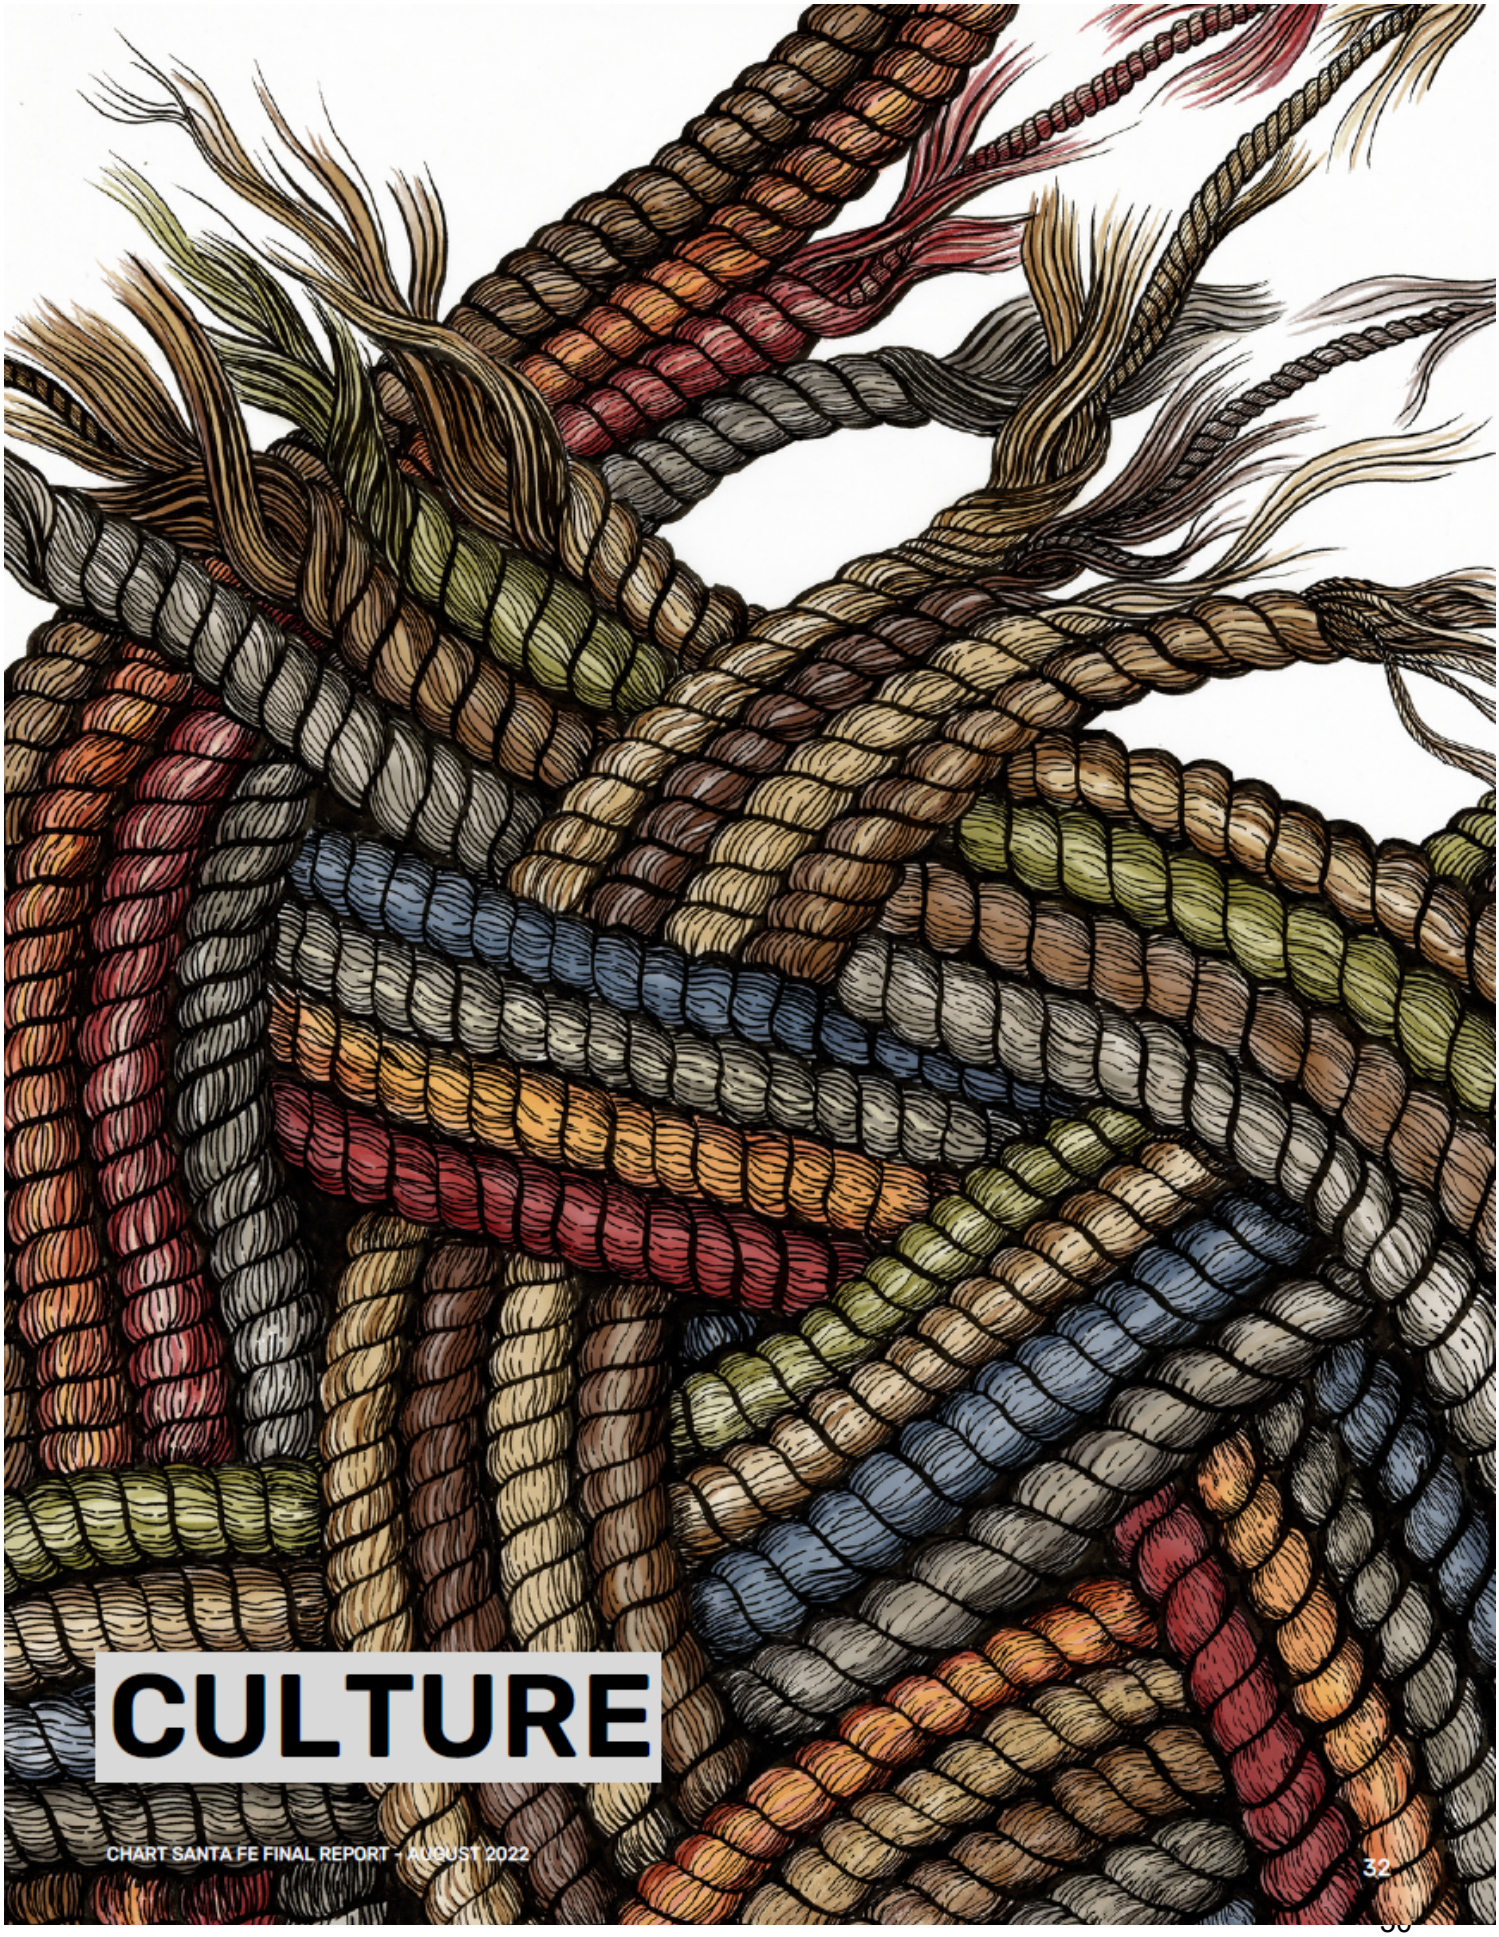

Los datos cualitativos de la Encuesta 1 se analizaron utilizando varias estrategias propias de los métodos cualitativos. Desde el principio se formó un pequeño grupo de análisis compuesto por miembros experimentados del equipo CHART para identificar las recomendaciones, así como los temas emergentes, cuestiones, reclamos e inquietudes. La codificación se realizó en Dedoose 9.0, una plataforma de análisis cualitativo (www.dedoose.com) y en Excel 2016 para Mac.

En el Apéndice D se brindan más detalles sobre la recopilación y el análisis de datos.

En general, en cuanto a sus métodos, el proyecto CHART se dedicó a obtener una sólida participación pública e informada y mejorada mediante un proceso iterativo que fomentó una participación más amplia e inclusiva. El conjunto de datos recopilados y analizados como resultado de este enfoque es sustancial y revelador. Nos permite contar una historia compleja que se explica en las conclusiones y recomendaciones en las secciones posteriores de este informe final.

CULTURA

¿Qué es la cultura?

NOTA SECUNDARIA:

“cultura” (sustantivo)

> “Creencias tradicionales, formas sociales y rasgos materiales de un grupo racial, religioso o social; y también los rasgos característicos de la existencia cotidiana (como las diversiones o un modo de vida) compartidos por la gente en un lugar o una época; la cultura popular, la cultura sureña (Fuente: Diccionario Merriam-Webster en línea)

Las expresiones culturales pueden incluir la música, la danza, el arte, diseños, alimentos, prendas de vestir, nombres, signos y símbolos, representaciones, ceremonias, formas arquitectónicas, artesanías y relatos, o muchas otras expresiones artísticas o culturales”.[27]

En las respuestas a la Encuesta 1, múltiples habitantes expresaron que la tierra y el agua forman parte integral de la cultura y que nuestra relación con ambas es también una expresión de la cultura local.

“Lo que representa a la gente de este lugar que hoy llamamos Nuevo México se reduce a menudo a una ficción de principios del siglo XX sobre tres tipologías —anglosajona, indígena y española—, una mitología perdurable y, sin embargo, profundamente imperfecta que es confusa en cuanto a las diferencias entre tribus soberanas y oscurece la realidad de siglos de mestizaje, nacido tanto de actos de amor como de violencia. Este mito también funciona para borrar grupos enteros de personas de nuestra historia, incluyendo la presencia y contribuciones de las personas de origen africano”. [28]

El que la ciudad que ahora llamamos Santa Fe sea reflejo del sudor y la creatividad de muchas culturas en el tiempo no se pone en duda. Que su población y las culturas aquí representadas se hayan expandido a lo largo del tiempo tampoco lo está. Santa Fe es a la vez un crisol de culturas y una ciudad construida con ingredientes difíciles de combinar, como el agua y el aceite. Su historia cultural comenzó hace mucho tiempo, con el pueblo indígena Pueblo y se enriqueció con otras tribus de la zona: apaches, navajos, utes y otros. Más tarde llegaron los colonizadores españoles con sus propias culturas, seguidos de colonos blancos/anglosajones de un sinfín de países y culturas de origen, muchos de ellos movidos por la doctrina del destino manifiesto de Estados Unidos.

Esta unión de culturas quizás tuvo alguna vez tenues características de una tríada, pero no fue hasta el siglo XX cuando el mito "tricultural" se convirtió en una campaña para establecer una marca turística para Santa Fe. Durante la implementación del proyecto CHART escuchamos hablar mucho sobre el “mito tricultural”, especialmente en relación con cómo tergiversa la situación de la población actual de Santa Fe y cómo margina a las personas de otras culturas. A continuación hablamos del tema en mayor detalle.

La mayoría de los participantes de CHART están de acuerdo en que ahora vivimos en una Santa Fe multicultural, con toda la riqueza y los retos de una comunidad diversa.

> conglomerado de culturas y subculturas diferentes, a menudo en competencia. En esta situación de diversidad, una cultura dominante es aquella cuyos valores, lengua y formas de comportamiento se imponen a una o varias culturas subordinadas mediante el poder económico o político. Esto puede lograrse mediante la supresión legal o política de otros conjuntos de valores y patrones de comportamiento, o mediante el monopolio de los medios de comunicación".[29]

Durante la larga historia de Oga Po'gay's/Santa Fe, los grupos culturales dominantes han cambiado y, hasta la fecha, permanecen en un estado de flujo a medida que llegan nuevos habitantes año tras año. Tradicionalmente, la "cultura dominante" intenta establecer valores, normas y tradiciones (por ejemplo, determinando las lenguas oficiales habladas y los rituales y celebraciones públicas). También ha ejercido el dominio de los espacios públicos y designado a los custodios oficiales de la historia. Los cambios culturales han sido unas veces repentinos y traumáticos y otras lentos y graduales.

Durante los diálogos públicos organizados por CHART, escuchamos y presenciamos el trauma individual, ancestral y colectivo que muchos santafesinos sienten por los cambios culturales, sea cual sea su origen. Por ejemplo, un participante de Acoma que creció en Santa Fe describió el dolor que sentía cada vez que pasaba frente del Monumento a los soldados/"obelisco", mientras que un participante hispano habló del trauma de que el obelisco hubiera sido derribado.

Además de los cambios culturales que se han producido a lo largo de la historia de la ciudad, también es cierto que otras personas fuera del mito tricultural han vivido en Santa Fe durante algún tiempo, incluso durante generaciones. Reconocer su presencia en la comunidad nos invita a considerar Santa Fe como ciudad multicultural y nos brinda la oportunidad de participar en una experiencia distinta dentro de la Santa Fe contemporánea.

Sensibilidad intercultural

Modelo de desarrollo de la sensibilidad intercultural del doctor Milton J. Bennett (modificado en 2014)

El "Modelo de desarrollo de sensibilidad intercultural" (DMIS en inglés) de Milton Bennett describe cómo la interacción con culturas diferentes a la propia puede hacer que un individuo/comunidad pase del "etnocentrismo" al "etnorelativismo".

> "El supuesto subyacente del modelo es que, a medida que la disposición perceptiva de las diferencias culturales se hace más compleja, la forma de experimentar de la cultura se vuelve más sofisticada y aumenta el potencial para actuar competentemente en las relaciones interculturales. Al reconocer cómo se experimentan las diferencias culturales es posible hacer predicciones sobre la eficacia de la comunicación intercultural y adaptar las intervenciones educativas para facilitar el desarrollo a lo largo del continuo".[30]

[29] Cultura dominante– Referencia Oxford [En inglés]

¿Por qué son importantes el dominio cultural y la sensibilidad intercultural? Influyen en las decisiones sobre; por ejemplo, las historias que nos contamos y las verdades que afirmamos, la forma en que hablamos e interactuamos, nuestras relaciones con la tierra y el agua, el uso de los espacios públicos y los monumentos y los tipos de reconciliación que podríamos alcanzar.

Todos estos temas, aunados a la cuestión de la sensibilidad intercultural, surgieron constantemente durante el proyecto CHART. Los participantes hablaron de los retos del cambio cultural, independientemente de su procedencia. Algunos recordaron con nostalgia cómo era vida antes del siglo XXI, refiriéndose a ella como si se tratara de "tiempos más simples" y otros se refirieron a los cambios del siglo XXI como rápidos y bruscos. Otros respondieron que "la única constante es el cambio" y que se sentían agradecidos por el efecto de las nuevas perspectivas culturales sobre las antiguas formas de vida. Muchos recomendaron a los santafesinos ser mucho más sensibles, tolerantes e inclusivos desde el punto de vista cultural. Los participantes hicieron decenas de recomendaciones adicionales disponibles en el Apéndice G.

Otra forma en la que el proyecto CHART respondió a lo que escuchamos de los santafesinos y fomentó una mejor manera de comprender la Santa Fe, del pasado y del presente, es con nuestro blog de cultura. A continuación se presentan sólo algunas de las 37 publicaciones del blog. La serie completa puede consultarse en el sitio web de CHART.[31]

Un recurso de lo más valioso e informativo para entender la cultura en Santa Fe es el proyecto Culture Connects Santa Fe de 2016 y su informe, "Cartografía cultural". Culture Connects Santa Fe fue "un esfuerzo de toda la comunidad para dar forma al futuro cultural de nuestra ciudad. A través de una serie de sesiones de aportaciones creativas y prácticas, exploramos las nociones de cultura, compartimos nuestros sueños para el futuro de Santa Fe y creamos una “hoja de ruta” para hacer realidad nuestra visión”. [32] El proceso “Culture Connects” incluyó residentes, organizaciones culturales, profesionales creativos y grupos comunitarios y brindó, y continúa brindando, a la ciudad de Santa Fe sabios consejos y recomendaciones obtenidos a partir de un proceso comunitario.

¿Qué es la cultura de Santa Fe?

En un intento por comprender mejor lo que los residentes piensan y sienten sobre la cultura, la P1 de la segunda Encuesta de CHART pedía a los habitantes describir la cultura de Santa Fe: “En unas pocas palabras, cómo describiría la cultura: gente, historia, tradiciones, patrimonio de Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe; (10 palabras como máximo)”. Esta pregunta se diseñó para generar una idea general de la comunidad cultural actual tal y como la entienden sus residentes hoy en día.

Como muestra la nube de palabras que aparece de arriba, las respuestas fueron muchas y variadas. Algunos mencionaron directamente de la cultura, mientras que otros describían su ciudad, los cambios que han visto (tanto buenos como malos) y cómo se sienten al respecto. No hubo una descripción dominante y muchas eran contradictorias entre sí. Aun así, unas cuantas descripciones fueron sumamente populares: diversa, compleja, multicultural, rica, hermosa, profunda, orgullosa, única, tradicional, hispana, inclusiva, acogedora, creativa, de aceptación, mixta, nativa, tolerante, antigua, conflictiva, progresista, colorida, complicada.

Otros encuestados describieron su visión de la cultura de Santa Fe y los cambios culturales con más detalle:

[32] Para conocer más sobre el informe y leerlo consulte: https://www.santafenm.gov/cultural_roadmap [En inglés]

“Tres grupos étnicos bien conocidos y algunos otros, que conviven generalmente en armonía en la misma zona pero sin tener demasiada interacción”,

“¡Me encanta la cultura! Y pensar que es lo que atrae a la gente aquí. Existe una riqueza en las tradiciones y les tengo mucho cariño; siempre tienen un lugar en mi corazón”.

“Nuestra cultura está repleta de tradiciones e historia y, al contrario de lo que se piensa, es una cultura pacífica y armoniosa”.

“Los hispanos están en claro peligro de perder su historia en una ciudad en la que lucharon por sobrevivir durante siglos”.

CHART también recibió preguntas sobre nuestro uso del nombre Oga Po'gay (“Lugar de agua de concha blanca”), dado a la zona de Santa Fe por sus habitantes originales tewa. Lo utilizamos para indicar el periodo de tiempo anterior a la llegada de los colonizadores españoles.

Oga Po'gay[33] - ¿Qué hay en un nombre?

"En primer lugar, ¿qué es Oga Pogay?"

"Nunca he oído hablar de Oga Po'gay"

"No sé lo que significa Oga Po'gay"

"No quiero oír hablar de Oga Po'gay"

"¡Santa Fe es el nombre!!!!"

"Olga pick gay es un término nuevo para mí. Eso es malo"

"Digamos que no usaría el término Oga Po'gay"

"El nombre de la ciudad es Santa Fe. Gran parte de la historia de la ciudad tal y como existe hoy en día se debe a los españoles que empezaron a asentarse en la zona en los años 1600, aunque ha existido influencia anglo/estadounidense en tiempos más recientes"[34]

Estas citas, de entre varios cientos que escuchamos y leímos durante la ejecución del proyecto, son muestra de la complejidad de la cultura y, especialmente, de las relaciones culturales tal y como las perciben los santafesinos.

CHART también pidió a los habitantes, en la Encuesta 2, describir su propia cultura ("P3 Describo mi cultura de esta manera"). Respondieron de diferentes maneras, incluyendo cómo experimentaban su cultura (alegre, divertida), las manifestaciones de su cultura (comida, música, canciones), la duración de su historia cultural (antigua, de varias generaciones) o, en unos pocos casos, expresando que no conocían su propia cultura o que la consideraban poco importante. La mayoría, sin embargo, sí tenía una idea de su propia cultura y sus descripciones fueron numerosas y variadas. Las respuestas ponen de manifiesto la notable diversidad "dentro" de los términos generales de etnia, raza, cultura y continente, así como la dinámica elasticidad (y el poder descriptivo) del lenguaje.

En su introducción a la segunda plática de la Serie de historia cultural de CHART, “Viaje por el río Santa Fe: historia puebloana, española y mexicana de las comunidades del río Santa Fe”, Hilario Romero, antiguo Historiador del estado de Nuevo México, afirmó lo siguiente sobre la cultura:

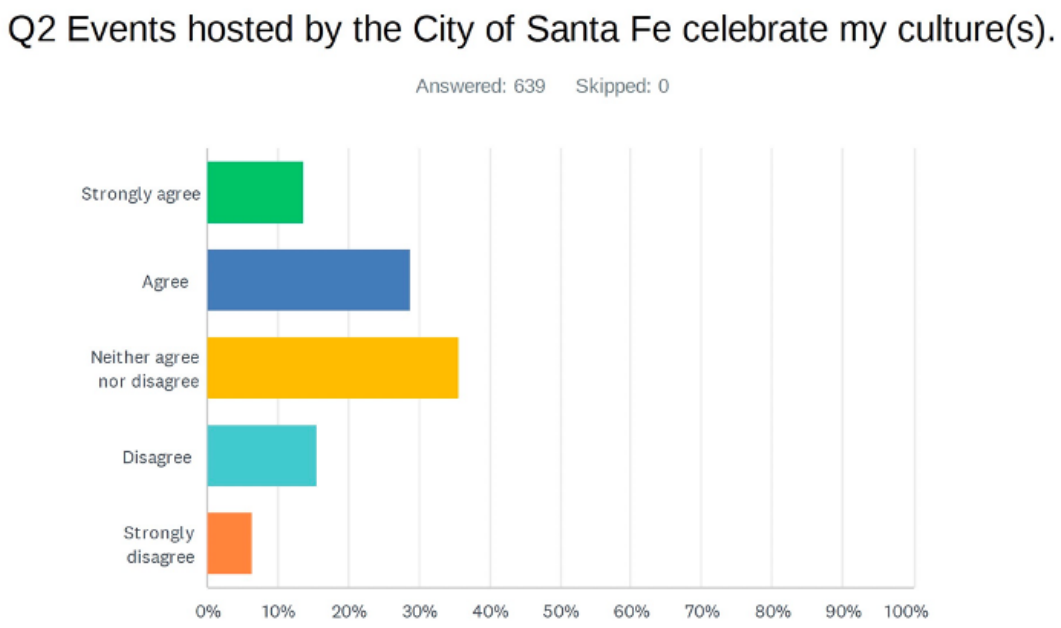

> Siempre empiezo con un viejo dicho que mi abuelo solía contar en español y que he traducido al inglés para todos ustedes y que va así: “La sangre es más espesa que el agua”. Sé que solíamos decir: “tenemos sangre española”, “tenemos sangre india”, “tenemos sangre mexicana”. Tenemos toda esta sangre en nosotros. Pero sólo es más espesa que el agua, amigos.
> Es más importante que aprendas la cultura a través de tu familia, tu familia extendida, de tus amigos y luego hacia fuera de tu condado, tu estado, tu país y el mundo. Y con el tiempo descubres que existe en tu primera lengua, en casa en la mayoría de los casos; a menos que seas bilingüe, trilingüe y pertenezcas entonces a más de una cultura. La lengua es lo que te da automáticamente el acceso.
> Después está tu sistema de creencias. Cómo fuiste criado y en lo que crees. Y luego, por supuesto, en tu vida diaria.
> Así pues, llegamos a la cultura en relación con la identidad. La genealogía y el ADN, muestran tu pasado familiar y genético, pero no reflejan completamente tu identidad cultural. La razón de ello es que usted no viviste con tus antepasados. Ellos te transmitieron algo, pero tú no eres realmente ellos ni tienes el mismo modo de vida ni el mismo estatus económico o social. Pero ahora sé que lo nuevo es el ADN. Todo el mundo cree en el ADN. Me dediqué a hacer genealogías durante unos 12 años, mientras trabajé en la universidad, además de música, danza y otras cosas.
> Por supuesto, la genética refleja el color de tu piel. Muestra sus rasgos faciales y corporales y todo eso. Pero en realidad no te representa totalmente desde el punto de vista cultural, como el idioma, tu entorno social, tu visión del mundo y todo lo que aprendiste al ser criado de la forma en la que te educaron.[35]

Celebración de la cultura

Las preguntas adicionales de la Encuesta 2 se incluyeron para indicarnos si los santafesinos veían reflejada la riqueza de su propia cultura y la de otras culturas en los eventos organizados por la ciudad de Santa Fe. Los resultados son los siguientes:

[35]Para ver la plática de Romero dictada el 21 de marzo de 2022 en el Teatro Paraguas en el canal de YouTube de CHART consulte: CHART Santa Fe YouTube Channel. [En inglés]

P4 Los eventos organizados por la ciudad de Santa Fe celebran todas las culturas de la ciudad y del condado.

Los resultados muestran que el 42% de los encuestados está de acuerdo o muy de acuerdo en que se celebra su cultura propia, mientras que el 36% no puede no estar ni de acuerdo ni en desacuerdo y el 22% está en desacuerdo o muy en desacuerdo. En cuanto a que si los santafesinos piensan que la ciudad de Santa Fe celebra TODAS las culturas de Santa Fe, el 43% está de acuerdo o muy de acuerdo, el 28% no puede estar ni de acuerdo ni en desacuerdo y el 29% está en desacuerdo o muy en desacuerdo.

Estos resultados indican, en general, que la ciudad podría mejorar en gran medida en cuanto a la celebración de las muchas y variadas culturas de sus residentes.

CHART reconoce que los eventos que tienen lugar en la ciudad no son todos de la ciudad de Santa Fe (por ejemplo, los producidos por organizaciones privadas en suelo de la ciudad) y que el conjunto de eventos de la ciudad puede mejorar para celebrar sus múltiples culturas. Aun así, la ciudad puede ser un poderoso actor y ser pionero en este sentido utilizando sus canales para atraer y promover eventos que celebren diferentes culturas y fomentando el acceso al espacio de la ciudad a través de los permisos y otros trámites legales.

En la Encuesta 2, CHART también preguntó a los santafesinos si la ciudad necesitaba organizar más eventos multiculturales. La respuesta fue un rotundo "sí": el 67% de los encuestados estuvo de acuerdo o muy de acuerdo.

P5 La ciudad de Santa Fe necesita organizar más eventos multiculturales.

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Strongly agree | 30.83% |
| Agree | 35.84% |
| Neither agree nor disagree | 21.60% |
| Disagree | 7.36% |
| Strongly disagree | 4.38% |
| TOTAL | |

Este resultado también se reflejó en los eventos y actividades de CHART (Encuesta 1, diálogo público, etc.) durante los ocho meses anteriores a la publicación de la encuesta. En lugar de organizar eventos separados por cultura (digamos, el Mercado español o el Mercado indígena), los residentes enfatizaron que los eventos multiculturales funcionarían mucho mejor tanto para celebrar como para mostrar el tipo de diversidad compleja reflejada en las respuestas de la Encuesta 2 de más arriba. Un ejemplo sería, aunque no está directamente relacionado con las culturas de Nuevo México, el Mercado internacional de arte popular que reúne a personas de diferentes países y culturas de todo el mundo y refleja la riqueza y complejidad de la cultura global.

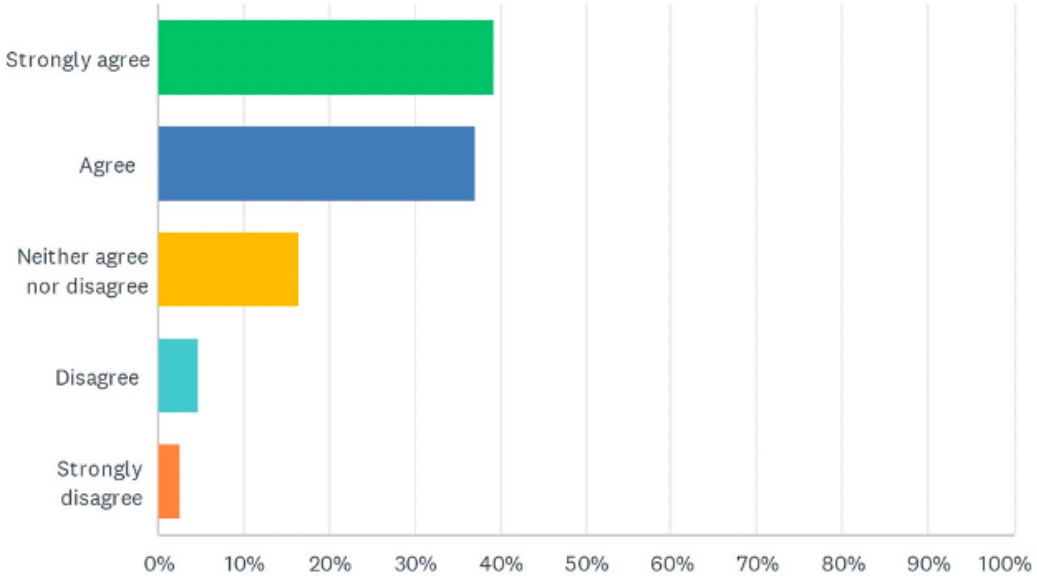

Durante el proyecto CHART, también escuchamos mucho sobre la participación de los residentes más jóvenes en las actividades y eventos culturales. Santa Fe, como gran parte del resto del país, ha visto aumentar su edad promedio. Además, según la página web de la Oficina de Turismo de Nuevo México[36], la edad promedio de los visitantes de Nuevo México sigue siendo alta, de alrededor de 45, mientras que la Encuesta de Información a los Visitantes de 2015 [37] para Santa Fe informa de que la edad promedio de los visitantes fue aún más alta; de 59 años. Esto ha dado lugar a eventos orientados a los adultos mayores, ya sean visitantes o locales.

Muchos participantes de CHART expresaron que este énfasis va en perjuicio de los miembros más jóvenes de la comunidad, al brindarles menos oportunidades de experimentar y aprender sobre la cultura. Las respuestas a las preguntas de la Encuesta 2 confirman lo que los residentes desean en este sentido.

P6 La ciudad de Santa Fe necesita organizar más eventos culturales que sean atractivos para NIÑOS Y JÓVENES.

P7 La ciudad de Santa Fe necesita organizar más eventos culturales que resulten atractivos a personas de las EDADES de entre 20 y 29 años.

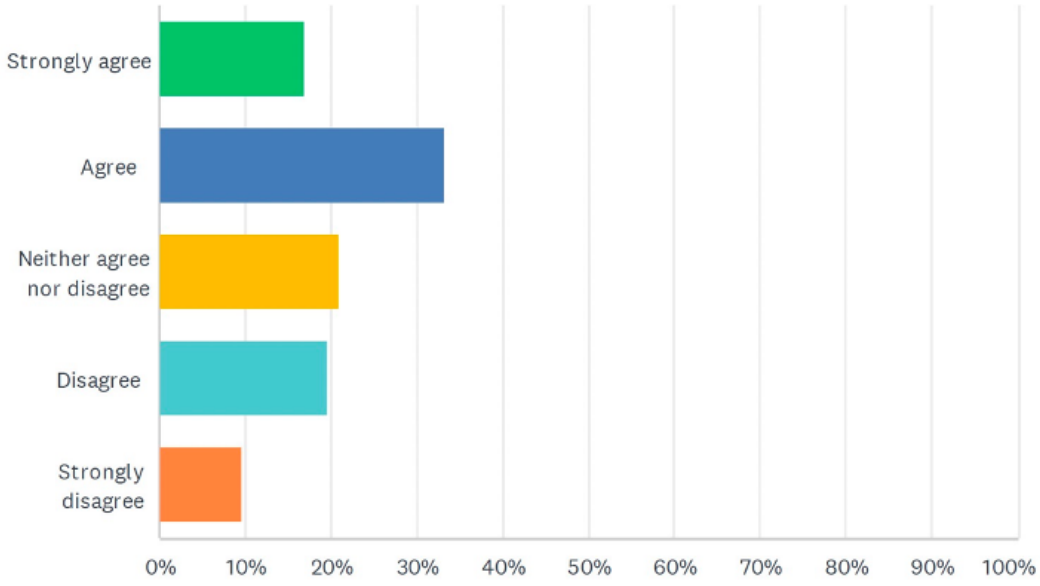

Los santafesinos están de acuerdo (muy de acuerdo y de acuerdo) en que existe una gran necesidad de más eventos de la ciudad dirigidos a los jóvenes y a las personas de entre 20 y 29 años. El setenta y seis por ciento (76%) está de acuerdo en que hay una necesidad de más eventos para niños y jóvenes, mientras que el sesenta y ocho por ciento (68%) está muy de acuerdo o de acuerdo cuando se trata de las edades de entre 20 y 29 años.

Una vez más, CHART reconoce que no todos los eventos que tienen lugar en la ciudad son organizados por la ciudad de Santa Fe y que los eventos organizados por otras organizaciones se orientan más hacia los jóvenes. Aun así, la ciudad debería ser líder en este sentido, organizando más eventos culturales para los santafesinos más jóvenes y utilizando sus capacidades de promoción y concesión de permisos para apoyar a las organizaciones privadas que realizan esta necesaria labor.

Promoción  de la comprensión multicultural recíproca

Debido a que hemos oído hablar con mucha frecuencia del mito tricultural (una campaña de desarrollo de marca turística), a diferencia de la realidad de nuestra comunidad multicultural, hemos incluido una pregunta en la Encuesta 2 diseñada para evaluar si la ciudad está haciendo un buen trabajo de promoción a los visitantes para ayudarles a entender la multiculturalidad.

P8 La ciudad de Santa Fe estimula a los visitantes a entender la comunidad multicultural de Santa Fe

Aproximadamente el 50% de los encuestados de la Encuesta 2 están en general de acuerdo (muy de acuerdo o de acuerdo) con que la ciudad estimula a los visitantes a entender el carácter multicultural de la comunidad de Santa Fe. El 21% no está ni de acuerdo ni en desacuerdo y el 29% está en desacuerdo (en desacuerdo o muy en desacuerdo). Esta respuesta mixta nos pide examinar con mayor detenimiento cómo entienden este tema los visitantes a nuestra ciudad en términos de cultura y si su manera de entenderlo refleja lo que sabemos sobre la Santa Fe contemporánea.

Como resultado de las conclusiones anteriores, presentamos las siguientes recomendaciones:

RECOMENDACIONES: CULTURA

1. En cuanto a los retos relacionados con la expresión cultural y artística en Santa Fe, opinamos que las conclusiones y recomendaciones de la Cartografía Cultural 2017 de la Ciudad de Santa Fe Culture Connects [38] (financiada por la ciudad) aborda estas cuestiones y que deberían seguir aplicándose, en particular las siguientes:

    - "Inspirar la transformación cultural y revitalización de los barrios" (pág.55)
    - "Acelerar la transformación de la ciudad mediante el mejoramiento de espacios abiertos y vacíos, corredores y centros culturales comerciales" (pág.56)
    - "Avanzar en equidad e inspirar la conexión y la transformación de la comunidad" (pág. 57)
    - "Reforzar la capacidad, la sostenibilidad y el impacto del sector cultural" (pág. 58)
    - "Optimizar el impacto del financiamiento de la ciudad de Santa Fe" (pág. 60)
    - "Optimizar la estructura y estrategias operativas de la ciudad de Santa Fe" (pág. 61) para representar la compleja historia de la ciudad. Los participantes recomiendan que la ciudad de Santa Fe:

2. Emprenda un análisis de los eventos que organiza para determinar si éstos celebran las múltiples culturas de la ciudad y del condado;
3. Debería financiar, diseñar y organizar más:

    - eventos multiculturales
    - eventos culturales que resulten atractivos para los NIÑOS Y JÓVENES
    - eventos culturales resulten atractivos para la EDADES de entre 20 y 29 años

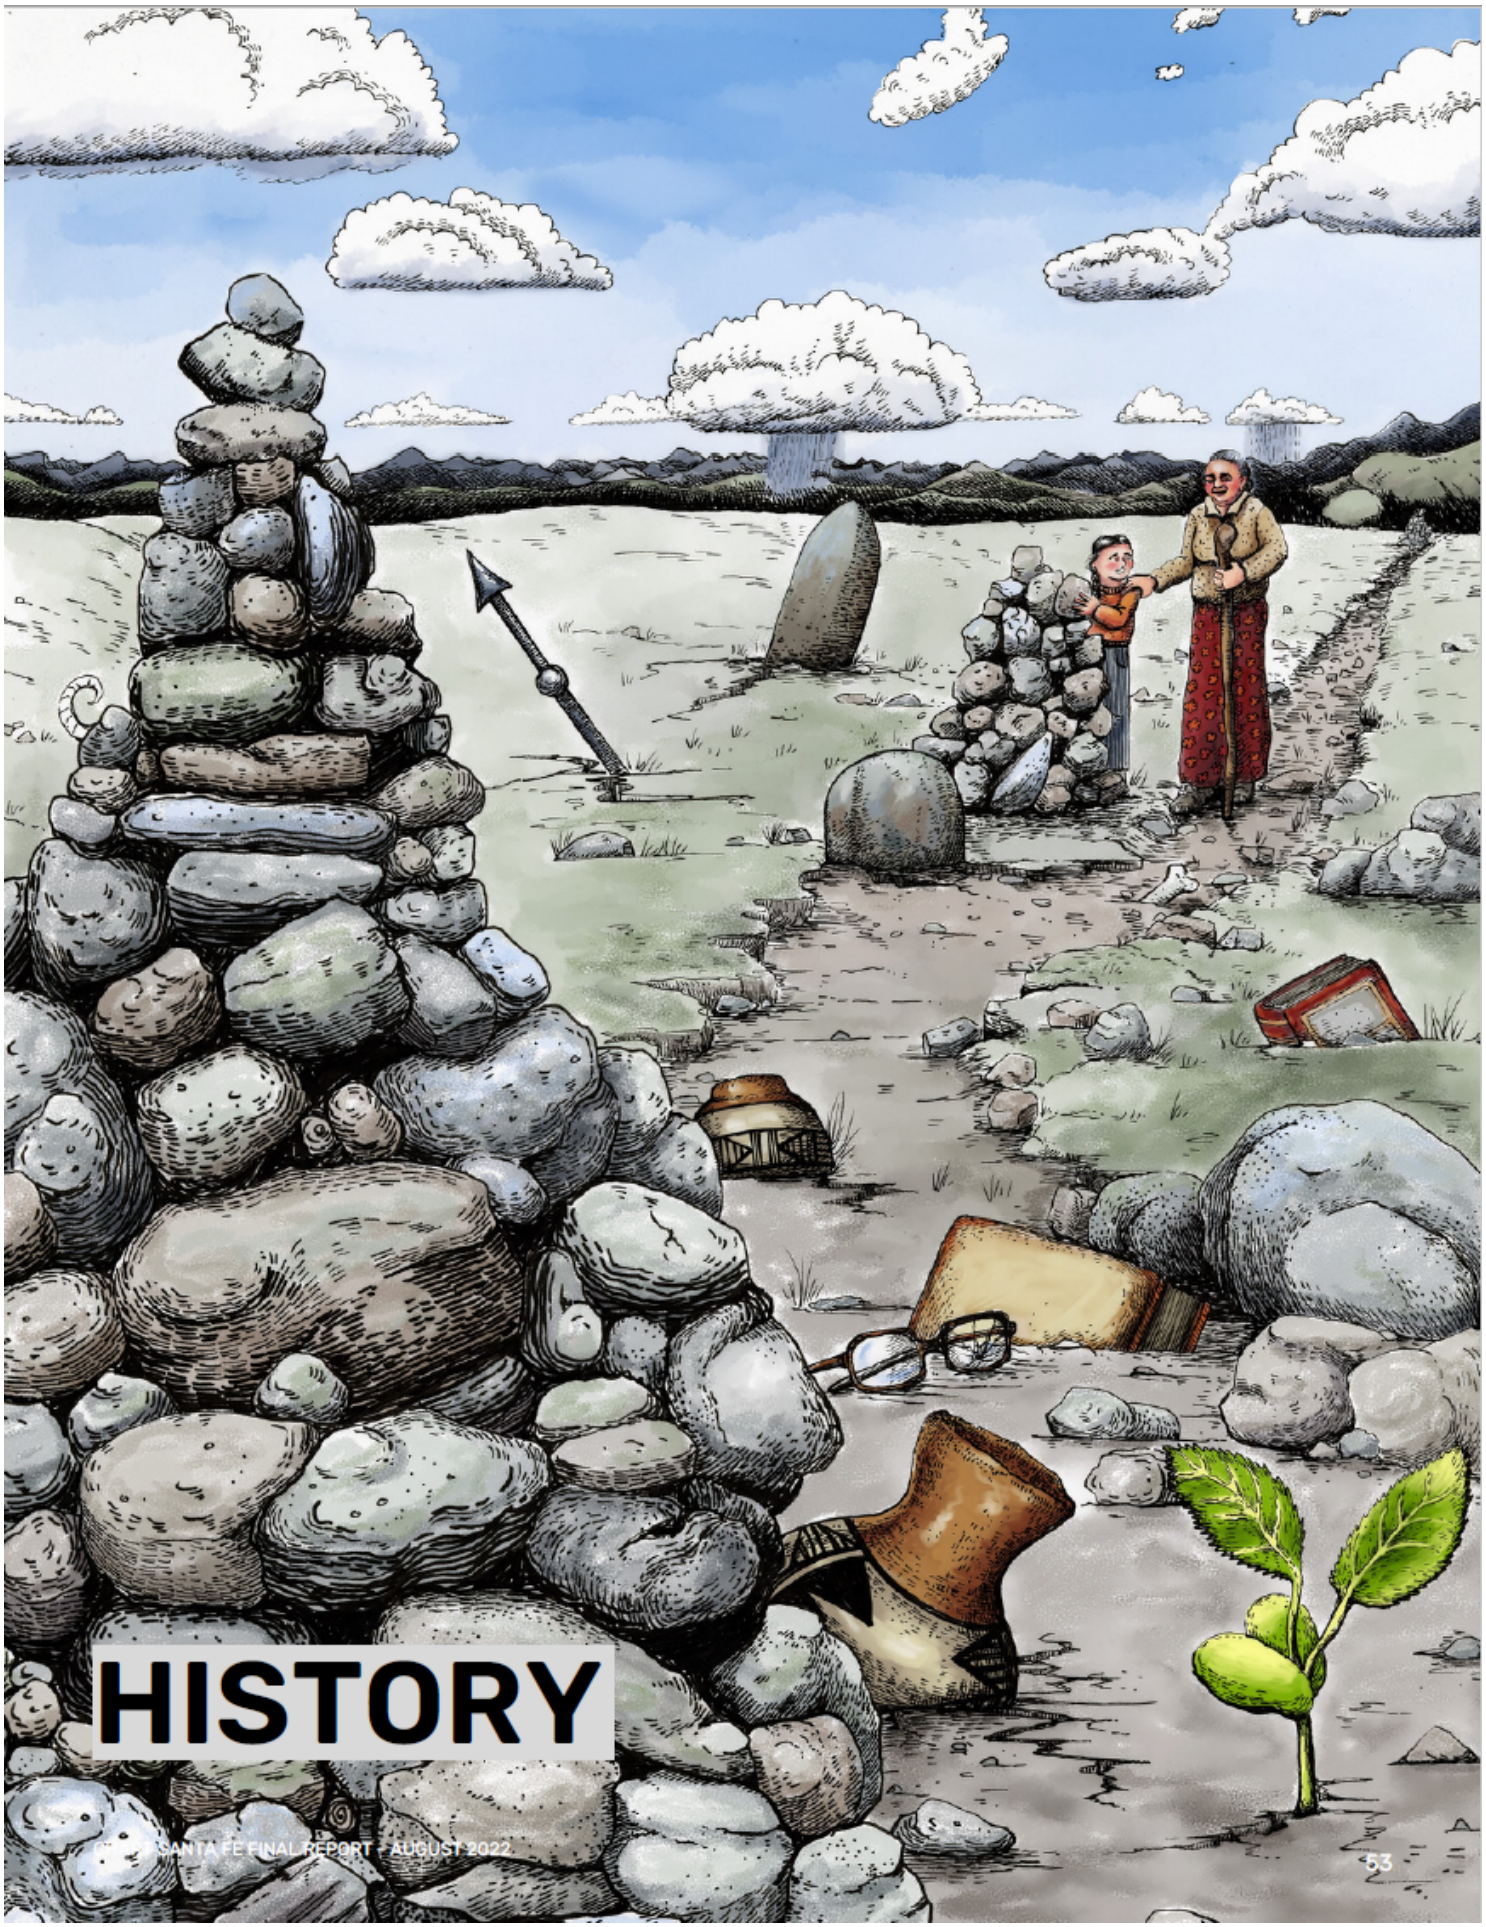

4. Al diseñar estos eventos, la ciudad consulte con las organizaciones comunitarias que atienden a los jóvenes y personas de entre 20 y 29 años para aprender de sus conocimientos y experiencia;
5. Analice su publicidad, mercadotecnia y comunicaciones con los turistas y visitantes para cultivar un mejor entendimiento de la comunidad multicultural de Santa Fe y celebrar la Santa Fe contemporánea.

La Mesa de soluciones comunitarias del proyecto CHART señaló que algunos eventos multiculturales en Santa Fe constituyen una necesidad importante y recomienda lo siguiente:

6. Los eventos multiculturales presentados por la ciudad de Santa Fe deben ser completamente gratuitos para todos.
7. Los eventos multiculturales presentados por la ciudad de Santa Fe deben tener lugar en todos los barrios.
8. Las culturas representadas en los eventos multiculturales de la Ciudad de Santa Fe deben reflejar la diversidad de la población actual de Santa Fe.
9. La ciudad de Santa Fe debe establecer un departamento de "Diversidad, equidad e inclusión" (DEI en inglés o usar otro nombre) para la creación y/o promoción y/o desarrollo de eventos multiculturales. Consulte la sección "Verdad" de este informe para obtener información adicional sobre la recomendación de crear un departamento de DEI.

CHART reconoce que varias de las iniciativas de la ciudad reconocen actualmente la necesidad de eventos multiculturales (entre ellas las del Departamento de arte y cultura). Sin embargo, los participantes de CHART piden más.

HISTORY

“Los santafesinos necesitan desarrollar un profundo sentido del lugar y de la historia, independientemente de que lleven aquí diez generaciones o un año”. –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

“La historia desde la creación del estado no es suficiente para saber algo sobre la larguísima historia del estado”. –Participante en una sesión de diálogo con los Caballeros

“Me parece que es importante que ampliemos la historia de Santa Fe más allá de la historia de los conquistadores para destacar las historias de las poblaciones indígenas y de las comunidades menos conocidas, como las historias de los afroamericanos, los judíos y las poblaciones de Medio Oriente”. –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

"Enseñar historia es fundamental y ser honesto en cuanto a de quién era la tierra en cada momento es primordial. Es importante enseñar que las tierras, los pueblos, las culturas y las naciones son fluidas y siempre han cambiado a lo largo del tiempo. Sin embargo, en el contexto de las tres culturas de Santa Fe, hay que reconocer que ésta fue primero tierra tewa y que Santa Fe fue un pueblo tewa. Sí, los hispanos llevan aquí cientos de años y éste es ahora su hogar, pero fueron colonizadores, como lo fue Estados Unidos hacia ellos. Los hispanos sienten ahora el trauma del colonialismo; algo que los indígenas Pueblo han sentido durante siglos. El colonialismo fue históricamente la “manera” y no hay un lugar en la tierra que no haya sido impactado por el colonialismo. Nosotros, como santafesinos y como ciudadanos de la tierra, tenemos que decidir si el colonialismo es algo que queremos continuar o abandonar. El colonialismo es el alfa y el omega de esta cuestión y es donde deben enfocarse las conversaciones y las decisiones de CHART. Si aceptamos continuar con el colonialismo, entonces todas las culturas del pasado acabarán siendo eliminadas. Si, por el contrario decimos “no más” colonialismo, entonces deberíamos dar voz y justicia a los habitantes originales. Tenemos que dejar de colonizar todos los aspectos de la vida: no más patentes de semillas, no más “propiedad” de las aguas, no más “derechos” de poseer lo que siempre estuvo aquí”. –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

“Un amigo mío dice que la historia de Nuevo México es como la familia. Te peleas pero después te reconcilias”. –Participante en el diálogo público de marzo

“Nuestra historia no es para que la reescribamos; es para que aprendamos y crezcamos gracias a ella”. –Participante en el diálogo público de marzo

“Me parece que hemos pasado de buscar entender mejor la historia a entenderla a nuestro modo o no hacerlo. Nuestra historia es una historia viva y tenemos que encontrar la manera de avanzar”. —Participante en el diálogo público de marzo

“Necesitamos un Museo de Santa Fe que se enfoque específicamente en la historia de la tierra en la que vivimos y en cómo ha cambiado cultural y medioambientalmente. La misión del museo debería ser histórica y de actualidad e incluir una relación con las escuelas públicas para que sea educativa, desde la arqueología hasta la ecología y las artes visuales y escénicas”. –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

“Apoyar diversas perspectivas de educación sobre historia en las escuelas, inclusive para los alumnos más jóvenes, presentadas en forma de narración, música, danza y otras artes”. –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

“Educación, educación, educación. Lo que recuerdo que me enseñaron en la escuela (¡uy!, hace muchos, muchos años) sobre la historia era todo lo que ahora nos hemos dado cuenta de que era tan incompleto e inexacto”. –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

HISTORIA

La letra “H” ocupa el segundo lugar en las siglas de “CHART” pero atraviesa todas las secciones de este informe; por encima, por debajo y a través de sus letras vecinas: cultura, arte, reconciliación y verdad. Todas están relacionadas; todas se influyen entre sí; todas contribuyen a una visión de nuestra historia que es innegablemente laberíntica, enmarañada y polémica.

Los participantes de CHART pasaron doce meses hablando de la historia de Santa Fe y sus puntos de vista son tan variados y diversos como nuestra propia comunidad multicultural. Lo que queda claro a partir de los resultados del proyecto CHART es que existe un gran anhelo de comprender mejor la historia de Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe. Si bien utilizamos el término como si hubiera una sola historia verdadera, los participantes demuestran que la historia de este lugar es variada. Hay múltiples historias paralelas y contradictorias. Diferimos en nuestras opiniones en cuanto a la importancia de los acontecimientos históricos, incluso en los métodos de recopilación y legitimación de la historia. Oímos a algunas personas referirse a la “verdadera historia” de Santa Fe como algo que comienza con la conquista española, confirmada en libros y documentos. La mayoría discrepa rotundamente y acepta una historia de miles de años previos a la conquista; historia contada por el sol, el cielo, el viento, el agua, la tierra y sus criaturas; transmitida tanto en la narrativa oral como en la literatura.

La mayoría de los participantes de CHART expresaron constantemente su deseo de profundizar en el pasado, de incluir la historia de Oga Po'gay antes de la colonización y de aceptar las historias ajenas al mito tricultural. También invitaron a los demás a hacer lo mismo. Según la mayoría, la historia debería, incluir todas las “historias” las de los indígenas, los cautivos, los esclavos, las mujeres, los colonizadores, los inmigrantes, los refugiados y tantos más, con énfasis en las historias que han sido olvidadas, ignoradas o marginadas deliberadamente. En otras palabras, la historia es y debe ser inclusiva y expansiva.

No obstante, las encuestas y el diálogo de CHART revelaron que esta visión expansiva de la historia hace que algunos sientan que la suya se ve desplazada y pierde notoriedad, que es negada voluntariamente. Lo que a muchos les parece es elevar las historias de quienes han sido históricamente marginados, a otros les parece que las propias se ven menospreciadas. Por el contrario, es por el hecho de que se haya derribado el Monumento a los soldados/”obelisco” que estas y otras cuestiones han aflorado durante el proyecto CHART.

Es claro que esta tensión no es nueva; los estudiosos de la historia, especialmente en la era posmoderna, llevan décadas debatiendo la idea de las historias múltiples, la marginación, las narrativas dominantes y la exactitud de la “verdad”. Los acontecimientos de nuestra historia reciente nos exigen que nos ocupemos de estas cuestiones, que reflexionemos y nos vemos obligados a reexaminar los acontecimientos históricos en función de lo que sabíamos, de lo que creíamos saber y de lo que podríamos conocer de forma diferente a medida que el presente arroja luz sobre el pasado.

Lo que sabemos ahora es que los grupos más numerosos de Santa Fe: los indígenas, hispanos, anglosajones/blancos distan mucho de ser monolitos. Los indígenas/nativos se conforman por tribus con diferentes lenguas, historias, tradiciones y estructuras de Gobierno. Los que se identifican como hispanos/latinos descienden de diferentes estirpes, algunos llevan generaciones en Santa Fe y otros de más recién llegada provienen de México y América Latina más recientemente. Los "anglos", que pueden describirse como blancos o euroamericanos proceden de múltiples países, culturas y lenguas. Hablar de cualquiera de las culturas o de su historia en términos heterogéneos puede conducir al error. De igual forma, hubo/hay matrimonios mixtos en Nuevo México (como ocurre en otros lugares) que complican y/o enriquecen lo que somos como santafesinos.

Lo que también sabemos es que, históricamente, la comunidad de Santa Fe es mucho más rica que los pueblos mencionados. La historia africana en Nuevo México comenzó en 1539 cuando Esteban, un moro africano, explorador y miembro original de la expedición de Pánfilo de Narváez que venía desde Cuba visitó el pueblo Zuni.  Después de la Guerra Civil, cerca de 4,000 soldados afroamericanos prestaron servicio en el territorio de Nuevo México bajo el nombre de “soldados búfalo”.  Los inmigrantes chinos que buscaban trabajo en los ferrocarriles y la minería llegaron por primera vez a Nuevo México en grandes cantidades en el siglo XIX. Los nipón-estadounidenses llegaron en circunstancias diferentes y difíciles durante la Segunda Guerra Mundial, con dos campos de internamiento de japoneses ubicados en el estado.

Por supuesto, hay otros grupos de valioso pasado que habitan en nuestra comunidad. Esta “historia de historias” se reflejó en gran parte del diálogo durante el proyecto CHART y, como se comentó en la sección "cultura" anterior, los santafesinos entienden que su ciudad y su condado son multiculturales y desean celebrar sus complejidades.

Debido a esta complejidad, el proyecto CHART organizó una serie de eventos presenciales y en línea gratuitos sobre historia cultural con la participación de expertos en sus áreas para fomentar una interacción compleja con relatos de e historia sobre Santa Fe

Eventos de la serie de historia cultural

Las grabaciones en vídeo de estos eventos están disponibles en el canal de YouTube de CHART Santa Fe

El historiador del estado, Rob Martínez y la historiadora de la ciudad, Valerie Rangel, tomaron como punto de partida la primera pregunta de la Encuesta 1 de CHART: ¿Cómo podemos llegar a entender más plenamente la historia de Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe? Esta conversación tuvo lugar en Zoom el 18 de noviembre de 2021.

El ex historiador del estado, Hilario Romero, presentó “Viaje por el río Santa Fe: pueblo español, historia mexicana de las comunidades del río Santa Fe”, dictada el 21 de marzo de 2022 en el Teatro Paraguas.

La Dra. Setha Low, profesora distinguida, presentó “Espacios públicos y justicia social” el 21 de abril en el Centro de convenciones de la comunidad de Santa Fe. A esta presentación le siguió una activación artística: Crear una plaza.

Cómo salir de nuestra zona de comodidad histórica

En la primera presentación de historia cultural de CHART, el 18 de noviembre de 2021, se presentó la plática del historiador del estado de Nuevo México, Rob Martínez y la historiadora de la ciudad, Valerie Rangel. Un segmento de su plática nos invita a aceptar los retos de una historia compleja de Santa Fe:

> CHART:
> La primera pregunta de la encuesta que formuló CHART fue: ¿Cómo podemos llegar a una comprensión más plena de la historia de Santa Fe? Dedicamos mucho tiempo a esas palabras más plena porque nos pareció que muchos de nosotros tenemos una cierta visión de la historia de la ciudad, pero quizás no del cuadro completo. ¿Cuál es su perspectiva al respecto, necesitamos salir de nuestra zona de comodidad en cuanto a la historia?
> ROB MARTÍNEZ:
> Sí, necesitamos salir de nuestra zona de comodidad. Para mí, entender más plenamente la historia significa también una comprensión más amplia y profunda. Y para conseguirlo todos debemos tener los ojos, las mentes y los corazones abiertos. Y tenemos que salir de nuestra zona de comodidad porque me parece que es nuestra zona de comodidad la que puede crear problemas porque nos impide tener empatía. Necesitamos tener empatía por la gente que no está en nuestra zona de comodidad. Una zona de comodidad es un lugar magnífico para estar si sólo estás tú. Pero la historia aquí en Santa Fe y aquí en el estado de Nuevo México trata de todos nosotros. Se trata de todos. Así que me parece que tenemos que hacer precisamente eso: salir de esas cosas que nos hacen felices y sentirnos bien con la historia, porque la historia no es para eso. No se supone que debe hacernos felices o sentir bien. Se supone que debe enseñarnos. La historia es la maestra y nosotros somos sus alumnos, así que esa forma más profunda de verla es algo en lo que todos tenemos que trabajar. Quiero decir que antes hablábamos de que había un nombre de indígena estadounidense para este lugar antes de que Santa Fe se llamara La Villa Real de la Santa Fe de San Francisco de Asís. Bueno, es cuestión de tener una comprensión más plena de nuestra historia en este lugar y al profundizar y entender que no somos un sólo tipo de gente con un sólo tipo de historia y que la historia se remonta a antes de 1610, se remonta antes de 1608 aquí en esta zona. Hay siglos de historia y cultura y gente; nuestros conciudadanos de Nuevo México que todavía viven con nosotros.

VALERIE RANGEL:
Cuando pienso en una comprensión más plena, debo pensar en otras dinámicas y otros ámbitos que no deben olvidarse y eso es empezar con algo como la migración cultural y las historias del origen. Es sumamente importante. Hay mucha historia inserta en el conocimiento ecológico tradicional. Fue necesario que transcurrieran cientos de miles de años para que la gente aprendiera a comunicarse con la naturaleza, a usar las plantas, a vivir al día con sus medios, de modo que la etnobotánica, la geología y los artefactos, pueden contar una historia sobre cómo vivía la gente en aquel entonces y cómo era el entorno en aquella época. Con frecuencia olvidamos que los humanos fueron científicos, observadores durante mucho, mucho tiempo y registraron acontecimientos históricos especiales importantes, tienen grabados del cosmos y pictografías y petroglifos y ese es otro elemento que no debemos olvidar en nuestra historia.

Cuando pienso también en una perspectiva más completa, hay perspectivas que están ausentes. Y no sólo las mujeres están ausentes en esa perspectiva más completa, sino los esclavos, la gente que llegaba a Nuevo México hace cientos de miles de años para comerciar. ¿Y se imagina a todas esas personas cuando hablaban diferentes lenguas y se reunían y no sólo se comunicaban la historia oral entre sí, sino que contaban historias, contaban leyendas, experiencias vividas, compartían la moda entre sí. Estaban hablando de su último invento y de cómo hacer mejor una receta de chocolate o lo que sea. ¿No es así? Y no utilizaban una sola lengua. Utilizaban el teatro, la danza y la música. Creaban dibujos. Se comunicaban de otras maneras que nosotros olvidamos usar. Y no es sólo la historia oral que se ha transmitido con todos estos matices y conocimientos culturales, sino que todo eso debería ser llevado a una comprensión más plena.

ROB MARTINEZ:
Me gusta lo que decía Valerie sobre considerar la historia desde diferentes perspectivas. Es decir, sí, las mujeres, los esclavos, los marginados y también mirando hacia diferentes disciplinas. Incluso como historiador, considerar la antropología, la arqueología, la sociología, los estudios étnicos, todo ello forma parte de un panorama más amplio que nos ayuda a entender más plenamente la historia y a nosotros mismos. Si no lo hacemos, realmente nos estamos limitando. Estamos limitando nuestra perspectiva y nuestros puntos de vista y tenemos que recordar que cuando leemos un libro con el que no estamos de acuerdo nos ayuda a ampliar nuestra perspectiva. Tenemos que darnos cuenta de que hay voces en los documentos históricos. Sólo tenemos que abordarlos más profundamente. Las mujeres están ahí, están demandando a los hombres que las maltratan. Están comprando y vendiendo tierras y animales. Hay testamentos, donde nos enteramos del tipo de vida que llevaban. Pero debemos buscar estas cosas porque no siempre van a saltar a la vista, pero ahí están.

El otro punto que quiero señalar es que, si decidimos ir más allá de nuestra zona de comodidad, no estamos borrando nuestra historia, no nos estamos deshaciendo de nuestra cultura, sólo estamos añadiéndole, añadiendo a lo que ya está ahí; cosas que tenemos que reconocer y aceptar. Es nuestra herencia. Se trata de nuestra historia aquí en Nuevo México. Nuevo México es un lugar multirracial y multicultural. No perdemos nada por decir, pues, ya sabes, hay un pasado español aquí pero también hay un pasado mexicano. De hecho, nuestro pasado español viene de México, y eso no borra nuestro pasado español sólo nos ayuda a entenderlo un poco mejor que, pues, este es un viaje que esta gente hizo desde España y el norte de África hasta México por el Camino Real siguiendo senderos que ya habían sido trazados por los indígenas de Norteamérica antes de que llegaran los españoles. O los indígenas de Estados Unidos en el Camino de Santa Fe, los indígenas de Norteamérica han atravesado el continente durante siglos, así que tenemos que entender eso y eso nos ayuda a alcanzar una comprensión más profunda. No borra el camino de Santa Fe, ni el camino Real. Sólo nos ayuda a entender que mucha gente contribuyó a hacernos lo que somos hoy.

Donde aprendemos historia

A CHART también le interesaba saber a dónde acuden los santafesinos para aprender sobre historia, con el fin de hacerse una idea qué tipo de recursos son sus preferidos y qué tan extensos son. La P9 de la segunda encuesta nos ayudó a cuantificar los resultados tal y como se muestra a continuación.

P9 ¿Cuál de los siguientes recursos ha utilizado para conocer más sobre la historia de Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe? (Marque todos los que correspondan)

En el siguiente nivel se encuentran el Museo de arte colonial español (44%) y el Museo Wheelwright del indígena estadounidense (39%).

Además de otros recursos identificados en la pregunta, algunos participantes en CHART destacaron la familia, las escuelas, PBS de Nuevo México, los ancianos de las tribus, el Instituto de artes indígenas estadounidenses, el Centro cultural de los pueblos indígenas, los periódicos, la Fundación histórica de Santa Fe y la Asociación de la antigua Santa Fe como fuentes importantes de información histórica.  Estas y otras respuestas se reflejan en la siguiente nube de palabras.

Cómo entender la compleja historia de la ciudad

En la segunda encuesta de CHART también se formularon preguntas importantes sobre los eventos patrocinados por la ciudad y sobre si estimulan a los habitantes y a los visitantes a participar de la compleja historia de la zona. Los resultados son mixtos y por lo tanto interesantes:

En el caso de los residentes, el 38% de los encuestados está en desacuerdo o muy en desacuerdo con la afirmación, mientras que el 37% está en desacuerdo o muy en desacuerdo con que los eventos de la ciudad estimulen a los visitantes a comprender nuestra compleja historia. En ambos casos, el 30% de los encuestados no está ni de acuerdo ni en desacuerdo. En cuanto a estar de acuerdo, el 32% de los encuestados está de acuerdo en que los residentes se sienten estimulados, mientras que el 34% está de acuerdo cuando se trata de los visitantes. Claramente, los santafesinos tienen sentimientos encontrados sobre lo que la ciudad está haciendo actualmente. Cuando se consideran estos resultados en relación con la P14 de la encuesta relativa a si “el entender la compleja historia de Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe mejorará las relaciones entre los residentes de diferentes razas, etnias, culturas y orígenes" (ver más abajo), los resultados de apenas el 30% no son lo suficientemente buenos. En respuesta a la P14, los encuestados estuvieron abrumadoramente de acuerdo en que el entender la compleja historia mejorará las relaciones entre los habitantes que son de diferentes razas, etnias, culturas y orígenes.

Museo de historia de Santa Fe

A lo largo del proyecto, un importante número de participantes en el CHART recomendó la creación de un museo de historia dedicado específicamente a la historia de Santa Fe (lo que un participante denominó un “Museo de historia de Santa Fe”), por lo que planteamos esta pregunta a los habitantes en la Encuesta 2.

P12 Me gusta la idea de un "Museo de historia de Santa Fe" que promueva una comprensión más plena de la historia de Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe.

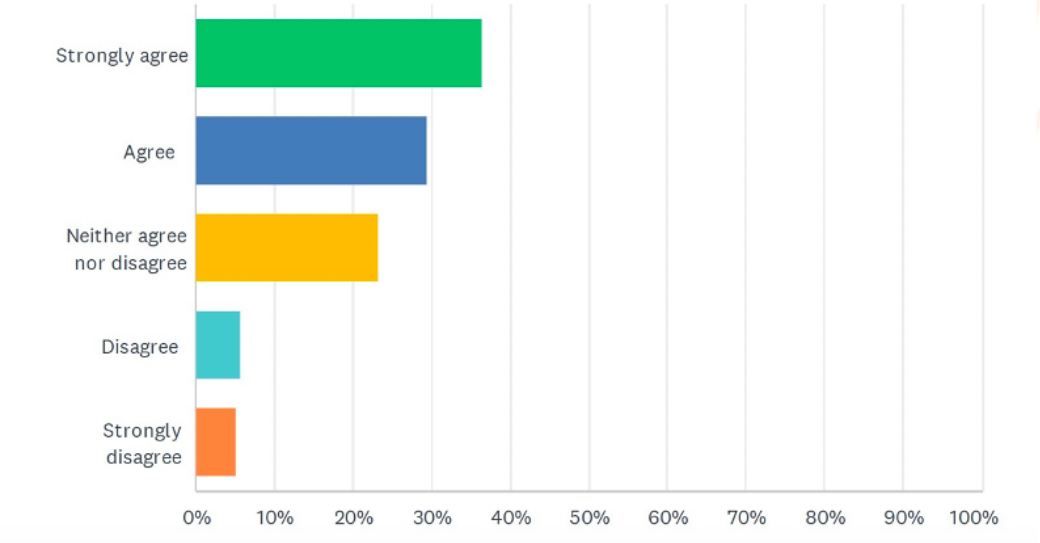

El 69% de los encuestados estuvo de acuerdo o muy de acuerdo en que les gustaba esta idea para promover una mejor comprensión de Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe.

Historia y educación

Además, los participantes de CHART se refirieron repetidamente a la necesidad de que el plan de estudios de educación desde jardín de niños hasta 12° grado mejore su labor en la enseñanza de la compleja historia de Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe. Los resultados de la P13 (mencionados arriba) revelan que el 66% de los encuestados está de acuerdo o muy de acuerdo con esta idea.

P13 En el plan de estudios educativo desde jardín de niños hasta 12° grado se debe hacer un mejor trabajo en la enseñanza de la compleja historia de Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe.

Al mismo tiempo, la mayoría de los encuestados (74%) está de acuerdo o muy de acuerdo en que la comprensión de nuestra compleja historia; de todos nosotros, jóvenes y mayores, mejorará nuestras relaciones recíprocas en una comunidad diversa y multicultural. Esto deja muy claro que el pasado desempeña un papel importante en nuestras relaciones actuales y que el conocimiento histórico profundo, amplio e inclusivo puede marcar la diferencia para el presente y el futuro.

P14 La comprensión de la compleja historia de Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe mejorará las relaciones entre los habitantes de diferentes razas, etnias, culturas y orígenes.

Por las razones y resultados expuestos arriba presentamos las siguientes recomendaciones a la ciudad de Santa Fe.

RECOMENDACIONES: HISTORIA

La ciudad de Santa Fe debería:

1. Emprender una revisión de los eventos/programas históricos, culturales y de otro tipo organizados por la ciudad de Santa Fe para evaluar si estimulan tanto a los residentes como a los visitantes a entender la compleja historia de la ciudad, tal y como se comenta en este informe;
2. La revisión antes mencionada debería contar con un grupo de asesores capacitados, con composición diversa e inclusiva;
3. Utilizar los resultados de las revisiones para mejorar los eventos/programas actuales;
4. Financiar, crear y presentar eventos adicionales que promuevan la comprensión de la compleja historia de Santa Fe y
5. Investigar la posibilidad de crear un museo dedicado específicamente a la compleja historia de Santa Fe que atraiga y beneficie tanto a los residentes como a los visitantes.

La Mesa de soluciones comunitarias del proyecto CHART identificó la educación desde jardín de niños hasta 12° grado y la educación en general sobre la historia de Santa Fe como tema importante y recomienda lo siguiente:

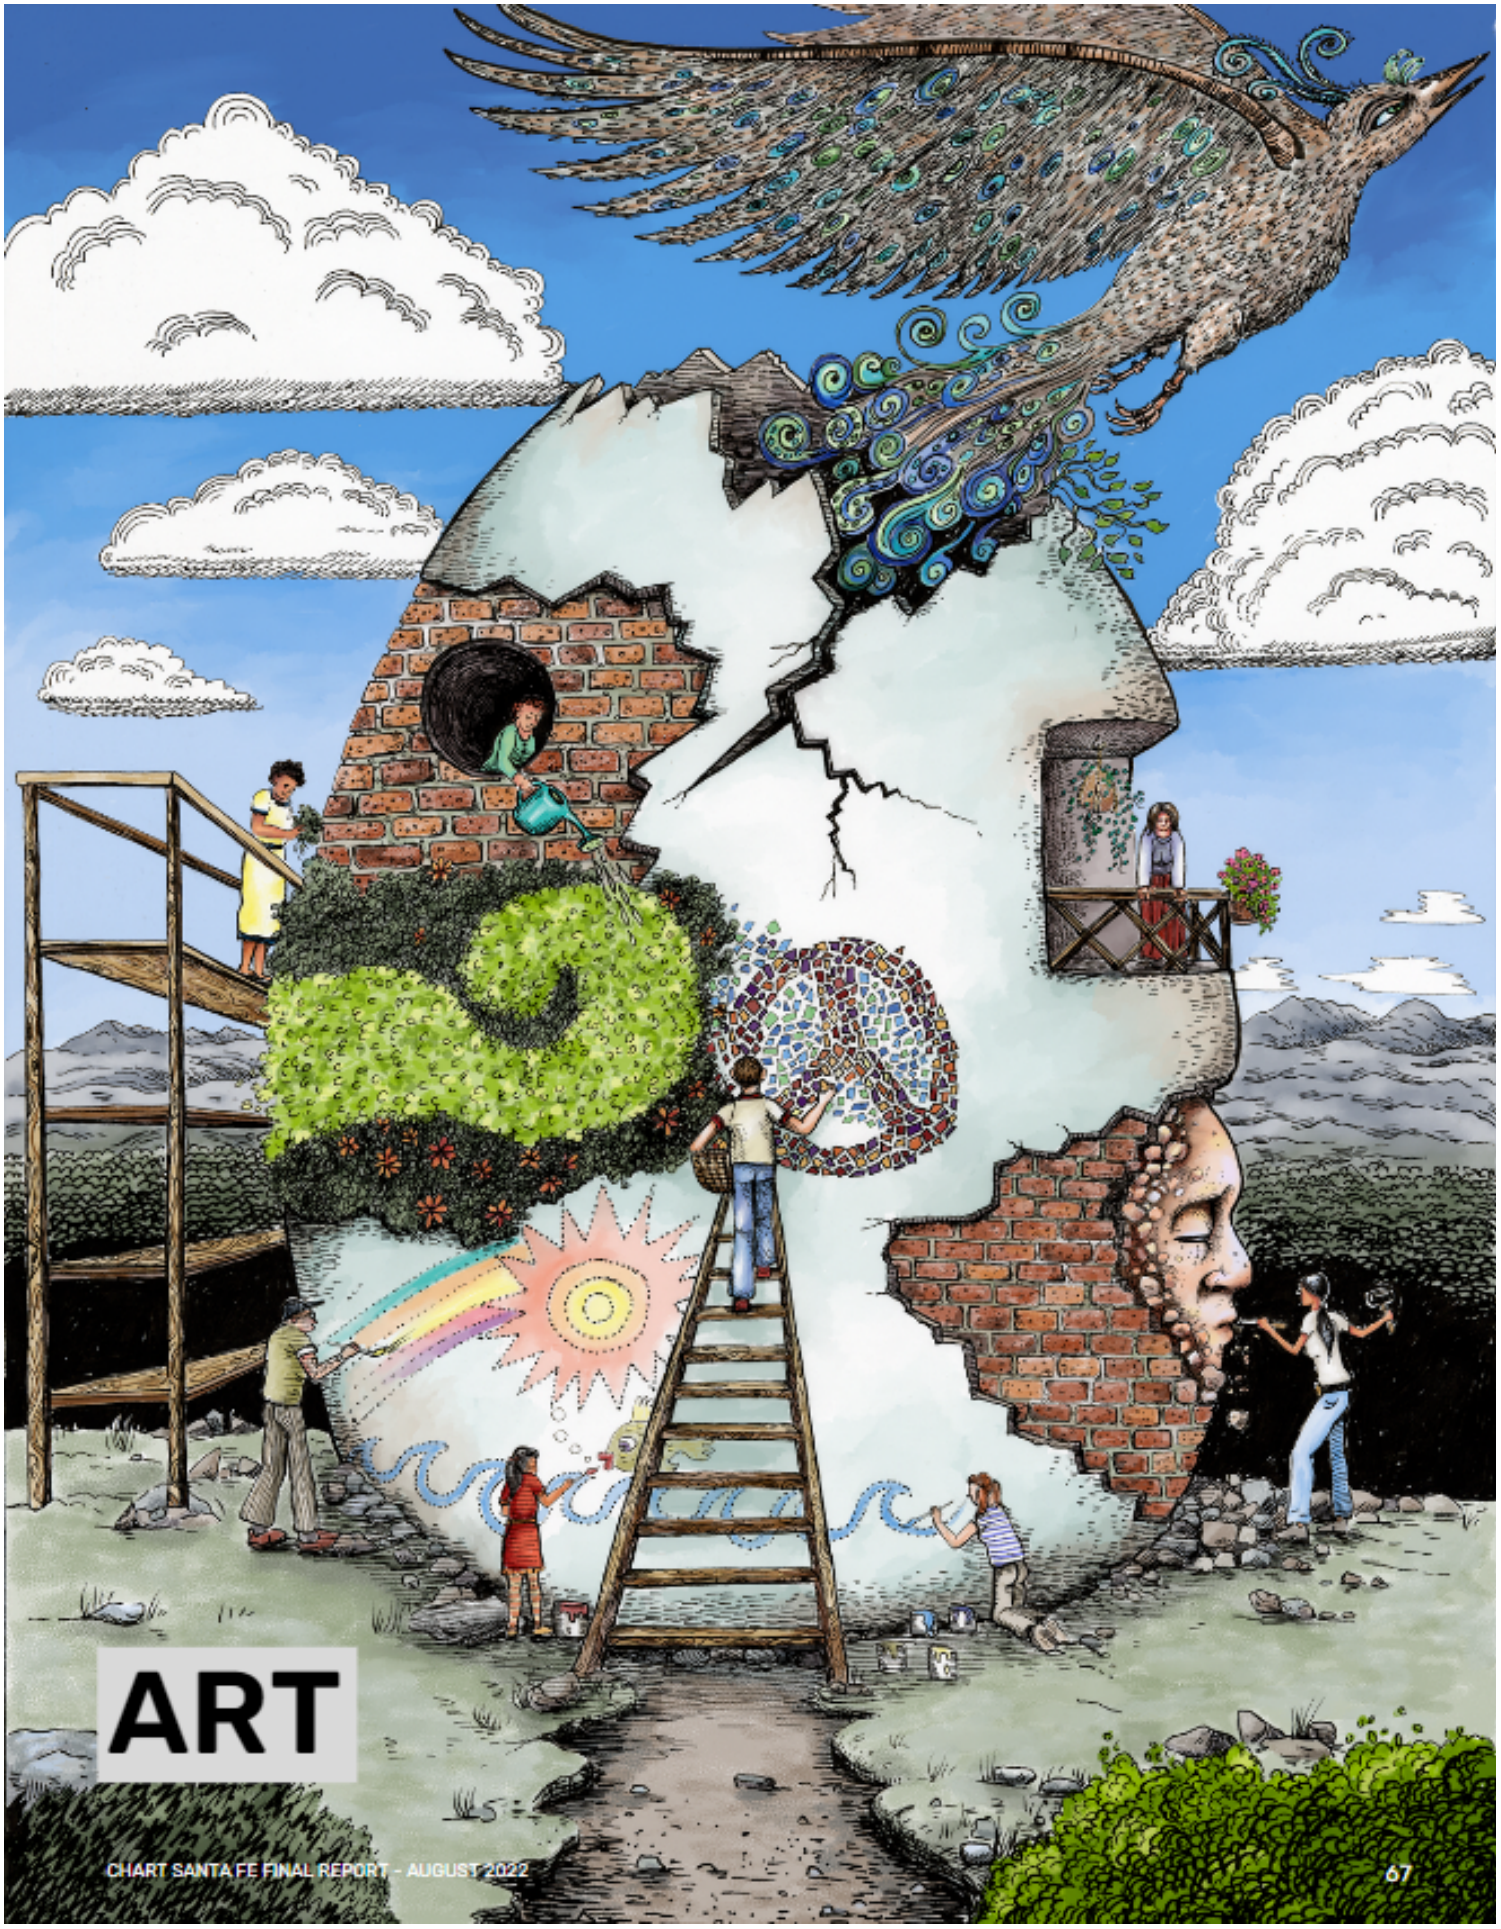

6. La ciudad de Santa Fe debería someter a revisión la historia de Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe, tal y como se enseña en las escuelas públicas de Santa, con base en las normas estatales y que se refleja en las exhibiciones de los museos y en el arte público en términos de su inclusión y su exactitud, reconociendo que a menudo hay versiones diferentes de un mismo acontecimiento(s). Esto es especialmente importante porque Santa Fe es la capital de Nuevo México. La ciudad debería llevar a cabo estas revisiones mediante un grupo de trabajo, comité o comisión competente y diversa, que incluya a representantes de las comunidades indígenas y proponer recomendaciones a las escuelas públicas y museos de Santa Fe, así como a su propio Departamento de arte y cultura.

La Mesa de soluciones comunitarias reconoce la reciente actualización de las Normas de estudios sociales del estado de Nuevo México por parte del Departamento de educación pública de Nuevo México y su labor sobre la diversidad e inclusión de pueblos y perspectivas. https://webnew.ped.state.nm.us/wp-content/uploads/2022/02/NM-Standards-508.pdf [En inglés]

CHART reconoce que la anterior Asesora de educación de la ciudad, Carmen Gonzales (nombrada en 2018 por el alcalde Webber) y la Dra. Verónica García copresidieron un grupo de trabajo de "Apoyo a la educación" que desarrolló algunos puntos de acción[42] (11 de junio de 2018) para la colaboración entre la ciudad y las escuelas públicas de Santa Fe. Si bien la enseñanza de la historia de Santa Fe no se abordó en este documento, podría utilizarse un proceso similar a la recomendación 6, con especial atención a la inclusión de miembros indígenas en el grupo de trabajo.

El lector también puede consultar el Apéndice G para leer las recomendaciones formuladas por los participantes en las respuestas a la Encuesta 1.

ART

“El arte público es intrínseco a la vida pública, especialmente en épocas polémicas y desafiantes y también puede reflejar y responder a cuestiones sociopolíticas e históricas, culturas y experiencias humanas”. –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

“Hay muchas maneras de que todos podremos comprender mejor nuestra historia y cultura únicas. Ofrecemos fantásticos museos, conferencias, programas, eventos, arte, poesía, música, sitios históricos y mucho más y esto debería continuar. Se puede y se debe fomentar una mayor apreciación de los valores e historia de nuestros indígenas Pueblo. Una "Plaza del sur" sería una gran manera de permitir una mayor comprensión recíproca y experiencia de las distintas culturas que viven aquí”. –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

“Permitir que todas las tradiciones locales brillen, no sólo las que generan $$$. Más eventos locales gratuitos y entrada a los museos para las familias que no pueden costearlo. El Railyard es la nueva plaza pero no atiende a los lugareños tanto como a los turistas y a otros y se nota”. –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

“Como afirma la joven poeta y pensadora Amanda Gorman; ‘Nunca subestimes el poder del arte como lengua del pueblo. La poesía es la lente que utilizamos para interrogar a la historia en la que nos basamos y al futuro que defendemos. No es casualidad que en la base de la estatua de la libertad haya un poema. Nuestro instinto es recurrir a la poesía cuando buscamos comunicar un espíritu mayor a nosotros mismos. Cada vez que escribo pongo atención a la historia de las palabras. La historia específica de las palabras en el poema inaugural fue: ‘hemos visto las formas en que el lenguaje ha sido violentado y se ha usado para deshumanizar. ¿De qué forma puedo reclamar el inglés para que podamos verlo como una fuente de esperanza, purificación y conciencia?’” –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

“Compartir experiencias por medio de las artes es una forma excelente de escuchar y procesar esas historias con los demás”. –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

“Una experiencia de teatro en vivo o un vídeo (ya sea un documental/entrevista o gráficos con movimiento) que presenten de forma poderosa y artística diferentes puntos de vista y den espacio a cada uno con la mayor divinidad y empatía humanas. Las perspectivas solicitadas deben expandirse más allá de la tríada de culturas que típicamente se presenta como el rostro de Nuevo México: indígenas de Estados Unidos, españoles y anglosajones. La identidad humana va más allá de su raza. Reconozcamos también la plenitud de quienes viven aquí ahora y el por qué eligieron estar aquí”. –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

“...el medio artístico de Santa Fe se encuentra casi exclusivamente en el centro de la ciudad, por lo que hay más actividad económica en la zona y por lo tanto más prosperidad económica en las propiedades circundantes. Esto genera una tendencia de la que se ha desarrollado en gran medida en los últimos 50 años. Menos gente de color que haya heredado la lengua, la cultura, el arte y demás de las familias de ascendencia latina/mexicana que vivían en el distrito ahora “histórico”. Sin esa comunidad, el distrito no tendría la cultura que hizo que la zona fuera tan popular. A decir verdad, no podemos tener una cultura de admiración y colaboración si las diferentes piezas de ese mosaico se ven aún más privadas del crecimiento de la cultura en cuestión”. –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

ARTE

Al centro de la sigla de CHART está la letra “A” de Arte. Así es la comunidad de Santa Fe, ya sea que se refleje en las líneas y curvas de las mesetas, las montañas, el lecho del río, las suavemente perfiladas esquinas del adobe y el brillo de los techos de metal, la joyería, los santos, los tapetes, la cerámica, la moda, los murales, la escultura, la poesía, la ópera, el teatro, la danza, los monumentos, los museos, las experiencias artísticas de inmersión, las puestas de sol interrumpidas por el arco iris y más. El arte también es ritual; secular y espiritual: Zozobra, el desfile de las mascotas, la danza del aro, la danza del venado, las posadas, el Sabbat, el encendido de velas, la oración ritual.

En Santa Fe, el arte se comercializa vigorosamente para los turistas, pero el “arte”, en su sentido más amplio, es una parte integral de la vida cotidiana de los habitantes y tiene el potencial de hacer mucho más que atraer visitantes y generar ingresos. Puede reflejar la comunidad multicultural de Santa Fe y, al hacerlo, fortalecer las relaciones entre los habitantes y promover la comprensión entre la gente, la historia, el lugar y el patrimonio.

Durante la ejecución del proyecto CHART, oímos hablar mucho del arte, incluidos los monumentos, los monumentos dedicados a personajes y las obras de arte público. Queda claro que:

- Los santafesinos valoran las artes y el lugar que éstas ocupan en el corazón de la vida comunitaria;
- Los residentes opinan que las artes tienen una capacidad única para expresar diversas identidades, culturas, tradiciones y perspectivas;
- Los residentes perciben una distribución geográfica desigual del arte público (y su financiación/ingresos asociados a él) en la ciudad y el condado;
- Los residentes opinan que el “mito tricultural” no representa la población actual de Santa Fe, margina a ciertos habitantes y comunidades y representa erróneamente a la comunidad;
- Algunas obras de arte, especialmente en forma de monumentos, requieren una nueva atención y una evaluación cuidadosas que incluyan un proceso público inclusivo;
- Las controversias sobre los monumentos (en particular el Monumento a los soldados/“obelisco”) han afectado profundamente a la comunidad de Santa Fe, al tiempo que nos han impulsado a abordar problemas de larga data; y
- Las artes tienen una capacidad única para promover la verdad, la sanación y la reconciliación.

Durante el proyecto, las conversaciones sobre el arte se centraron comúnmente en si las obras públicas reflejaban adecuadamente la diversidad de la población actual y el proceso (qué fue lo que salió mal con el Monumento a los soldados y qué debería hacerse con los monumentos). En esta sección, comenzaremos con lo que los participantes de CHART tuvieron que decir sobre el arte público y sobre el proceso, abordaremos el programa “Sueños y conversaciones monumentales” de CHART y entonces dirigiremos nuestra atención al Monumento a los soldados/“obelisco”.

Al igual que en el resto de las secciones de este informe, es importante mencionar que los resultados y las recomendaciones se basan en la gran cantidad de datos recopilados a lo largo de 11 meses de actividades de participación pública.

Arte público

> “En pocas palabras, el arte público es el arte en los espacios públicos. El término "arte público" puede evocar imágenes de históricas estatuas de bronce de un soldado a caballo en un parque. Hoy en día, el arte público puede adoptar una amplia gama de formas, tamaños y escalas, y puede ser temporal o permanente. A menudo interpreta la historia del lugar, su gente y quizás aborda una cuestión social o medioambiental. El arte público puede incluir murales, esculturas, monumentos dedicados a personajes, obras arquitectónicas o paisajísticas integradas, arte comunitario, nuevos medios digitales ¡e incluso presentaciones artísticas y festivales!”. [43]

A efectos de este informe, CHART utiliza el “Arte” como un término general que incluye el arte público, los monumentos y los monumentos dedicados a personajes. A veces, durante el proceso de CHART, los participantes hablaron de los tres tipos bajo el mismo concepto y otras veces (especialmente en lo que respecta a las controversias actuales) optaron por separar el arte público de los otros dos.

Somos conscientes de que las líneas divisorias entre las obras de arte público, los monumentos y los monumentos dedicados a personajes son, en el mejor de los casos, temporales. Históricamente, las obras de arte público han generado controversias tan violentas como cualquier otra en torno a los monumentos y monumentos dedicados a personajes, incluido el "Mural multicultural", de Gilberto Guzmán, en el sitio para el nuevo Museo de arte de Nuevo México (NMMOA) Vladem Contemporary. En este informe hacemos todo lo posible para honrar las diferencias que resaltaron los participantes de CHART, así como los puntos en común.

La segunda encuesta de CHART incluyó una sección sobre arte con preguntas basadas en las respuestas recibidas de las participantes, recopiladas durante los primeros 8 meses del proyecto. Las preguntas de la encuesta se diseñaron para confirmar (o negar) lo que habíamos escuchado en el transcurso la participación pública, así como para confirmar algunas de las diferencias que habíamos escuchado.

Las respuestas a la P20 nos indican si los santafesinos quieren ver más arte público definido como “arte creado para el público en general a través de un proceso público”.

P20
Santa Fe necesita más arte público (arte creado para el público en general a través de un proceso público).

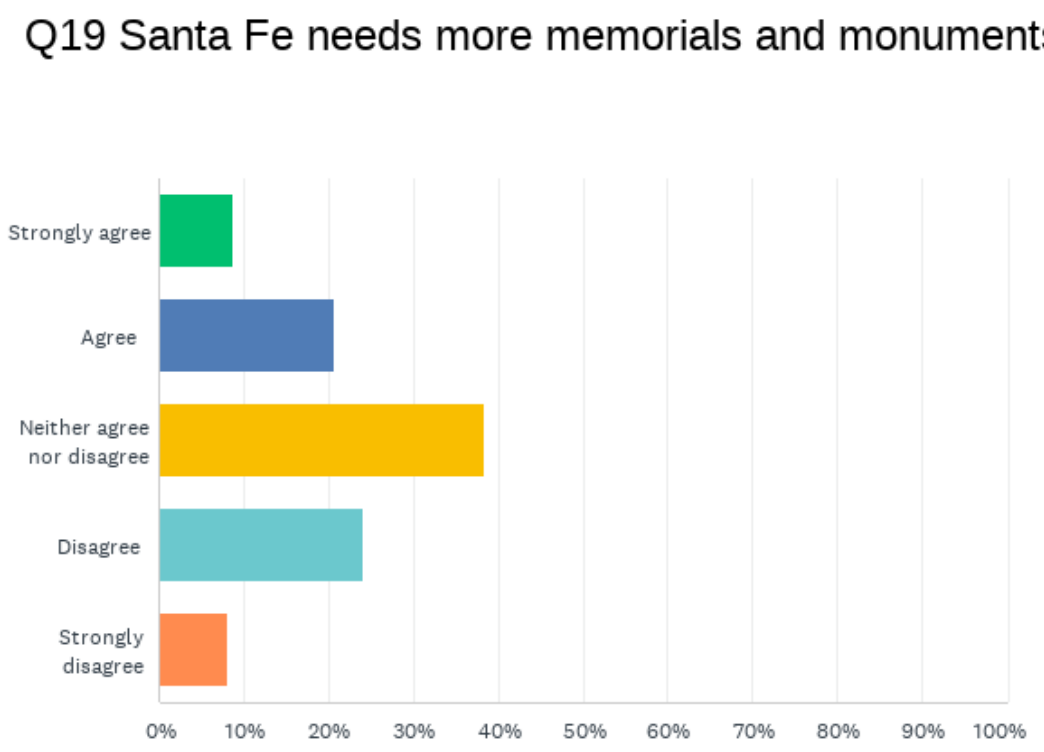

[43] Arte Público| Americans for the Arts [En inglés]

Más del 70% de los santafesinos está de acuerdo o muy de acuerdo en que Santa Fe necesita más arte público. Este resultado refleja lo escuchado durante muchos meses de interacción: un menor énfasis en más arte para los turistas y uno mayor en arte para habitantes.

Los resultados de la P20 contrastan notoriamente con las respuestas a la P19 (“Santa Fe necesita más monumentos y monumentos dedicados a personajes”).

P19
“Santa Fe necesita más memoriales y monumentos.”

Aquí, sólo el 29.4% está de acuerdo o muy de acuerdo con la afirmación. Debido a este contraste, interpretamos que los datos indican que los habitantes opinan que Santa Fe necesita más arte público que no sea monumentos ni monumentos dedicados personajes.

Diversidad y distribución

Durante el proyecto, CHART también escuchó con frecuencia hablar sobre el “mito tricultural”, una campaña de desarrollo de marca de obstinada persistencia y las diferentes formas en las que tergiversa a la comunidad, perpetúa los estereotipos culturales y margina las artes de las tradiciones culturales distintas a las de la “triada”.

> “Santa Fe está conformada por una amplia gama de culturas y etnias que van más allá del mito tricultural que se perpetúa aquí”.

Por esta razón, CHART incluyó la siguiente pregunta en la segunda encuesta para saber cómo se relacionan estas opiniones con las obras de arte público actuales en Santa Fe. Los resultados son interesantes:

P21
“Las obras de arte público actuales en Santa Fe reflejan la diversidad de sus residentes.”

Menos de la mitad (41%) de los encuestados está de acuerdo o muy de acuerdo en que “las actuales obras de arte público de Santa Fe reflejan la diversidad de sus habitantes”; el 29% no está ni de acuerdo ni en desacuerdo y el 30% está en desacuerdo o muy en desacuerdo con esta afirmación. Dado que los resultados son mixtos, aproximadamente de cincuenta y cincuenta, CHART examinó los resultados en función de la raza y el origen étnico autoidentificados por los encuestados:

Agree or Strongly Agree: "Current works of public art in Santa Fe reflect the diversity of its residents"

| | % |
|---|---|
| Asian American or Pacific Islander | 25 |
| Black or African American | 20 |
| Hispanic or Latino | 43 |
| Native American or Alaskan Native | 34 |
| White or Caucasian | 41 |
| Multiracial or Biracial | 46 |
| A race/ethnicity not listed here | 34 |

Sólo el 20% de los encuestados que se identifican como negros o afroamericanos creen que las obras de arte actuales reflejan la diversidad de la comunidad y el 25% de los que se identifican como asiáticos o isleños del Pacífico les siguen de cerca. Todos los porcentajes anteriores están por debajo o muy por debajo del 50% e indican que la mayoría de los encuestados no ven reflejada la diversidad de la comunidad en el arte público.

CHART formuló una pregunta relacionada (P22) en la Encuesta 2 basada en lo que escuchamos durante la fase de aportación pública del proyecto sobre si "Hay arte público en todos los barrios de Santa Fe":

Más del 65% de los encuestados está en desacuerdo o muy en desacuerdo con esta afirmación y el 24% no está ni de acuerdo ni en desacuerdo. Algo menos del 11% está de acuerdo o muy de acuerdo. Existe un fuerte consenso aquí de que el arte público, una forma muy importante de reflejar y celebrar a la gente, el lugar y la cultura, no está situado equitativamente por toda la ciudad y el condado.

En respuesta a los resultados anteriores, hacemos las siguientes recomendaciones relativas a la diversidad y distribución del arte público en Santa Fe.

RECOMENDACIONES: DIVERSIDAD Y DISTRIBUCIÓN DEL ARTE PÚBLICO

1. La ciudad de Santa Fe debería asignar más recursos al Departamento de arte y cultura para apoyar la creación de más arte público;
2. El Departamento de arte y cultura debe reconocer la distinción que los santafesinos hacen entre arte y monumentos/monumentos dedicados a personajes y centrar sus esfuerzos en nuevas obras de arte público que no sean monumentos ni monumentos dedicados a personajes;
3. Las nuevas obras de arte público deben reflejar la población actual y multicultural de Santa Fe y resistir el "mito tricultural";
4. Las campañas de turismo de la ciudad de Santa Fe deberían concentrar sus esfuerzos en aclarar el mito tricultural de Santa Fe;
5. Las nuevas obras de arte público (distintas de los monumentos dedicados a personajes y monumentos) deben distribuirse más equitativamente entre los barrios y espacios de la ciudad y el condado;
6. La creación de nuevas obras de arte debería adherirse a los procesos recomendados en la sección siguiente; y
7. La creación de nuevas obras de arte público debería involucrar a los ciudadanos, especialmente a los que viven en el lugar donde se ubicará la nueva obra de arte, en la concepción y el diseño de las nuevas obras de arte.

Sueños y conversaciones monumentales

Como corolario del diálogo y de los resultados de la encuesta sobre el arte público, un programa especial del proyecto CHART puso al descubierto información adicional sobre los tipos de obras imaginadas por los santafesinos para su comunidad. El contrato de CHART con la ciudad de Santa Fe exigía una activación artística que "involucraría a la comunidad artística y cultural de Santa Fe a producir entre 5 y 8 activaciones artísticas siguiendo el modelo de los Monumentos de Papel, aunque no exclusivamente".

Proyecto Monumentos de Papel de Nueva Orleans:

> "es un proyecto de arte e historia públicos diseñado para elevar las voces de la gente de Nueva Orleans, como un proceso crítico hacia la creación de nuevas narrativas y símbolos de nuestra ciudad que representen nuestras concepciones colectivas y para honrar las historias borradas de personas, eventos, movimientos y lugares que han conformado los últimos 300 años mientras dirigimos la mirada hacia el futuro". [44]

La versión del proyecto de CHART, "Sueños y conversaciones monumentales" (véase la descripción completa, en el Apéndice I) preguntó a los santafesinos: "¿Qué cosa amerita un monumento, un monumento dedicado a personajes o una obra de arte en Santa Fe?" e invitó a cualquier residente de la ciudad o del condado a presentar una propuesta sencilla. El objetivo era crear un conjunto de posibles monumentos, monumentos dedicados a personajes y obras de arte público que comunicaran lo que es importante para los habitantes de la ciudad y el condado de Santa Fe, así como generar conversaciones sobre los movimientos, acontecimientos, cosas, lugares y personas que son importantes para los habitantes.

CHART invitó a artistas y no artistas, por igual, a presentar propuestas e hizo hincapié en que no se requería ninguna especialización (es decir, habilidades artísticas). Las respuestas de texto simple eran tan aceptables como las imágenes y dibujos más complejos. La respuesta fue sólida y diversa. Recibimos 85 propuestas de la más amplia variedad, incluyendo las provenientes de niños, adolescentes y adultos, así como de organizaciones. Todas ellas pueden consultarse en la página web de CHART en “Propuestas”.

Con el propósito de cumplir con el aspecto de “conversaciones” del programa, CHART expuso las propuestas para que el público las tuviera a la vista, las comentara y dialogara en dos eventos, el 11 de junio y el 17 de julio y también proporcionó los medios para que cualquiera pudiera ver las propuestas y enviar comentarios públicos en línea. Hubo decenas de “conversaciones” derivadas de las propuestas presentadas en los eventos presenciales de la “galería” o mediante comentarios en línea. En total, CHART recibió 737 comentarios (de 144 personas) sobre las propuestas. A continuación encontrará información adicional sobre las propuestas.

En cuanto a lo que los santafesinos valoran (tal y como se refleja en las propuestas), la gama fue amplia. Sin embargo, surgieron algunos temas comunes. Veinticuatro de las 85 propuestas honraban el mundo natural: el agua, el sol, la tierra, los árboles, las puestas de sol, los árboles, las semillas, incluso las abejas, así como la restauración del hábitat. Varias propuestas incluyen fuentes de agua, así como elementos de agua simbólicos que reconocen que “el agua es vida para todos”. Catorce de las 85 propuestas rinden homenaje a la diversa comunidad de Santa Fe, honrando las “diversas culturas”, las “culturas combinadas” y la idea de “muchos viajes, un mundo”. Otras 14 están dedicadas a los héroes, especialmente a los veteranos (“Nuevomexicanos en el bando de la Unión en la guerra civil”) y a las mujeres (a Claudette Covin, a la Virgen de Guadalupe, Mujeres de Nuevo México). Seis de las propuestas honran a los ancestros, a los ancianos y a las familias y cinco están dedicadas a los adolescentes: sus sueños, sus deseos de irse, incluso sus malos comportamientos. Cuatro hacen hincapié en la historia indígena antes de la colonización, en la identidad y la cultura indígenas y en la “historia a menudo silenciada de la esclavitud indígena”. Otras propuestas honran la memoria, los artistas, la música, los derechos civiles, la libertad y la justicia, la paz/la no violencia, conejitos juguetones y abrazos.

Invitamos al lector de este informe a que dedique un poco de tiempo a leer las propuestas en la página web de CHART.

Hubo un gran interés en estas propuestas por parte de los santafesinos. A través de los eventos presenciales y de la presentación de diapositivas en línea, CHART recibió más de 760 comentarios sobre las propuestas: elogios, críticas, análisis y mucho más, a medida que los habitantes se percataban de aquello que los santafesinos desean honrar y conmemorar a través del arte público.

Las propuestas del programa de Sueños y conversaciones monumentales constituyen un recurso vital a considerar y para estimular la conversación: son una imagen instantánea de lo que los habitantes podrían ver al transitar por los espacios públicos de los barrios de su comunidad.

RECOMENDACIÓN: “SUEÑOS Y CONVERSACIONES MONUMENTALES”

Debido a la entusiasta respuesta al proyecto CHART “Sueños y conversaciones monumentales”, efectuamos las siguientes recomendaciones:

1. El Departamento de arte y cultura de la ciudad de Santa Fe debería considerar las propuestas presentadas y los comentarios del público sobre el proyecto “Sueños y conversaciones monumentales” de CHART en sus deliberaciones sobre qué tipo de nuevos monumentos, monumentos dedicados a personajes y obras de arte podrían crearse para la comunidad de Santa Fe.

Proceso: Creación y evaluación del arte público (incluidos los monumentos y monumentos dedicados a personajes)

> "A medida que caen los monumentos y las estatuas en todo Estados Unidos, los activistas y las ciudades se preguntan qué hacer con los espacios vacíos que una vez honraron a figuras históricas relacionadas con generales confederados y conquistadores españoles. La oportunidad de reimaginar los espacios ha desembocado en un debate: ¿Qué historias debería ahora honrar Estados Unidos de América la historia y por qué?" [45]

El "Qué hacer" con los monumentos y monumentos dedicados a personajes nos lleva a la idea del proceso: ¿Cómo se toman las decisiones para crear, evaluar y (si es necesario) descartar el arte público? ¿Quién forma parte del proceso? ¿Qué tipo de limitaciones existen?

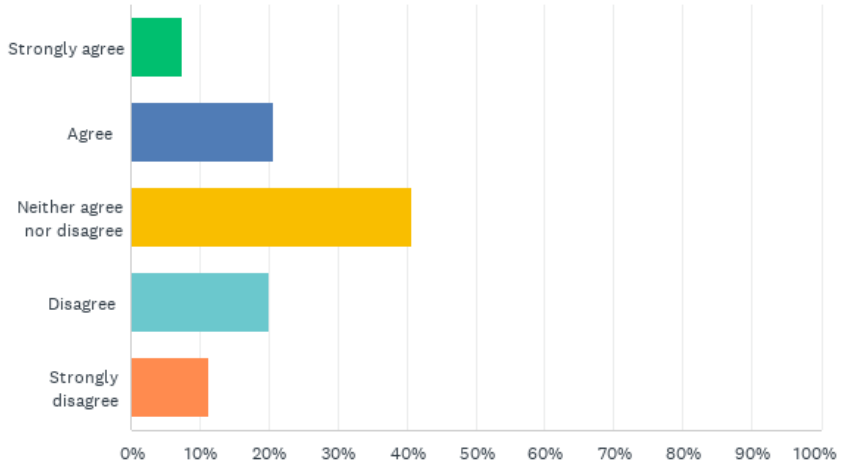

Muchos de los encuestados de la Encuesta 1 hicieron referencia al proceso, especialmente a lo que ocurrió y no ocurrió con el Monumento a los soldados/"obelisco". Escuchamos lo mismo durante la fase de diálogo público de CHART. Esto llevó a conversaciones relacionadas (con muchas preguntas) sobre los procesos relacionados con el arte público, en general. Debido a esto, CHART incluyó varias preguntas en la Encuesta 2 que pretendían darnos una idea más clara de lo que los habitantes saben y no saben sobre dichos procesos.

Las gráficas, a continuación, muestran los resultados:

P15
"Actualmente, la Ciudad de Santa Fe tiene un proceso para crear nuevos monumentos públicos, memoriales y obras de arte público (arte creado para el público en general a través de un proceso público)."

[45] 8 de julio de 2020, Washington Post, Russell Contreras, "Monuments and statues are falling. But what comes next?"[Los monumentos y las estatuas están cayendo. Pero ¿Qué sigue?] [En inglés]

Q15 Currently, the City of Santa Fe has a process for creating new public monuments, memorials, and works of public art (art created for the general public through a public process).

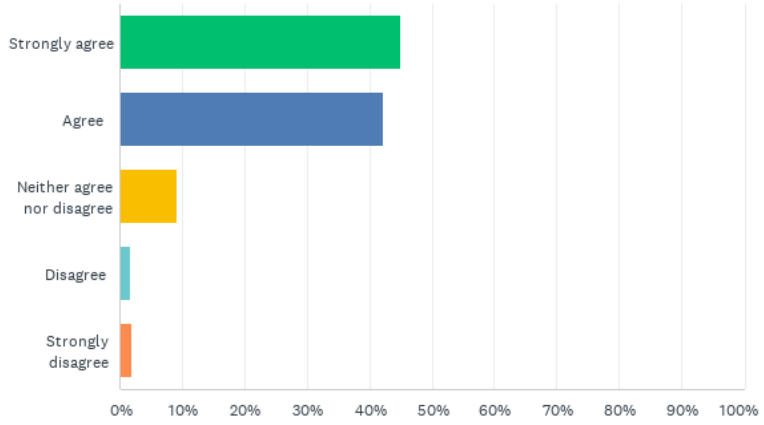

Las respuestas a las preguntas P15 y P16 fueron similares en lo que respecta a que los encuestados NO están ni de acuerdo ni en desacuerdo con que existan procesos tanto para crear como para oponerse a monumentos, monumentos dedicados a personajes y obras de arte (40.56% y 40.79% respectivamente).

En cuanto a la creación de obras (P15), el 28% está muy de acuerdo o de acuerdo en que la ciudad cuenta con un proceso, mientras que el 19% (P15) está muy de acuerdo o de acuerdo en que existe un proceso de oposición. Por otro lado, el 31% de los encuestados está en desacuerdo o muy en desacuerdo con que exista un proceso de creación de obras mientras que el 40% está en desacuerdo o muy en desacuerdo con que exista un proceso de oposición.

En lo que respecta a las aportaciones del público durante estos procesos, los resultados de la P17 proporcionan una clara directriz a la ciudad de Santa Fe en cuanto al papel de las aportaciones del público en las decisiones sobre monumentos públicos, monumentos dedicados a personajes y obras de arte.

P17
“La Ciudad de Santa Fe debe pedir a los residentes sus opiniones cuando tomar decisiones sobre monumentos públicos, memoriales y obras de arte.”

Q17 Public input should be part of the City of Santa Fe's decisions about public monuments, memorials, and works of art.

Más del 87% de los encuestados están de acuerdo o muy de acuerdo en que las aportaciones del público deben formar parte de los procesos de toma de decisiones en torno al arte público.

Estos resultados de la encuesta confirman lo que hemos escuchado a lo largo del proyecto CHART. Tanto si los procesos están actualmente en marcha como si no, muchos habitantes no están seguros de que existan o dudan de su existencia. Además, el apoyo a las aportaciones del público en relación con estos procesos es abrumador. Por ello, el CHART hace varias recomendaciones importantes sobre los procesos en torno a los monumentos, los monumentos dedicados a personajes y las obras de arte público en la sección “Recomendaciones” que se presentan a continuación.

RECOMENDACIONES: PROCESOS - MONUMENTOS PÚBLICOS, MONUMENTOS DEDICADOS A PERSONAJES Y OBRAS DE ARTE

La Mesa de soluciones comunitarias del proyecto CHART identificó los procesos en torno al establecimiento, la evaluación y la oposición a monumentos/monumentos dedicados a personajes/obras de arte públicas como una cuestión importante y recomienda lo siguiente:

1. La ciudad de Santa Fe debería establecer y aplicar oportunamente una política oficial, procesos y/o disposiciones para la creación/construcción de monumentos, monumentos dedicados a personajes y obras de arte públicas;
2. La ciudad de Santa Fe debería establecer, e implementar, de manera oportuna, procesos y/o disposiciones oficiales para expresar oposición a monumentos públicos, monumentos y obras de arte;
3. Si tales políticas y procesos ya existen, la información debería ser fácilmente accesible en el sitio web de la ciudad, con información sobre qué departamento/división de la ciudad es responsable de ellos, cómo se estableció cada política y proceso, si cada política y proceso se somete a una revisión periódica; y cuánta aportación pública forma parte de cada proceso;
4. La aportación del público debería formar parte de cualquier proceso para establecer/construir nuevos monumentos públicos, documentos conmemorativos y obras de arte;
5. La aportación del público debería formar parte de cualquier política y proceso para oponerse a los monumentos públicos, monumentos dedicados a personajes y obras de arte existentes;
6. La aportación del público como parte de los procesos anteriores debería involucrar a la ciudadanía diversa de la ciudad y el condado de Santa Fe;
7. La ciudad de Santa Fe debería utilizar las propuestas recopiladas por CHART a través del programa "Sueños y conversaciones monumentales" al considerar nuevos monumentos públicos, monumentos dedicados a personajes y obras de arte para la ciudad y el condado de Santa Fe;
8. La ciudad de Santa Fe debería hacer todo lo posible, en la creación e instalación de nuevos monumentos públicos, monumentos dedicados a personajes y obras de arte para distribuirlos de forma más equitativa en la ciudad y el condado de Santa Fe.
9. Las decisiones sobre los monumentos públicos, los monumentos dedicados a personajes y las obras de arte plantean cuestiones morales y éticas sobre la conmemoración de actos de colonización, conquista, genocidio y la perpetuación de términos ofensivos/despectivos/racistas, así como sobre las personas que participaron en dichas acciones o emplearon dichos términos. Por esta razón, la ciudad debería abordar estas cuestiones durante cualquier proceso de creación de nuevas obras, así como revisar su actual inventario de obras públicas teniendo esto en cuenta.

En cuanto a las recomendaciones anteriores 1º y 2º existen modelos para establecer disposiciones de índole instructiva en torno a monumentos que la ciudad de Santa Fe debería considerar como opciones de actuación pública:

- Monumentos públicos/disposición final (Nueva Orleans): § 146-611. Disposición final de la propiedad pública., Artículo VII. MONUMENTOS PÚBLICOS, Capítulo 146. CALLES, ACERAS Y OTROS LUGARES PÚBLICOS, Código de disposiciones, Nueva Orleans (elaws.us) 146-611. [En inglés]

Monumento a los soldados/"obelisco"

Si bien la misión y el propósito de CHART (detallados en la sección de introducción de este informe) tenían un alcance mucho más amplio —de ahí la longitud de este informe— también es cierto que CHART surgió por la controversia sobre el Monumento a los soldados/"obelisco". Y aunque los participantes en el CHART debatieron una amplia gama de temas (también reflejados en este informe), el diálogo público más incendiario giró en gran medida en torno a lo ocurrido con el obelisco y lo que representa para los miembros de la comunidad de Santa Fe.

Para una historia concisa del Monumento a los soldados antes de ser derribado el 20 de octubre de 2020, CHART recomendaría un ensayo del antiguo historiador del Estado de Nuevo México, Estevan Rael-Gálvez, titulado "Centering Truths, Not So Evident" [46] ["Verdades que nos centran, no tan evidentes"]. Este artículo está disponible en el blog de cultura de CHART.

Los datos recopilados a lo largo de 11 meses de participación pública (incluyendo diálogos, reuniones, conversaciones, entrevistas, llamadas telefónicas y comunicaciones por correo electrónico) y los resultados de dos encuestas llegan a la conclusión de que la comunidad de Santa Fe sigue dividida respecto a qué hacer con el Monumento a los soldados.

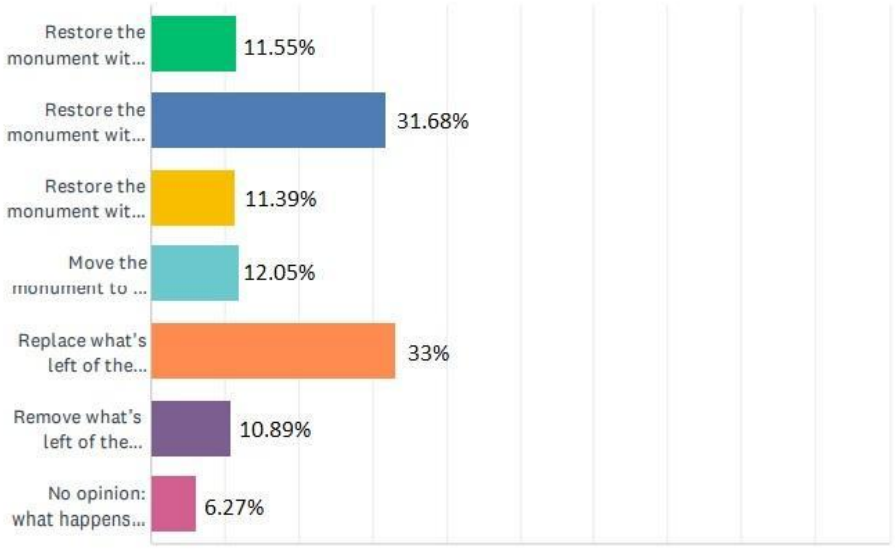

Las respuestas a la P18 de la Encuesta 2 reflejan lo que hemos escuchado durante muchos meses de aportaciones de la comunidad:

P18
"¿Qué se debe hacer con el Monumento al Soldado ("Obelisco") en la Plaza Santa Fe?"

Q18 What should be done with Soldier's Monument ("Obelisk") on the Santa Fe Plaza?

Answered: 606 Skipped: 33

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Restore the monument with its original signage. | 11.55% |
| Restore the monument with its original signage and add language that encourages it to be fully understood and assessed. | 31.68% |
| Restore the monument with different signage. | 11.39% |
| Move the monument to a different location. | 12.05% |
| Replace what's left of the monument with something else. | 33.00% |
| Remove what's left of the monument and leave the space unoccupied. | 10.89% |

Es importante señalar que las siete opciones incluidas en las preguntas proceden de las aportaciones de la comunidad durante los 8 meses anteriores a la encuesta; el equipo de CHART fue fiel a la práctica iterativa de que la participación pública determinara tanto las preguntas como las opciones de respuesta.

Parte integral de todos los debates sobre el Monumento a los soldados/"obelisco" fue la historia. Los participantes subrayaron repetidamente la importancia de que la gente conozca o aprenda sobre la historia "exacta" del monumento y la de Santa Fe. En otras palabras, aquellos que estaban en desacuerdo sobre lo que debería ocurrir con el monumento, estuvieron de acuerdo en que conocer la historia exacta del monumento, o la historia en general, era algo crucial.

En cuanto a las dos opciones más favorecidas El 33% de los encuestados recomienda "sustituir lo que queda del monumento por otra cosa". Esta opinión se refleja en los datos recopilados antes de la segunda encuesta. Las razones para adoptar esta postura giran en torno a lo siguiente:

- El Monumento a los soldados fue creado y erigido durante la época de las Guerras indias y su uso del lenguaje refleja las actitudes y acciones racistas que condujeron a la esclavización y el genocidio de los pueblos indígenas.
- La frase “indios salvajes” es tan ofensiva que no debería aparecer en este ni en ningún otro monumento de la ciudad o del condado de Santa Fe. Como lo expresó un participante de CHART “Cualquier palabra o parte de la historia que lastime a alguien o a su raza no debería ser desplegada con ostentación de manera alguna, sin importar si se trata de una obra de arte o una placa”.
- El Monumento a los soldados ha suscitado polémica durante décadas y sigue provocando divisiones en la comunidad de Santa Fe.
- Retirar el monumento y sustituirlo por otra cosa promoverá la verdad, la sanación y la reconciliación.

Otro 31.68% de los encuestados recomienda “restaurar el monumento con su leyenda original y añadir un lenguaje que fomente su plena comprensión y valoración”. La leyenda original incluye el lenguaje de las cuatro lápidas de mármol de 1867 (con “A los héroes caídos en las diversas batallas con los indios salvajes del Territorio de Nuevo México”). Durante el diálogo público, la mayoría de los participantes que recomendaron esta opción fueron conscientes de que el lenguaje original es problemático y/o ofensivo y/o racista. Aun así, citaron las siguientes razones para elegir esta opción:

- El Monumento a los soldados honra a los veteranos hispanos y de la tribu Pueblo que sacrificaron sus vidas en la guerra para acabar con la esclavitud de los negros.
- El monumento representa las relaciones (una “hermandad”, como lo expresaron varios participantes de CHART) entre los pueblos hispano e indígena Pueblo.
- La historia debe reflejar “lo bueno, lo malo y lo feo” (como escribió un participante de CHART). Incluir la leyenda original de 1867 con un lenguaje nuevo y contextual permite a los habitantes y a los visitantes comprometerse simultáneamente con la complejidad del monumento y reconocer por qué muchos lo encuentran ofensivo.
- Restaurar el monumento con la leyenda contextual promoverá la verdad, la sanación y la reconciliación.

También es importante señalar que, para la mayoría, el Monumento a los soldados es un reflejo de “verdades” históricas que son complejas, tienen matices y son contradictorias. Cientos de recomendaciones de los participantes de CHART (véase el Apéndice G: recomendaciones de la Encuesta 1) sugieren fuentes de información histórica, incluidos registros escritos y relatos orales, que se nos invita a consultar conforme avancemos en cualquier proceso sobre el Monumento a los soldados/”obelisco”.

Al mismo tiempo, el Monumento a los soldados se ha convertido en un símbolo menos complejo y más singular para algunos participantes de CHART que, por otro lado, asocian el monumento, con la “cultura hispana”, la “supremacía blanca”, la “colonización” y el “destino manifiesto”. Esto ha alimentado acalorados debates en el punto donde se encuentran lo “literal” y lo “simbólico”.

Federico Bellentani y Mario Panico en su artículo “The Meanings of Monuments and Memorials: Toward a Semiotic Approach” [“Los significados de los monumentos y monumentos dedicados a personajes: hacia un enfoque semiótico"] abordan este dilema como sigue:

> "...los monumentos considerados sagrados por sus propietarios pueden convertirse en objeto de desprecio y burla. Atkinson y Cosgrove (1998) muestran cómo el Vittoriano, un enorme monumento que conmemora al primer rey de la Italia unida en Roma ha sido objeto de burla a lo largo de su historia. Estos casos demuestran que los significados de los monumentos nunca se establecen para siempre y que los diseñadores no pueden controlar totalmente las interpretaciones de los monumentos. Además, dichos casos muestran que los usos inesperados y alternativos conducen a reinterpretar continuamente los significados originales de los monumentos de formas que sus diseñadores nunca habrían imaginado. Por lo tanto, los monumentos y los monumentos dedicados a personajes son "sitios dinámicos de significado" (Osborne 1998: 453) consignados a evocar múltiples interpretaciones y diversas respuestas emocionales. El enfoque semiótico puede ser útil para analizar las múltiples interpretaciones de los monumentos llamando la atención tanto a los significados oficialmente aceptados de los monumentos, como sobre las diversas formas en que se interpretan o enfrentan resistencia a nivel social". [47]

Dado que la historia y la interpretación simbólica (así como otros factores) en torno al Monumento a los soldados/"obelisco" son notablemente complejas y repletas de matices, no es de extrañarnos que se precise hacer más para decidir qué debe hacerse con este monumento y, por extensión, con otros que son objeto de controversia.

Hubo dos puntos de vista adicionales, relacionados con el Monumento a los soldados, que se compartieron consistentemente durante el proceso de CHART. Ambos fueron expresados por la mayoría de los participantes de CHART. Los santafesinos opinan que la ciudad de Santa Fe gestionó muy mal lo sucedido con el Monumento a los soldados, por razones como las siguientes:

A. Sin un proceso público, el alcalde Webber anunció, el 17 de junio de 2020, que el Monumento a los soldados y otros dos serían retirados;
B. La deficiente gestión de la acción/inacción policial durante la destrucción ilegal del monumento el 20 de octubre de 2020;
C. Falta de información al público qué leyes locales, estatales y federales, restricciones legales prescribirían lo que puede ocurrir con el Monumento a los soldados/"obelisco".

A la vez, la mayoría de los participantes de CHART estuvieron de acuerdo en que el Monumento a los soldados/"obelisco" fue derribado por un reducido grupo de manifestantes y que eso fue no sólo ilegal, sino que ocurrió sin tener en cuenta un posible proceso público que promoviera el esclarecimiento de la verdad. En términos generales, incluso quienes desean que el Monumento a los soldados/"obelisco" NO sea devuelto a la plaza estuvieron de acuerdo en que el que se haya derribado ilegalmente fue un error y que ha afectado a la comunidad que expresa su voluntad de emprender un proceso por la verdad, sanación y reconciliación mediante el proceso de CHART (véase la sección de Reconciliación en este informe).

A partir de las conclusiones del proyecto CHART en relación con el Monumento a los soldados/"obelisco", formulamos las siguientes recomendaciones:

RECOMENDACIONES:
MONUMENTO A LOS SOLDADOS/"OBELISCO"

La Mesa de soluciones comunitarias del proyecto CHART identificó el Monumento a los soldados como problema importante y recomienda lo siguiente:

1. La ciudad de Santa Fe debería dejar colocada la manta-cajón sobre de lo que queda del Monumento a los soldados.
2. La ciudad de Santa Fe debería colocar un letrero en la plaza o en la estructura con la manta sobre el proceso actual y el proceso próximo para decidir el futuro del monumento.
3. La ciudad de Santa Fe debería iniciar de inmediato el proceso de asignación de recursos (personal y fondos) y la puesta en marcha de un proceso para:

    a) Alcanzar una resolución respecto a las dos opciones más favorecidas surgidas de la segunda encuesta:
        1) "Sustituir lo que queda del monumento por otra cosa"; y
        2) "Restaurar el monumento con su leyenda original y añadir una leyenda que invite a comprenderlo y valorarlo plenamente".
    b) Promover la reconciliación como parte importante del proceso de deliberación y decisión.

4. El proceso debe involucrar a la diversidad de habitantes de la ciudad y el condado de Santa Fe y a las cuatro naciones Pueblo ubicadas en el condado de Santa Fe, así como a las tribus Navajo y Apache Mescalero y otras comunidades indígenas.

El hecho de que la ciudad no haya informado al público de las leyes locales, estatales y federales o las restricciones legales que limitarán lo que puede ocurrir con el Monumento a los soldados crea un riesgo potencial de que las recomendaciones de CHART queden anuladas en cuanto a su aplicación. Por esta razón, la Mesa de soluciones comunitarias formula la siguiente recomendación adicional:

5. La ciudad de Santa Fe debe ser absolutamente transparente con el público en general sobre cualquier ley y restricción local, estatal o federal, o cualquier restricción de financiación, que afecte a la disposición final del Monumento a los soldados /"obelisco".

Por último, el proceso y disposición final del Monumento a los soldados deberían basarse en todas las secciones y recomendaciones de este informe. Por ejemplo, la controversia en torno al Monumento a los soldados está íntimamente ligada a cuestiones de racismo/discriminación y al sentido de pertenencia de los habitantes en la comunidad de Santa Fe.

Por qué es importante el espacio público

El arte en Santa Fe, ya sea monumentos, monumentos dedicados a personajes u obras de arte nos incita a pensar en el espacio público. Setha Low, la destacada oradora de CHART en nuestro tercer Ciclo de historia cultural es profesora distinguida de Ciencias de la tierra y el medio ambiente, antropología y estudios de la mujer y el género en la Universidad de Nueva York City. Su investigación se centra en la antropología del espacio y lugar. Durante su plática del 20 de marzo de 2022 en el Centro de convenciones de Santa Fe, Setha habló sobre las plazas (incluida la de Santa Fe) y abordó las razones por las que el espacio público es importante.

Invitamos al lector a ver la plática de la Serie de historia cultural de Setha Low en el canal YouTube de CHART:[48]

A continuación encontrará dos diapositivas de la presentación de Low que subrayan la importancia del espacio público. Al considerarlas a la luz del hecho de que los habitantes desean ver más arte público (lo que signifique arte en lugares públicos) y que desean ver más arte en todos los barrios de Santa Fe ("expansión de la esfera pública"), los efectos potenciales son significativos: un aumento de la vida cívica con todos los beneficios que conlleva la promoción de las prácticas democráticas, incluyendo la diversidad, la equidad y la inclusión; el reconocimiento de la diversidad cultural y racial, la diversidad, la equidad y el reconocimiento del "derecho" de las personas "a la ciudad".

Why Public Space Matters

Societal and Global Level

- Symbolic center of civic life
- Forum for discussion and democratic practices
- Recognition of cultural and racial diversity
- Circulation of information
- Recognition of publics and counter-publics
- Expansion of the public sphere

Public Space & Civic Life

- Public space provides the potential for civic life by offering physical and virtual sites for people to come together in a safe forum for discussion, cooperation and at times, conflict.
- Civic life in a "just city" is based on diversity, equity and inclusion and the recognition of people's right to the city.
- Based on 30 years of public space research the PSRG has found that there are social processes, power dynamics and design and planning decisions that influence whether this happens or not.

RECONCILIATION

“¿Cómo podemos convertirnos en buenos antepasados? Cultivando la paz en lugar de la mentira. Enseñando la verdad. Solo se producirá el cambio si no se encubre lo que pasó aquí, si se da a conocer, se reconoce y se reconcilia la tragedia de lo que pasó aquí con verdad y reconciliación”. –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

“Debe empezar por un examen profundo de las propias actitudes, prejuicios y el deseo de cambiar primero uno mismo”. –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

“A medida que nos percatamos de la dura realidad de la raza y el racismo y empezamos a sanar los hábitos de hacer daño seremos en un principio más conscientes y con menos autoconfianza, incluso nos sentiremos incómodos. Estamos aprendiendo a estar presentes y a ser más honestos con nosotros mismos, aprendiendo a hablar con los demás sin apartarnos. Nos sentiremos como es de esperarse, inexpertos, como si estuviéramos aprendiendo un nuevo idioma. Y descubriremos que, a menudo, estar presentes, abiertos al aprendizaje y con un corazón afable no es sólo lo mejor que podemos hacer, sino también todo lo que se necesita en ese momento” —Ruth King de Mindful of Race: Transforming Racism from the Inside Out, Sounds True, 2018 [Conscientes de la raza: cómo transformar el racismo por completo, parece cierto]. –Encuestado, Encuesta

“Podemos hacer una mejor labor al compartir los aciertos y los males de la sociedad y hacer participar a las futuras generaciones a ser y convertirse en una sociedad mejor y más inclusiva. Si no aprendemos de nuestro pasado y lo compartimos con nuestros hijos, sin duda repetiremos muchos de los errores y por ende nuestros hijos sufrirán. Debemos cambiar nuestro rumbo y navegar hacia mejorar”. –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

“Para romper el círculo vicioso en el que nos vemos atrapados por causa propia debemos definir y acordar nuevas reglas de participación respecto a los bienes comunes tanto en internet cono en otras instancias. En primer lugar, precisamos crear un espacio nuevo y abierto: lugares en los que las personas de buena voluntad, que actúan de buena fe, puedan hablar y escuchar con autenticidad y vulnerabilidad y sin temor a utilizar la palabra o la frase equivocada, sin autocensura. Tal vez así empezaremos a rechazar la idea en la que nadie gana que dice: ‘Si el otro bando gana en algo, el mío pierde en todo’”.[49] –Darren Walker, These Truths We Hold–and Share [Estas verdades que sostenemos y compartimos].

“Hay que esforzarnos más por respaldar a las asociaciones vecinales y aprovecharlas para organizar eventos entre diversos barrios. Nuestros parques y escuelas deben convertirse en lugares de encuentro con nuestros vecinos, con los miembros del ayuntamiento, el alcalde y el personal que auspicia/organiza tales eventos. También opino que nuestros servidores públicos, como la policía, los bomberos y el personal de parques y recreación deben ser mejores embajadores para Santa Fe”. –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

“Seremos buenos antepasados si creamos e implementamos un proceso de verdad y reconciliación que revele genuinamente las verdades y nos guíe a través de la reconciliación para que podamos avanzar juntos pacíficamente”. –Encuestado, Encuesta 1

RECONCILIACIÓN

La reconciliación es un asunto complicado. Desde el inicio del proyecto CHART hasta el final, escuchamos a los santafesinos hablar mucho de diferentes maneras de abordar la reconciliación. En general, quienes participaron en CHART expresaron su amor por Santa Fe y, por tanto, su profundo deseo de reconciliación, especialmente tras un par de años de controversia y confrontación y particularmente en lo que respecta al Monumento a los soldados /"obelisco".

Asimismo, los residentes ven la reconciliación de forma muy diferente: muchos subrayan que todavía estamos en la "fase de verdad", que consideran distinta de la reconciliación y un prerrequisito fundamental para ella. Otros opinan que la "reconciliación" implica intrínsecamente la búsqueda de la verdad (no hay fin para analizar las verdades) y que ambas están inmersas constante y necesariamente en un proceso circular. Y algunos creen que la "reconciliación" es un término pacificador utilizado por quienes quieren evitar los procesos para entender la colonización, la rendición de cuentas y el resarcimiento.

Por varias de las razones anteriores, es posible que el lector desee adelantarse a la sección de la "VERDAD" de este informe. Aunque aparece en último lugar, siendo la quinta letra de las siglas de "CHART". La verdad como principio rector de este informe, y por su compleja relación con la reconciliación, nos pide examinar los dos temas simultáneamente.

¿Qué es la reconciliación?

Daniel Bar-Tal y Gemma H. Bennink, en "The nature of reconciliation as an outcome and as a process" [50] ["La naturaleza de la reconciliación como resultado y como proceso"] examinan la reconciliación como proceso y como resultado. Sus definiciones son útiles como conceptos para la aclaración y la acción. Si bien Bar-Tal y Bennink examinan las relaciones entre países en estado de conflicto, los conceptos son también esclarecedores al considerar que las comunidades que atraviesan por un conflicto interno conformado por más de dos partes:

> "En cambio, deberíamos distinguir entre reconciliación y consolidación de la paz. En su sentido más fundamental, la reconciliación se refiere a la forma en que dos países afrontan su pasado desdichado; es un proceso en el que dos antiguos enemigos llegan a un acuerdo para descubrir y abordar su historia de enemistad. La consolidación de la paz denota las acciones para mejorar el estado de paz; es el proceso de reducir la probabilidad de guerra entre dos países de forma significativa. La reconciliación es uno de los mecanismos que conducen a cambios en el estado de la paz, pero no es la construcción de la paz en sí misma".

Al mismo tiempo, reconocemos carácter delicado del uso del término "reconciliación" cuando, como lo expresa Andrea V. Breen en la introducción a Research and Reconciliation: Unsettling Ways of Knowing Through Indigenous Relationships[51] [Investigación y reconciliación: Inquietantes formas de conocimiento a través de las relaciones indígenas]:

> "...algunos afirman que la reconciliación consiste en seguir las recomendaciones específicas de la Comisión de la verdad y la reconciliación de Canadá, mientras que para otros se trata de devolver las tierras o de crear instituciones y prácticas [50] Bar-Tal, Daniel y Gemma H. Bennink. 2004, from "The nature of reconciliation as an outcome and as a process," ["La naturaleza de la reconciliación como resultado y como proceso"] in From conflict resolution to reconciliation, ed. > totalmente nuevas; y las respuestas de algunas personas siguen la línea de ‘salvar a los indígenas’”.

Breen advierte que la palabra “reconciliación” no debe “emplearse como escudo, como coraza protectora de buenas intenciones”, mientras que su colega, Shawn Wilson, nos advierte de que no debemos “marcar la casilla de la reconciliación de una forma tramposa”. Nos recuerda que debemos emprender cualquier proceso de reconciliación con extrema responsabilidad sobre cómo entendemos y utilizamos el término.

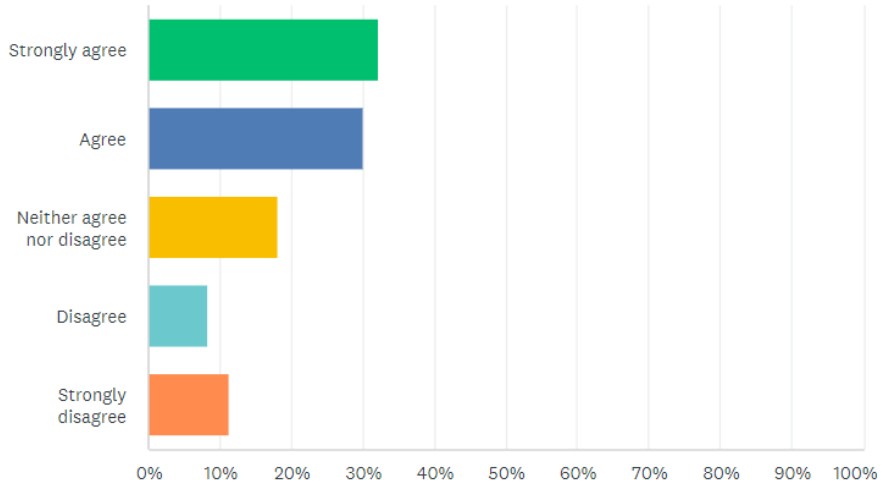

Durante la ejecución del proyecto CHART, los santafesinos tuvieron mucho que decir sobre cómo debemos afrontar nuestro “pasado infeliz”, incluidos los dos últimos años de controversia sobre los monumentos. Al hacerlo, hemos aprendido mucho sobre lo que los santafesinos opinan sobre la reconciliación.

Cómo abordar y promover la reconciliación

Empecemos por determinar si los habitantes creen que la reconciliación es importante. En la P30 de la encuesta 2 se pedía a los habitantes que expresaran acuerdo o desacuerdo con la siguiente afirmación: “Un proceso de reconciliación (confrontar el pasado para crear un futuro más sano) debe ser prioridad para la ciudad de Santa Fe”.

A reconciliation process (confronting the past in order to create a healthier future) needs to be a priority for the City of Santa Fe.

Answered: 598 Skipped: 41

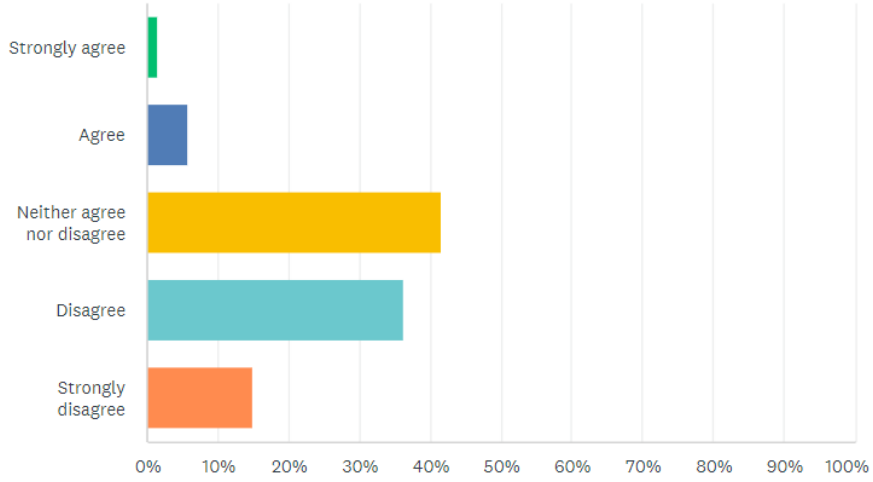

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Strongly agree | 32.27% |
| Agree | 30.10% |
| Neither agree nor disagree | 18.06% |
| Disagree | 8.36% |
| Strongly disagree | 11.20% |

Los resultados muestran que “el 62.37% de los encuestados está muy de acuerdo o de acuerdo con la afirmación”; es decir, una clara mayoría.

Cuando preguntamos a los residentes si estaban de acuerdo con la afirmación: "Actualmente, hay muchos programas en Santa Fe que abordan la verdad, la sanación y la reconciliación", más del 50% está en desacuerdo o muy en desacuerdo y casi un 42% no puede estar ni de acuerdo ni en desacuerdo.

Currently, there are many programs in Santa Fe that address truth, healing and reconciliation:

Answered: 598 Skipped: 41

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |

| Agree | 5.69% |
| Neither agree nor disagree | 41.64% |
| Disagree | 36.29% |
| Strongly disagree | 14.88% |
| TOTAL | 598 |

En conjunto, el 92% de los encuestados está en desacuerdo o no puede estar ni de acuerdo ni en desacuerdo con que haya muchas formas de comprometerse con un proceso de verdad, sanación y reconciliación en Santa Fe.

Como somos conscientes de que existen esfuerzos por la verdad, sanación y reconciliación en Santa Fe (tanto si los encuestados los conocen como si no), añadimos una pregunta de seguimiento en la que se pedía información que pudiera ser valiosa en cuanto a los próximos pasos. En la P33 de la Encuesta 2 se preguntaba: "¿Qué programas que abordan la verdad, la sanación y la reconciliación conoce?" Las respuestas (más abajo) nos permiten recopilar una lista de los esfuerzos existentes y de los recursos y fuentes de información potenciales que podrían ser útiles tanto para la ciudad de Santa Fe como para la comunidad.

También somos conscientes de que los programas e iniciativas actualmente en curso pueden ser desconocidos para los encuestados, por lo que no aparecen en la lista siguiente.

CHART también aprendió mucho, durante el proyecto, sobre cómo debería o podría producirse la reconciliación, según los participantes. Muchas de estas respuestas pueden encontrarse en el Apéndice F: Recomendaciones de la Encuesta 1. Basándonos en estos datos y en el diálogo público, creamos la P31 en la segunda encuesta, con el fin de cuantificar una serie de opciones:

Q31 Which of the following activities would promote reconciliation (confronting the past in order to create a healthier future) in Santa Fe? (Check all that apply):

Está claro que los encuestados están a favor de una serie de iniciativas simultáneas que a su parecer ayudarán a la comunidad a emprender la compleja tarea de la reconciliación. Por mucho, la opción más popular (72.41%) es: “Eventos multiculturales que fomenten la comprensión recíproca”, que también se trata más arriba, en la sección de “Cultura” de este informe. Una y otra vez, CHART escuchó a los santafesinos hablar de la necesidad de celebraciones, festivales, actividades y eventos multiculturales que evadan el mito tricultural y promuevan la interacción, la educación y la comprensión recíproca.

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |

| Restore the monument with its original signage. | 11.55% |
| Restore the monument with its original signage and add language that encourages it to be fully understood and assessed. | 31.68% |
| Restore the monument with different signage. | 11.39% |
| Move the monument to a different location. | 12.05% |
| Replace what's left of the monument with something else. | 33.00% |
| Remove what's left of the monument and leave the space unoccupied. | 10.89% |
| Total Respondents: 606 | |

Otras opciones populares e importantes favorecidas por los encuestados son la colaboración entre el Gobierno y las agencias tribales (49.33%); el diálogo público sostenido (48.66%) y las comisiones de la verdad (46.49%). En conjunto, las respuestas a esta pregunta constituyen una hoja de ruta para un sólido proceso de reconciliación.

Aunque todas las opciones de la P31 podrían considerarse formas de educación, los resultados de la Encuesta 1 y las aportaciones de los habitantes durante la fase de diálogo hacen hincapié en la educación en forma de aprendizaje y comprensión de la compleja y verdadera historia de Oghá Po'oge /Santa Fe. Los participantes subrayaron que la educación es crucial no sólo para los estudiantes de preescolar hasta 12° grado, sino para todos los adultos que viven en la ciudad y el condado. Muchos también hicieron hincapié en que esta historia compleja, narrada sin rodeos también debería estar presente en la información que se proporciona a los turistas y visitantes para que ellos también la comprendan.

Para conocer más sobre lo que los participantes de CHART tuvieron que decir sobre el pasado consulte la sección “Historia”, más arriba.

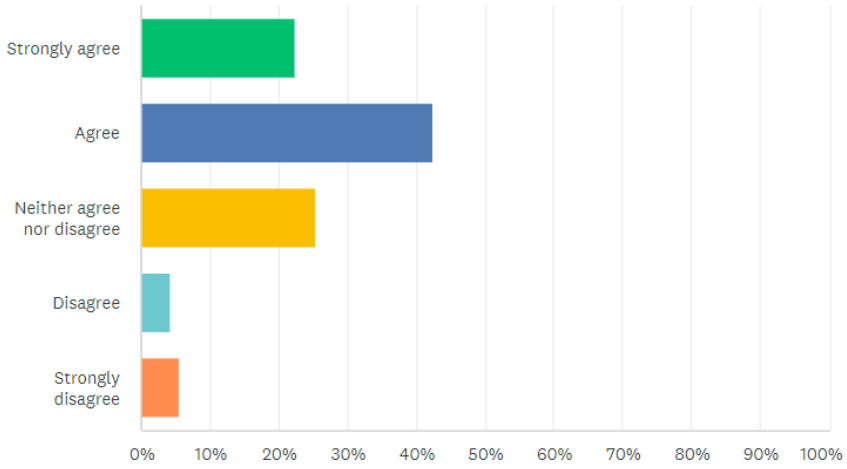

La buena noticia es que los santafesinos tienen un profundo deseo de forjar un proceso de verdad, sanación y reconciliación y de ser partícipes mismos de dicho proceso (consulte los resultados de la P35, más abajo). La mayoría de quienes participaron en el proceso de CHART expresaron este deseo con el compromiso de abordar las controversias y los conflictos desencadenados por lo sucedido con el Monumento a los soldados/“obelisco”. La mayoría está profundamente preocupada por las fisuras (viejas y nuevas) que han salido a la luz y por la iracunda retórica pública, al tiempo que reconoce que las difíciles verdades que hay que encarar. Y aunque unos pocos participantes expresaron que la reconciliación es una “ficción” o “una pérdida de tiempo”, esta no fue la opinión de una clara mayoría de entre quienes participaron. El 65% de los encuestados está comprometido con el proceso.

Podemos afirmar con seguridad que Santa Fe es una comunidad que está preparada y dispuesta a emprender el proceso.

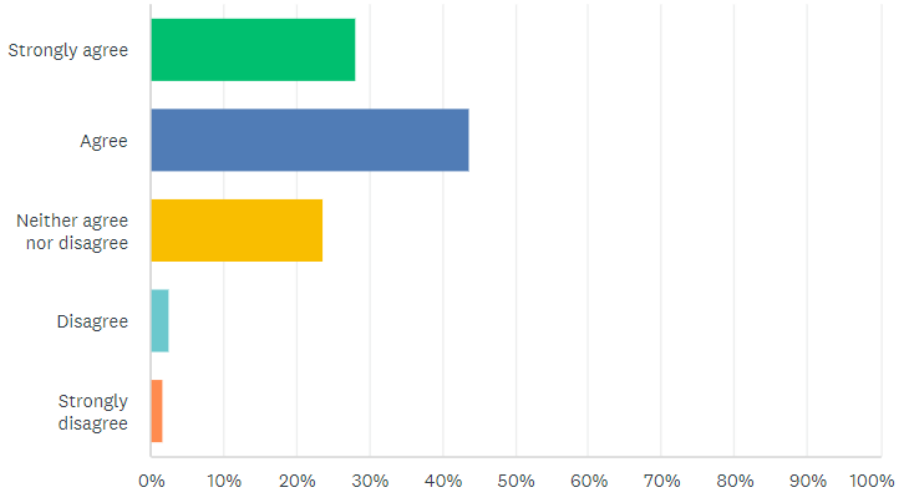

When we correlate the responses to Q35 with those from Q24 (“I would like to expand my circle of friends to include people from different racial, ethnic, religious and other backgrounds”) the results are enlightening. If we see cultivating relationships (whether through public dialogue, collaborations, and multicultural events) as part of a truth, healing, and reconciliation process, survey results tell us that CHART participants want to know their multicultural community on a deeper level:

Cuando correlacionamos las respuestas a la P35 con las de la P24 (“Me gustaría ampliar mi círculo de amigos para incluir a personas de diferentes orígenes raciales, étnicos, religiosos y de otro tipo”) los resultados son reveladores. Si tomamos el cultivar relaciones (ya sea a través del diálogo público, colaboraciones y eventos multiculturales) como parte de un proceso de verdad, sanación y reconciliación, los resultados de la encuesta nos indican que los participantes de CHART desean conocer a su comunidad multicultural a un nivel más profundo:

El 72% de los encuestados está de acuerdo o muy de acuerdo con esta afirmación. En este sentido, casi dos tercios de los encuestados desean entablar amistad con otros habitantes distintos a ellos.

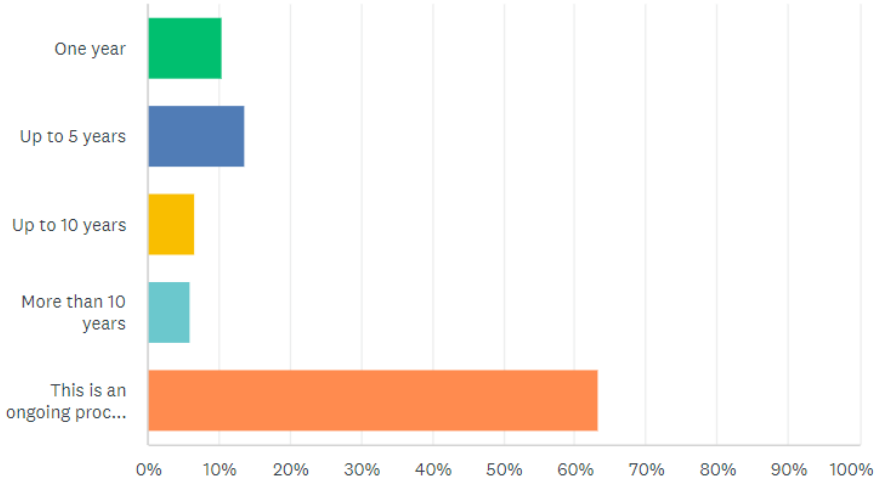

Los santafesinos también son muy conscientes de que el proceso de verdad, sanación y reconciliación no es una empresa sencilla ni de corta duración. Lo que hemos escuchado durante meses de participación pública se refleja en los resultados de la P34:

P34
“En mi opinión, un proceso de verdad, sanación y reconciliación en Santa Fe tomaría:”

Un 63.38% de los que respondieron a esta pregunta están de acuerdo en que el proceso debe continuar indefinidamente

Respeto

Por último, nos gustaría subrayar un aspecto del proceso de verdad, sanación y reconciliación que se mencionó una y otra vez durante el proyecto CHART: el respeto. En las respuestas a la Encuesta 1, el respeto surgió continuamente como algo muy necesario y a veces ausente en el proceso de promoción de la comunidad: el respeto en la forma de comunicarnos entre nosotros, el respeto a otras culturas y a las diferencias culturales, el respeto por la historia de Santa Fe, la buena y la mala, el respeto como forma de equidad, el respeto a lo antiguo y a lo nuevo, al santafesino establecido y al recién llegado.

En torno al tema del respeto, los encuestados de la Encuesta 1 sugirieron: “Dirigirse a los demás con respeto”; “Tenemos que tener respeto por la cultura y las personas”; “Deberían existir reglas básicas para la comunicación basadas en el respeto mutuo y la incorporación de prácticas de humildad cultural cuando los grupos más afortunados estén en el poder”; “Leer sobre la historia de Santa Fe, respetar la historia de Santa Fe”; “No tenemos que cambiar la historia... sólo entender y respetar la historia... toda la historia"; “invertir más $ y respeto en otras áreas y caminos de la ciudad. No sólo la carretera González y la zona este”; “Respetar las comunidades que han existido durante más de 400 años”; y “Los recién llegados deben mostrar respeto por las tradiciones y algunos de la vieja escuela deben apreciar la inversión que aportan las generaciones de migrantes”.

Para algunos el respeto empieza por respetar la tierra y sirve de modelo para convivir con los demás, con todas nuestras diferencias individuales y culturales. Otros subrayan que sin el respeto hacia las personas, culturas, la historia, el arte; entre otros la reconciliación es sólo un sueño.

De los resultados expuestos anteriormente se desprende que los santafesinos no sólo están comprometidos con el proceso de verdad, sanación y reconciliación y que son conscientes de que se trata de una tarea no finita, sino que también desean que la ciudad de Santa Fe lo convierta en una prioridad. Es por esta razón que formulamos las siguientes recomendaciones.

RECOMENDACIONES: RECONCILIACIÓN

La ciudad de Santa Fe debería comenzar inmediatamente el proceso de financiación, creación e implementación de un proceso permanente para la verdad, sanación y reconciliación, mediante la implementación de las siguientes medidas:

1. Investigar e identificar enfoques innovadores y eficaces para la verdad, la sanación y la reconciliación a lo largo y ancho de Estados Unidos e internacionalmente, especialmente en los enfoques aprobados por los gobiernos/municipios en el ámbito de las reparaciones (mencionadas por los encuestados de la Encuesta 1) y las leyes/disposiciones (tratadas por la Mesa de soluciones comunitarias. Por ejemplo, el proyecto de ley 2400 del Senado de Estados Unidos relativo a los topónimos despectivos)[52];
2. Debido a la historia particular de Oga Po'gay y de nuestras comunidades indígenas, la ciudad debería prestar especial atención a la Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada (TRC) [Comisión de la Verdad y la Reconciliación de Canadá] [En inglés], que hizo hincapié en la profundización de la comprensión de los canadienses de la historia de los pueblos indígenas, el trauma histórico y la conciencia sobre las culturas y los sistemas de conocimiento indígenas[53]. Sus conclusiones incluyen lo siguiente:

   "La reconciliación es un proceso de sanación de las relaciones que precisa compartir la verdad públicamente, disculparse y realizar actos conmemorativos que reconozcan y reparen los daños del pasado. La reconciliación precisa una acción constructiva para abordar los legados permanentes del colonialismo que han ejercido impactos destructivos en la educación, las culturas y las lenguas de los pueblos aborígenes, la salud, el bienestar infantil, la administración de justicia y las oportunidades económicas y la prosperidad".

3. Identificar las iniciativas locales y regionales innovadoras y eficaces para la verdad, sanación y reconciliación, especialmente los enfoques adoptados por los gobiernos/municipios en el ámbito de las reparaciones (mencionadas por los encuestados de la Encuesta 1) y las leyes/disposiciones (debatidas por la Mesa de soluciones comunitarias);
4. Consultar y colaborar con otros municipios y organizaciones e iniciativas locales que realicen el trabajo de verdad, sanación y reconciliación, así como con organizaciones de Santa Fe que estén dispuestas a participar en alguna iniciativa de la ciudad;
5. Consultar y colaborar con las cuatro naciones Pueblo ubicadas en el condado de Santa Fe y otros pueblos y organizaciones indígenas sobre cómo emprender el proceso de verdad, sanación y reconciliación; y
6. Implementar los medios más populares para abordar la verdad, la sanación y la reconciliación identificados en la P31 de la Encuesta CHART 2, así como los que se desprenden de los puntos 1, 2 y 3 incluidos anteriormente.

TRUTH

VERDAD

Es pertinente que la “verdad” sirva de colofón de este informe final. Si bien aparece en último lugar en las siglas de CHART y en último lugar en este documento, entendemos el todo como un ciclo: verdad, cultura, historia, arte, reconciliación, la totalidad en sí misma es circular, secuencial y gira en espiral. Todos sus aspectos son dinámicos, interdependientes entre sí y todos se mencionaron en relación con los demás durante el proyecto.

Como se mencionó arriba (en “Reconciliación”), los participantes de CHART están considerablemente comprometidos con un proceso de verdad, sanación y reconciliación, aunque reconocen que es difícil y que debe ser permanente e indefinido. Están a favor de una serie de abordajes para este proceso con particular énfasis en el respeto, la educación sobre historia, eventos multiculturales que promueven el entendimiento recíproco, la colaboración entre dependencias tribales y gubernamentales, diálogos públicos sostenidos y comisiones de la verdad. Reconocen que la “verdad histórica” (abordada en la sección de historia) es complicada y que los niños, los jóvenes, los adultos y los ancianos deben lidiar con la complejidad y los matices y las múltiples perspectivas de la verdad, por duro que sea. Afirman que para ello es necesario poseer la tenacidad de continuar las conversaciones difíciles sobre el pasado, la humildad de confrontar las acciones de nuestros antepasados, el valor de aceptar la responsabilidad de nuestras acciones en el presente y la resiliencia de seguir adelante y mejorar nuestra comunidad.

Al mismo tiempo, los participantes en el CHART advierten que la comunidad todavía está sumergida en la parte del proceso de “decir la verdad” y que tenemos que enfrentar las realidades que impiden prosperar a todos los santafesinos. Algunas de estas verdades son duras, dolorosas de reconocer y deben abordarse con urgencia.

Racismo

En su mayoría, las sesiones de diálogo público de CHART, las entrevistas, conversaciones y reuniones atrajeron a habitantes que se preocupan por Santa Fe y están profundamente preocupados por la comunidad. En las sesiones se pretendía que se entablara un diálogo civilizado y transcendental, a pesar de las diferentes opiniones y vehementes puntos de vista. El diálogo en general fue civilizado. Aun así, durante el proyecto, el equipo de CHART documentó, presenció y/o experimentó lenguaje y actitudes racistas que resultaron profundamente inquietantes e hicieron que, tanto los participantes, como los miembros del equipo de CHART se sintieran inseguros. También sacaron a la relucir una horrible verdad sobre Santa Fe.

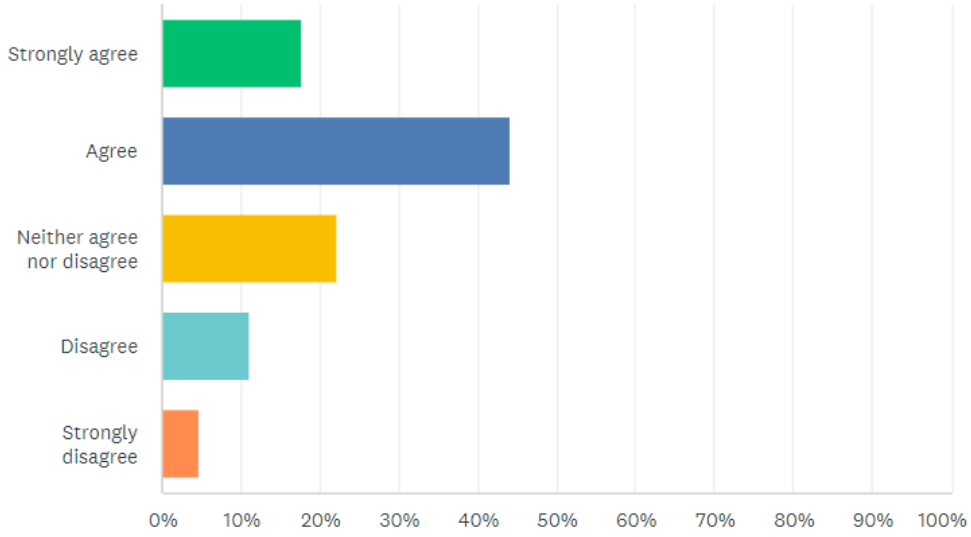

Cabe destacar que la mayoría de los que hicieron comentarios como estos lo hicieron en el "anonimato" al compartirlos en respuesta a las encuestas o como manifestantes (y no como participantes) de los eventos de CHART. La mayoría no se presentó a participar en el proceso de interacción con sus conciudadanos, ya sea por razones relacionadas con decir la verdad o fomentar la comprensión recíproca. Pero incluso si quisiéramos descartar estos comentarios como algo meramente anecdótico o extremo, los resultados de la segunda encuesta nos indican algo distinto.

En la P26 de la segunda encuesta de CHART se pedía a los encuestados que indicaran si estaban de acuerdo o en desacuerdo con la siguiente afirmación: "Tenemos un problema de racismo/discriminación en Santa Fe". Estos fueron los resultados:

Q26

We have a problem with racism/discrimination in Santa Fe.

Answered: 602 Skipped: 37

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Strongly agree | 17.77% |
| Agree | 44.19% |
| Neither agree nor disagree | 22.26% |
| Disagree | 11.13% |
| Strongly disagree | 4.65% |
| TOTAL | |

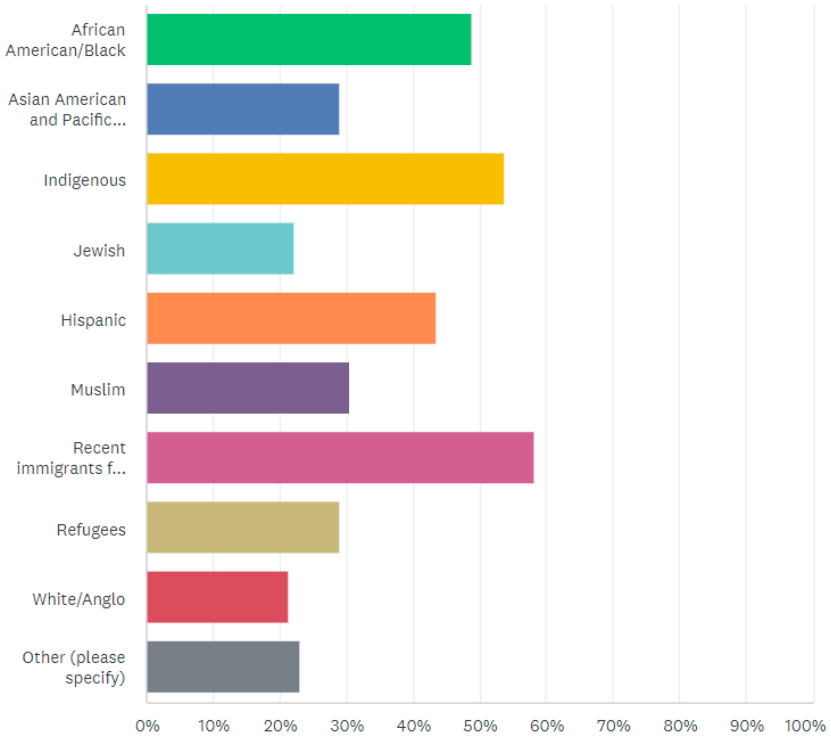

El 62% de los encuestados estuvo de acuerdo o muy de acuerdo con la afirmación y sólo el 16% estuvo en desacuerdo.

La pregunta de seguimiento (P27), “¿Qué grupos de personas se ven afectados negativamente por el racismo/discriminación en Santa Fe?” produjo los siguientes resultados:

Q27

Which groups of people are negatively affected by racism/discrimination in Santa Fe? (Check all that apply)

Answered: 602 Skipped: 37

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| African American/Black | 48.84% |
| Asian American and Pacific Islander | 28.90% |
| Indigenous | 53.65% |
| Jewish | 22.09% |
| Hispanic | 43.52% |
| Muslim | 30.40% |
| Recent immigrants from Mexico and Central America | 58.14% |
| Refugees | 28.90% |
| White/Anglo | 21.43% |
| Other (please specify) | 23.09% |
| Total Respondents: 602 | |

La P27 permitía respuestas múltiples y abarcaba el caso de si el encuestado se sentía afectado (a) y si le parecía que otros estaban siendo afectados. Por lo tanto, proporciona una imagen instantánea de si la comunidad en general siente y/o nota el racismo/discriminación.

Una nota importante: CHART reconoce que las opciones de respuesta para la P29 no incluyen todas las poblaciones de Santa Fe que podrían experimentar el racismo/discriminación (por ejemplo, LGBTQIA+, otras religiones aparte del judaísmo y el islam). Incluimos las que se mencionaron con más frecuencia durante los diálogos públicos y otras actividades de CHART.

La misma pregunta, cuando se filtra por la etnia/raza autoidentificada de los encuestados, confirma que la mayoría de los encuestados (excepto el 8% que se identifica como "una raza/etnia no mencionada aquí") está de acuerdo en que Santa Fe tiene un problema de racismo/discriminación.

| Native American or Alaskan Native choosing "Native American or Alaskan Native" as being negatively affected | 75 |

La respuesta "otros" de la P27 permitió a los encuestados enviar hasta 50 palabras de texto. Produjo palabras y frases reflejadas en la siguiente nube de palabras:

Los que enviaron textos para esta respuesta opinan en gran medida que todo el mundo en Santa Fe se ve afectado negativamente por el racismo/discriminación.

El equipo de CHART, tanto al principio del proyecto (consciente de los calificativos racistas en los medios de comunicación, reuniones públicas y en el internet, a raíz de la polémica sobre el Monumento a los soldados/“obelisco”) como a lo largo del camino, implementó diversas prácticas y mecanismos para fomentar los espacios seguros y seguridad para los participantes de CHART: guardias de seguridad en los eventos, directrices para el diálogo (véase el Apéndice J), oportunidades para que los habitantes compartieran sus opiniones y perspectivas fuera de los diálogos públicos, etc. También se prometió a los participantes que las notas de los diálogos que pudieran compartirse públicamente no incluirían sus nombres. Artful Life también protegió del escrutinio público y posible acoso las identidades de los miembros de la Mesa de soluciones comunitarias, un subgrupo diverso de participantes de CHART que estudió y revisó cientos de páginas de datos recopilados por el proyecto para formular las recomendaciones de este informe.

Los datos recopilados durante el proyecto dejan claro que Santa Fe, como tantas otras ciudades, condados y comunidades no sólo de Estados Unidos sino de todo el mundo tiene un trabajo crítico por hacer en lo que respecta al racismo. Es real y es innegable.

RECOMENDACIONES: RACISMO

La Mesa de soluciones comunitarias del proyecto CHART identificó el racismo en Santa Fe como un problema crítico y formula las siguientes recomendaciones:

1. La ciudad de Santa Fe debería financiar, crear y dotar de personal a una oficina dedicada específicamente a desmantelar las barreras sistémicas a la igualdad racial, de género, de salud, socioeconómica y de otra índole.

En otros municipios, estas oficinas/departamentos llevan nombres diferentes: “Departamento de diversidad, equidad e igualdad” (Albuquerque), “Oficina de diversidad y equidad” (Sacramento), "Equidad e innovación social (Denver), “Igualdad de oportunidades” (Tucson). En las declaraciones de misión de estos departamentos, rara vez aparece la palabra “racismo” y se prefieren los eufemismos antes mencionados. Por lo tanto:

2. La ciudad de Santa Fe debería abordar honestamente el racismo/discriminación en la declaración de misión/propósito de este nuevo departamento para reconocer valientemente que Santa Fe tiene un problema.

CHART es consciente de que varios departamentos, divisiones e iniciativas de la ciudad de Santa Fe reconocen los problemas de inequidad, discriminación e incluyen medidas para abordarlos. Sin embargo, esto no niega la necesidad de un Plan general actualizado en el que la ciudad se comprometa a abordar el racismo, la discriminación y la desigualdad como piedras angulares de su enfoque de gobernanza municipal. Por lo tanto:

3. Además de las iniciativas actuales de la ciudad que destacan el racismo/discriminación como reto que se debe abordar y resolver, la ciudad de Santa Fe debería financiar, emprender y aplicar un Plan general actualizado (finalizado por última vez en 1999) que identifique el racismo/discriminación como reto continuo para la ciudad, aborde las cuestiones de racismo/discriminación en todos los departamentos y direccionas de la ciudad y esboce las medidas para atenuar sus efectos.

El 25 de agosto de 2015, la concejala Lindell propuso una resolución para la creación un Plan general actualizado con la siguiente redacción:

1 .“Por la presente se ordena al personal de la ciudad la creación un Plan general actualizado que se centre en temas de uso del suelo y diseño urbano y que a la vez aborde el transporte, la vivienda asequible y otros temas pertinentes, en consonancia con los objetivos de la comunidad de avanzar hacia el futuro respetando la gran historia de Santa Fe; y
2. El personal deberá recopilar aportaciones del público a través de reuniones para revisar y solicitar aportaciones sobre el Plan general actualizado, especialmente en cuanto a los objetivos para el futuro, de una manera geográficamente equilibrada, lo que podría incluir mecanismos de aportaciones que sean representativos de la ciudad en su conjunto a través de una muestra estadísticamente significativa, en lugar de basarse sólo en la opinión de quienes asisten a las reuniones; y

3. Un Plan general actualizado que refleje los objetivos y el sentir de toda la comunidad y el deseo del futuro de Santa Fe y se presente para que la Comisión de Planificación lo recomiende y el Órgano de Gobierno lo apruebe".

CHART escribió a la concejala Lindell el 14 y el 29 de julio de 2022 sobre el estado de esta propuesta de resolución, ya que no nos fue posible encontrar ningún debate o acción en las actas de ninguna reunión municipal posterior. La concejala Lindell respondió que "estaba claro para todos que no teníamos los recursos ni el personal para completar un nuevo plan general". [55]

Equidad y calidad de vida

Durante el proyecto, el equipo de CHART también escuchó constantemente sobre los graves desafíos que enfrenta la comunidad de Santa Fe en cuanto a problemas de calidad de vida y desigualdad. La equidad fue el tema central de las sesiones de diálogo público celebradas en febrero como resultado de las respuestas a la Encuesta 1. Quienes participaron abordaron repetidamente las discrepancias entre los “adinerados” y los "pobres" y las identificaron como un problema grave. Muchos participantes también señalaron una relación entre la desigualdad y la raza y etnia y opinan que abordar los problemas de calidad de vida permitirá a la comunidad de Santa Fe trabajar para alcanzar la sanación a nivel racial.

Como resultado de lo que leímos y escuchamos, incluimos una pregunta en la Encuesta 2 para cuantificar qué cuestiones son las más importantes para los habitantes de Santa Fe. La P25 fue: "¿Cuáles son los TRES principales retos de vivir en Santa Fe?" Los resultados son consistentes con lo que hemos escuchado durante muchos meses de participación pública.

La mayoría de los encuestados (62.75%) citan la “vivienda asequible” como el principal reto, seguido del “costo de vida” (36.74%) y el “aburguesamiento” (30.37%). Y los tres retos se debatieron durante la fase de participación pública del proyecto dentro del contexto de desigualdad. Los participantes en general estuvieron de acuerdo en que Santa Fe no tendrá la capacidad para ser una comunidad equitativa y próspera sino hasta que logremos avances importantes en estas cuestiones.

CHART reconoce que la ciudad de Santa Fe es consciente de los principales retos planteados en la segunda encuesta de CHART y de que existen varias iniciativas actuales de la ciudad destinadas a abordarlos, entre ellas:

- Oficina de Vivienda Asequible: Affordable Housing | City of Santa Fe, New Mexico (santafenm.gov)
- Resolución sobre el clima de la ciudad de Santa Fe del 11 de septiembre de 2019: A9R1j23lfi_109nkb6_5es.tmp.pdf (santafenm.gov)
- Aburguesamiento: Red de ciudades contra el desplazamiento: allincities.org
- Información sobre el salario digno: Living wage information | City of Santa Fe, New Mexico (santafenm.gov)
- Inestabilidad de las personas sin hogar y de la vivienda - Coalición Built for Zero: $100 millones a Organización asociada de la ciudad | Ciudad de Santa Fe, Nuevo México (santafenm.gov) [En inglés]
- Resolución 2015-65 de la Ciudad de Santa Fe del 29 de julio de 2015: "Cómo instruir al personal a buscar una solución a la crisis de vivienda asequible en Santa Fe, específicamente en lo que se refiere al aburguesamiento, la inequidad y la creciente brecha entre ricos y

pobres en Santa Fe; proporcionando un marco para la política de vivienda y planificación urbana": Resoluciones 2015 | Ciudad Santa Fe, Nuevo México (santafenm.gov) [En inglés]

Está claro, a partir de lo que escuchamos de los residentes, que el avance en los temas mencionados parece lento o se ha estancado con el consiguiente daño a nuestro sentido de comunidad, pertenencia y justicia racial que se percibe diariamente.

> "Las comunidades equitativas son lugares de oportunidades donde todos los niños y las familias pueden desarrollarse, crecer y contribuir; donde la gente sabe que el bienestar de la comunidad depende de la participación de cada persona.
> Lograr comunidades más equitativas precisa que todos enfrentemos la forma en que el racismo y los prejuicios afectan nuestra historia y nuestras experiencias actuales, para sanar las fracturas resultantes en nuestras relaciones y empezar a dar nueva forma a los sistemas que nos impiden avanzar a tantos de nosotros" [56].

RECOMENDACIÓN: INEQUIDAD

La Mesa de soluciones comunitarias del proyecto CHART identificó que la inequidad en Santa Fe es un problema importante y recomienda lo siguiente:

1. Además de las iniciativas actuales de la ciudad que señalan la equidad/inequidad como desafío por abordar y resolver (por ejemplo, el Plan de 25 años de Santa Fe sostenible; el Estudio de uso del suelo y diseño urbano, Culture Connnects; la Resolución 2015-65), la ciudad de Santa Fe debería financiar, emprender y poner en marcha un Plan general actualizado (completado por última vez en 1999) que identifique la inequidad como desafío continuo para la ciudad, aborde los problemas de inequidad en todos los departamentos y direcciones de la ciudad y las medidas para atenuar sus efectos.

La concejala Lindell el 25 de agosto de 2015 propuso una resolución para la creación de un Plan general actualizado:

1. "Por la presente se ordena al personal de la ciudad la creación de un Plan general actualizado que se centre en los temas de uso del suelo y diseño urbano y que a la vez aborde el transporte, la vivienda asequible y otros temas pertinentes, de acuerdo con los objetivos de la comunidad para avanzar hacia el futuro respetando la gran historia de Santa Fe; y

2. El personal deberá recopilar las aportaciones del público a través de reuniones con el propósito de revisar y solicitar aportaciones sobre el Plan general actualizado, especialmente los objetivos para el futuro, de una manera geográficamente equilibrada, que podría incluir mecanismos de aportación que sean representativos de la ciudad en su conjunto a través de una muestra estadísticamente significativa, en lugar de basarse sólo en la información de quienes asisten a las reuniones; y

3. Un Plan general actualizado que refleje los objetivos y el sentir de toda la comunidad y el deseo del futuro de Santa Fe y que se presente para que la Comisión de planificación lo recomiende y el Órgano de Gobierno lo apruebe".

CHART escribió a la concejala Lindell el 14 y el 29 de julio de 2022 sobre el estado de esta propuesta de resolución, ya que no pudimos localizar ninguna discusión o acción en las actas de ninguna reunión municipal posterior. La concejala Lindell respondió: "estaba claro para todos que no teníamos los recursos ni el personal para finalizar un nuevo plan general" [57]

Sentido de pertenencia

En cualquier comunidad, las cuestiones de sentido pertenencia están intrínsecamente ligadas a las realidades del racismo, la discriminación y la desigualdad. El sentido de pertenencia, o la falta él, surgió con frecuencia en las respuestas a la Encuesta 1, hasta el punto de que las sesiones de diálogo público de marzo estuvieron dedicadas a debatirlo.

Durante el proyecto CHART, algunos participantes se refirieron al sentido de pertenencia utilizando palabras y frases que evocan lo contrario: “excluidos”, “marginados”, “nosotros” y “ellos”. La palabra “fuereños” fue, con mucho, la más frecuente y la que se utilizó con más vehemencia, o a la cual otras personas hicieron referencia como palabra importante al profundizar las divisiones entre los habitantes. He aquí algunos ejemplos de lo que leímos y oímos:

> “...muchos de los eventos que han ocurrido dentro de la ciudad han sido traídos por los ‘fuereños’, anglosajones e indígenas de Estados Unidos de fuera del estado”.
> “Hacer que los negocios locales vuelvan a la plaza, poner un tope a los alquileres para que los fuereños con $ que no se preocupan por nuestra ciudad ni la historia vuelvan las rentas tan altas”
> “Parece que una vez que los fuereños se mudan quieren cambiar esta cultura y convertirla en una de culpa y reconciliación”.
> "Parece que los fuereños se mudan aquí porque les encanta. Luego, una vez aquí, proceden a hacer cambios para intentar que nuestra ciudad ¡se parezca a la que dejaron!!!”
> “Tiene que haber una reflexión profunda entre los llamados hispanos ‘de aquí’, que ven a todas las personas cuyos antepasados no han estado aquí durante cientos de años como fuereños que deberían irse. Es realmente una forma de discriminación repugnante y retrógrada que es ampliamente aceptada en esta ciudad y es asquerosa”
> “Probablemente sería mejor traer a los lugareños de toda la vida a estas sesiones, porque ellos entienden las actitudes y la historia de la ciudad. Eso será muy difícil porque vienen los fuereños que piensan y actúan como si fueran privilegiados y como si fueran mejores que los locales”.
> “...hay ciertos fuereños, grupos extremistas y gente que no entiende o ‘capta’ y que quieren cambiar las cosas para beneficio de su agenda personal y eso ha sembrado división; ellos son los que entran como toros en cristalería, los que han creado esta división”.

“Nuestros hermanos y hermanas Puebloanos no tienen ninguna mala voluntad hacia los españoles, así como los españoles no tienen ninguna mala voluntad hacia los Pueblo. Son unos cuantos radicales que aconsejan al alcalde y los concejales los que han creado este desafortunado momento en nuestra ciudad”.

“En verdad, deberíamos considerar algunas ideas que estos fuereños quieren porque son buenas ideas. Nadie toma en cuenta las nuevas ideas... Hay buenas ideas allí fuera y no deberíamos rechazarlas”.

Lo que causa división en este tipo de expresión, según otros participantes de CHART, es que comunica que ciertos residentes son “dueños” de la comunidad y otros no lo son; que ciertos habitantes merecen tomar decisiones para la comunidad y otros no, y/o que todas las personas de un determinado grupo, raza o etnia (trasplantados, “anglos”, indígenas de los Estados Unidos, “hispanos”, “lugareños”, hermanos y hermanas Pueblo e incluso “radicales”) son un monolito; es decir, que piensan, actúan y viven de la misma manera y provienen de las mismas historias y orígenes.

Algunos participantes indígenas subrayaron las diferencias en las historias, culturas, lenguas, tradiciones y perspectivas de las distintas tribus soberanas; algunos participantes hispanos señalaron la diversidad de los orígenes “hispanos”; algunos participantes blancos/anglosajones describieron las múltiples generaciones de su familia en Santa Fe. En las secciones “Cultura” e “Historia” de este informe, tratamos con más profundidad la complejidad de la comunidad de Santa Fe.

Al mismo tiempo, los participantes de CHART reconocen que existen disparidades que generalmente se dan en función de la raza y etnia (riqueza, salud, vivienda, etc.) y que los legados de la esclavitud y la colonización afectan a las poblaciones de diversas etnias y razas de forma diferente.

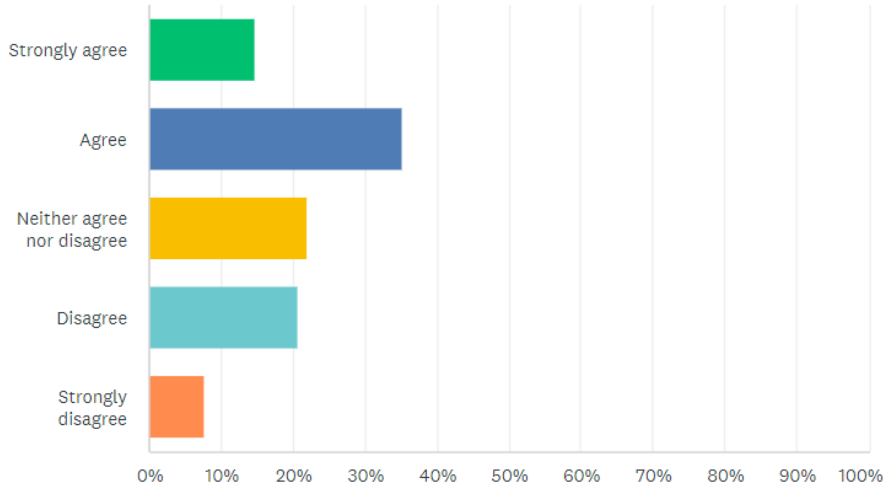

Debido a que estas verdades, así como otras verdades, existen simultáneamente los participantes de CHART expresaron continuamente la necesidad de que los habitantes afirmen múltiples verdades a la vez, que acepten la complejidad y que eviten referirse a las personas de una etnia y/o raza en particular como si tuvieran las mismas opiniones, perspectivas e historias.

CHART deseaba formarse una idea cualitativa de la opinión de los santafesinos sobre el sentido de pertenencia y por eso incluyó una pregunta al respecto en la Encuesta 2. La P23 solicitaba a los habitantes que respondieran a la siguiente afirmación: “En general, tengo un fuerte sentido de PERTENENCIA en Santa Fe: me aceptan por lo que soy y la comunidad se preocupa por mi bienestar”.  Los resultados son los siguientes:

Q23

Overall, I feel a strong sense of BELONGING in Santa Fe – I am accepted for who I am and the community cares about my well-being.

| Agree | 35.22% |
| Neither agree nor disagree | 21.93% |
| Disagree | 20.60% |
| Strongly disagree | 7.64% |
| TOTAL | |

Si bien el 49.84% de los encuestados está de acuerdo o muy de acuerdo con la afirmación, el 21.93% no puede estar ni de acuerdo ni en desacuerdo y el 28.24% de nuestros conciudadanos no experimenta un sentido de pertenencia. Así, un total del 50% o la MITAD de la comunidad representada en la encuesta está en desacuerdo o no puede estar de acuerdo o en desacuerdo con que la comunidad se preocupe por ellos o por su bienestar, una estadística que exige la atención enfocada tanto de la ciudad de Santa Fe como de su comunidad.

¿Por qué es importante el sentido la pertenencia?
En su innovador libro basado en abundantes datos de investigación[58], Bowling Alone [59] [Juego solo al boliche], Robert Putnam demuestra que los estadounidenses nos hemos desconectado cada vez más de la familia, amigos, vecinos y de nuestras estructuras democráticas. Putnam advierte que nuestra reserva de capital social, el tejido mismo de nuestras conexiones con los demás se ha derrumbado, devastando nuestras vidas y comunidades. Putnam descubrió que la salud y la seguridad, los logros educativos, la fortaleza económica local y otras medidas de bienestar dependían de los niveles de capital social de una comunidad.

Desde el año 2000, el año en que se publicó Bowling Alone, Estados Unidos ha experimentado conmociones sociales, políticas, económicas, médicas y de otro tipo (sobre todo en los dos últimos años) que no han servido sino para acrecentar la sensación de desconexión y aislamiento entre nosotros. [60]

El sentido de pertenencia es una importante medida del capital social de Santa Fe. Que los habitantes sientan aceptación, seguridad y atención depende de la calidad de nuestras relaciones no sólo con la familia, amigos y seres queridos, sino también con desconocidos. Cultivar el sentido de pertenencia de todos los habitantes debe ser una prioridad para la ciudad de Santa Fe, no sólo para promover la seguridad, los logros educativos, una economía fuerte y otras medidas de bienestar, sino también porque fomenta la interconexión y la resiliencia necesaria para que los residentes reconozcan y afronten los problemas difíciles a los que nos enfrentamos ahora y otros a los que nos enfrentaremos en el futuro.

> "Lo que se necesita es una exploración de la forma exacta en que se produce una auténtica comunidad. ¿Cómo se transforma? ¿Qué cambios fundamentales están implicados? …lo esencial es dar un paso adelante en nuestra manera de pensar y diseño sobre la forma en que las personas en las comunidades se unen para producir algo nuevo para sí mismas. Al pensar en términos de la estructura del sentido de pertenencia, empezamos a construir la capacidad de transformar nuestras comunidades para que funcionen para todos…" [61]

[60] La Fundación AARP y la Fundación United Health efectuaron una encuesta en 2020, que reveló que todos los adultos estadounidenses experimentan aislamiento social. "Dos tercios de los adultos estadounidenses informan que sienten el aislamiento social y más de la mitad, (66%) concuerda en que la pandemia de COVID-19 ha ocasionado que incremente su nivel de ansiedad".

RECOMMENDACIÓN: SENTIDO DE PERTENENCIA

Además de poner en práctica las recomendaciones relativas a los eventos multiculturales (sección de “Cultura”), la sanación de la verdad y la reconciliación (sección de "Reconciliación"), así como las recomendaciones que abordan el racismo/discriminación y la desigualdad (más arriba en esta sección), recomendamos lo siguiente:

1. La ciudad de Santa Fe debería financiar, crear y de inmediato poner en práctica oportunidades regulares y sostenidas para que los santafesinos participen en actividades que fortalezcan el tejido social y transformen los sentimientos de aislamiento dentro de nuestras comunidades hacia un sentido de conexión y atención a un todo. Estas actividades deberían hacer hincapié en el diálogo en grupos reducidos, facilitado por profesionales calificados, que promuevan el escuchar, compartir y la comprensión recíproca.

Dichas oportunidades y actividades las podría efectuar el Departamento de participación cívica que se recomienda crear en la siguiente sección.

Ciudadanía participativa

> “La democracia y en nuestro caso la república federal, depende de la participación de los ciudadanos. Cuando los ciudadanos están comprometidos, pueden intercambiar ideas, invertir en la búsqueda de soluciones y emplear un discurso civilizado para abordar los problemas a los que se enfrentan sus comunidades. Esto fortalece nuestra democracia y también fomenta el empoderamiento personal a nivel individual al ayudar a la gente a sentir que tiene voz en lo que ocurre en sus comunidades. Al unirnos bajo un propósito compartido, generamos confianza, empatía, conexiones humanas y una sólida base de apoyo para encontrar e implementar soluciones en nuestras comunidades”.[62]

El énfasis de CHART durante la ejecución del proyecto de 12 meses fue promover el “diálogo civilizado” con la convicción de que el “intercambio de ideas” y la inversión en la “búsqueda de soluciones” nos harían avanzar en el camino hacia la verdad, la sanación y la reconciliación. Quienes participaron (sobre todo de forma constante) en el proyecto demostraron un compromiso cívico que CHART agradece y admira.

Al mismo tiempo, escuchamos con mucha frecuencia durante el proyecto sobre “lo que la gente no sabe” y “lo que la ciudad no nos dice” y cómo “los líderes de la ciudad están desconectados” o “no representan nuestras opiniones”.

Con estos sentimientos en mente, incluimos dos preguntas en la Encuesta 2 de modo que nos revelaran más sobre el intercambio de información y la democracia en acción. Los resultados son mixtos:

P29
“Sé a dónde ir (ya sea en línea o en persona) para obtener información sobre importantes iniciativas de la Ciudad de Santa Fe.”

| Strongly agree | 8.97% |
| Agree | 38.21% |
| Neither agree nor disagree | 19.27% |
| Disagree | 24.42% |
| Strongly disagree | 9.14% |
| TOTAL | |

Apenas la mitad de los encuestados sabe dónde acudir para informarse sobre las iniciativas municipales de la ciudad de Santa Fe, mientras que más de la mitad no está ni de acuerdo ni en desacuerdo con la afirmación.

En cuanto al contacto con los concejales, los resultados fueron decepcionantes. Casi el 60% de los encuestados indica que “Rara vez” o “Nunca” se pone en contacto con sus concejales. Sólo el 11.46% se pone en contacto “Habitualmente” o “Siempre” con sus concejales para compartir perspectivas y opiniones.

P28
“Me pongo en contacto con mi concejal de la ciudad (City Councilor) para compartir mis perspectivas y puntos de vista.”

Q28 I contact my city councilor to share my perspectives and views.

| Usually | 7.81% |
| Sometimes | 30.73% |
| Rarely | 24.75% |
| Never | 33.06% |
| TOTAL | |

Estos resultados plantean algunas preguntas importantes: ¿Cuáles son los mejores mecanismos para informar al público sobre las iniciativas importantes de la ciudad y cómo puede promoverlas la ciudad? ¿Por qué tan pocos habitantes contactan a sus concejales? Si los concejales sólo escuchan a un reducido porcentaje de los electores, ¿Cómo es que están “sondeando” las opiniones de los electores sobre cuestiones importantes para tomar decisiones y acciones informadas?

Por supuesto que hay muchas otras maneras para que la ciudad, incluido la Junta de Gobierno, escuche las perspectivas y opiniones de la ciudadanía: hay decenas de formularios de opinión pública y solicitudes de comentarios del público sobre una amplia gama de temas en el sitio web de la ciudad. Aun así, a lo largo del proyecto hemos escuchado constantemente que “la ciudad” o “el alcalde” o los “concejales” no escuchan a la ciudadanía; sólo escuchan a una “minoría de personas” y que toman decisiones basándose sólo en “las voces más fuertes” y no están “en contacto con la gente”.

Con base en las aportaciones del público, creemos que existe una necesidad crítica de un enfoque actualizado del compromiso comunitario y cívico que fomente la sensación de “ser escuchado” por parte de los habitantes de la ciudad y de “tener una amplia idea de cuál es la postura de la comunidad en este asunto” por parte del gobierno de la ciudad (incluidos los funcionarios elegidos).

Enfoque integral de la participación comunitaria

Un problema típico de los organismos municipales es el enfoque fragmentario de la participación comunitaria. Diferentes departamentos municipales llegan a la comunidad de distintas maneras; mediante reuniones públicas (a veces polémicas) a las que asiste un reducido porcentaje de la población; la participación depende de mecanismos limitados para solicitar comentarios del público; la participación se confunde con el alcance comunitario (boletines de noticias, boletines informativos); los contratos a corto plazo (como CHART) empiezan y terminan lo que podría ser un proceso eficaz y sólido de participación. A menudo, las oficinas interacción con la comunidad carecen de personal suficiente o se confunden con las “comunicaciones” o los “servicios a la ciudadanía”, que son muy diferentes de la participación. En ocasiones, los contratos a corto plazo inician cambios y programas que se eliminan en el siguiente periodo de gobierno (a menudo de un partido político diferente). La mayoría de las veces, el resultado es un mosaico de actividades de participación intermitentes y desconectadas.

En su lugar, se necesita un enfoque más sostenido, robusto, consistente y cohesivo de participación comunitaria para construir con el tiempo una red de relaciones comunitarias, así como para abordar una serie de problemas y cuestiones. Creemos que al hacerlo la ciudad probablemente gastará menos dinero que en un enfoque gradual basado en contratos de participación comunitaria con resultados superiores.

Por ello, recomendamos lo siguiente:

RECOMMENDACIONES: PARTICIPACIÓN COMUNITARIA

La ciudad de Santa Fe debería:

1. Eliminar la “Oficina de participación comunitaria” y establecer un "Departamento de participación comunitario". La designación de "Departamento" es importante, en este caso, a efectos de presentación de informes y de colaboración entre homólogos. Según el organigrama de la ciudad de Santa Fe, el departamento dependería del administrador de la ciudad (y no de un director de departamento), quien también supervisa otros departamentos con los que el nuevo departamento colaboraría (véase 3.G más abajo);
2. Diferenciar al “Departamento de participación comunitaria" del de “Comunicaciones”, “Servicios a la ciudadanía” y “Servicios al Consejo”, al asignar estos tres últimos su propia oficina o ubicándolos en otros departamentos/direcciones adecuadas;
3. Dedicar el nuevo “Departamento de participación comunitaria” a las siguientes actividades:
   A. Iniciar, sostener y establecer (a lo largo del tiempo) relaciones sanas con las organizaciones comunitarias que prestan servicios a las diversas poblaciones de Santa Fe para aprender de estas organizaciones y de sus miembros/clientes;
   B. En colaboración con las organizaciones mencionadas, crear canales de comunicación bidireccionales que informen al personal del Departamento de los puntos de vista y opiniones de la ciudadanía sobre los temas de importancia para la ciudadanía y en los que se comunique a las organizaciones, y a la ciudadanía que recibe los servicios, que la ciudad está escuchando:
   C. Crear y poner en práctica una estrategia de participación diversa, no partidista, amplia y sostenida, a lo largo de muchos años que permita al personal del departamento recibir información valiosa de la ciudadanía (vinculada o no a las organizaciones mencionadas) sobre una serie de cuestiones urgentes y preocupantes. Esta estrategia de participación debe reflejar y mejorar la aplicada por CHART incluida en la sección “Metodología” de este informe;
   D. Crear una extensa lista de contactos de ciudadanos (asociados o no a las organizaciones mencionadas) que deseen formar parte de la sólida estrategia de compromiso del Departamento y permanecer en contacto con ellos con invitaciones e información;
   E. Promover las actividades del departamento entre todos los habitantes la ciudad, incluidos los recién llegados que quieran formar parte del tejido social promovido por el Departamento de participación comunitaria;
   F. Desarrollar mecanismos eficaces para tomar la información recopilada a través de la participación, así como analizar la información para presentarla a los órganos, comités, departamentos y divisiones adecuados;
   G. Desarrollar y con el tiempo mantener relaciones sanas con otros departamentos/divisiones y personal de la ciudad, así como contar con mecanismos para proporcionar a estos departamentos/divisiones retroalimentación pública que contribuya a comprender cuál es la postura de muchos habitantes en los asuntos de su competencia;
   H. Desarrollar y aplicar prácticas y mecanismos de evaluación/retroalimentación para medir el éxito;

4. Financiar y dotar al Departamento de participación comunitaria de expertos y profesionales a tiempo completo, en las disciplinas de la participación comunitaria, para que sean capaces de implementar las actividades anteriores con las herramientas necesarias para lograr los objetivos del departamento; y

5. Demostrar comprensión de la complejidad del trabajo del Departamento participación comunitaria al proveer una financiación continua y tiempo para que pueda cumplir sus objetivos.

CONCLUSIÓN

CONCLUSIÓN

Sabemos que muchos querían que el proyecto CHART alcanzara conclusiones. Hemos aportado muchas a manera de nuestras recomendaciones. Sabemos que muchos querían que el proceso CHART decidiera definitivamente el destino del Monumento a los soldados/“obelisco”. Recomendamos un “destino” que nos pide más trabajo. Todavía estamos divididos; aún no hemos llegado a ese punto.

Los santafesinos nos recuerdan, una y otra vez, que el proceso de la verdad, la sanación y la reconciliación es una empresa de largo plazo y que abordar el Monumento a los soldados/“obelisco” sigue siendo el centro de este trabajo. Requiere que seamos pacientes, tenaces, resistentes a la vez que seguimos adelante. Aún estamos en medio de esta historia particular y, sin duda, no se puede apresurar, ni siquiera en la forma de un año repleto de diálogos entre miembros de la comunidad.

Esperamos que muchas de las recomendaciones de este informe se apliquen rápidamente. Muchos participantes de CHART exigirán que así sea. Instamos a la ciudad de Santa Fe a que desafíe lo que escuchamos de muchos participantes, que “la ciudad no hará nada con sus recomendaciones; esto es sólo una pérdida de dinero”, como lo afirmó un participante.

Santa Fe: los hemos escuchado; los oímos, los honramos.

Nos gustaría concluir este informe invocando las palabras de la Proclamación de la ciudad de Santa Fe de septiembre de 2018 que marcó el final del desfile de la Entrada de la Fiesta de Santa Fe. La proclamación fue el resultado de un año de conversaciones entre la Junta de Gobernadores de todos los pueblos, la Arquidiócesis Católica de Santa Fe, la ciudad de Santa Fe, los caballeros de de Vargas y el Consejo de la Fiesta de Santa Fe.

Las deliberaciones sobre este tema tan, tan divisivo, fueron largas y difíciles. Se caracterizaron por decir la verdad, por un diálogo crítico y compasivo y, finalmente, por un acuerdo. Las palabras de la proclamación resultante han guiado e inspirado al equipo de CHART a lo largo del proyecto como ejemplo de cómo abordar la verdad, la sanación y la reconciliación. Estamos agradecidos por el ejemplo brindado por quienes emprendieron este proceso para llegar a un entendimiento colectivo:

> “Nos reunimos para proclamar nuestro amor por nuestra ciudad de ‘Ogap'ogeh’, La Villa Real de la Santa Fe de San Francisco de Asís, Santa Fe: nuestra gente, nuestras lenguas, nuestra forma de vida y esta tierra sagrada y sus bendiciones que recibimos con gratitud.
> Reconocemos el pasado y sus traumas, tragedias y penas; comprendemos su legado en el presente.
> Reconocemos las heridas más antiguas y profundas de este continente. En nombre de aquellos del pasado que no pueden pedir perdón, lo hacemos ahora.
> También reconocemos la notable profundidad de la sabiduría y la resiliencia que proviene de la lucha. Compartimos nuestro dolor; compartimos nuestra fuerza.
> Reconocemos que hay mucha sanación por delante.

Comprendemos que la verdadera reconciliación es un proceso que dura generaciones y que es desafiante y complejo: pondrá a prueba nuestra capacidad de recuperación.

Por esa razón, nos comprometemos con una participación honesta y compasiva, por muy dura que sea, por mucho tiempo que requiera. Creemos en nuestra capacidad para cambiar y ser cambiados.

Renovamos nuestra dedicación hacia nuestros valores fundamentales: amor, respeto, compasión, fe, comprensión, empatía y gratitud.

Nos unimos hoy por nuestros hijos, guiados por nuestro sagrado deber de conocer y aprender del pasado, reconocer el presente e imaginar un futuro en el que todos prosperen. Nos unimos para hacer una nueva ofrenda de paz y decidimos avanzar juntos.

Comencemos nuestro camino, aquí, como representantes de algo más grande que nosotros mismos.

Desaprendamos y volvamos a aprender. Caminemos juntos, un paso a la vez de forma que podamos hablar con la verdad y que nos transformemos para sanar, para ser familia. Hacemos estas promesas y nos comprometemos con los niños a elegir el camino correcto hoy, para que en el futuro nos puedan llamar sus buenos antepasados”.

Maureen Burdock

“Maureen Burdock is an artist, author, and teacher. Long ago, her maternal family fled the Spanish Inquisition, leaving the Iberian Peninsula and eventually resettling in what was Silesia, Germany, before 1946 (contemporary western Poland). Her grandmother was an avid nationalist during the Second World War, but later a refugee, as she and her children fled the encroaching Russian Army. Decades later, when Maureen was seven, her mother fled with her to the United States to escape domestic violence. Burdock grew up as an outsider, deeply affected by her mother’s PTSD and intense religiosity. She learned to use art and writing to make sense of her experiences of gender-based violence, displacement, and toxic nationalism and religious fanaticism. Today, Burdock creates and studies literature and comics in response to trauma. She is interested in how personal stories can disrupt xenophobic, racist, and sexist master narratives. Burdock belongs to several communities: her family and chosen family, scattered across Europe and North America; a circle of deep friendships in Northern New Mexico, composed of people of all ages from richly varied backgrounds; and her transnational community of artists, activists, and educators. Burdock is working on The Queen of Snails, a graphic memoir about gendered experiences of violence and displacement across generations. She earned a PhD in cultural studies from University of California, Davis, an MFA in fine art and MA in visual critical studies from California College of the Arts, and a BFA in studio art from Santa Fe University of Art and Design.” Zip code: 87505, Age Range: 51-60, 10 years in Santa Fe, Languages: English, German

Jenice Gharib, CHART Co-Director

“I am an arts administrator with a special interest in community and economic development through the arts. Most recently I worked for a public funder and managed the distribution of approximately $1M in annual funding to over 200 arts organizations, K-12 schools, colleges and universities, and government and tribal entities including 60 organizations based in Santa Fe County. I regularly gathered the arts community through in person and online gatherings, conducted surveys and field research, and led strategic planning efforts. I’ve lived in Santa Fe for 18 years and my main community is made up of artists and writers. I’ve always straddled two cultures – American and English – as my mother was American and my father English. My mother’s family arrived on the east coast of this continent in the 1600s as settlers/colonists and still farm today. My father immigrated here in the late 1950s and I’m the first on his side of the family to be born in the US. I have dual citizenship. I’ve traveled a great deal – India, Nepal, Peru, most of Europe, including eastern Europe – and lived in England and Poland in addition to several states in the US. My mother’s early service as a teacher in India and her work on behalf of children throughout her life was my greatest inspiration to serve others as best I can. I am also a published writer, former magazine editor, and produced playwright.  I have an MFA in Creative Writing and a BS in Accounting.” Zip code: 87501, Age Range: 60-70, 18 years in Santa Fe, Languages: English

Hernan Gomez Chavez

“I am an artist and activist born and raised in Santa Fe. My family is from Mexico. I am a local to the Southside of Santa Fe and consider my community to be the Airport Road area. I also consider this city my home. I was previously on the intake team for Santa Fe Mutual Aid. My primary work included connecting individuals and families in need to resources available in Santa Fe County and in the state. I worked with the State Department of Finance and Administration to help people facing housing instability apply and receive aid through the Emergency Rental Assistance Program. One of the campaigns I started along with other community members was the ‘Keep Santa Fe Multicultural’ group.  We have focused on preservation of one of the last historic Chicano murals remaining here in Santa Fe. I am a sculptor and received a BA from the UNM in 2014. In 2013 I studied abroad at the Academy of Art, Architecture, and Design in Prague. I pursued an MFA in sculpture at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago in 2016. My sculptural work deals with themes of power, place and infrastructure and I have shown work in the US and Prague, Czechoslovakia. My new projects explore artists' role in gentrifying neighborhoods and the impact our current political climate has on US/Mexico relations." Zip code: 87507, Age Range: 21-30, 21 years in Santa Fe (lifelong), Languages: English, Spanish

Kearsley Higgins, CHART Administrator
"I am excited to be the administrative coordinator for the CHART team and feel privileged to help organize this important project. I am a new resident to Santa Fe and eager to listen and learn from the diverse communities that call this place home. I am passionate about art as a form of expression and transformation. I have a degree in Radio, Television and Film from Northwestern University. I worked in management for feature films for a decade in for companies like 20th Century Fox and Pixar Animation Studios. When my daughter was born, I chose to take a step back from my professional career. Recent years have been filled with kids and chaos and with me volunteering my time to set design plays, write for a newsletter, or help our school district. I look forward to collaborative work with this amazing project team. I hope my organizational skills will be helpful in this bold attempt to look at the intricate fabric of Santa Fe, unearth divisions, and find pathways for understanding and healing."

Tintawi Kaigziabiher
"I am a mother of 5 creative souls, a wife and partner of 18 years, and an interdisciplinary artist of African descent. My blood lineages span the diaspora including the United States, Africa, Europe, and Australia. Oga Po'geh - Santa Fe has been my home for over 10 years and I consider it an honor and privilege to grow and raise my family on this sacred ground. My great grandparents are my connection to New Mexico, they lived and were laid to rest in Roswell. I am a board member with Black Health New Mexico, a member of NM Breastfeeding Task Force, an independent artist with Vital Spaces, a member of Earthseed Black Arts Alliance, and the nonfiction editor for the Santa Fe Literary Review. Additionally, I have engaged with the community through Santa Fe city and county cleanups, as a doula, and as the co-facilitator for Sista Circle Camp. In my professional work, I create ceremonial and nature-inspired art, I am a Trainer with Childbirth International and an Olorisa of Yemoja (Lukumi). My literary works can be found in the Santa Fe Reporter, The Santa Fe Literary Review, The Mistake House, and other literary magazines. My recent artwork was featured in the Re-Centering Santa Fe "Social Structures" project with Santa Fe Art Institute and in the "Handtools of Resilience" exhibit at Form and Concept. My creative work highlights the African experience in the diaspora. My life work is to be a bridge between the communities I connect with and serve. Alexis Kaminsky, CHART Project Evaluator
"I was born and raised in New Mexico. I left in my late teens to go to college and, later, graduate school. I have a Ph.D. in program evaluation from Cornell University. I show art at Exhibit/208 in Albuquerque, work part-time at University of New Mexico as research faculty, and own a small consulting company that focuses on educational and community-based research and evaluation."

Valerie Martinez, CHART Co-Director, Founding Director, Artful Life
"I was born and raised in Santa Fe in a loving community of families descended from the Spanish colonizers and Indigenous peoples of present-day Mexico and North America. My parents were career public school teachers with a wide circle of family and friends who were both socially and civically active in the heart of Santa Fe community life. After earning my B.A. in English (Vassar College) and M.F.A. in Creative Writing/Poetry (University of Arizona) I taught as a college/university professor for over 22 years--at the University of Arizona, Ursinus College, New Mexico Highlands University, University of New Mexico, Institute for American Indian Arts (IAIA), University of Miami, and the College of Santa Fe. When the College of Santa Fe closed, in 2009, I left academia and entered the field of arts and community development. I was a core team member and Executive Director with Littleglobe (Santa Fe), working with artist teams and community members on such large-scale arts and community projects as Lines and Circles; Common Ground TOC (Torreon/Cuba/Ojo Encino); Lifesongs; Memorylines: Voces de Nuestras Jornadas; Stories of Route 66: The International District, and Rivers Run Through Us. In 2015 I founded Artful Life to continue and evolve community arts work with additional projects in Albuquerque and Santa Fe. From 2018- 2021 I was the Director of History and Literary Arts at the National Hispanic Cultural Center, managing a wide range of history and literary projects for children, youth, adults, elders and families. I have also served as a consultant for community engagement projects (with an emphasis on public dialogue and art) since 2016. Finally, I am a poet–author of six books of poetry and one book of translations. I was honored to be Santa Fe's second Poet Laureate from 2008-2010." Simesha McEachern

"I am an African American female who grew up in the south (North Carolina, to be exact). I moved to Santa Fe from Austin, Texas where I resided for 11 years. My background is in education, first as a teacher and then as a trainer. My community is best represented as those who felt called to be a part of the Santa Fe community. From my very first visit in 2017, I knew that this felt like home. I moved here in 2019 for work and immediately sought out organizations where I could make a difference. I have joined the Santa Fe Branch of the NAACP where I am an active member and chair of two committees. I work full time as the Education Coordinator in Santa Fe County for Presbyterian Medical Services Children's Services division. In addition, I am an active member of St. Bede's where I serve as a greeter once a month. I have a B.S. in Elementary Education with a Minor in English, an M.Ed. in Instructional Technology and Design, and an Ed.D. in Curriculum and Teaching. I am fully devoted to the pursuit of teaching and learning both formally and informally. I am fully committed to improving the lives of others through education while acknowledging and paying tribute to my southern roots. I believe strongly that mother wit and good old fashioned horse sense are what makes the world go around and I prize these attributes more highly than the degrees on my wall. Recent events have only served to further ignite my passion for Santa Fe and all of its people." Zip code: 87505, Age Range: 41-50, 2.5 years living in Santa Fe, Languages: English

Peter Cuong Nguyen
"Coming from a large family I learned to be conscientious and considerate of others. I learned to adapt to working with people from all backgrounds and the community in which I live. I make it a point to get to know the people and places in my community and to listen and learn about my community. I am a Vietnamese American. I am also an artist with an MFA in painting and printmaking. I have worked in the museum field for over 15 years and have lived in Santa Fe for 5 years off and on. I currently work for SITE Santa Fe but previously I worked for Turquoise Trail Charter School and, before that, at the Santa Fe Youth Symphony Association. Having held various positions in the museum field and non-profits, I have worked with people from various socio-economic backgrounds and ethnicities which have strengthened my connections to the communities I've worked with." R.T., High School Intern
"I come from a very Mexican family from the state of Chihuahua in Mexico. I would describe my ancestry as filled with traditions and culture. My ancestry has also taught me some very valuable lessons. It taught me why family is so important and why having so many traditions is just as important. I would describe myself as someone who has many goals in life and is willing to work as hard as needed to achieve them. I would say that I also have a mindset of jumping at any opportunity that life presents and trying not to have any regrets. The community I belong to is a great community. I think I am part of multiple communities, my neighborhood, my church, my school, and, overall, my town. I feel that I'm part of the Latino side of Santa Fe. My church is also another big community I think I am part of. We help each other as much as we can. My favorite school subject has always been math. I love that there will always just be one answer. I want to be an immigration lawyer when I'm older because the issues relating to immigration mean so much to me. Seeing how people are affected by immigration laws and their status really makes me want to help. Outside of school, I like to spend time with my family and friends. I am a big fan of making a lot of memories so I try to make them as often as I can." 87507, Age Range: 16-19, 17 years in Santa Fe (lifelong), Languages: English, Spanish

Thomas Romero
In memoriam: Thomas A. "Tomás" Romero (1946-2022) passed away on Saturday, March 12, 2022, shortly after being diagnosed with cancer and in the midst of the CHART project. Tomas was a beloved member of the CHART Team and we miss him dearly. "I was born in Santa Rosa, New Mexico and raised in Santa Fe. I consider myself a generational member of the New Mexican community with strong knowledge of NM history and its people. I was born of Hispanic parents, with generations of ancestors in NM tracing back to earliest colonizers and with traceable Native ancestry. My deepest experiences are rooted in rural communities and its people. More significantly, I have worked with and participated with the full range of communities in northern NM. My working career over 55 years included extensive experience in consulting, with 28 years heading my own practice, and 7 years for 2 international firms. I provided management consulting and business advisory services to government agencies, tribal governments, and businesses. I worked directly with NM state government and with the Santa Fe Community College. For the last 9 years I served as Executive Director of Northern Rio Grande Heritage Area, working with smaller communities and local governments throughout northern NM, promoting community planning, heritage development, and tourism. I've been an active volunteer in community organizations over the last 25 years, including as President and Board Member of El Museo Cultural, an Hispanic cultural center and community organization." Santiago Sanchez y Lucero

"I describe myself as many things. I am a dark-skinned young man. I am a third-generation college graduate. I am an artist, a scholar, a student, an educator, a role model, and I am a person who takes the responsibility of fulfilling these roles seriously. I am a Santa Fean, born and raised. I come from a community of laborers and artists and healers. My immediate family is an unexplored, unspoken, complex mix of Native American, Spanish, and white settlers genetically, but I was raised as "local Spanish/Hispanic". My grandparents and parents were all born across various regions of New Mexico. My father's parents were born in Governador, and Farmington, while my mother's parents were born in Taos and Tucumcari. I am an international student of Global Studies passionate about social and environmental justice. I have experience in coral reef restoration, turtle hatchery projects, developing an "eco-brick" cleanup and recycling project, and as a behavioral husbandry intern at the New York Aquarium. In Santa Fe I have done community organizing work with former city councilor, Rosemary Romero, including affordable housing meetings, National Forest conferences, and contract work for the Census Bureau and NM Coalition to End Homelessness. I am a self-employed tutor and multimedia artist/graphic designer. I believe art is an invaluable tool for communication and creating positive change." M.O., High School Intern
"I see myself as a member of a community that is filled with diversity and acceptance to all. It's a community that allows many different cultures to exist like mine, which is Mexican. My culture has food filled with all kinds of chilis, dairy products, plus beans. It also prioritizes family over everything, and believes you are not truly dead until you're forgotten. My work experience comes from volunteering with NHS, National Honors Society, which provides me with opportunities to volunteer. An example of our teamwork would be when we did a river clean up through which we were able to clean up trash and beautify the river." Mark Westberg
"I am a queer, mentally-divergent freelance artist, actor, musician, and activist who serves as a director with the Santa Fe Human Rights Alliance. I would describe myself as a traveler and as adventurous. I am both willing and open to learning and trying new things and doing my best to try to expand my worldview and practice empathy daily. I also enjoy exploring different parts of my being, as opposed to just remaining a one-dimensional person. Myself as an artist, as well as a human being, are what I would describe as colorful, eclectic, and hyper-curious. My community is extremely multilingual, multicultural, and diverse, deriving from a wide and in-depth array of history, especially in Santa Fe, NM. Additionally, I am Italian and Swedish. My Italian grandparents, great grandmother and aunt immigrated through Ellis Island, New York City in the late 1900's. I'm very proud to be a product of immigration to this country. I also graduated with honors from the Santa Fe University of Art & Design in spring 2014 with a BA in theatre performance. I earned my SAG/AFTRA card in 2016. I employ many artistic fields of expression including composing and playing music as well as appearing on multiple stages performing in theatre productions. I believe that all the different fields combined go hand in hand and can easily influence one another. Music can inspire what I draw, and that piece of art can become music. In 2016, I released a solo EP titled Starseed Phantoms." Zip code: 87507, Age Range: 21-30, 12 years in Santa Fe, Languages: English

APPENDIX C: PUBLIC DIALOGUE DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

CHART Santa Fe
Culture, History, Art, Reconciliation and Truth
www.chartsantafe.com

JANUARY - MARCH 2022
QUESTIONS FOR PUBLIC DIALOGUE

All CHART dialogue sessions began with questions/prompts that were provided to registered participants before each event. The questions/prompts were also repeated in the introduction to each session. Dialogues were held via Zoom throughout the project. In-person dialogue began in March, 2022, following state health guidelines for COVID-19.

The overall theme for the sessions in January, February and March were “Monuments,” “Equity,” and “Belonging,” respectively, and were determined by responses to CHART Survey 1.

MONUMENTS

- WHO or WHAT deserves a public monument/memorial/work of public art (etc.) and why? Who/What is worth honoring, and why?
- If existing monuments/memorials/works of art need to be reconsidered, what is the ideal process for this? What steps should be taken, and why?

EQUITY

The CHART project is using the following descriptions of equity and equality: equity involves trying to understand and give people what they need to enjoy full, healthy lives. Equality, in contrast, aims to ensure that everyone gets the same things. Like equity, equality aims to promote fairness and justice, but it assumes that everyone starts from the same place and needs the same things.

- Talk about an experience you’ve had in Santa Fe (city and/or county) that makes you think about equity and inequity. What made the situation equitable or inequitable?
- If you were an elected official, how would you make a real difference in terms of equity? Creative thinking and solutions are encouraged.

BELONGING

- Share a story/experience when you felt a strong sense of belonging in Santa Fe?
- Share a story/experience when you felt the opposite of belonging in Santa Fe? Where and when, for example, did you feel excluded?

APPENDIX D: DATA COLLECTION AND ANALYSIS

DATA COLLECTION AND ANALYSIS

Please see the “Methods” section of this report for an introduction to the following information.

Data Collection

Meetings, Engagement, and Outreach

A dedicated log was maintained throughout the project in order to track activities, events, meetings, conversations, emails, and phone calls. By the end of the project the log had 314 entries. Each entry included the date, description, participants (names and/or task-based group), number of people involved or reached, primary affiliation(s) of attendees, CHART leadership and administration involved, location, and topic.

Internal meetings included: evaluation, planning for events, facilitator training sessions, team meetings (including mentoring with high school interns), survey development, and regular meetings with the City of Santa Fe’s Cultural Affairs Department.

Engagement data tracked registration and participation for each activity and event hosted by CHART (e.g., Opening Ceremony, Implicit Bias Trainings, Teen Dialogues, Cultural History Series, Art Activations, and Public Dialogue events), CHART participation events and activities hosted by other groups such as Juneteenth and Indigenous Ways Festival, and other information gathering and coordination meetings. Additional engagement data included: CHART in the media (i.e., SF New Mexico, Albuquerque Journal), views of CHART recordings available on YouTube from the Cultural History Series (various dates) and short films (April 28, 2022), one-on-one interviews, and evaluation forms completed by participants for each event and activity.

Outreach data focused on e-blasts, newsletters, email, snail mail, phone calls.

Website and Social Media

Additional engagement and outreach data were gathered based on website traffic and social media stats. Website metrics collected included: site sessions, unique visitors, average session duration, and most visited pages. Social media statistics include post reach, engagement, and followers.

Events and Activities

For every activity and event, CHART tracked attendance and documented the engagement with photos and video. For events in which CHART requested pre-registration or registration at the door, it collected documentation of the event itself, participants’ feedback and evaluations, and facilitators’ reflections. Cultural History Talks/Presentations were recorded and made available on CHART’s YouTube channel as were short films created about several events. Extensive notes were taken at public dialogues as well as dialogues hosted by organizations and listening sessions. Close to 120 pages of notes from twenty-eight events were produced and became part of the binders provided to the Community Solutions Table.

Participant Feedback

During the project, participant feedback was collected in a wide variety of ways depending on the kind of engagement activity. For CHART events in which participants pre-registered or provided contact information at the doors of public events, the project utilized an online Wufoo form. After these events, CHART emailed those who had registered and sent a link. At art activations, CHART relied on rapid response mechanisms that were easy to complete when walking around or leaving an event. CHART also gathered 737 comments from 86 unique individuals regarding the 85 proposals submitted for its “Monument Dreams and Conversations” program, one of the main art activations undertaken during the project. At a film and public dialogue event in partnership with Littleglobe, Inc, CHART invited participants to write down their reactions or reflections on Post-it notes which then became prompts for the post-film small group dialogues. Pictures below show some of the responses.

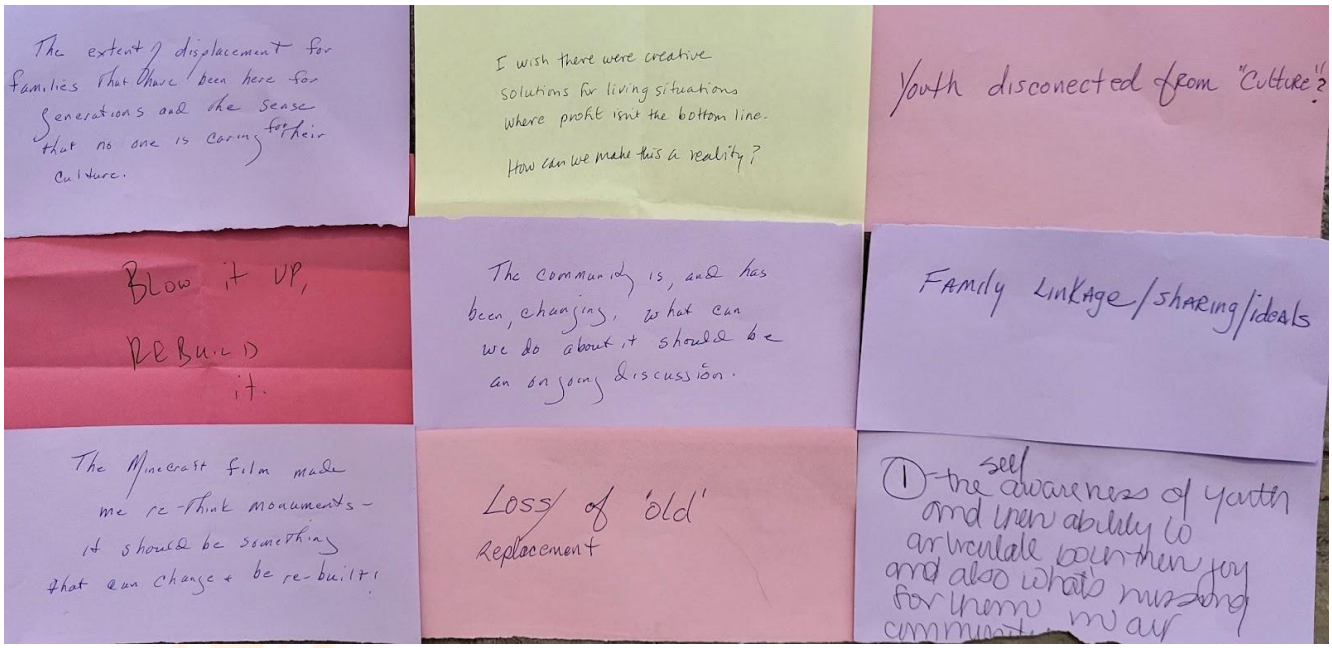

CHART also collected and stored participant feedback comments from calls and email communications and evaluation forms were sent to city staff and Governing Body members who attended implicit bias training. All became part of the large body of data collected during the project and informed activities going forward.

The evaluation forms submitted by those who pre-registered or registered at some events provide a subset of evaluation data that indicate participants' views about the quality and importance of the activity. After each of these events attendees were sent a link to a 15-item evaluation form in the 24 hours after the event. Participants were asked what they learned, how important it was to have such activities in Santa Fe, if they planned to share what they learned with others, and if they would participate in another, similar event. Participants were also asked what more they would like to learn about and if there was anything else they'd like to share with CHART. Demographic information was requested, as well. For these particular events, the table below presents the proportion of participants who submitted evaluation forms:

| Event | Number of Participants | Response rate |
|---|---|---|
| January Public Dialogue | 69 | 65% |
| February Public Dialogue | 42 | 71% |
| March Public Dialogue | 29 | 55% |
| Cultural History Series Event 1 | 89 | 44% |
| Cultural History Series Event 2 | 39 | 46% |

| | | |
| Cultural History Series Event 3 | 49 | 22%* |

*The discrepancy, here, may have to do with the fact that the third event was in person while the previous were online via Zoom. Before participants left Zoom events they received a link to the evaluation form, encouraging them to reply immediately while already online. With an in-person event, participants physically left the event and were emailed a link later. A much higher response rate occurred when participants were immediately able to access the online form to respond.

Evaluation forms from city staff and Governing Body members who attended the implicit bias trainings also provided a subset of evaluation data for the project. Attendees were asked to complete a 13-item evaluation form about their experiences. A total of 14 evaluation forms were submitted.

Surveys 1 and 2
As noted in the section on Iterative Development, Survey 1 was comprised of three open-ended questions: one on history, one on relationships, and one looking to the future. Between September and December 2021, 497 responses were received. Recommendations were extracted and included in the material provided to the Community Solutions Table for consideration.

Survey 2 was designed to gather quantitative information on important questions and topics raised by Santa Fe residents in CHART events and activities as well as from Survey 1 responses. Thirty-nine items were organized into 6 sections: culture, history, art, reconciliation, truth, and demographics. The survey was fielded during May and June of 2022. A total of 564 responses were received as of June 14, 2022. Results were included in the Community Solutions Table binders.

One-on-One Interviews
Finally, 13 one-on-one one interviews were conducted in May 2022 by CHART team members. These asked many of the same questions used in the January, February and March public dialogue sessions. CHART sought out interviewees from demographic groups that had not participated in large numbers at other dialogues, including Santa Feans ages 20-29, immigrants from Mexico and Latin America, and Indigenous, Black, and Asian American residents. Interviewers asked 7 open-ended questions. The data from these interviews is also part of the large body of information collected by the CHART project and assisted in the formation of questions for Survey 2.

Data Analysis
CHART analyzed data collected in several ways depending on the type of data and how it was going to be used. Two primary types of data were collected: open-ended, qualitative data and close-ended quantitative data. Data analysis was conducted for the purposes of project planning and reporting.

Quantitative data were collected through outreach and engagement logs, on evaluation forms, and through Survey 2. Simple frequencies were calculated using Excel 2016 for Mac and SurveyMonkey. Data were displayed using barcharts. Demographic data, where collected, was also analyzed to determine the ages, locations, and later race/ethnicity of participants. This information was used to inform outreach and reporting.

Qualitative data from Survey 1 was analyzed using several strategies appropriate to qualitative methods. A small analysis group was formed early on to identify recommendations as well as emergent themes, issues, claims, and concerns. Data was coded through a combination of project-related code and those that arose from the data themselves. For instance, project-related codes included cultural symbols such as the Obelisk, monuments, and statues as well as values such as respect, open-mindedness, justice, and pride. Coding was conducted in Dedoose 9.0, a qualitative analysis platform (www.dedoose.com) and Excel 2016 for Mac. Open coding was enhanced through word searches that were also coded. Data were sorted and analyzed by code to get a sense of convergence and divergence of experience and opinion. More detail on the coding for Survey 1 can be found in Appendix F.

Participation in Surveys
Survey 1 had 484 respondents, and Survey 2 had 593. The data across surveys were not aggregated because the responses were anonymous and there was no reliable way to determine if any particular individual completed one or both surveys.

Demographics
As noted earlier in this report, demographic information was collected from CHART participants where it was feasible and where it was unlikely to deter participation. Those opportunities were limited to CHART's 2 anonymous surveys, one fielded the third quarter of 2021 and the second one in May-June, 2022. Age and zip code were collected from survey respondents. Race/ethnicity information, not collected as part of Survey 1, was added to subsequent data collection for survey 2.

Race/ethnicity data collected for the purposes of tracking and ultimately addressing disparities in various sectors such as health and education. However, well-known data quality issues exist including misclassification and incompleteness. According to Kader et al. (2022), there are privacy concerns related to disaggregating results, especially for small populations. For example, there are fears that findings can be used to target specific populations and can lead to willful misinterpretation to support stereotyping and discrimination. Additional issues are posed when limiting response options, and some individuals may not respond because they feel excluded if the race/ethnicity they identify with is not listed or when none of the responses apply.

By age
The bar chart below shows participation in the first and second survey by age. As the chart shows, the largest groups of participants for both surveys were between 60-69 and 70-79. These respondents accounted for 19.2% and 23.3% respectively of Survey 1 respondents and 20.2% and 20.6% of Survey 2 respondents. Although the age demographics skew older, this is consistent with Santa Fe's population overall based on the ACS-2019. The chart below an uptick of respondents from individuals 30-69 compared to the first survey. There was also a decline in participation of people under 30.

By zip code
The figure below disaggregates survey respondents by zip code. All in all, the distribution of survey respondents from Survey 1 to Survey 2 did not change substantively, staying within the 5% range from Survey 1.

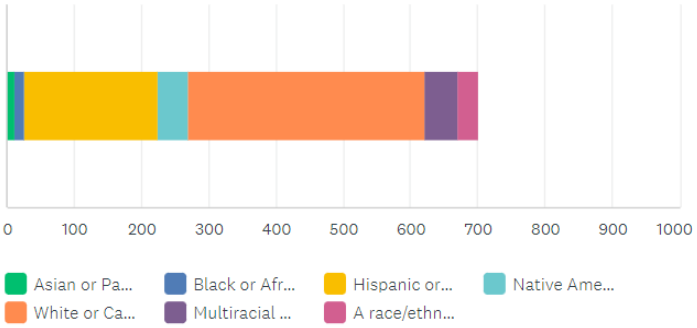

Although some residents from Santa Fe County completed one or both surveys, their numbers were few. For survey 1, .6% were from 87594 and .2% each from 87592, 87574, 87504, 87567, 87401, 87535, and 87591. For survey 2, .8% were from 87010; .3% from 87502, 87504, and 87056; and 2% from 87574, 87567, and 87503.

By Race/ethnicity
As noted above, originally, CHART did not gather this data to respect an individual's privacy and to avoid the possibility that people would find such questions intrusive. Upon request of several Santa Fe Governing Body members, CHART added a question to Survey 2 asking respondents how they identified. Response options included: Asian or Pacific Islander, Black or African American, Hispanic or Latino, Native American or Alaska Native, White or Caucasian, and Multiracial. Respondents could check as many boxes as they felt applied to them. The figure below summarizes the results.

Q38

Which of the following best describes you? (Check all that apply)

Answered: 589 Skipped: 50

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Asian or Pacific Islander | 2.04% |
| Black or African American | 2.55% |
| Hispanic or Latino | 33.62% |
| Native American or Alaskan Native | 7.47% |
| White or Caucasian | 59.93% |
| Multiracial or Biracial | 8.15% |
| A race/ethnicity not listed here | 5.43% |
| Total Respondents: 589 | |

Respondents could “Check all that apply,” and filtered results show that 60% of those who self-identify as Black or African American checked more than one box; 57% of those who self-identify as Native American or Pacific Islander checked more than one box; 50% of those who self-identify as Asian or Pacific Islander checked more than one box; and 31% of respondents who self-describe as “Hispanic/Latino” checked more than one box.

In the “Culture” and “History” sections, earlier in this report, we discuss the remarkably complex nature of the current Santa Fe community. It is why tracking demographics, using exclusive categories, is problematic.

Those who identify as White or Caucasian comprised just under 60% of respondents for Survey 2 followed by 34% who identified as Hispanic or Latino. Unfortunately, it is not possible to compare these proportions to those in the American Community Survey (ACS-2019) because Hispanic is written as a separate question in the Census. The ACS-2019 reported that 54.4% of Santa Fe residents responded that they were Hispanic, non-white, and 45.5% were white, non-Hispanic.

Individuals identifying as Native American or Alaska Native made up 7.6% of Survey 2 respondents, more than 2 times as many as are reported in ACS-2019 (7.6 vs 3.2% respectively).

APPENDIX E: SAMPLE EVENT/ACTIVITY PLAN

SAMPLE EVENT/ACTIVITY PLAN

NOTE: For each public event, CHART created an activity plan which served as both direction, training and instructions for CHART team members. Each is based on careful consideration and best practices for community engagement. Below is the activity plan for public dialogue sessions in March, 2022.

ROOM SETUP:
Milagro room: registration tables (2), refreshment table, "Monumental Dreams" materials table. Kearny and O'Keeffe rooms: each with three tables, total of 25 chairs. One table will be the location for the first hour with concentric circles, 9 x 9 chairs facing each other, to facilitate one-on-one conversation. The other two tables will be elsewhere in the room with additional chairs.

MATERIALS: photo and video release group form; name tags; 4 8 1/2/ x 11 white pieces of paper that read, in big letters, “30 SECONDS”; individual programs (pre-marked with names and colored dots to indicate rooms and groups) with first hour discussion prompts; registration list with groups and corresponding color dots; refreshments, “Monumental Dreams” handouts with proposal forms, samples of Paper Monuments proposals–maybe in plastic sleeves in binder; 5-8 post-it flip chart pads on walls with title at top: “Building Stronger Relationships in Santa Fe;” 20 colored markers on a table somewhere for flip chart pads; table signs with colored dots; “CHART” way signs to tape up in convention center.

Refreshments will be available before the session begins and attendees can also visit the “Monumental Dreams” table.

Kearsley will have lists of attendees with group assignments.

ONE-ON-ONE CONVERSATIONS (1 hour)

1:50 PM: VALERIE - Tribute to Tomas

VALERIE: Greet people again and ask people to please move to their designated rooms to get started. Room assignments will be in their programs.

In breakout rooms:

TEAM: Adjust chairs in concentric circles to match the actual number of attendees in the room.

Make sure each attendee has a program and ask attendees to take a chair in the concentric circles, facing one other chair. Mention that anyone with limited mobility is encouraged to sit in the inner circle. Programs are important and will help with anyone who is hard of hearing and will help participants who are nervous about experiential/unfolding meetings where there is not a traditional structure.

NOTE: those in the “OUTSIDE” circle will shift from chair to chair. Those in the inner circle will stay put.

Once everyone is seated, CHART team members should sit down elsewhere in the room. From this point on, the primary facilitator will guide people through the prompts.

TEAM MEMBERS: If you are not facilitating the one-on-one conversations, your primary role during the first hour of the event is to assist the primary facilitator and participants in any way they need it. Help people in the OUTER circle to shift chairs to the right (especially in the first round as they’re learning how to do this). Unobtrusively, listen to conversations for anything that could go wrong. Serve as gentle, ever-present assistants. At the same time, please sit rather than “standing over” the proceedings. Watch for things like the following:

- If anyone needs help settling in a chair, please assist.
- If someone looks confused or upset, please go to them, crouch down, and quietly ask if they need assistance.

- If anyone looks uncomfortable or there is conflict, go to the pair and mediate.
- If someone gets up and needs to go to the restroom while conversation is happening, it would be okay to keep their chair warm and engage with their partner while the other person is away.
- If you notice that anyone seems to be in medical distress, let the facilitator know right away.
- In other ways, assist with the smooth unfolding of activities.

JENICE IN KEARNY AND VALERIE IN O'KEEFFE:

Welcome participants and assist them with getting seated. Again, anyone with limited mobility or in a wheelchair should be seated in the INNER circle. Make sure participants are in the right room. Group assignments are in the program.

PRIMARY FACILITATOR (in each room) gives clear instructions:

- Welcome everyone warmly. Introduce yourself. Introduce the CHART team members in the room.
- Share a Land Acknowledgement: "Artful Life wishes to acknowledge that its project, CHART Santa Fe, takes place in locations on the unceded traditional lands of the Tewa people, O'gah'poh geh Owingeh (White Shell Water Place). We also acknowledge the surrounding landscapes of Pueblo, Apache and Navajo communities, whose people continue to maintain vital connections to this place. Artful Life is dedicated to maintaining respectful and mutually beneficial relationships with these communities";
- Housekeeping - point out location of restrooms, beverages and snacks, etc.
- Provide an overview of the session - CHART is dedicated to community-building through sharing our stories, perspectives, and values. More than addressing controversies about monuments and statues, CHART is also dedicated to truth, healing, and reconciliation for the community of Santa Fe.
- Today, you are going to meet many people in this room and share your experiences. This first hour is a kind of "round-robin." We hope this will be both interesting and very meaningful. We will guide you through the transitions.
- In your pairs, you will have four minutes - 2 minutes per person - to respond to the question/prompt. Please allow your partner two minutes to speak and share, and he/she/they will allow you two minutes as well. We will alert you when 2 minutes have passed so you can switch to your partner.
- Your program includes the questions for additional support.
- After each round, those in the OUTER circle will stand up and move to the chair to the RIGHT and then you will have time with a different partner. Don't worry, we have many CHART team members here to assist.
- Please be aware that there will be many conversations taking place at once to shift your chairs closer or further away from your partners to be able to hear each other. If you cannot hear your partner, please let them know to speak up a little.
- A few important GROUND RULES: while your partner is speaking, please refrain from interrupting. Your job is to listen during your partner's two minutes, and vice versa. If there's time left before shifting chairs, feel free to respond and ask questions of each other, But first, really listen to what your partner has to say.
- Please be aware that comments that are accusatory or offensive work against the goal of today's session which is making meaningful connections with each other. Honesty is encouraged; hostility is not. If any one of you feels uncomfortable during your conversation with another person, please walk away into the next room and we will make sure that a team member speaks to you privately.

OK, let's get started with the first prompt:

1. Introduce yourself to your partner and share a story that reveals something important about you, your family, or your background. (2 minutes each). After two minutes, ask pairs to switch roles.

Those in the OUTSIDE circle move one chair to the right.

Do the above THREE times.

2. Introduce yourself and share a story/experience when you felt a strong sense of belonging in Santa Fe. Where and when did this happen to you? What happened? (2 minutes each) With the same partner, share a story/experience when you felt the opposite of belonging in Santa Fe? Where and when, for example, did you feel excluded or marginalized? (2 minutes each).

Those in the OUTSIDE circle move one chair to the right.

Do the above TWO times.

3. Introduce yourself to your new partner. Now, share ideas about how to nurture connections between people from different backgrounds in Santa Fe. How can we build stronger relationships with our fellow Santa Feans? (3 minutes each)

Those in the OUTSIDE circle move one chair to the right.

Do the above TWO times.

PRIMARY FACILITATOR - thank everybody for this part of the event and let them know we'll take a break for 15 minutes. Let participants know there are flip chart papers on the walls in the middle room and we ask them to share their ideas for nurturing connections and building community on these sheets while enjoying refreshments.

15 MINUTE BREAK

TWO TEAM MEMBERS: during the break, meet and greet the participants and encourage them to share ideas for community-building on the flip chart sheets.

ADDITIONAL TEAM MEMBERS: in your assigned room (Kearny or O'Keeffe) shift chairs so there are EIGHT CHAIRS at each table. Shift tables as far apart as possible to help with noise during the busy second part of the session.

AFTER 15 MINUTES: ask people to go back to the rooms they started in and look for their table number on their program. This will tell them where to go.

SMALL GROUP DIALOGUE (40-45 minutes or until 4 pm)

SMALL GROUP FACILITATORS: Lead a thoughtfully-facilitated open discussion in groups of 6. Notetaker will take notes. If there is no notetaker, audio record your small group session. Facilitator should make sure that each person gets an opportunity to speak for about the same time but there is no strict format. Watch the time.

NOTE: For groups without notetakers, please record the small group discussion.

QUESTIONS/PROMPTS FOR DISCUSSION (Times are approximate)

1. Facilitator- introduce yourself and any notetaker or observer. Record session if no notetaker is present with clarification to attendees that records are only used to document sessions and will never be shared publicly.
2. Start with going around the table with introductions. Names are enough.
3. If you have to record your group (there is no notetaker), let the group know that the recording is used only to create notes and will never be shared publicly. Notes from the session will be part of the large body of information that will INFORM recommendations to the governing body.
4. Encourage participants to be both honest and respectful.
5. Let people know that you will facilitate the discussion and that your job is to make sure everyone gets to speak for about the same amount of time. Encourage people to keep their comments to 1-2 minutes at a time and be aware of balancing the amount of time everyone gets to speak.
6. First question: what did you hear your fellow Santa Feans say about feelings of belonging and not belonging and what did this make you feel and think about? (15 minutes). If you need to, emphasize that this is about reflecting back to others what you heard.
7. Second question: what seems to be ENCOURAGING a sense of belonging in Santa Fe, and what is PREVENTING us from being a community of belonging? (15 minutes)

CHECK TIME - OUR GOAL IS TO FINISH AS CLOSE TO 4 PM AS POSSIBLE

0. Third question: What kinds of concrete things can we do to BUILD STRONGER RELATIONSHIPS between Santa Feans? (10 minutes)
0. Final question: What will you take away from today's event? (15 minutes)

APPENDIX F: SURVEY 1
METHODOLOGY AND SUMMARY

CHART SURVEY 1
Methodology and Summary of Responses

Acknowledgments

I want to offer deep appreciation to CHART facilitators Simesha McEachern, Peter Nguyen, and Kenneth Pin for working with me in CHART's Qualitative Analysis Group. No small task to make sense of close to 300 pages of text and 484 responses. Your work and insights have been invaluable. Respect.

Introduction

One of the first activities CHART conducted was fielding Survey 1 in English and in Spanish. The survey was comprised of three open-ended questions—one about history, one about the present, and one looking to the future. Responses were collected from September 8-December 31, 2021. A total of 497 responses were submitted, and 484 were retained for analysis.

It's worthwhile revisiting what was happening in the United States and the world in the fall of 2021 and its lead up. The COVID pandemic continued to shutter businesses and schools after a year and a half. In person gatherings were not allowed under New Mexico public health orders, and a fraught mayoral race was gearing up for November's vote. The previous year, the Black Lives Matter movement had significant energy, crystalizing anger and frustration at systemic inequities that the pandemic had laid bare. Many statues and memorials, including Soldier's Monument (the Obelisk), were damaged and in some cases, removed, as they signified to many people tributes to violence and white supremacy. This is the context into which CHART launched its first survey. The themes that emerged in analyzing the survey results reflect this context and are best interpreted with this in mind.

Description of Survey and Data Collection

CHART's first survey had three open-ended questions: (1) How can we come to a fuller understanding of the history of Santa Fe? (2) How can we build healthier relationships while acknowledging our differences? and (3) How can we become good ancestors to our children, their children, and generations to come?

Responses were mostly gathered online through the Wufoo platform. CHART and the external evaluator, Alexis Kaminsky, assessed the demographic make-up of respondents over time to ensure proportional representation from city and county zip codes and across all age groups. The project developed a multipronged outreach effort to target residents who were under-represented in responses collected the first few months that the survey was open. Additional surveys were collected at CHART's Opening Event, Pojoaque Valley High School, Capital High School, El Camino Real Academy, Santa Fe Place Mall, El Museo Cultural de Santa Fe, Café Castro, Angel's Coffee House, and Children's Museum.

Data Analysis

Survey results were analyzed using several strategies appropriate to qualitative methods. First, a small group of CHART facilitators worked with Kaminsky to identify themes and topics in the responses and conduct preliminary data coding in Excel 2016 for Mac and Google Sheets. The team met every few weeks to review coding and to work through differences as part of building a strong, consistently applied coding system.

Codes used to tag and organize the data came from CHART's activities and goals as well as those that emerged from the data. For example, project–related codes included cultural symbols such as statues, memorials, and monuments and values (i.e., respect, honor, pride, compassion). Other codes were not identified beforehand but emerged from multiple readings of survey responses and identification of recurrent themes and topics. For instance, equity and belonging were two themes that emerged as important. Also important were the concepts of inclusion, difference, and sharedness or what is held in common. The emergent themes in particular, reflect the tenor and topics of the times.

Kaminsky transferred coding done in Excel to Dedoose (www.dedoose.com), a web-based qualitative data analysis platform, to facilitate analysis. Further coding was conducted via word searches. For instance, as part of identifying shared values, the Qualitative Analysis Group read through all of the survey responses, making note of values embedded in them. After meeting to discuss values that seemed to be most common, Kaminsky ran word searches in Dedoose to ensure thoroughness. Values on which word searches were conducted included: compassion, honor, pride, respect, tolerance, truth-telling, empathy, fairness, integrity, honesty, trust, open-mindedness, and tradition. Respect surfaced as the most shared value across the full set of responses and was brought up by 26% of Survey 1 respondents. The second and third most shared values were related to “tradition” (17% of respondents) and open-mindedness (8% of respondents). The table below lists the codes used to analyze Survey 1 along with descriptions of what each code entailed:

Table 1: Analysis Code and Descriptors

| Code | Description |
| Inclusivity | Has to do with fuller history, bringing in multiple perspectives and points of view, especially those of native peoples. Inclusiveness is also about complexity of relationships, both good and bad (as opposed to more mythologized relations where everyone from every group always got along). Also relates culture insofar as Santa Fe is more than tricultural. It is multicultural. Finally, inclusivity encompasses those that respondents felt should be involved in decisions about public art and monuments. Inclusivity brings challenges as well, particularly for those who have been dominant such as long-time Spanish families because they have to move over to make room for others. Inclusivity is brought up by 50% of Survey 1 respondents. |
| Education and Learning | Has to do with how to get to a fuller history of Santa Fe and how to be good ancestors. The code includes venues for learning, both formal K-16 as well as informal public dialogues, museums, libraries, and community organizations. Part of education and learning is addressing misconceptions from partial histories and working through what is and is not reliable information. Education and learning are brought up by 43% of Survey 1 respondents. |
| Dialogue and Listening | Has to do with building stronger relationships. Essential here is the attitude that one brings to engagement such as openness, honesty, and respect. Recommendations included facilitated dialogues, listening circles, and human library. More than talking, people need to listen. 33% of Survey 1 respondents mentioned dialogue and listening in their answers. |

| Equity | Has to do with how resources are allocated across Santa Fe, economic disparities, wage stagnation, housing, gentrification, and access to resources. Equity is also raised in relation to representation in public art and in acknowledgement that Santa Fe's statues and monuments do not reflect the contributions of many peoples that make up the community in the past and currently, particularly those first inhabitants. White privilege, colonialism, and racism all factor into inequities and perpetuating them. Equity is brought up by 45% of survey respondents. |
| Cultural Symbols | Includes terms such as: obelisk, monuments, statues, plaques, and memorials. Also coded here are comments about Soldier's Monument, what happened to it, and what should happen now. 28% of Survey 1 respondents mentioned cultural symbols. 12% of these comments related to Soldier's Monument. |
| Environment | Has to do with water, land, and climate change and is brought up mostly in relation to being good ancestors. It includes equity, property, and open space as well as the idea that environment is inextricable from Santa Fe culture and history, particularly in terms of colonialism and stolen lands. Environment is raised by 22% of Survey 1 respondents. |
| Belonging | Has to do with assumptions about who is "Santa Fean" and who is not, and correspondingly, who has a right to speak about what should happen in the city and county. Language related to belonging is often framed around who does not belong (i.e., "outsiders," "out of towners," "transplants," and "YOU") and implied in phrases about Santa Fe bonifides (e.g., "400 years). Belonging is brought up 19% of respondents. |
| Values | Encompasses the range of values stated implicitly and explicitly throughout Survey 1 responses. Value terms searched for included: courage, humility, tolerance, respect, open-mindedness, empathy, compassion, honesty, truth-telling, pride, tradition, heritage, cooperation, fairness, justice, and responsibility. |
| Respect | This value was most shared across the responses received. Respect was brought up by 21% of Survey 1 respondents. |
| Recommendations | Has to do with actionable suggestions from Survey 1 participants. These were extracted from Survey 1 data and provided to the Community Solutions Table for consideration. |
| "Angry" | Includes responses that read as condemnations and grievances. Take 3 primary forms: people from Spanish heritage who say that they are being "erased," fury about what happened to the Obelisk that specifically implicates the Mayor and City Councilors, and fury at white privilege and racism. Angry came up in about 14% of the responses received for Survey 1. |

Data were sorted and extracted by code to examine similarities and differences across responses. For example, responses coded under “obelisk” included demands to restore it in toto, restore with more complete interpretative signage, and recommendations for replacing it. Responses coded under "equity" related to more inclusive representation in statues and monuments, the need for more equitable investment across all Santa Fe neighborhoods, and acknowledgement of significant disparities of wealth and access in the city.

Finally, to get a sense of the prevalence of various themes across the 484 responses received, code presence tables were generated in Dedoose. These tables were used to calculate the number of respondents making comments related to each theme. The number of responses per theme were then divided by 484 to determine the proportion of respondents making such comments.

Results

Survey 1 Respondents

CHART gathered age and zip code information from individuals who answered Survey 1. This information was collected to see who was responding to the survey and who was not and adjusted outreach efforts to reach people from groups not well represented. Figures1 below compares the ages of Survey 1 respondents to Santa Fe residents overall based on data collected for the American Community Survey 2019.

As Figure 1 shows, Santa Fe residents who responded to CHART's first survey were somewhat older than Santa Feans overall. That said, individuals from every age range submitted some comments to Survey 1.

Figure 2 below shows the proportion of responses for each of the Santa Fe zip codes listed. Residents in 87505 submitted the most surveys (28%), those in 87507 second most (25%), and 87501 third most (20%). Less than .5% of surveys came from 87504, 87592, 87574, 87567, 87401, 87535, and 87591. Five percent of surveys did not list zip codes.

The remainder of this document reports the findings from the analysis process described above. It focuses on sharing the range of responses made by 484 individuals and relies heavily on direct comments made by Survey 1 respondents.

How can we come to a fuller understanding of the history of Santa Fe?

Make History More Inclusive

By far, the most frequent response to coming to a fuller understanding of Santa Fe's history is what is conveyed to be more inclusive. In the context of a fuller history, more inclusive referred to: (1) bringing in various perspectives and peoples that have been in the region over centuries and eons, particularly those that have been overlooked or inadequately presented; (2) moving beyond the tricultural myth; and (3) embracing the complexity of relationships that made Santa Fe.

Capturing the sentiment of many respondents, one person wrote, "History must be told from many different voices, experiences, and perspectives. With each sharing, more nuance and truth is revealed" (ID426). Many respondents emphasized foregrounding Pueblo tribes and their ancestors as the original inhabitants of the area as illustrated in the following quotes:

> "I believe for years many people have forgotten the first people that lived here and inhabit these lands. I think many pueblos around Santa Fe don't feel much recognized or have been forgotten in general. The pueblo people once lived and considered Santa Fe sacred before Spanish conquest. I'm from a near by pueblo and a Native American. I do understand history can't be rewritten nor can it be erase[d]. I also understand there is both sides of the blood shed between Natives and Spanish colonizers. I do believe we need to co exist and work with each other to help grow our communities and cities." (ID102)

> "Center indigenous voices in this work, as well as the voices of people of historically erased cultures & communities." (ID233)

> "Listen to indigenous voices. Do it often." (ID122)

"We also very much need to have a sense of the Indian Pueblo people who were here before Europeans arrived. Then, we need a sense of how Santa Fe has grown, developed, and morphed since the time of the city's founding." (ID124)

"Include much more of the Native American perspective when teaching New Mexico history." (ID146)

In addition to more emphasis and attention given to the area's native peoples, a number of respondents stated that Santa Fe's history was broader than the three cultures that New Mexico is usually associated with (Native American, Hispanic, Anglo) and should reflect that.

"Perspectives solicited should expand beyond the triad of cultures that typically is presented as the face of New Mexico—Native American, Spanish, and Anglo." (ID135)

"I think it is important that we expand the history of Santa Fe beyond the story of the conquistadors to highlight the stories of the indigenous populations and lesser known communities such as the stories of African American, Jewish and Middle Eastern Populations." (ID22)

"Ensure there is acknowledgement and annual celebration of the different cultures in Santa Fe. The primary are of course, Anglo, Hispanic and First Nations. But others are here also; Islam, Sikhism, Buddhist, etc." (ID107)

"Listen…to the stories of as many individuals from as many groups (racial, cultural, age diverse, religious, economic, social, unhoused, sexually-diverse, differently abled, etc.)." (ID238)

"Reading as much history as possible from as many divergent sources, not just the official tourist info. Learn about the Indigenous people who were first here, Spanish colonial settlers, Mexicano people and then the Anglo traders, hunters, etc. Ancient geological history is important." (ID289)

As the foregoing quotes illustrate, the fuller history envisioned by many people who responded to CHART's first survey should include narratives of different races and ethnicities that have settled in the area. Additionally, a fuller history includes perspectives of various faith traditions, LGBTQ+, all age groups, different economic strata, and abilities. A common thread was that people needed to be the authors of their own cultural histories rather than others writing about them. This sentiment is well captured in the following quote from a Survey 1 respondent: "Each constituent group needs to tell the stories from their own perspective." (ID76).

Many respondents stated that an inclusive, fuller history would show the complexities that exist, the good and the bad of different groups as well as what is held in common and what is distinct as illustrated below:

"Include the good, bad and ugly aspects so we can learn that we can get through this and can live together." (ID19)

"Teach all of it. The pretty and the not so pretty - be honest about all of it." (ID302)

Summing the reparative value of a more inclusive history, one respondent wrote,

"It is important not to limit our knowledge to a simplified version…whether a glorification understanding or a knee-jerk condemnation of our repressive past and/or present. We must learn when we have come together as peoples as well as how we have clashed. One of the ways I suggest that adults and high school students could reach a fuller understanding is by deliberately seeking out the point of view of others. A good place to start is the 2010 book White Shell Water Place, An Anthology of Native American Reflections on the 400th Anniversary of the Founding of Santa Fe, New Mexico. Nearly all of the authors are thoughtful in their writing and do back their statements with historical documents as well as tribal histories. It is very clear that there is no one Native American perspective. Since various Native American tribes had very different interactions with the Spanish colonizers, Mexican troops, and the American military their perspectives do differ. Greg Cajete, about 71, of Santa Clara Pueblo writes that he was not taught an appropriate history of New Mexico including the history of his own pueblo until he went to college. Now he emphasizes the tragic and oppressed conditions as well as the periods of cooperation where his people supported the colonizers against the raiding, nomadic Indians. This is all part of the history of Santa Fe." (ID327)

Although many respondents wrote affirming the value of a more inclusive, fuller history of Santa Fe, there were some residents who argued that Santa Fe's history was already documented. The following quotes reflect the general tenor of these types of responses:

"Learn about it, read about it, study the last 400 years' worth of history regarding acequias, land grants, talk to our Spanish elders in small communities like Canada de Los Alamos, Canjilon and Mora to see what customs are still alive and important." (ID415)

"Stop trying to rewrite history based upon todays mores. The world was a different place in the past. Don't change it. Respect it and learn from it." (ID118)

"Not sure why you asked the question 'further understanding.' It's pretty clear the understanding of the culture of Santa Fe, the Hispanics the Native Americans and Anglo and other cultures have always lived in unity have always treated each other w/ respect. Attended each other's festivals ceremonies feast days, concerts, operas. And we've always been in [awe] of the cultural diversity and curiosity. And it's unique beautiful, physically and spiritually. We have always taking care of each other now it's been severed and the questions should be asked why is there a wedge drawn between cultures help me understand what is the point what is your objective. When you first heard of Santa Fe you are probably enticed aroused by its cultural diversity and its deep rooted history and now you want it to be a toy that you could turn on and off. You are a part of its history. Embrace it don't destroy it. It's not a game to win its deep rooted history that is so unique, one should hold up their head high when they say they are from Santa Fe. And not say I moved to Santa Fe to change it to what I feel it's history should be. You can't change the course of the rio grande] and you can't change history." (ID269)

"To me this question alone, 'How can we come to a fuller understanding of the history of Santa Fe?' is a loaded one. We KNOW the history of Santa Fe, why are we trying to change it in a way that pits Spanish against Natives? It was never this way growing up. We all celebrated our traditions peacefully amongst one and other." (ID280)

Common across comments such as those above is a nostalgia for what is remembered as pastoral, peaceful, and uncomplicated. Perhaps from a particular vantage point, these memories are true. Yet from other perspectives, Santa Fe's history is not so kumbaya.

Cultural Symbols

Important in communicating history are a city's cultural symbols, and respondents' answers to Survey 1 reflect this. Cultural symbols include memorials like the Obelisk, public art in its various forms, vernacular architecture, community celebrations, names of streets and buildings, and natural features like the Santa Fe River. These symbols make evident what is important and valued in the community. They also imply who is not so important and valued by what is absent.

The Obelisk

Given the impetus for the resolution that gave rise to CHART was the damage and removal of Soldiers' Monument, it is surprising that only 12% of respondents (58 of 484) brought it up in their survey responses. Comments about the Obelisk clustered into three areas: (1) what the Obelisk means to different people in Santa Fe; (2) concerns about what happened to the obelisk—both the defacement and its removal; and (3) what should happen with it now.

The Obelisk means different things to different people based on the responses to Survey 1. The quotes below illustrate the range of meanings associated with it:

> "It seems with the removal of the obelisk and Don Diego statues, that we are moving towards only recognizing one side of our city's history. The Fiestas celebration is important to many locals and a city with deep historical roots in the Spanish culture. I worry that may soon change as well. Restore the statutes, continue the celebration and acknowledge our history." (ID10)

> "By re-building the obelisk to honor civil war solders and bring Santa Fe back to where it was before out of towners destroyed our plaza." (ID200, in response to Healthier Relations)

> "With the destruction of the Plaza, it is important to construct a symbol recognizing the cognitive and affective factors that were destroyed. Two of my great-great grandfathers are New Mexico Civil War Veterans. I am so disappointed with the dishonoring of my Hispanic and Anglo great great grandfathers fighting for equal opportunity in New Mexico and the United States." (ID223, in response to Healthier Relations)

> "Somehow the ugly, divisive obelisk has become a dividing line. The obelisk had no artistic or cultural merit. What is important about the obelisk is the base which used to contain the word savages until someone in the seventies chipped the word out in the middle of the day and no one saw a thing. That is very Santa Fe. I hope to see the base of the obelisk in a museum setting with its cultural context on display." (ID218)

> "Any cultural element, like a monument, festival, or celebration that allows an oppressive act to be memorialized--like the obelisk or the Entrada--should be banned." (ID110)

> "Stop pretending that the obelisk was anything except a monument to white supremacy. Stop pretending that Fiesta is not also a celebration of white supremacy in the guise of celebrating Spanish Culture. Find a different way to celebrate what is beautiful about that culture rather than what is hate filled. This is stolen land." (ID221, in response to Healthier Relations)

"I also think that far too much has been made of the Obelisk issue, when we have far greater social problems that need solutions in Santa Fe. For example, there are still unemployed residents who need help with food, rent and utilities. And there are serious pollution issues on the Southside, where environmental racism is alive and well." (ID124, in response to Healthier Relations)

Comments from Survey 1 respondents who wrote about what happened to the Obelisk—both the damage done to it and its removal—converged around a couple of themes: (a) the damage and subsequent removal were done by "outsiders," (b) those that did the damage should be held accountable, and (c) removal of the damaged obelisk was done without community input and was a bad decision. A subset of people who responded along these lines were highly critical of the Mayor and the City Council and skeptical about CHART. The following survey responses are illustrative of these themes:

"We can come to a fuller understanding of the history of Santa Fe by holding criminals who destroy public property accountable in a court of law. Without accountability it will be difficult to understand a four hundred year history of building mutual respect for each other even when we have disagreement on the story of our history" (ID382)

"Enforce laws against those who deface and vandalize our city in a meaningful way." (ID165)

"I THINK WE NEED TO LEARN FROM HISTORY IN THE PAST, HISTORY SHOULD NOT BE ERASED. I MAKES NO SENSE TO ALLOW ANYONE TO TAKE DOWN HISTORICAL MONUMENTS OR SURPRESS ANYONES THOUGHTS OR IDEAS." (emphasis in original) (ID167)

"This is beyond disappointing that the Mayor of Santa Fe and Councilors had to resort to paying an organization to serve as mediators doe actions of thugs on the plaza last October." (ID290)

"Those who have already made up their minds that the Spanish created all this divisiveness need to get better educated and understand that Santa Fe was never this divided until Mayor Webber decided to meet with 3 sisters and Red Nation and he alone decided that the statue of DeVargas and the Soldiers Monument along with the Kit Carson Obelisk needed to be removed without any input from those organizations or cultures who are affected by his actions. Unfortunately you are going to have outsiders who are chosen to moderate and facilitate during CHART and these people will not have any understanding of the History of Santa Fe. As it stands now the fix is in already for an outcome that the Mayor wants to see. You do not pay a facilitator 270K for an outcome you do not want, Sad to say CHART will only further divide this city and its people due to the outcome that everyone knows will happen and the result the mayor wanted." (ID41)

"Through these complexities and difficulties, many generations of all races of New Mexicans have decided that they would all come together to enjoy all that Santa Fe and New Mexico have to offer. This wonderful gathering and acceptance of multi-cultural peoples has recently been destroyed by the actions of a few extremely radical groups (Three Sisters Collective (3SC), Red Nation (RN), some City Governing Body members, self-proclaimed "White-Privileged" individuals who criminally destroyed the Plaza Soldiers' Monument, etc.)." (ID308)

Some of the quotes shared above include recommendations for what should be done with the Obelisk now. Recommendations made included: restoring the Obelisk completely, restoring it along with additional signage to better contextualize it, restoring the Obelisk in a different location (i.e., at the Military Museum), and replacing the Obelisk with something else. The Survey 1 answers below share these recommendations in respondents' own words:

> "Help the city get the monument back up in the plaza." (ID251)
> "Not by eliminating art and monuments and statues, but by leaving them and making sure they tell the entire story from all aspects. Add additional plaques or even other statues to explain all sides." (ID398)
> "I believe that there if there is a city space that acts as a museum with parts of the obelisk and other monuments that need to come down would be a historical educational contribution." (ID139)
> "A monumental water fountain to commemorate Santa Fe's charter could be perfect to replace destroyed obelisk." (ID16)

Many Places and Ways To Learn History

"Learn about it," "educate yourself," "read," "research," and "listen"—these terms came up frequently in response to the question about gaining a fuller history of Santa Fe and are illustrated in the following quotations:

> "Listen to historians, research in our libraries." (ID414)
> "I believe that we can only come to a fuller understanding by reading, speaking with, and listening to different sources. It is impossible to see this town from all perspectives, but by seeing different views it may be easier to understand different opinions." (ID458)
> "We can read about multiple versions of the same events in our history. We can read stories and histories that offer a different narrative from the ones familiar to us. We can listen to speakers and panelists who present different historical perspectives." (ID75)

Mechanisms for conveying and learning about Santa Fe's fuller history that survey respondents suggested were multiple. Numerous respondents pointed to the critical role of formal K-12 education in teaching New Mexico history and are reflected in the following quotes:

> "Through education - in the schools." (ID26)
> "Create 'reach out' programs in all elementary schools to help children learn from their early years the commonalities and to respect the differences among our mingled populations." (ID24)
> "By working with the public schools on a well-rounded approach to New Mexican history, including from the point of view of the Native American population. I know that the schools are not governed by the City, but it might be a great idea to have elders/tribe historians come from the pueblos to teach the kids about Native American culture/history. Maybe this doesn't have to be in a school setting. Maybe at the libraries. It would be nice if it was in the schools though, so all the kids could learn." (ID202)

"Let us approach our public schools with activities. These activities need to respond to help meet state of New Mexico Standards. Perhaps retired teachers could be recruited to help design them. The film program at the Community College could be helpful in producing videos." (ID2)

Some respondents that wrote that a fuller history should be learned in K-12 school acknowledged that their own education fell short. For instance, one person wrote, "Education, education, education. What I remember being taught in school (oh those many, many years ago) about history was all what we all now realize was so incomplete and inaccurate." (ID412)

A few people who responded to Survey 1 enumerated existing historical resources in Santa Fe which are included below:

"Better education of the history of Santa Fe (and New Mexico) is key. The state has extraordinary resources to utilize our museums and historians to become open-minded and respectful ancestors." (ID144)

"We do offer great museums, lectures, programs, events, art, poetry, music, historical sites and more and these should continue. More appreciation of our Pueblo values and history can and should be encouraged. A Southside 'Plaza del Sur' would be a great way to allow for more understanding and experience of more varied cultures living here." (ID59)

"We can take on the responsibility to educate ourselves about our history. We can do this by reading local histories, attending exhibits and lectures at the NM History Museum, the Museum of Spanish Colonial Art, the Museum of Indian Art and Culture and we can sign up for a docent led tour of historic Santa Fe that are sponsored by the NM History Museum. We can attempt to understand that cultural values change over times and that things that were acceptable beliefs in historic periods may no longer be acceptable by today's cultural standards." (ID90)

"Invite people from the original Pueblos to talk about their experiences and the history they know. Use books written and films created by Indigenous people, Mexicans, and professors of university programs such as IAIA, UNM, NMSU, etc. who know and study history. Have study circles where you read a book, listen to a presentation, etc. and then there is a discussion with the people present to clarify points, express ideas, etc." (IDS1)

With these few excerpts, lack of awareness of existing resources to learn about Santa Fe's history was surprisingly common. For instance, numerous individuals proposed gathering oral histories from longtime Santa Fe residents; such stories have been collected and archived through various initiatives in the past. Other recommendations for venues and/or formats to communicate a fuller history of Santa Fe that Survey 1 respondents gave included: theater, nature walks, movies, books, lecture series, listening circles, town halls, oral histories, and public art, especially statues and monuments. These recommendations were sent on the Community Solutions Table for review and consideration.

Sticky Points

Gaining a fuller understanding of history is not unproblematic. Making room for others creates perceptions of "erasure" for those who feel they are losing status. The following quote describes this challenge well.

"One of the challenges in understanding the history is the recent accusation of erasure of the past. Certain narratives have dominated the historical and cultural landscape of Santa Fe for a long time, particularly the narrative of successful and largely peaceful conquest. As we start to open ourselves to other narratives, many of those who held the previously dominant narrative have started to repeatedly say that they feel their culture is being erased. When a history is compiled, then, it is important to first show how there are many perspectives on history and that no one 'true' account exists" (ID121)

When history is viewed through multiple perspectives, long-standing narratives are questioned, raising concerns about what is true and what is biased, what are facts and what are opinions. Who or what are legitimate sources of knowledge also arise. The quotes below illustrate these types of issues.

"Talk to (listen to!) local descendants of original families of Santa Fe." (ID295)

"Read and listen to people talk about their own peoples' histories, not just the academics." (ID411)

"We need PROPER historians to tell their stories." (emphasis in original) (ID280)

"We need to dispel the mythology of history and speak to the nuance and multiple ancestral perspectives of the history of Santa Fe. The mythology of 'tricultural' peace and love is getting in the way of a fuller understanding of a complex history." (ID157)

"Make known: many indigenous peoples often were at war, the conditions that led to the Pueblo Revolt, the Spanish reconquest of 1692 was not peaceful, the Confederate and neo-Confederate lie called the Myth of the Lost Cause. Publicize: the internment camp for Americans of Japanese descent, how Polk started the Mexican War as a land grab that led to the American takeover of the southwest." (ID79)

"Learn about the ancestral pueblo who lived here and then understand and teach truthfully and sensitively when the Spaniards arrived in 1598? And 1610. We all know the Spaniards explored and conquered globally. So how does history help us today? By accepting. Then we find common ways that peaceful coexistence was made possible. We have a beautiful and rich culture here because of the diversity. Even when 1920 artists arrive and 2021 tourists move here. Santa Fe is beautiful in its simplicity and welcoming ways. The history and home styles really are a special part of America —- like no other place. Should be cherished." (ID418)

"Get beyond the folklore of our history, for example that the DeVargas reconquest was peaceful. Perhaps sponsor a scholar (probably should be an hispanic) to write a city history that dispells the myths, explores both the negative and positive actions of our major ethnic groups and synthesizes a history that does not lay blame or guilt but instead places it in the context of the human story emphasizing that worldwide there is much history that is reprehensible, as well as courageous and perhaps even inevitable." (ID384)

"By being open to new ideas. By being forward looking. By acknowledging the past without being focused on grievances. By realizing that things are complex (and so are people), e.g., by realizing that ethnic, cultural, or racial pride is the opposite side of the coin of racism, and that people are like coins that have both sides." (ID228)

It is worth noting that concerns about legitimate sources of knowledge, what is truth and what is opinion, are not unique to the CHART project or to what is happening in Santa Fe but part of the larger zeitgeist across the United States.

How can we build healthier relationships while acknowledging our differences?

Talk together. Listen more.

Many respondents wrote that healthier relations are built through dialogue and listening. Start with respect. Acknowledge differences. Find points of connection. Identify what is shared. These few points came up again and again in people's responses to Survey 1 and are illustrated by the quotes below:

> "By listening - hearing and acknowledging other perspectives. Identify the areas of overlap and commonality and make these the starting focus points." (ID206)
> "By talking and socializing and being kind to one another." (ID359)
> "We need to listen to each other respectfully and to hear other's concerns and viewpoints, even when then don't agree with ours, and through respectful dialogue, attempt to understand the other person's viewpoint and the factors shaping it." (ID90)
> "We need to listen more." (ID76)
> "Mutual respect and dialogue goes a long way to bringing peace and bringing people together." (ID416)
> "We probably need to find some little spot of common ground — which I believe is always possible — and then listen to each other's stories with interest." (ID326)
> "Get past the differences by realizing 'one way' is not better than the other. Teach respect of differences." (ID256)
> "Listen to both sides with respect. Respect other's opinions and beliefs. Bring a representative group together to discuss differences and lay out facts." (ID414)
> "Getting together individuals from diverse backgrounds, experiences and points of view for frank open, respectful conversations. Agreeing that it is o.k. to disagree without being disagreeable." (ID419)

What's Unique and What's Held in Common

Numerous respondents objected to framing the relationship question around differences. Concerns about using differences as a starting point for building healthier relationships are illustrated below:

> "As a person who identifies as Hispanic with integrated Native bloodlines, this question is appalling. Why could this not have simply been, 'How can we build healthier relationships?' I think that's because that is not what this city wants - Outsiders know that if they can keep us locals fighting, then we are distracted and they [can continue to] have free range to take over the city." ( ID71)

"Quit emphasizing the differences. We are a mestizo people. Most of the native New Mexicans have indigenous blood and ties. New comers want to foment division and plant seeds of hatred that were long gone in Northern New Mexico." (ID56)

"We need to cultivate a 'one-boat' approach rather than the us-them theme that has pervaded Santa Fe for decades." (ID81)

"Everyone needs to take responsibility for how they use the information that they have. Make our differences sources of learning and sharing. No one owns the entire story of our complex history but we all have important chapters and characters that we can relate to. Healthy relationships come down to respect for another human regardless of their color, race, sex, age or religion. So, make every attempt to find common ground in our shared humanity." (ID17)

"By acknowledging the richness found in each culture while stressing the importance of what we have in common." (ID60)

Identifying what is shared across myriad differences that make up Santa Fe can help build stronger, healthier relationships amongst the many peoples that live there, old timers and new arrivals alike. Quite a number of respondents wrote that more than conversation, doing things together is a powerful way to build relationships.

"Try working together while emphasizing common ground. Don't get side tracked by 'this is what is right' or this is 'politically correct.' Sometimes, solutions are found by implementing unusual partnerships even if they don't meet the predetermined idealogies of the politicians." (ID220)

"Shared experiences through the arts is an excellent way to listen and process those stories with others." (ID225)

"Committing to collaborative relationships over artificial lines that divide people can teach our children to care and work together." (ID226)

"We can build health[ier] relationships by working together to counter the unfairness in our economic system so that all of our cultures can thrive on into the future." (ID323)

"I think coming together around town at interactive art pieces and having a shared experience or just meeting people or seeing people who you might not interact with on a daily basis can foster understand and build bridges." (ID497)

"[Share a meal] just folding chairs and homemade food" (ID195)

"[Work on] community projects like acequia clean-ups, mural projects, etc." (ID157)

"Build connections among people. We need to get to know each other outside of our normal circles. Common goals unite. Common experiences unite." (ID93)

"SF has many different but separate events celebrating Native American, Spanish and Anglo cultural contributions to the history and culture of the city. We need to have more, specially joint events that simultaneously celebrate these cultures and the heritage of coexistence that is New Mexico." (ID201)

"Hold a multi-cultural food festival in the summer in an area of town that has plenty of parking and bus access." (ID355)

Getting to the place where people are willing to work together on shared goals is not easy. Santa Fe has some deeply entrenched divisions. As one respondent wrote, "We must address healing old wounds that haven't been adequately acknowledged. We have to be willing to be open minded and truly recognize the concerns of each of the cultures in our community" (ID1).

Obstacles to Building Healthy Relationships

Reading across the 484 responses to Survey 1, some of the things that get in the way of building healthier relations are: racism, distrust, reactivity, being dismissive of others, historic and current inequities, colonialism, white privilege, culture of grievance, and disrespect. One additional obstacle to building healthier relationships, is rooted in beliefs about who belongs in Santa Fe and who does not and is exemplified in the quotes below:

"That will be pretty hard when outsiders come in and think and act like they are privileged and better than locals." (ID254)

"Santa Fe is comprised of people from many different cultures. Some people were born here and some chose to be here. The undercurrent that people of Spanish heritage are better than other citizens, or more important needs to stop. It makes people that chose to live here and care deeply about the city feel unwelcome." (ID97)

The theme of belonging comes up in multiple ways both explicitly as illustrated above and implicitly as noted in the section on Cultural Symbols. It seems to be felt on all sides. How can residents build healthier relationships when so many insist that some people are "Santa Fean" and others are "outsiders"? This belief is divisive and unfortunately, tightly clung to, particularly by those who feel that their culture and history are being "erased."

Further complicating efforts to build healthier relationships across individuals and groups in Santa Fe are economic inequities. The quotes below describe primary inequities that persist across Santa Fe:

"Santa Fe is very segregated." (ID411)

"[M]iddle- to low-income residents live segregated from many wealthy retirees, who represent just one group of residents, mostly White or Spanish/Hispanic." (ID124)

"Gentrification of Santa Fe has abruptly changed the dynamics of our city and those who still feel like they have a freedom to express our rights to our history, culture, and faith, are being silenced." (ID106)

"Acknowledging historic/generational trauma, the inability of many to access the most basic aspects of opportunity, unpacking the institutional barriers (financial, land use, regulatory, educational, social) many face in trying to live their best lives, and standing for change." (ID163)

"One difference that must be acknowledged is that different groups have different economic and political power and this difference causes resentment as well as unfair advantages for some over others." (ID323)

"[U]ntil there is less economic disparity between groups in this city, relationships will always be fraught. The service economy that supports the tourism industry here must be well paid and include excellent benefits and pensions, otherwise resentment will continue....[W]e cannot have healthy relationships without economic security and housing for all." (ID228)

"[I]t is hard to build healthier relationships when certain people are actively being 'priced out' of the city in terms of housing and small business (rents). Without diversity and with gentrification it is hard to build relationships and we become less different. We can't learn from others if they are put in a place to not be able to actively contribute. The city should really work to provide better low-income housing and small business opportunities to ensure that those less financially blessed than other still have the opportunity to be represented." (ID241)

"It may not be our fault for the injustices of past racial discriminations in housing, medical care, or economic opportunity, but we must face the fact that those policies have left a scar upon us, and many of us enjoy privileges due in part to the happenings of the past. If we are to be brave, we must have the courage to encounter these realities and tackle them." (ID108)

Areas of inequity respondents raised in Survey 1 responses included: education, environment, health, childcare, transportation, housing, wages, and the City of Santa Fe's investment throughout the city. Many of the comments about inequities further noted that they fall mostly on black and brown people and new immigrants. Some of the ways that Survey 1 respondents suggested to address various inequities included:

"Put indigenous people in positions of power." (ID115)

"Building communities more integrated low and high income." (ID217)

"'Work towards inclusivity and equal opportunities for all." (ID220)

"Focus on maintenance of and creation of diverse neighborhoods and meeting places." (ID227)

"Sustainability and quality of life must be a part of Long Range Planning (that office in City government has been eliminated in 2019)." (ID230)

"Move forward with equitable housing, transportation, healthcare, and education for all residents." (ID188)

"Reexamine downtown parking meters." (ID209)

"Through thoughtful deliberation of issues—monuments, housing, transportation, policing, education, water, climate change, etc.—involving more or less proportional numbers of people from all demographic groups with a stake in the issue, who meet together with the help of facilitators and expert consultants as needed in a setting structured to encourage respectful listening and speaking and openness to learning from rather than winning the argument with those with different viewpoints." (ID249)

"More effort needs to be made to develop neighborhood associations and use them to host cross neighborhood events. Our parks and our schools need to become places to meet our neighbors with members of City Council, Mayor and staff encouraging/hosting such events." (ID101)

"We must first acknowledge each other, that we live, work, and share resources on this land. As a collective, it is important to remember those who walked on this land, those whose descendants live here today, and all of the people from many parts of the country and world who call this soil their home." (ID158)

"We need to go beyond 'understanding' each other and have a more equitable sharing of power." (ID309)

"By acknowledging and accepting that history isn't always right and then righting those wrongs. By making space in a tourism-centric economy for those who can't financially afford to be otherwise represented. By figuring out low-income housing or some type of rent control to ensure Santa Fe doesn't continue to become a city of rich, white people. By publicly celebrating the city's true roots through installation of some type of art in the Plaza to replace the obelisk. By creating some type of fund (maybe taxing Santa Fe second home owners) to assist people in the historic district who can not afford to maintain their homes in accordance with conservation codes; this way Santa Fe stays beautiful and people can stay here versus having to sell something that may have been in their family for generations because historic preservation is too expensive. Planning more public celebrations/rituals in the Plaza that are community-focused (not tourism focused)." ID241 (in response to good ancestors)

"Designating our city as a sanctuary city and a welcoming one is a good place to start. I'd like to see improvements in public education. Water issues need to be dealt with. The economy needs to be less dependent of tourism, more diversified. I am pleased to see more apartment buildings filling in the downtown area and all around the city - it's important to have affordable housing for our employed people so they do not have to commute." ID147 (in response to good ancestors)

Respect

As noted early on in this report, respect floated to the top of values that are shared across the people of Santa Fe. Regardless of the mechanism for building healthier relationships, it must come from a place of respect. Simply stated,

"[E]veryone needs to chill. Newcomers need to show respect for traditions and some old school folks need to appreciate the investment that generations of migrants bring." (ID19)

How can we become good ancestors to our children, their children, and generations to come?

"I would say to co exist and respect each other's traditions and cultures. Teach own children about each others culture and teach them that even though it's different don't disrespect it….If we could learn and understand everyone's traditions then we can paint a path for our generations to come." (ID102)

As the foregoing quote illustrates, learning about other perspectives with openness and respect can position people to be good ancestors. Indeed, numerous themes that came up in response to the questions about fuller history and healthier relationships were raised again in response to being good ancestors. Education, dialogue, and the importance of inclusive history showed up frequently. Calls for correcting economic inequities and uneven investment throughout Santa Fe were repeated. The minority of people demanding the Obelisk be restored before anything else restated their case.

Topics receiving greater emphasis than in the two previous questions were addressing climate change and being role models. In some ways, these topics are inseparable from one another just as the land and water are inescapably core to the history and relationships of Santa Fe. One Survey 1 respondent captures this well, writing,

> "We need to teach and learn sustainable ways of living in this beautiful land that will honor our community for generations. We need to learn to co-exist with water and land with respect and care. We need to pass down the ancestral teachings and practices which allowed generations of people to live harmoniously in this beautiful place. We also need to increase biking and walking and wheelchair accessible paths and reduce the use of cars in our city in order to reduce fossil fuel consumption in our community and allow us all to more fully exist outdoors and in connection to the elements and in community - saying hello to each other and not being in our own car bubbles." ID157

Being a Good Ancestor to the Land and Water

Many responses to being a good ancestor to children is getting in better relation with the environment. Respect it. Protect it. Preserve it. Do not exploit it. Live lightly on it. Do no harm. The quotes that follow illustrate that if we are to be good ancestors, we must get right with our natural world.

> "Promote laws that respond to and mitigate the effects of climate change especially drought and fires." (ID96)

> "[B]eing a good ancestor means living a sustainable life now. If we steal from future generations and limit their access to clean air, water, etc., then we are not thinking of the next generation." (ID121)

> "We need to view ourselves as extensions of an ecosystem, not merely as occupants and consumers. If we do not value and seek to protect our environment from destruction, as well as the most vulnerable people amongst our populations, we will have failed humanity and our ancestors." (ID138)

> "We must take care of the water. We must nourish the soil. We must take care of the people. We must help the people birthing. We must sit with the elders. We must collect this valuable data through those who lived it. We must look up and remember we share the same sky. We must honor our crossings into different phases of life. We must remember our connection and interconnection are an integral part of our experience. We must show our children the way through our actions. We must be gentler with each other and the environment. We can begin right where we are, in Oga Po'geh - Santa Fe." (ID158)

> "[T]ake care of our rivers and lakes! no plutonium!" (ID207)

> "Follow one of the boy scout mottos - leave your campsite cleaner than you found it! We should all strive to improve any given effort, idea, physical site - DO NO HARM!" (ID215)

> "Treat our environment and our material and human resources with respect and care." (ID227)

“We can become better listeners and caretakers of the earth. We can work in solidarity and establish coalitions. We can fight the extractive tendencies of capitalism and white supremacy.” (ID341)

“Teach responsibility and respect for the people and the land.” (ID388)

“By changing our relationship to the more-than-human world away from that of exploitation. By overhauling our economic system to provide for everyone's needs. By divesting in all fossil fuels.” (ID126)

“Do we have generations to come? Not if we don't fix our environmental issues, our political hate, our housing crisis, and our schools. Here's a start: subsidize housing for public servants (police, teachers, first responders, etc.) with a community service requirement to maintain low rent or mortgage payments. Adapt town meeting structure by neighborhood, with public servants taking on organization, with resources to actually address and solve community concerns. Centralize major projects like water and renewable energy, but let neighborhoods control neighborhood issues.” (ID365)

Being Role Models

Part of being a good role model and a good ancestor means unlearning more pernicious lessons that have been internalized. While only mentioned explicitly by a few respondents, it seems worth raising here:

“First working on us and our mental health, working on our traumas and problems so we don't pass them to our kids. Then showing them what we want to see in them like being independent, worrying about others and helping others in need, treating people in a good and nice manner, etc.” (ID395)

“Develop programs to eliminate the bad habits that come from multi-generational issues such as domestic violence, substance abuse and other learned behaviors that need to stop.” (ID19)

“To break the pattern that perpetuates  Victimhood Shame Helplessness Need to numb in order to cope  Figure out how to reconcile between cultures of individualism and achievements vs. culture that values connection and oneness.” (ID135)

To be good ancestors, people today must be the good they hope to see in the environment and in each other. As the quotes below show, there are many ways and places to practice this:

“We can be educators and examples to future generations by acknowledging history as it occured.  Acknowledge all people should be treated equally and with respect to their history, their cultural, and their traditions.” (ID275)

“Our communities will be better, healthier, more tolerant if we can focus on our responsibilities to the community and each other as much as we focus on our freedoms.” (ID225)

“Learn from our mistakes” (ID229)

“Volunteer; be involved.” (ID185)

“Leading the right example for younger generations to follow.” (ID471)

“Being positive political, parent, community and educational role models to our children is important. Elders can speak about their cultural stories so that today can be better than yesterday and that yesterday stories can teach lessons learned. And, that intergenerational knowledge is shared for the future generations.” (ID137)

“We can only be good ancestors if we bring shared intention and action. We must know who we are, where we come from, bring the best of ourselves, and heal the worst. We cannot be good ancestors if we’re divided and at odds with each other. In the larger view, we have to be the ones we’ve been waiting for or else the future will be untenable for future generations.” (ID168)

“By modeling a commitment to, and processes and structures, for decolonizing our communities and creating more egalitarian relationships. This should result in resolving our differences in open and honest dialogue. We then must use these tools to address climate change and its deleterious effects on our land. If we do not address climate change at all levels, there will be no future generations.” (ID13)

“I think we can tell the next generations that we tried to be open-minded, that we realized that there were events and people in the past that we had to reevaluate and reconsider their place in history. That we were willing to accept that we held beliefs that proved to be incomplete or even incorrect, and that we worked together to right those wrongs. As we know history has often been written by the victors, from their point of view- I think young people now are open to probing and questioning and that is a good thing.” (ID319)

Conclusions

Survey 1 was one of the first initiatives undertaken by the CHART project. By posing three broad questions about Santa Fe’s history, its present, and its future, the survey invited respondents to write what was important to them at that place and at that time. Between the pandemic and its disproportionate burden on people of color and people in poverty, police violence, and fury at racial injustices, and a City election, late 2021 was a firey time. Santa Fe was not immune to the trends across the U.S. then or now. In 484 responses, Survey 1 illustrated that there are other issues that need attention for old timers and newcomers to move forward together.

Embracing a more inclusive history, relationships starting from a place of mutual respect, more equitable dispersion of city resources and easier access to them, and a shared commitment to a future defined by getting in right relationship with the environment and each other can all bring Santa Fe closer to the city that so many seem to want. Some good recommendations have been made here and throughout the CHART process, should there be the will to act on them.

APPENDIX G: SURVEY 1 RECOMMENDATIONS

SURVEY 1 RECOMMENDATIONS

The following are recommendations culled from the large body of information provided by Survey 1 respondents. These are their direct responses.

Recommendations: How do we come to a fuller understanding of Santa Fe's history?

|---|---|
| ID: 1 | listen to an extremely diverse group of voices and seek out experts from each of the different communities that contributed to that history. |
| ID: 1 | actively seek truths |
| ID: 10 | Restore the statutes, continue the celebration and acknowledge our history. |
| ID: 101 | We need a Museum of Santa Fe that specifically focuses on the history of the land we live on and how it has changed culturally and environmentally. Santa Feans need to develop a deep sense of place and history regardless if they have been here for 10 generations or 1 year. The mission of the museum needs to be both historic and current and include a relationship with the Public Schools that is educational, everything from archaeology to ecology to the visual and performing arts. |
| ID: 106 | Gather facts from multiple perspectives and allow the people to be involved and share stories and information from the past. |
| ID: 107 | Work with City historian and State offices of Cultural Affairs, Archaeological Studies and Historic Preservation to designate reports, studies and books about the history of Santa Fe. |
| ID: 107 | Establish a list that all participants of CHART should read, and invite the public to read, over the next six months. Maybe even invite formation of book clubs by various faith communities? |
| ID: 107 | Seek out written documents that professionals have created over the past several decades. |
| ID: 109 | Through cultural monuments, programs, and events/observances and in educational curricula: present a balanced and comprehensive account of Santa Fe's history -- one that acknowledges the initial and ongoing presence and occupation of these lands by indigenous peoples - going back as much as 11,500 years - and the impact on these peoples and their cultures by Spanish, Mexican, and American colonials |
| ID: 109 | Hold space for public conversations that allow for a truth and reconciliation process. |
| ID: 11 | Engage with historians, cultural experts, craftworkers and honor traditional ways |
| ID: 113 | During a televised presentation from the Square in Santa Fe historians from three groups should outline their respective historical references, without editorializing, and field audience questions. |
| ID: 119 | Add plaques for more information or where more space is available another statue or monument with a different viewpoint. |
| ID: 125 | Include the good, the bad, and the ugly in school curricula. Take kids on field trips. Keep meaningful exhibits at state cultural sites, including museums and historical and archaeological sites. |

|---|---|
| ID: 13 | Create a history. Recite it to indigenous, latino/a and white groups and modify based upon feedback--until all groups agree to it's fairness and veracity. |
| ID: 130 | create many permanent public display tokens (statues, figures, shapes, etc.) These should be attractive and have appeal and meaning to locals and tourists. They should celebrate the cultures that have come together to form glorious Santa Fe. |
| ID: 131 | conduct community meetings around various aspects |
| ID: 131 | make short videos about different aspects |
| ID: 131 | sponsor school presentations on Santa Fe history |

| ID: 135 | A live theater experience or a video (either a documentary/interview style or motion graphics) that powerfully and artful present different viewpoints and giving space to each with the fullest human divinity and empathy. Perspectives solicited should expand beyond the triad of cultures that typically is presented as the face of New Mexico—Native American, Spanish, and Anglo. Human identity is beyond their race. Acknowledge the fullness of who live here now, too, and why they chose to be here. |
| ID: 136 | Acknowledge the role the 25th Infantry (Buffalo Soldiers) played guarding the Santa Fe Trail and settling the West (this is a forgotten narrative — the thousands of freed slaves who poured into the Southwest “early” in our history. Although this adds a layer of complication due to the Army’s execution of the Indian Wars and policies on expansion at the time. However, the Buffalo soldiers also fought fires and eventually became our nation’s first forest rangers and land stewards.). Be willing to talk about the DOJ Japanese Internment Camp, even though we had troops who participated in the Bataan Death March. One of our main state government buildings in town is the Bataan Building (where NM Arts sits, actually), and there’s a tiny sign on the highway (relatively new) and plaque in the dog park for the 4,000+ innocent people we held for four years in literal “concentration”. New Mexico actually had several, but Santa Fe was the largest. |
| ID: 136 | renaming some locations after their original, indigenous names. |
| ID: 138 | Understanding the history of Santa Fe more fully is to understand humans who have been here the longest, the ones most connected to the environment. If we consider the start of our history to be when we were first a national capital, or when colonizers first arrived on these lands, we allow the spoils of war and corruption to determine our past. The wording of the question proves the point: we don't need the history of Santa Fe as much as we need a history of O'gah'Po'ogeh. |
| ID: 14 | Read more history books from authors who have been here to research. |
| ID: 144 | The Santa Fe Public Schools should begin to teach the history of New Mexico and Santa Fe, perhaps starting in the 3rd or 4th grade, then offering another course in middle school. |
| ID: 144 | The city could also sponsor a series of free lectures about various aspects of the history of Santa Fe. The series could be presented in different parts of the city in schools and/or libraries |

| ID: 147 | It seems to me that we have a very full range of institutions that present this history. We have the NM Museum of History right here in Santa Fe, likewise the Museum of Art, the Museum of Indian Arts and Culture, etc. There are tours one can take of historical buildings around the downtown area, and programs on geological and archeological history. I know the Museum Art keeps an archive of material on our artists. The history museum recently commissioned a graphic book on the conflicting views of the battle depicted in the Segesser hides as a way to update that conflict in the public mind. Plus, I'm about to reread Death Comes for the Archbishop, and there are many more fine literary histories of the area. What else do we need? |
| ID: 148 | Marketing campaign with billboards, a zine, a dedicated educational webpage, social media accounts focused on history of Santa Fe, public television programming, radio shows featuring museum directors and historians, illustrated historical comic book, historical trivia game for the family, a netflix documentary, free college course for teachers, |
| ID: 15 | create platforms and venues that will be interactive, enticing, and exciting, ones that will reach many ages as well as many groups |
| ID: 151 | Add signage describing the historical context (or complementary statuary chosen and defined by the affronted cultures) to culturally sensitive public works |

| ID: 153 | -Authentic storytelling and sharing personal histories and testimonials. -Devoting oneself to educating the public and ourselves to learning more about our neighbors, community members, and the history of this place. -Take stock of each perspective representing all of the ethnic and cultural voices here in Santa Fe -Offer equity to those who have been traditionally underrepresented or unfairly treated. -Promote the democratic ideals of equal representation and aim to rectify past inequalities. -Develop and foster the practice of land acknowledgements to better understand the cultures that came before in Santa Fe. |
| ID: 157 | We could host storytelling forums where Santa Feans could share histories and stories of this place in a multivocal way to create a tapestry of histories, including intentionally centering Indigenous voices and oral histories. Maybe we could also do a community reading initiative, reading a rich history of Santa Fe together as a community and hosting discussion forums about this. |
| ID: 16 | A monumental water fountain to commemorate Santa Fe's charter could be perfect to replace destroyed obelisk? |
| ID: 161 | By having series - plays, lectures, radio interviews, concerts, and other cultural events that show the true history. |
| ID: 165 | Openly debate the history in public forums for all to see |
| ID: 168 | I wish we could witness a collaboration between different areas of leadership: cultural, educational, medical, spiritual, business, political, etc. to model a process towards understanding history |

| ID: 174 | We need to start by gathering historical data and accounts of our past. There seem to be sometimes conflicting views on our history. Did the Spanish "enslave" the natives of the area or use a system similar to feudal serfs? Was it forced slavery of indentured servitude? Perhaps both were true, depending on one's perspective? Utilize noted historians, such as Dr. Mabry Vigil of Las Vegas, and the works of Dr. Lynn Perrigo, (deceased) both highly acclaimed former Professors of N.M. and Southwest History at Highlands University in Las Vegas, NM. Our own StateHistorians can and should weigh in. We need to define what we are seeking answers to - i.e., Did the local Spanish settlers enslave the natives? Did the natives benefit from the Spanish settlement? How? How do we judge the Po'pe led rebellion which resulted in the massacre of men, women and children...How many, and was it an "ambush" as claimed. Was it justified in any way? Define the many questions we need answered -start with a common base of knowledge. Was the Obelisk "bad" - it intended to celebrate the soldiers who beat back the confederates and the continuance of slavery in the U.S. Or was the reference to "savage" Indians bad? What are we trying to address? One aspect that I haven't seen articulated yet is the impact of the Anglo American conquest of Santa Fe and New Mexico. I believe that one of the reasons that many Hispanics cherish, support and vigorously defend customs and traditions may be in reaction to the Mexican American war (which I believe most historians would agree was contrived by the U.S. in the pursuit of "manifest destiny".) The issue of reconciliation needs to comprehend this fact as well in considering how we move forward. |
| ID: 176 | Establishing in our museums at present and in the future for to provide the history of how Santa Fe came to be with periodicals, artifacts and historical photos as well videos of those telling stories of how living in Santa Fe was and is (oral history). To understand the history of Santa Fe is by exploring aspects by providing advertisement through marketing via websites and television like the program on Channel 5 COLORES. |

| ID: 180 | I think there should be a task force to get the plaza restoration underway asap. CHART could be an advisor for that shorter term project. An expert task force for the plaza/obelisk project should be multidisciplinary, highly expert, but also include members of the community and CHART.. It should be guided by a cultural affairs consultant, and have a mechanism for involving global artistic input. |
| ID: 183 | Cultural events open to the public |
| ID: 183 | free Train "docents" who go to the schools and make presentations to classes, or several classes, |
| ID: 183 | Make sure textbooks have accurate and full accounts of the different cultures. Encourage private schools to do the same |
| ID: 183 | Have free events in parks in different neighborhoods with music/dance and info about a culture |
| ID: 183 | Get grants to let museums open for free one day a week - take buses of students. |
| ID: 183 | Have presentations of each culture's history, music and dance in school auditoriums or at the Railyard, etc. |

|---|---|
| ID: 183 | Educate realtors to incorporate Santa Fe history into their presentations, especially to folks new to the area. Handouts, etc. Add into like the altitude, weather, different cultural groups living in Santa Fe, breakdown of population, cost of living, struggles (needing more job creating businesses, affordable housing for essential workers, etc). |

| ID: 185 | historic tours of sites around town, including graveyards (and discussion of the lack thereof). |
| ID: 188 | Gather diverse historians for analysis of the various histories of the city. |
| ID: 189 | How about a small brochure or booklet that details the history, the facts. |
| ID: 19 | Develop a truthful narrative and timeline of the history of Santa Fe. Include the good, bad and ugly aspects so we can learn that we can get through this and can live together. |
| ID: 195 | Start with studying "The Great River" by Paul Horgan and move on to the history of slavery at that Pecos Church and then to the Conquerors, the Pueblo Revolt and then the gang of thieves who came in the 1800's to exploit minerals and people. Move on to those who wanted statehood to keep political/economic control in the hands of traditional white channels until this day. Oh, don't forget the A-bomb, the movie makers, the artists and the hippies and organic food folks and traditional food folks who came in mass to change it all around. Mostly, tell us how our viejos made us wise and help us still. |
| ID: 196 | I imagine a small sculpture garden that depicts the experience of pueblo people, original Hispanic settlers and more recent newcomers with sufficient commentary so that visitors learn of our complicated and intertwined history. Has to encompass the whole history of this place. |
| ID: 2 | Perhaps it would be helpful to have a series of columns, published in all local papers, in Tewa, Towa, Keres, Spanish and English. Maybe Navajo and Apache, too. These columns could also be online and perhaps read on different radio stations. |
| ID: 204 | publish small booklets to be distributed by NM Tourism detailing the history, all the good stuff and bad stuff, from a neutral standpoint, for people to educate themselves. |

|---|---|
| ID: 206 | From the perspective of not being native to Santa Fe, it would be great to see more history from the lens of the native communities communicated through as many channels as possible including the contemporary arts and entertainment. An example is Virgil Ortiz who's work which is grounded in the history of the Pueblo Revolt of 1680. As a person who moved to New Mexico in the 1990's, I was never even aware of this history until I encountered his work in 2012. |

|---|---|
| ID: 21 | The City of Santa Fe should sponsor and host a multicultural, anthropological history conference in conjunction with some major annual festival that always attracts residents and tourists.Guest speakers representing the different points of view each year, over several years. |
| ID: 213 | The museums at the plaza need to have standing exhibits of native history. |
| ID: 213 | Every European based history plaque (there should be some) should also be mirrored by The native side of the story, or at least a native element pertinent to the space. Every European Public Art piece should have two sides (European and Native), but native pieces can be solo. |
| ID: 213 | There should be a Native restaurant on the Plaza, and this should be subsidized by the govt. until viable. |
| ID: 213 | The Camino Real Trail needs to be heightened and celebrated, especially on the south side of town |
| ID: 214 | Teach critical race theory in primary and secondary education curriculum 2. Provide public art and lecture series that teaches the history of NM including the impact of Spanish colonial history on Indigenous peoples, their history, and their lands 3. Teach the foundations that lead to the drafting of the US Constitution with attention on the use of trade as related to land resources and the notion of manifest destiny 4. Teach the history of NM Indigenous nations from the perspective of Indigenous peoples; compare and contrast the narratives presented by White historians and Indigenous historians 5. Present public presentations of the real history of the founding of Santa Fe; who was here prior to the Spanish. Include Indigenous history along side of the Spanish narratives of NM's history. |
| ID: 219 | Create a "History Center" at midtown where all historical monuments & statues are gathered together. |
| ID: 22 | I think it is important that we expand the history of Santa Fe beyond the story of the conquistadors to highlight the stories of the indigenous populations and lesser known communities such as the stories of African American, Jewish and Middle Eastern Populations. |
| ID: 226 | a well made film could start with presentations by representatives of different perspectives from different groups, and then be artfully merged to a coherent timeline that acknowledges different versions, while framing them together into one community. This could be screened frequently to different groups (schools, churches, public venues), with Q & A panel discussions after. A free course could be offered at the libraries that contextualizes conflicting points of view and acknowledges legitimate disagreements, while also recognizing that all sides of conflicts do some good and some wrong. Rationalities of the times and places were different in the past, and opportunities exist in the present for bridging and collaborating. Again, time at the end of each class for group discussion. |
| ID: 226 | A stage production can be written and produced addressing historic events and dramatizing progression into the 21st century in which people evolve to live and work together, retaining their culture and pride in their heritage, while recognizing that things were done at different times that would not be condoned today. There can be a program at schools and libraries for promoting history books. |

|---|---|
| ID: 226 | Reading clubs that have different groups reading each others' literature and pov, can be facilitated by trained coaches, teachers, therapists who can help navigate the material and reach new understandings. |

|---|---|
| ID: 226 | Workshops with skits that cast people of one group in the shoes of people from another group can give people a way of loosening their grip on one way of seeing. |
| ID: 227 | Develop exhibits in museums, online, and in schools with recorded interviews of people from past generations (20, 40, 60, 80 yrs ago), from different races, ethnicities and economic classes about their experiences and memories of living in Santa Fe. |
| ID: 228 | I believe the current historical exhibition at the New Mexico History Museum is a good start. It is critical that there are recurring opportunities for Indigenous and Hispanic voices to frame the story of the city's history, mirroring the approach in the excellent curriculum Facing History And Ourselves that I found very impactful and useful as a middle school teacher of the history of immigration to our shores. |
| ID: 230 | Look to the surrounding communities that supported the City of Santa Fe, like Agua Fria Village and La Cienega. The city itself as the Capitol was always La Villa Real de Santa Fé de San Francisco de Asís. The myth of this “Royal City.” Even when it was the Native American: “place of the white shell” in 1100. It was a purely ceremonial and commercial site that the pueblos would meet at and dance, and have a feast day. Why? Because professor Hilario Romero has proven that the altitude only allowed about 45 days less agriculture (date of first and last frost). Not even time to have any crops. So a place of commerce completely supported by the very humble and very hard working Hispanos and Indios. These ancianos, elders and the antepasados are not in the traditional history books. Yet, they built the city with adobes, kept it warm with firewood and fed it. The Santa Fe River should be honored as its lifeblood and protected for the downstream users as Judge Captain Roque Madrid of Pueblo Quemado (Agua Fria) ruled in 1695. These people were of mixed blood and may have been looked down on. Some may have been indentured servants. The Anglo influence on Santa Fe has been to attack the adobe and to change it to Cape Cod-styled-housing as written by the 1880 editor of the New Mexican. The CHART Committee celebrates the Dine (Navajo) people. These were the raiders of Pueblos, Agua Fria and La Cienega. Yet, after the acquisition of horses, the Navajo and Ute, and to a lesser extent the Apache and Comanche, were a constant initiation of military campaigns led against them by Roque Madrid.Even in Josiah Gregg’s book he talks about the Navajo raid on Agua Fria to steal horses. |
| ID: 24 | A public forum and/or roundtable led by representatives from NM tribes; Hispanic leaders or representatives; and Anglo people both long timers & newcomers. |
| ID: 24 | Permanent & identical displays in all of the Santa Fe Museum Foundation group: History Museum, Indian Arts & Culture Museum; Intl Folk Art Museum that weave together the commonalities and differences among the representative Indian, Hispanic, and Anglo populations. |
| ID: 24 | create pamphlets or brochures representing the above populations and make sure all hotels provide these for visitors. |
| ID: 240 | By Starting a series of Lectures by historians |
| ID: 240 | series of newspaper articles |
| ID: 240 | By Listening and publishing Pueblo Historians that the public can easily obtain. |
| ID: 241 | We and the city should actively acknowledge our existence on Jicarilla Apache and Puebloan land. It would be great if some kind of information about this fact was provided in the Plaza |

|---|---|
| ID: 242 | It would help to have a salaried City Historian who would build a bibliography of credible historical reference material; include the outcomes of the CHART process; and work to fulfill the recommendations of the CHART process that are appropriately assigned to such an office. |
| ID: 242 | The Historian should prepare and deliver presentations on Santa Fe's history for various age groups and backgrounds, and with different foci, |
| ID: 243 | multiple avenues for discovering the roots of Santa Fe. |
| ID: 244 | Create History Parks containing the controversial statues and plaques with historical explanations. Have discussion and reflection centers. Include these parks in school curriculum |
| ID: 245 | PROVIDE FOR OPEN DISCUSSIONS in order that ALL can hear each/others inputs - and be able to ask relevant questions! |
| ID: 253 | I would recommend a series of accessible, seminar-style listening sessions on Santa Fe's history involving historians (I use the term loosely) of all backgrounds. These sessions could cover both human and natural history and would be open to contributions from academic historians, family historians, oral historians, and more. It would create a door for a fuller, more equitable history. Once consolidated and edited, I would strongly recommend taking the conclusions of these sessions to Santa Fe Public Schools or even NM Public Education Department for implementation into textbooks/additions to existing curriculum |
| ID: 255 | We need a public discussion where the Native American, Hispanic, Anglo, Immigrant, and LBGTQ each publish their histories of Santa Fe. I really this would involve written presentations prepared by historians and leaders of each community of no more than 20 pp. and PowerPoints in a series of public meetings where everyone has an opportunity to speak |
| ID: 26 | Truthfully presenting all sides of the historical narrative, rather than eliminating those symbols. Much like the approach of a history museum |
| ID: 268 | Talk with residents of the neighborhoods and areas with ancient and recent histories. Example: Rancho Siringo Neighborhood regarding the historic ranches and the Manhattan Project during WWII. |
| ID: 272 | Use our archives, local historians and locals. |
| ID: 279 | We should promote better evidence about "historical trauma." |
| ID: 28 | Offering Town Hall discussions on a regular basis where community participants of all backgrounds, age, race, ethnicity can meet, converse openly, and share their stories and perspective. |
| ID: 28 | Create a focus group that includes individuals that have diverse backgrounds and experience to work on a community project, come up with a solution to a community concern or need. Include new residents in the discussion and community members that are not normally involved, who bring valuable perspectives and insight as well. |

|---|---|
| ID: 285 | One of two important methods is one you're doing on November 18--having two historians speak to interested people about the history. Since history, of course, occurs differently for different races/classes/economic statuses of people, the second method would be to find out more from elders within long-standing communities/groups in the area. |
| ID: 298 | Share our stories in culturally meaningful ways that are significant to multiple cultures, using multiple genres. Make these sharing and presentation accessible through locations, transit help, etc. |
| ID: 298 | Specific request: a bus stop at Fort Marcy and a bus stop at Casa Milagro. |

|---|---|
| ID: 311 | There should be a brief pamphlet hand-out, containing facts about our heritage-and the history of Santa Fe, reflecting only historical truths, that should be given to each newcomer to Santa Fe. This pamphlet, with historical truths and facts, should be the result of meaningful analysis by historians familiar with the traditional culture of Santa Fe. |
| ID: 32 | Develop a proper chronology of the history of Santa Fe. We have a rich written history beginning with Gaspar Perez de Villagra's 1610 Epic Poem, Historia de la Nueva México. There are numerous letters, legal documents, and other statements as well. |
| ID: 321 | interview (or at least directly invite the following to take this survey) a number of residents who have invested themselves in the common good of Santa Fe--social workers, politicians, artists, teachers, service organization leaders and volunteers, church leaders and involved parishioners, law enforcement personnel, long-time residents of Spanish descent and American Indian descent(and others whose family has been in Santa Fe for several generations), and several newer members of the community. |
| ID: 325 | It would be cool if there was an interpretive guide on the plaza. It could be a footpath or something similar that directs people along and tells the stories. It would have to be created by a committee representing all diverse cultures - Indigenous, Spaniard, Crypto/Converso Jews, Caucasian relocatees, recent immigrants. |
| ID: 326 | Encouraging us as participants to take this survey back to our families and even into our social groups is a good idea. We get practice and may get better at understanding and communicating. Then later we can use our growing knowledge of Santa Fe history to ask questions, listen and discuss with people we do not know. I'd like to see a 2-page spread in the local newspapers with all the rich information, not just the pretty stuff, and with a link to an extensive, selected bibliography. Get the libraries involved. Maybe offer a template for how to have our own discussion? |

|---|---|
| ID: 327 | I feel that it is first important to acknowledge that the history of Santa Fe is complex and that a clear understanding of our history takes time to learn those complexities as well as to understand how various people do naturally have different perspectives on that information. But without knowledge each individual will be handicapped in coming to a fuller understanding. It is important not to limit our knowledge to a simplified version…whether a glorification understanding or a knee-jerk condemnation of our repressive past and/or present. We must learn when we have come together as peoples as well as how we have clashed. One of the ways I suggest that adults and high school students could reach a fuller understanding is by deliberately seeking out the point of view of others. A good place to start is the 2010 book White Shell Water Place, An Anthology of Native American Reflections on the 400th Anniversary of the Founding of Santa Fe, New Mexico. Nearly all of the authors are thoughtful in their writing and do back their statements with historical documents as well as tribal histories. It is very clear that there is no one Native American perspective. Since various Native American tribes had very different interactions with the Spanish colonizers, Mexican troops, and the American military their perspectives do differ. Greg Cajete, about 71, of Santa Clara Pueblo writes that he was not taught an appropriate history of New Mexico including the history of his own pueblo until he went to college. Now he emphasizes the tragic and oppressed conditions as well as the periods of cooperation where his people supported the colonizers against the raiding, nomadic Indians. This is all part of the history of Santa Fe. |
| ID: 33 | The story of Santa Fe has to be known, expressed and celebrated through art, music, language and dialogue - especially in the elementary schools. |

| ID: 365 | Create a basic timeline of the history of Santa Fe. Read that timeline as if you were Native American. After assimilating that perspective fully, read the timeline as if you were descendants of the Spanish settlers. Then read the timeline as Anglo. Finally, read the timeline as recent immigrants to the area. Although these viewpoints conflict over certain events, they aren't competitive; they are Santa Fe. Our multicultural history is a strength and should be celebrated as such. |

| ID: 369 | The city could sponsor a series of public lectures, which would also be recorded, televised, made available on Zoom, etc., and invite historians and speakers of different backgrounds to inform the public about our history. |
| ID: 371 | Replace statues, obelisk, plaques, historical markers etc., with explanations of their original establishment and the relationship to today's changing times. The message is: how we came to today's perception of progress. |
| ID: 375 | Create a public committee consisting of historians, anthropologists, social scientists, professors and classroom teachers, to spend a year meeting occasionally to develop a revised social studies curriculum for SFPS. SFPS should be required to adopt the product(s) of the public committee after a substantial public process that would invite comments from all members of the community. |

Form a committee to review and distill this material into the shortest practical document. 3. Distribute this information through all possible media. 4. Develop a series of fora (again, using all relevant media) for facilitated community discussion to work toward shared understanding of contributions made to the city by the various communities. |

| ID: 396 | A continuing series of articles about key aspects of the city's and area's history could be placed in local newspapers, especially The Santa Fe New Mexican and Santa Fe Reporter, and perhaps also the northern NM version of the Albuquerque Journal. |
| ID: 40 | Oral histories of elders/Read rigorous histories of both Santa Fe and New Mexico |
| ID: 413 | Teach in the schools, have community dialogue w local peoples, keep out of state rebellious instigators out of the Santa Fe community. We were peaceful before they arrived. They hit and run. Listen! Hire a local respected community leader to moderate. |
| ID: 42 | add a plaque to original art work explaining the art and now that we know better we have and will do better |
| ID: 429 | Consider collaborating to create a special edition of a publication such as Green Fire Times, which is still widely distributed in print (and online) around Santa Fe, central and Northern New Mexico. The many intersecting historical narratives could be illuminated and it would give people something to contemplate. It could be a platform where the different constituencies can publicly have their say. Green Fire Times has offered to do this. |
| ID: 43 | Teach what actually happened. Teach about the differences in culture and groups, the Spanish and natives. Teach how people suffered. |

| ID: 51 | scavenger hunts are popular for tourists and locals alike, competitions for art and stories reflecting Santa Fe NM history, tribal, hispanic and anglo historic expert panels and videos for SFPS |
| ID: 53 | One aspect of this process is to help people WANT to gain a fuller understanding of Santa Fe history. Look for ways to engage people with stories. These can come through different formats...memoir, poetry/expressive writing, film, biography (I'm thinking colorful personalities...Governor Lew Wallace...the White Sisters...Allan Houser are some that come to mind. Video artist Robert Drummond did extensive research for an art project that projected the image and voice of a dozen unknown but wonderfully colorful historic New Mexicans from the second floor windows of the Catron Building 7 or 8 years ago. You may be able to find him through the SF Arts Commission. Images will be key...documentary photographs, paintings that reveal cultural and natural history. |

| ID: 59 | More appreciation of our Pueblo values and history can and should be encouraged. |
| ID: 59 | A Southside 'Plaza del Sur' would be a great way to allow for more understanding and experience of more varied cultures living here. |
| ID: 6 | Understand why historical buildings and markers are there and why. |
| ID: 64 | I'm sure that written records from various viewpoints exist. If a summary booklet could be created, it should be distributed both via tourist outlets (which also distribute maps and 'to do' booklets) AND to the general population via Pasatiempo special edition. |
| ID: 68 | Put out a call for people -- making sure to include everyone (tribal representatives, educators, students, scientists, artists, retirees, historians, curators, everyday folks...everyone who may have relevant stories and information) to share their stories whether written or otherwise recorded and start a repository where anyone can access this information. |
| ID: 68 | compile a factual, date-based historic timeline and then place some or all of these stories (links) on this overarching historical timeline. |
| ID: 68 | Create virtual and in-person "exhibitions" of the history that can be accessed (and added to) by anyone |
| ID: 68 | Develop a series of talks, conversations and presentations to share and discuss the history and stories, and have story contributors as guests and/or panelists. Roll out all of this into our schools and other public facilities for even greater access |
| ID: 68 | Create a Santa Fe history course with syllabus that can be taught/shared in schools and online. |
| ID: 70 | A series of signs positioned around the Plaza with short stories about the history would be helpful. |

| ID: 74 | Present the full historical context of any statue or similar public display ( written by a PhD history professor specializing in NM, Spanish colonial, Mexican studies, immigrant studies, Jewish studies, Indiginous studies or other specialty appropriate to the object) so that people can be educated. |
| ID: 75 | We can produce facilitated 'Listening Circles" where people have a certain number of minutes to share something about their history or culture that they love, or something about their own culture that they feel was a mistake. We can bring people together in the Plaza for 'speed dating' events where each takes turn telling the other about their view of a certain historic event, and then they can talk it over. There can be some prepping guidelines for this. This can and should be not only about our own cultures, but well-known examples from other places and times. We can create campaigns to encourage people to make an effort to meet someone out of our customary group, once a month, and get to know each other. |
| ID: 79 | Properly curate statues and monuments. Start by reading James Loewen's Lies Across America, then follow his advice |
| ID: 79 | Make known: many indigenous peoples often were at war, the conditions that led to the Pueblo Revolt, the Spanish reconquest of 1692 was not peaceful, the Confederate and neo-Confederate lie called the Myth of the Lost Cause. Publicize: the internment camp for Americans of Japanese descent, how Polk started the Mexican War as a land grab that led to the American takeover of the southwest. |
| ID: 8 | Youtube, booklets, history museum etc |
| ID: 80 | Provide grants to Native American owned businesses around and near the plaza, encourage new native-owned/employees businesses. |
| ID: 80 | Create more tributes to a variety of historical persons and events, change street names, erect statuary/art around town reflecting diverse history. Install a Pope or prominent Indigenous statue on lower Cerrillos where most people enter the city. More visibility of women and women's history. |
| ID: 81 | Perhaps rotating exhibits at the Convention center to highlight different groups would acknowledge our diverse cultural landscape. |
| ID: 83 | Community panel discussions with historians and experts who can tell the truth it's much encouraged. |
| ID: 85 | I would like to see antique-looking plaques around Downtown SF and the Plaza with simple verbiage showing the timeline of Peoples living here along with snippits of their history. Nothing overwhelming |
| ID: 85 | more from the Native perspective |
| ID: 86 | Emphasize our links to indigenous Mexico and Chihuahua through the Camino Real del Adentro. |
| ID: 86 | Educate visitors about the Mexican-american war. |
| ID: 86 | Greater focus on the presence of Pueblo nations |
| ID: 89 | Hire historians to cultivate a community curriculum. |
| ID: 89 | Dr. Timothy E. Nelson is the first historian to deliberately research and cultivate New Mexico Black History. |

|---|---|
| ID: 96 | Support diverse perspectives of history education in the schools, even for the youngest students, presented in the form of storytelling, music, dance and other arts. |
| ID: S1 | Invite people from the original Pueblos to talk about their experiences and the history they know |

| ID: S1 | Use books written and films created by Indigenous people, Mexicans, and professors of university programs such as IAIA, UNM, MNSU, etc. who know and study history. |

Recommendations: How can we build healthier relationships while acknowledging our differences?

| ID: 1 | It's wonderful that we have separate focuses for different groups such as the weekend focused on Native Americans for the Indian Market, and the weekend for the Hispanic Market, but it might be helpful to also have more events with blended cultural experiences and ways of presenting how various cultures express similar values, ideals, activities in different ways. Especially we should help children understand the beauty and goodness in each culture, and how to understand that difference are to be valued and celebrated and not one chosen as better over another. It is important that we also emphasize the beauty of other cultures that are underrepresented in our community. We will have to listen to each other more with open minds. We must address healing old wounds that haven't been adequately acknowledged. We have to be willing to be open minded and truly recognize the concerns of each of the cultures in our community. |
| ID: 101 | develop neighborhood associations and use them to host cross neighborhood events. |
| ID: 104 | Ideas to place plaques explaining why a monument was erected with points of view from those who support the monument and those who are offended by the monument would be better than removing monuments. |
| ID: 107 | Use the faith communities to establish a calendar of these celebrations, and provide annual studies in their specific community of the other communities. City Hall needs to remain "agnostic" while still offering equal support to all. |
| ID: 109 | Be sensitive to economic and market forces that are pushing out the presence of older, traditional communities and structures and counter them with incentives and policies that allow them to survive and thrive. |
| ID: 109 | Through monuments, interpretive signs and exhibits, cultural programs, and events/observances and in educational curricula: cultivate an acknowledgement and honoring of cultures, histories, current stories, and traditions that is well-balanced between the Indigeous, Hispanic, Anglo and other cultures. For events like Fiesta, have a governing/managing body that has balanced representation and involvement from the Indigeous, Hispanic, and Anglo cultures |
| ID: 110 | Start by an acknowledgement of the basic history, and beyond that make opportunities equal everyone. Also education is the key to moving forward. |
| ID: 110 | Any cultural element, like a monument, festival, or celebration that allows an oppressive act to memorialized--like the obelisk or the Entrada--should be banned. |

| ID: 115 | Put indigenous people in positions of power |
| ID: 121 | Another important part of that dialogue is an exploration of the use of language. In one recent discussion, for example, a priest talked of mission but then a Rabbi shared how that term is very negatively loaded for the Jewish community. The same words mean different things in differing communities, and their meanings should not be assumed. In short, we can achieve this by creating a shared vision, by allowing everyone to be an expert in their own field and not in the field of other people, and by approving a communal understanding of appropriate terminology. That vision needs to be sustainable, inclusive and just, and must be borne of desire to learn from each other instead of protecting our own previous legacies at the cost of other people's rights. |

|---|---|
| ID: 121 | The Interfaith Leadership Alliance of Santa Fe exists for exactly this purpose. To achieve this, ...first create a common connection ...[for example] religious organizations with a shared vision of improving the lives of Santa Feans. After that, ... explore how [groups] differ in ... approaches to that vision. In ... book group ... ask the adherents of the religion being studied to share their thoughts of the chapter, and then those who were not adherents of that religion only got to ask questions. This was an important and deliberate process so that ...[the groups].... acknowledged who had authority on a topic and who did not. ...[Do] not speak on other people's behalf. |
| ID: 123 | round tables that promote similarities and discuss differences and ways to be accepting of different points of view. |
| ID: 131 | Hold face-to-face sessions with a mediator between groups who are at odds about issues. |
| ID: | Acknowledging past harms and a plan to do better |
| ID: 134 | Representation for different groups in aspects of city life and planning |
| ID: 139 | I suggest getting people together from different backgrounds to obtain perspectives. Have a significant round circle with those with the most debate. Have smaller groups. Have two people meet to discuss who they are and their stories, i.e., Native Amercian meets with a local Hispanic, a religious person meets with someone who used to be in a gang, a senior meets with a young person of color or transgender etc.... I would also interview people who are incarcerated as part of the process. |
| ID: 142 | To build a healthy relationship starts with the a mayor apologizing in a public platform for allowing an open attack on Hispanic community members. |
| ID: 144 | A series of lectures with panel discussions afterwards |
| ID: 144 | Santa Fe's Fiesta could do more outreach to the community |
| ID: 144 | more outreach for pueblo feast days or education tours of pueblos. |
| ID: 145 | Maintain clean and healthy public spaces with shade in all parts of town. Rose Park and public libraries are great examples. |

|---|---|
| ID: 146 | Implement universal team building activities and have a zero tolerance policy regarding the us-and-them attitude. |
| ID: 148 | Last week the Pope Francis apologized to the world for the crimes done by the church during la Conquista. Local descendants of Spaniards need to come to terms with the harm that was done by their ancestors and their faith. We should have the Knights of Columbus read Bartolome de las Casas in public. |
| ID: 149 | Work on a be kind campaign. |
| ID: 15 | Create a great number of small groups that agree to meet many times over a period of months. Select representatives from larger groups (Hispanic, Anglo, Native, different ages, etc.) and provide an experienced facilitator for each. The facilitator will use the early sessions for building trust/community and teaching respectful communication skills, and then will step back and let the group exchange their stories. CHART could provide topics for the meetings. |
| ID: | 1) Publicize personal anecdotes of historical context drawing attention to occurrences i) when the trials and tribulations of common folks are shown to be culturally equivalent or ii) when cultures provided mutual support in an uncaring world/environment. 2) Laud the complementary attributes brought different cultures and hi light the times when the sum is greater than the parts |
| ID: 154 | Reduce the militaristic aspect of policing and replace it with community service workers-visible, in the streets, with actual resources-like food and water. Not weapons and flak jackets and million dollar vehicles. Open forum in open spaces not old elite theatres. Get rid of white male developers who just want to continue to sell off native lands. IMPROVE EDUCATION AND CHILD CARE. Teach good manners, communication, and civility in public affairs. |

|---|---|
| ID: 157 | Getting to know people better through facilitated dialogues and community projects like acequia clean-ups, mural projects, etc. |
| ID: 161 | By sharing in cultural celebrations and pastimes that are fully informed and supported. |
| ID: 183 | Require cultural training for all government employees, on an ongoing basis. Encourage businesses and schools to do the same, providing printed materials with references. Or Youtube videos, etc. |
| ID: 183 | Train law enforcement and utility professionals in neutral communication styles. Have folks trained in mediation skills assigned to public forums, school boards, city council, state government, city government. |
| ID: 185 | Demonstrate this type of a dialog, in public, between respected leaders. offer opportunity for small group conversations with persons who consider themselves different from each other. Establish community exposure days with local groups, tours, movies +discussions. |
| ID: 186 | It should be mandatory, especially in New Mexico, for students in schools to keep a gratitude journal. |
| ID: 190 | Perhaps start a column in the New Mexican from CHART members and invite comments |
| ID: 191 | By making events and opportunities more inclusive to our Hispano, Native American and immigrant populations and less Anglo-centric. |

|---|---|
| ID: 191 | have more of an eye to marketing to LOCALS instead of just the wealthy tourists and transplants. |
| ID: 195 | begged, borrowed or stolen roles as leaders or big shots, just folding chairs and homemade food and no talk of money with lots of children running around reminding us we are doing it for them. |
| ID: 196 | I think that only happens when people with different backgrounds, history and perspectives get to know each other. I think the Cafe Conversations https://thecafe.org/cafe-conversations/ offer a model to start. |
| ID: 2 | Perhaps starting with a "tourist" perspective would be a good beginning. Displaying food, music, cultural items (like dress), etc., is non threatening and can therefore be a welcoming action. However, we need to almost immediately go deeper than that. Could we have these activities on the Plaza? This is where we can come together. This is where we all feel pain right now. |
| ID: 200 | By re-building the obelisk to honor civil war soldiers |
| ID: 201 | SF has many different but separate events celebrating Native American, Spanish and Anglo cultural contributions to the history and culture of the city. We need to have more, specially joint events that simultaneously celebrate these cultures and the heritage of coexistence that is New Mexico. This heritage should be celebrated throughout the city, designated public spaces, neighborhoods and parks, not just in the historic center. Make it present! |
| ID: 207 | more cross cultural dialogues - including creative engagement |
| ID: 209 | Find COMMON GROUND, shared values, appreciation and history. Acknowledge that we all share certain things. Work with museums to be more open, responsive, proactive, and imaginative. Reexamine downtown parking meters. |
| ID: 212 | Facilitate community learning circles where people can be heard. The more community connections we have, the healthier our relationships will be. |

|---|---|
| ID: 213 | We need to support both hispanic and native people from the area in becoming educated about city processes, and encourage them (support them financially) to build Santa Fe different. This may mean subsidizing housing for native/local people to get educated while interning in a city department (preferably planning, or housing and human services). We need to involve them in the process of rewriting city land use codes. We need to have a program to keep some people from Santa Fe in Santa Fe. We need to have youth employment programs IN and FOR THE CITY, so that the youth are invested in making the city better, and have something gainful to do besides school. The locations for these need to be on a bus line, and some should be in the South part of town. These programs should focus on getting youth from as wide a spatial spread as possible. They should also be associated with "invite your family" celebrations, award ceremonies, or events after the program has been in place for a while so that engaged youth encourage their families to take part. These events should encourage public discourse and bonding (games? Also food, so that people's blood sugar and emotions are managed from a physical aspect). For every European holiday (fiestas), we should have a native holiday equally as important (if city staff get time off for one, then the other too for example. If the city spends x dollars on a parade for one, then it spends x dollars on something for the other). |

|---|---|
| ID: 214 | Teaching critical race theory will go a long way in assisting everyone in understanding current beliefs that have led to divisions among the different ethnicities living in NM. Presenting public lectures (free), films, and public forums to discuss the beliefs that currently exist. Each of us tends to link our identiy to out beliefs, and when these beliefs are questioned or challenged with an alternative narrative, divisions often occur. It is essential that documented, sourced, and accurate historical facts be presented along with forums that encourage exploration of accepted historical beliefs. |
| ID: 219 | Build into k-12 curricula accurate and comprehensive stories of SF history, including stories written and performed by all of the cultures represented in SF. |
| ID: 223 | Involve Rob Martinez, New Mexico State Historian, to facilitate fairness. |
| ID: 225 | Southern Poverty Law has excellent tools for teaching tolerance and encouraging youth to learn about others. Their programs are a good place to start to look at teaching about others and establishing a norm of common good for our community. |
| ID: 226 | Listening circles with talking sticks, where everyone has a chance to express what is important to them, can be a way of seeing other sides. Rounds and rounds of listening to mixed groups of people express their pride and meaning, can lead to more empathy. Taking mixed groups into nature to cook and build huts together and walk and discover can give people a way of overcoming prejudices, and owning our strengths. |
| ID: 227 | Focus on maintenance of and creation of diverse neighborhoods and meeting places - then the relationships are organic, as opposed to the need to fabricate them in a segregated society. |
| ID: 230 | Allow for history forums and media that the youth will be reached with (social media, videos, QR codes, etc.). Celebrate history as a tourism draw. We already have a tourist campaign focused on eco-tourism (skiing, hiking, biking, fishing)---move it to “history-based tourism” also. |
| ID: 230 | Honor people like former State Historian and professor Hilario Romero, who of mixed blood understands the blessings of a multicultural approach.“income inequality” must also be addressed. Sustainability and quality of life must be a part of |
| ID: 230 | Long Range Planning (that office in City government has been eliminated in 2019).Congruently, the City government must work closer with the County Government to get all their services done. Things like the City-County Regional Planning Authority have not met since 2009. |

|---|---|
| ID: 238 | Maybe learn about different cultures through food. food often brings people together. |

|---|---|
| ID: 239 | Open meetings with an agenda and rules so it doesn't go off track. A FOCUS group of the various groups/cultures. In order for people to speak up and be vulnerable, they have to trust the others. Once they have built that trust, they have to be open to state their minds/opinions without any negative feedback. THEN and only then, after you have trust and productive conflict, can you have full commitment and accountability from everyone. All of this, ends with positive results. The Five Behaviors - read about it! It will help get you started. |
| ID: 24 | Create "reach out" programs in all elementary schools to help children learn from their early years the commonalities and to respect the differences among our mingled populations. |
| ID: 247 | Keep a separation between church and state. Remove the 10 Commandments monument from Fire Station #3 on Cerrillos Rd. |
| ID: 248 | We need conflict resolution skills to be taught and modeled as well as how to listen to each other at a deeper level. |
| ID: | Through thoughtful deliberation of issues—monuments, housing, transportation, policing, education, water, climate change, etc.—involving more or less proportional numbers of people from all demographic groups with a stake in the issue, who meet together with the help of facilitators and expert consultants as needed in a setting structured to encourage respectful listening and speaking and openness to learning from rather than winning the argument with those with different viewpoints. It would help to have an assigned task for the entire group: for example, finding common ground on the basis of which the group as a whole is asked to make recommendations for actions by the City's Governing Body. |
| ID: 25 | create specific paid government positions to address this exact question as this sort of reconciliation and healing process requires a level of expertise that most people (myself included) do not have. At the same time, all of us as individuals must take responsibility for doing the work of learning more about colonization and white supremacy - providing programming for this in the community is important |
| ID: 25 | provide and resource spaces for marginalized communities to gather safely while also providing integrated spaces to build trust and relationships and reduce otherizing. |
| ID: 253 | I would recommend a series of accessible, seminar-style listening sessions on this topic as well. Right now, Santa Feans are expressing our differences with anger because nothing else has made an impact. Perhaps the listening session participants could be nominated by their peers? They could come from different sectors - schools, cultural groups, business groups/chamber of commerce, various nonprofit sectors, etc. It would probably be best to bring long-time locals to these sessions, because they understand the city's attitudes and history. |
| ID: 255 | There needs to be a series of mediated public discussions of where everyone's (historical, culture, economic, etc.) grievances are aired. Out of that, hopefully, that can lead to an agreed process and actions that will be undertaken by a cross section of the community around joint participation and public events and public art (broadly defined) that honor everyone. |

| ID: 27 | Assemble a group of 10 or 15 people from diverse social, economic and cultural backgrounds.Pick an event, such as the Entrada of Juan de Onate, or the Pueblo Revolt, or Mexican Independence, or New Mexican statehood, or the traditional Fiesta in Santa Fe. Or pick a place, such as the Cathedral, the Obelisk and the Plaza, the Palace of Governors, the Santa Fe River, the Village of Agua Fria. Ask each participant to relate a story that they grew up with about each of these events or places. |
| ID: 279 | First is to acknowledge that we are all human. Then, support cordial public dialogue and discussions with non-biased mediators. Invite impartial news outlets to report the facts of the dialogue. Expose state funding that SOLELY supports only those groups who keep a biased agendas and aggression. |
| ID: 284 | We need a clear, unbiased, statement of Santa Fe history. We also need a document showing the recent contributions to Santa Fe of all persons. Again, this needs to be as unbiased a document as possible. |
| ID: 289 | Experience the foods, spiritual and religious practices, arts and crafts, cultural festivals etc. Rub shoulders, break bread with others outside your normal circle of friends and family. Probably best to keep "politics" out of the discussion for developing civil dialogue, at least at first. Getting to know people on a personal level, their own history and story, is the best and first way to begin. We are all human beings in the world sharing many commonalities as well as differences. |
| ID: 294 | Return de Vargas statue to the people of Santa Fe! |
| ID: 30 | Replace conquistador memorials and events with memorials and events that celebrate Hispanic forebears who did positive and beneficial things. Have events, such as meals. dance exhibitions, music that involve members of all communities but especially Hispanic and Native American, since the hostility is greatest between those two. Outreach to churches that bring different groups together. Outreach to young people in all groups, such as by bringing them together to perform modern takes on traditional music or art. |
| ID: 306 | Real estate agents need to be told to stop "red lining" neighbors. Families of former inhabitants of the old East Side invited to return to relatives houses on Canyon Rd, Acequia Madre, Camino Monte del Sol. I would host an event. |
| ID: 311 | The City of Santa Fe should sponsor a "Meet Your Neighbor," function(mixer) at the Plaza, or something similar to that, at least twice during the year, with free pizza or hamburgers, and soft drinks for everyone. |
| ID: 316 | Can colonizers and the colonized/conquered get along? Do you see large segments of Pueblo people living in the city? Can we acknowledge the influence of the other cultures in ourselves? We see it in the foods of northern New Mexico. Maybe it needs to go beyond acknowledging differences and look for similarities. Maybe we all need to take the ancestry DNA test. |
| ID: 321 | There are many cultural events that take place already in Santa Fe. Ask organizations that sponsor these events to reach out to people who might not ordinarily attend such events. At some point during the event, invite a respected member of the community to speak about the event and the cultural group that it represents, inviting the whole community to support this group and to value its contributions. |

|---|---|
| ID: 322 | Integrating "inclusion" into all City services and law enforcement, while also increasing salaries.This takes $. Discuss with state and county representatives ways to increase tax revenue. Perhaps tax second, or non-primary residences in Santa Fe? Having more owner-residents and reducing investment properties (or at least generating more tax revenue from them) might help. |

| ID: 326 | We probably need to find some little spot of common ground - which I believe is always possible — and then listen to each other's stories with interest. Then we need to ask questions about what we feel as well as what we think. We usually need Robert's or Roberta's Rules of Order to help us -- or at least some guidelines that we can all pretty much agree to use. We need to be able to state our case. We need to see the value in listening. We need forgiveness and patience and time for insights. Sometimes we REALLY need to laugh together -- what is so funny??? Laughing together pushes away cloying distrust and mistrust. We may need more times to get to know each other. |
| ID: 327 | I am very hopeful that an opportunity to meet together to learn more about our history and to discuss our feelings about that history is a good place to begin. I do feel that it is important to have an “it” as a basis of for discussion. That “it” can be a writing (like https://estevanraelgalvez.medium.com/centering-truths-not-so-evident-9573b344d1e6), a video, a news item about an event, or a historic document. I feel that it would be less helpful for folks just to state their points of view so the lines are draw. Still it is important that people have a chance to talk about their personal experiences with the history of Santa Fe as they have lived it and those opportunities must be available. |
| ID: 33 | Open discussion where everyone can say what they need to express (without being offensive or bullied) Team building for a small city minus the ropes course or playing charades.Conversations in different parts of the city in every language needed to fully respect all we are. We can have an art installation on the plaza where people express what they need.want to about their heritage. Myopia serves no one - only honest and open dialogue can have each see another's point of view. We can only build healthier relationships if we want to build healthier relationships. Engaging those who are emotionally tied to the past and their own point of view will be the hardest to nudge along. A local talk show dedicated to the fabulous history of Santa Fe with guest speakers perhaps. |
| ID: 342 | 19 Pueblo tribal involvement, lessons and learning activities. Culture awareness through council and chamber. Put learning interactive lessons at public locations. |
| ID: 343 | A food festival in the summer for them to make their food and they could all be friends and not fight because of their different colter👍👍👍👍👍👋 . |
| ID: 344 | hold a multicultural food organization so that people can learn about different culture’s foods. and we can make a food drive with different foods. We can also try to make these free of more affordable to the community |

Create a space for a social club, at the festival, or a permanent place for a multicultural social club. Events that celebrate many cultures. Make these events affordable for all community members. |
| ID: 362 | Have an even amount of representation from all . |
| ID: 363 | perhaps getting people to get together and share our family's past history. |
| ID: 365 | Listen, really listen, to the quiet people. Being passionate isn't being right; it is simply being egotistical about being representative. Loud voices and aggressive actions only convince others you are disrespectful, which undercuts the power of your point and makes for reaction, not understanding. How to listen to the quiet people, how to hear many perspectives before making decisions, how to act and not react, those skills are a constant process that used to be the basis of democracy. Maybe Santa Fe needs a town meeting structure, like towns in New England. |
| ID: 375 | There are many good programs in SF that help kids learn about all kinds of stuff. Those programs, whether from SFPS or other institutions, should be funded more generously. If they are not already included, studios that teach martial arts should be eligible to compete for |

| ID: 377 | Be honest about the past. Realize that part of the issue is common to Western civilization: there are castes in all cultures and between cultures. Get over it. If we can be honest about both the good and the bad in the past, we will be better off. It's also time to put commemorative "historic" statues all together in a dedicated historic park, with information about why we commemorate these people, what they did, and the historic context in which it took place. A statue of Oñate is fine, as long as it includes information about his recall to Spain because of extreme cruelty to Natives. |
| ID: 384 | have the city publish in paperback this history that hopefully will be lively written, concise, and truthful in a broad "non-woke" sense avoiding a tediously and guiltfully political correctness that would prove off-putting to many. Something around 80 pages or less since anything longer would defeat the purpose because many would not read a longer text. |
| ID: 385 | By developing narratives from the population groups involved: appoint historians to committees representing each population group and have each of them summarize a presentation about their group's complaints about other groups activities. |

|---|---|
| ID: 386 | Conduct learning workshops (again, using all useful media) to teach citizens fundamental principles of social cooperation and compromise. Identify leaders from Santa Fe's various demographic groups to help the process. |
| ID: 393 | Talking about different cultures with them and showing them how different cultures do different traditions |
| ID: 396 | For all local activities related to the area's history that are sponsored by the City of Santa Fe, all organizations and groups devoted to aspects of or perspectives on that history can be invited to participate in planning the events.Not by eliminating art and monuments and statues, but by leaving them and making sure they |
| ID: 398 | tell the entire story from all aspects. Add additional plaques or even other statues to explain all sides. |
| ID: 401 | Again we should amplify diverse voices and recognize past wrongs. We should not cover up our faults nor valorize those who did harm to others. We should create new stories and monuments together that represent who we are now as a richly diverse community rather than what we were. |
| ID: 405 | Stop allowing the illegal destruction of artifacts and statues. |
| ID: 406 | Have Madrid rule. Remove the mayor's money, influence and explain his actions, agenda and demonstrated |
| ID: 408 | rhetoric and prejudice against leaders in this movement to balance the scale of misinformation. Remove his insulation from appointees doing his dirty work in city government in the name of law, safety, protecting and and serving the public. Make it mandatory that his agents, appointees, contractors and others provide transparency and be required to attend all CHART public events. |

| ID: 418 | Encourage Spanish speaking around town. Spanish natives also can guide us toward more unity. They seem to also want to tell their history (de Vargas and queen stuff. — no one needs that anymore. It just perpetuates division. My way is better than your way. No, not anymore. We are ALL in this history together. Let's embrace it! Spanish and pueblo days. Spanish and pueblo and other artist festivals together. Separate too. But also a day or two of unity on display. |
| ID: 419 | Getting together individuals from diverse backgrounds, experiences and points of view for frank open, respectful conversations. Agreeing that it is o.k. to disagree without being disagreeable. |
| ID: 421 | In Santa Fe we have many organizations that help build community. For example, the Santa Fe Conservation Trust sponsors walking programs for all ages. It would be great for Chart to partner with organizations in Santa Fe in addition to carrying out Chart's mission. For example, the Santa Fe Botanical Garden has an horno and sample gardens that define multiple cultures that could be used to bring people together and learn something about differences and strengths in our relationships. Another idea would be to partner with the Santa Fe Public Library and have a book club with relevant reading suggested both by Chart and people of the community. The book club could meet online and in person. |

|---|---|
| ID: 422 | While CHART is a project of the City of Santa Fe, it's not owned by the city, but its citizens should own it. Therefore any effort should focus on engagement and inclusion. The project is called CHART, an acronym that includes just one action word – Reconciliation. If you want to reconcile anyone, you need to know what needs to be reconciled. You need to know the people, what moves them, and what makes them want to be in Santa Fe. The pre-step of reconciliation is knowledge and acceptance of who we are. Santa Fe is already a city with many faces. It is multicultural and embraces many cultures. Its history is rich and long before becoming Santa Fe. So the first question we should ask ourselves is, who are we? At the same time, the process has to be embraced by all cultures together or separately then shared to stimulate cross-learning. While I could go on listing what should be done, I would instead like to list what I would like to see: • City-wise events that include discussions/talks, performances that are engaging, and educational workshops, cooking demonstrations of all foods, intro to all local languages (Tewa and Navajo and old spanish), • Posters of Santa Feans saying what makes them be Santa Fean. • Street names include the original names of places in Tewa, or other languages that apply. And in some cases, streets and places should be renamed to raise awareness of their origin. • Santa Fean market/festival/day and not just Hispanic and Indian – the concept of the two markets have a long history, but one of segregation as well. • There is so much information out there that is false, based on incorrect facts, full of biases. It should not be eliminated but explained through a peer-review process. |

| ID: 426 | We all need to practice deep, attentive listening to each others' stories, perspectives, experiences, memories, and oral histories. Every meeting/gathering should be grounded in an exercise designed to recognize, acknowledge, and hold each attendee's humanity. The exercise should guide participants into something personal that all can relate to, something universally human (need for food and water, love for our ancestors, love for future generations, music, dance, nature, as examples), something that connects our common human experience, so that participants feel related and that they each belong. When participants are grounded in a common sense of humanity, belonging, and relationship, hearts and minds are more open, flexible, and generous. Conversations should be set up to yield win-win outcomes. So there are not losers, and people come away feeling heard, seen, valued, and like they got something. This is true of individual, interpersonal relationships and also of group relationships. |
| ID: 429 | By looking to and learning from traditional aspects of Native and Indo-Hispano cultures, which inspire people and have important contemporary applications, particularly in terms of things such as local food production, water and environmental management, we can recognize and nurture essential things that are key to all cultures' ability to live here. |
| ID: 44 | Bringing people of all backgrounds to the table together for public discussions, panels and presentations. These people should be from all walks of life and age groups. Openness in government is critical and a stop to the obfuscation and finger pointing. Equal expenditure in all neighborhoods so that all people in SF have equal services, shopping ( aka the food desert) and amenities.Historical tours would be a good start. |
| ID: | Like the old Chinese proverb says, "Hearing a thousand times is not as good as seeing once." Invest funds into "inclusive" history lessons! Be more inclusive of "all" cultures--especially those more closely related to our state for many generations. Include the history of Blackdom! Highlight our roots with all previous cultures. Comparison and Contrast sessions would help to shed some light on our similarities and differences. |
| ID: | Educate, Educate, Educate. Promote awareness about oppression that our Native Santa Fean's face daily. Have Community Awareness days where people can buy books, food, pamphlets, that are fun. |

|---|---|
| ID: 497 | I think coming together around town at interactive art pieces and having a shared experience or just meeting people or seeing people who you might not interact with on a daily basis can foster understanding and build bridges. I would really love to see more interactive art pieces rather than monuments or statues, plaques....Items like splash parks, playgrounds, interactive music installations, labyrinths, gardens, orchards, berry patches, fountains, river parks (interesting things to do along the parkways and picnic tables). I think of cities I've lived in and the places you meet people that are different from you and it is open spaces with an experience we are all having together. Santa fe feels very stagnant in its art choices around town. There is so much potential out there. |
| ID: 50 | sit in a room, with masks on, a round room would be best, and just feel the energy of people who really want to get along and need to find out how. Lay out the enthusiastic ideas, everyone gets to speak in an ongoing brainstorm, like what you are doing here |
| ID: 51 | tolerance building exercises free multicultural therapy or cultural competency classes, foreign language learning starting in preschool and elementary school |

| ID: 54 | Ask about people's families, children, grandparents...share stories (what was their neighborhood like where they grew up? What kinds of food did you eat? Did you learn to swim? How? Where? Who was your favorite Grandparent, or Great Aunt, Uncle? Why? The personal story creates community, draws us in and allows us to see each other as people, people who are different but who also loved peaches picked warm from a tree. Our differences do not divide us, it is our inability to accept and celebrate those differences (Audre Lorde). We celebrate those differences when we can truly see each other through our stories. |
| ID: 54 | Present people with a collaborative poetry project. Starting with individual drawings done in response to a photograph, video, or story. Then each person writes the first line of a poem in response to their own drawing. Then moves over to write the second line of a poem on their neighbors paper...responding to their neighbor's drawing and first line of their poem. And so on around the table until you end up back at your own drawing and, complete poem. Have people read read these aloud while holding up their drawings. Ah ha! You have all just worked together! |
| ID: 6 | All sides must be heard. Use side by side comparisons of different points of view. Generate lists of both the good and the controversial aspects of each situation / historical figure. List why figures and events were chosen to be memorialized. List why they are still admirable qualities. List the controversial aspects. This should be presented in the spirit of : "You may be right, but I am not wrong". Get each side to acknowledge the other's point of view. |
| ID: 63 | city council meetings on Saturdays during day time |
| ID: 64 | Let’s educate against graffiti, against public display of prejudice. |
| ID: 70 | A smart, respected artist can create a symbolic sculpture to stand in the middle of the Plaza that would show unity and separation (like the Olympic Rings). Each and every person wants recognition. Perhaps a collaboration between three or more artists representing Spanish, Hispano, Native, and Anglo. With so much talent, surely these creatives could be found. |

| ID: 74 | If a group of people in the community is offended by a historical object or its location, they should develop a position, state the groups or organizations that support the position, and present it to a board of HISTORY professors with expertise. The independent group can then develop a mediated solution to the grievance and present it to the City Council. For example, a commemoration of the Spanish conquest of indiginous peoples may need to be reinterpreted to more accurately reflect an unbiased history or be moved to a more appropriate location with proper historical context. |
| ID: 75 | We can host group experiences/workshops to learn better listening styles/habits. We can host performances where different kinds of cultural groups share something that is emblematic or telling for them, and have Q & A afterwards. We can find skilled mediators to join in a threesome with people representing different points of view, for 1/2 our conversations on a predetermined topic. Then share with everyone present what that was like. We can invite people to eat each other's foods and share recipes. We can show films to the public that epitomize conflicts and ways people have resolved them, or not. Then break into small groups to discuss, with a facilitator. Then share small group experiences with the entire audience present. |

| ID: 78 | Allow all local traditions to shine not just the ones that make $$$ put the same energy and respect into Spanish Market and other events. 4th of July pancakes on the Plaza 🥞 the Fiesta Court back into schools. Gay Pride Bring locals who live here back to the Plaza. Bring local businesses Back to plaza, cap rents so outsiders with $ who don't care about our city and history make the rent so high only ugly boot companies and Mall jewelry stores can only afford a space. And make out downtown area look cheap and fake. The history of art, and community is lost. More free local events and entry to museums for families who can not afford it. Don't nickel and dime locals. Everything is getting so expensive. Put more $ and respect into other areas and roads in town. Not just Gonzale Road. And the East Side. Clean up our parks and roads. Starting with respecting the land and everyone who lives here, not just the rich. The Railyard is the new plaza but it does not welcome Spanish and Native locals as much as tourist and others and it shows. People of color are being pushed out and until that changes we will continue to have more crime and more retaliation. Stop building, we have no water!!! Put more money into our boys and girls club!! Our public swimming pools. Public tennis courts, basketball courts. People that have less have nothing to do! Start respecting the community at large and the history will shine. |
| ID: | Don't take statues down ( we don't have that many) but add more and different ones. Start with indigenous people statues. Honor current people too. Need way more non-Spanish men. Change name place names, take an ordinary street name, for example Airport Rd., and change to something historic and diverse. Make sure committees/boards/commissions are fully diverse. |
| ID: | Question: Healthier_relations; Answer: I think we need to have more cultural events which demonstrate the diversity of our cultures these are events that should happen either on the plaza or in the convention center or places where people can gather like the lensic theater and we can have events such as dances and panel discussions about culture and just sharing instead of always politicking. |

|---|---|
| ID: 85 | NOT BY: tearing down locally painted murals; positioning the Natives, in subordinate ways, sitting on the ground under the Governor's Palace Portal and behind the stage and away from the happenings in the Plaza. We need to honor them by giving them spots to sell in more visible and prominent places. POC need help: housing the homeless, who are usually People of Color hanging out and begging for money; not pushing out the POC community for lack of affordable housing; This all causes gentrification/whitewashing/removal of actually SEEING our differences-our various cultures, mostly POC populations. We can't SEE differences among a whole bunch of rich, white folks. |
| ID: 86 | Create open table meals for neighborhoods, close street traffic for big communal meals. Why not close a few blocks on Agua Fria for a day? |
| ID: 93 | Not sure why this question suggests these are in opposition. Involve Roshi Joan at Upaya. She has thought very deeply about these issues and is amazing to speak on them. Build connections among people. We need to get to know each other outside of our normal circles. Common goals unite. Common experiences unite. |
| ID: 96 | Support outdoor public art and events throughout Santa Fe, the more public art that is accessible, the more diverse perspectives can be shared and discussed |
| ID: 96 | Support bilingual education throughout the public school system. |

Recommendations: How can we become good ancestors to our children, their children, and generations to come?

| ID: 15 | A few simple rules: Listen with respect and kindness, setting a good example. Tell our stories, being sure to eliminate demonizing others. Involve our offspring in civic events that celebrate all cultures. Teach sacredness of the land. Stay curious and eager to make genuine, respectful connections with people who have different backgrounds and ideas new to us. |
| ID: 185 | Volunteer; be involved; seek joy for people in all circumstances. Read about others' experiences and write about ours. Evolve thinking by continued education and social engagement after traditional schooling years. Improve the schools by housing teachers locally. Establish a standard volunteer gap year for post high school. Bike and support localized community resources to reduce pollution. |
| ID: 19 | Develop programs to eliminate the bad habits that come from multi-generational issues such as domestic violence, substance abuse and other learned behaviors that need to stop |
| ID: 198 | By supporting the CHART process and following through in good faith with its findings and recommendations. |
| ID: 2 | Let us approach our public schools with activities. These activities need to respond to help meet state of New Mexico Standards. Perhaps retired teachers could be recruited to help design them. The film program at the Community College could be helpful in producing videos. |
| ID: 201 | By building permanent reminders of our shared history throughout the city - again not just at the historic center surrounding the plaza which has become a marketplace for tourists (as important to the city's economy as that might be). Dedicate and design public places for this purpose, places and spaces that one can walk to or stop not just drive by or pass through on the way to somewhere else. |
| ID: 213 | We need to leave a walkable city, with parks connected by trails and land use codes that allows for freedom of movement by all people and protect publically used passageways, as well as creates a system for creating a more walkable city among the existing spaces. We should invest in open spaces and stewardship/habitat restoration, maybe increase the gas tax and sales taxes to pay for open space land stewardship and acquisition. We need to change land use codes to force mixed-uses, and disallow grocery stores and essential services to be only in one or two locations. These need to be distributed throughout the neighborhoods so that everyone can walk now. Then we need to encourage cultural shift so that we walk/bike as a fact of life, and everyone does it. Parks need to be safe, and accessible. We need to encourage citizens to interact with each other through walking. |
| ID: 237 | RESPECT starts with Respecting oneself and when you show respect for others you set an example for others to follow no matter what generation we are talking about. I would like to mention.I think the base of the plaza monument should be installed at Fort Marcy complimenting the military history there. |

|---|---|
| ID: 24 | Create public displays in the Plaza and around town that highlight the positive aspects of our varied cultures. For Pete's sake, remove the statues that continue to rub salt in the wounds of so many. Create a public display, perhaps on the Plaza, noting the history--its triumphs AND its tragedies--but looking forward to peace and reconciliation. |

|---|---|
| ID: 241 | By making space in a tourism-centric economy for those who can't financially afford to be otherwise represented. By figuring out low-income housing or some type of rent control to ensure Santa Fe doesn't continue to become a city of rich, white people. By publicly celebrating the city's true roots through installation of some type of art in the Plaza to replace the obelisk. By creating some type of fund (maybe taxing Santa Fe second home owners) to assist people in the historic district who can not afford to maintain their homes in accordance with conservation codes; this way Santa Fe stays beautiful and people can stay here versus having to sell something that may have been in their family for generations because historic preservation is too expensive. Planning more public celebrations/rituals in the Plaza that are community-focused (not tourism focused). |
| ID: 306 | "Welcome wagon" staffed by volunteers to attempt to educate well-off white newcomers about the real history of this place. |
| ID: 326 | I recommend looking through the photo book: "Through the Lens, Creating Santa Fe" c.2008 …[and]... "Santa Fe: 400 Years, 400 Questions" . Both of these books are available at our Public Libraries. |
| ID: 33 | By listening to our ancestors and keeping their stories, struggles and successes alive. Santa Fe was a beacon for blended societies living together and respecting one another's cultures. Do we want to become another anonymous city with pretty geography or keep the Native and Hispanic histories alive? If so, we need a host of different modalities to accomplish that. Immerse the city with the knowledge of what came before. Coloring books, banners, meet a historian day, hear stories from elders, have a Spotify presence or Tik Tok. In order to keep relevancy through out future generations, we have to keep current in how younger generations learn or engage. Have youth groups comprised of the different cultures planning for the future and how to take pride in their history. |
| ID: 346 | have a official holiday in the city of Santa Fe. |
| ID: 348 | We should make a big event to people around the world to taste different culture's and to make it affordable. We should make a wall painted of something and that well make or children know the culture. we should celebrate holidays official in santa fe. |
| ID: 358 | Have an official holiday in the city of Santa Fe that acknowledges all of the cultures that are here...make it a huge event that people from around the world would want to attend, but also affordable for local citizens. Festivals. Statues/plaques in a dedicated park. Special museum. Dedicated place for a multi-cultural mural. Things that kids help create. Invite young people to all planning meetings. |

|---|---|
| ID: 422 | The CHART consulting team should stimulate the creation of events and activities that can take place in schools, community centers, religious places of prayer, libraries, museums, farmers markets, practically everywhere where people convene. I would like to see multiple calls for art, performances that are newly created to teach history in an inclusive way. I would like to see public artwork that refers to Santa Fe's historical events that have not been told enough. For example, I would like to learn why Santa Fe was called Ogap'oge (olivella water place) and what it meant to everyone at the time. The art that Japanese internment camp members created should be brought NM and exhibited. These are just a few examples that bring hidden facts to life and educate the next generations. |

| ID: 64 | Plan more historical public celebrations. |

| ID: 80 | Be nice, do the right thing, keep politics out of the discussion and decision process. Honor current peoples and land. Maximize green space. Improve bike trails and access throughout city. Conserve water. Eliminate invasive species. Maintain and encourage historic architectural styles. Bring a reputable university to Santa Fe with core curriculum in anthropology, environment, military science, government, tourism, hospitality, film, opera, history, trains, museum studies, art, things that northern New Mexico is known for (UNM-Santa Fe campus, Santa Fe State University, etc.). Create a contiguous walking trail along Santa Fe River. |
| ID: 86 | Story telling, puppet theater, dances: again close a few streets to car traffic for the day. |
| ID: 86 | Look into examples like french national neighborhood days (fête de quartier) or even better: promote international music day here in SF. See French example (fête de la musique) |

APPENDIX H: SURVEY 2 METHODOLOGY AND SUMMARY

SURVEY 2 METHODOLOGY AND SUMMARY

The iterative process employed by CHART was also used to develop Survey 2, a 39-item questionnaire based on the data collected during the first seven months of the project that would aid in the formation of recommendations to the Governing Body in the final report.

Please see a detailed discussion of the iterative process in the “Methods” section of this report.

Review of data collected via Survey 1; recommendations culled from Survey 1; notes from public dialogues, listening sessions, meetings, and one-on-one interviews; evaluation feedback, and proposals received for the “Monumental Dreams and Conversations” (at the time of survey development) informed the formation of 39 questions for Survey 2.

In terms of survey platforms, there were a range of options to choose from including SurveyMonkey, SurveyGizmo, Google Forms, SurveyPlanet, SurveyLegend, and Qualtrics. For our target market (community survey, general public, ages 14 and over), SurveyMonkey was deemed ideal for the following reasons: reputation (98% of Fortune 500 companies utilize it), Question Bank feature (to minimize bias and solicit accurate responses), Editing capability (question per page feature), ease, and design options. Members of the team were also familiar with SurveyMonkey with varying degrees of expertise.

Due to the breadth of data collected, a few potential organizing principles for the questions were considered with a final decision to organize according to the principal topic areas outlined in the acronym of “CHART”--Culture, History, Art, Reconciliation, and Truth. Data results effectively cohered under these topic areas and indicated a logical structure for Survey 2.

Fifty-two questions were generated in the brainstorming phase of question development with a goal of condensing the questions to 30-35 for a survey that would take no longer (on average) than 10 minutes to complete. Aware that the second survey needed to be substantial due to the complexity of the project purpose and scope while cognizant that a too-long survey might be prohibitive, survey length was an important consideration.

> “In addition to the decreased time spent answering each question as surveys grew in length, we saw survey abandon rates increase for surveys that took more than 7-8 minutes to complete; with completion rates dropping anywhere from 5% to 20%. The tolerance for lengthier surveys was greater for surveys that were work or school related and decreased when they were customer related.”

The only change in the organizing principle was to situate the “Reconciliation” section last (rather than concluding with “Truth” questions) due to priming. “Truth” questions served as appropriate priming for answering “Reconciliation” questions in a fifth topic section. A sixth section was added to collect demographic information.

During the brainstorming phase, all types of survey questions were encouraged in order to provide the broadest range of options for consideration, including closed-ended with pre-defined list of answer options; open-ended format; multiple choice; rating scale; likert scale; matrix questions; dropdown; demographic; ranking; and slider. An emphasis on generating quantitative data was preferred as Survey 1 had been qualitative (see Appendix F). The second survey, coming later in the project period, was meant to confirm or deny information previously gathered, suggest consensus, and provide a strong basis for generating a final report with recommendations.

A circular process was undertaken to arrive at finalized questions: a) review existing data while considering potential questions/statements; b) revise survey questions; c) return to data to verify both the necessity of question, its appropriate articulation (along with answer options), and the likelihood of indicative results, d) revise questions, e) repeat the process. One month of brainstorming questions followed by two months of the circular process ensured that Survey 2 was asking the right questions in the right ways in order to reflect the data generated during the public engagement process and to generate important, accurate, and useful information for the final report.

Ultimately, the following types of questions comprised the survey: 27 Likert, 5 Choice/Check all that apply, 3 open-ended, 4 demographic (zip code, age, ethnicity/race, years living in Santa Fe).

Twenty-seven questions consisted of a statement followed by a five point Likert scale; an additional 5 questions consisted of a question with answer options determined by data collected during the first 7 months of the project. For example, Q9 asks “Which of the following resources have you used to learn more about the history of Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe? (Check all that apply).” The 16 answer options come from data collected. Another example, Q18 asks “What should be done with Soldier’s Monument (“Obelisk”) on the Santa Fe Plaza?” The 7 answer options come from data collected.

The 5 point Likert scale utilized was the following, in the order indicated: Strongly agree; Agree; Neither agree nor disagree; Disagree; Strongly Disagree. This scale was used with the following logic: fewer number of choices; relative simplicity and ease of understanding scale; a neutral option is easy to identify; opposing extremes are easy to comprehend as either completely positive or completely negative.

In terms of survey format, SurveyMonkey offers the following options: “Classic” - shows all questions on a page at once. Respondents can scroll to navigate between questions. “Question at Time” - shows one question at a time in the center of the screen. When respondents finish a question the survey automatically scrolls to the next. “Conversation” - survey displays like a chat conversation. For Survey 2, “Question at a time” was chosen to facilitate ease and speed of survey while also encouraging respondents to focus on one question at a time without others in peripheral vision.

Skip Logic was utilized for individual sections–Culture, History, Art, Reconciliation, Truth, Demographics–but did not prevent respondents from exiting the survey at the end of a section, if necessary. This approach allowed for some flexibility, on the part of the user, and prevented users from getting locked into a web page with no time to complete the entire survey. With this option, regardless of its advantages, there might be users who exit the survey without completing other sections and numbers of responses to questions would inevitably vary. Even so, engagement within a section would be guaranteed and the overall results would be dependable.

The English version of the survey was created first followed by a Spanish version. Both were made available online, via survey links posted on the CHART website, and shared widely including via CHART social media, by the City of Santa Fe weekly wraps and updates, and by the Santa Fe Public Schools with students, staff, and parents (via text). Paper versions in English and Spanish were also generated and distributed at targeted locations (e.g., Santa Fe Place Mall) and project events (e.g., Monumental Dreams gallery, Indigenous Ways Festival, Juneteenth).

Surveys were collected from 8 a.m., May 1, 2022, until midnight, June 19, 2022. Total surveys submitted were 653: 635 in English and 18 in Spanish. After the deadline, paper surveys were manually entered into the appropriate SurveyMonkey Collector, one of 3.

After closing the survey, results were analyzed via summary view of data; filter, compare, and show rules to analyze specific data views and segments; view and categorize open-ended responses; browse individual responses and more. Subsequently, the platform was used to download results in multiple formats and to create and export dynamic charts present in this report.

Survey results in English and Spanish were provided to the Community Solutions table (along with a large body of additional information) for their use in addressing issues and forming recommendations for this report.

All survey questions and results are discussed in the “Results and Recommendations” section of this report, followed by recommendations made on the basis of data collected before Survey 2 as well as related Survey 2 results.

The goal of the "Monumental Dreams and Conversations" process is to communicate who and what we value as well as generate conversations about the movements, events, things, places, and people that matter to us.

Any individual, group or organization can submit a proposal by using the ONLINE SUBMISSION FORM or by email or snail mail with the form attached.

DEADLINE: APRIL 30, 2022

A Program of CHART (Culture, History, Art, Reconciliation, and Truth) Santa Fe

www.chartsantafe.com

Identify an EVENT, MOVEMENT, PLACE, THING, or PERSON(S) that matters to you and is part of the past, present, or future of Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe, New Mexico. Tell us this story and propose a monument, memorial, or work of public art that remembers and/or honors it.

GUIDELINES FOR PUBLIC DIALOGUE SESSIONS

Zoom

One of the most important goals of the CHART project is to foster mutual understanding of shared values among people of diverse backgrounds and perspectives. Though sparked by controversies about monuments and statues, the project is much broader in scope and emphasizes community member-to-community member sharing, storytelling, and listening about a range of topics.

In a moment we will be sending you into Zoom breakout rooms. There, you will be guided by a CHART team facilitator and she or he will guide you to address the questions we sent by email, ahead of this session.

In each group, there will also be a note-taker who will be taking detailed notes. Some groups will also have an additional CHART team member present to observe, including our high school interns.

Each group will be structured so that each person will have time to speak for up to 2 minutes at a time, going around the Zoom room. When it is your time to speak, feel free to respond to the question and/or respond to a point that someone else has made. There will be two rounds for each question and these rounds will be followed by 5 minutes of group discussion.

These sessions are structured for equal sharing and a lot of listening. One thing that we heard over and over again, in responses to our first CHART survey, is that Santa Feans want us to listen to each other much more and to do so with a willingness to hear perspectives different from our own.

Your small group session will be recorded. CHART is collecting a wealth of information and data over the course of the project that will inform a final report with recommendations to the Governing Body. Recording ensures that we accurately document what citizens want to share. This said, we will never publicly share individual comments identified with your names.

Expect your small group session to last about an hour and a half.

Please mind the following guidelines that encourage respectful and civil dialogue:

- Listen carefully with an open mind and heart.
- Speak in turn. If you'd like to respond to a particular comment that someone else has made, wait until it's your turn to share. It may help to have a pen and paper handy so you can write down comments you'd like to return to when it's your turn to speak.
- Focus your comments on the subject matter of the question.
- Please keep your camera turned on. Eye contact is important to dialogue. Because we're not in-person, we want to humanize Zoom as much as we can.
- Never interrupt a person while she/he/they is speaking.
- Comments that are accusatory, verbally abusive, and/or profane may result in your removal from the room
- Anything that promotes discrimination and/or hatred against a person's or group's physical, mental, and emotional well-being will result in removal from the room.

If you are not comfortable with any of the above guidelines, simply stay behind after the others have gone to their breakout rooms and the CHART Co-Directors will be happy to address your concerns.

PROJECT TEAM

The CHART team was chosen through an open application process (August - September 2021) and an interview and selection process (October 1-15) with an emphasis on diversity as well as those who would be able to facilitate dialogue, conversations and art activations rather than advocate for an opinion or position on any topic.

Maureen Burdock

“Maureen Burdock is an artist, author, and teacher. Long ago, her maternal family fled the Spanish Inquisition, leaving the Iberian Peninsula and eventually resettling in what was Silesia, Germany, before 1946 (contemporary western Poland). Her grandmother was an avid nationalist during the Second World War, but later a refugee, as she and her children fled the encroaching Russian Army. Decades later, when Maureen was seven, her mother fled with her to the United States to escape domestic violence. Burdock grew up as an outsider, deeply affected by her mother’s PTSD and intense religiosity. She learned to use art and writing to make sense of her experiences of gender-based violence, displacement, and toxic nationalism and religious fanaticism. Today, Burdock creates and studies literature and comics in response to trauma. She is interested in how personal stories can disrupt xenophobic, racist, and sexist master narratives. Burdock belongs to several communities: her family and chosen family, scattered across Europe and North America; a circle of deep friendships in Northern New Mexico, composed of people of all ages from richly varied backgrounds; and her transnational community of artists, activists, and educators. Burdock is working on The Queen of Snails, a graphic memoir about gendered experiences of violence and displacement across generations. She earned a PhD in cultural studies from University of California, Davis, an MFA in fine art and MA in visual critical studies from California College of the Arts, and a BFA in studio art from Santa Fe University of Art and Design.” Zip code: 87505, Age Range: 51-60, 10 years in Santa Fe, Languages: English, German

Jenice Gharib, CHART Co-Director

“I am an arts administrator with a special interest in community and economic development through the arts. Most recently I worked for a public funder and managed the distribution of approximately $1M in annual funding to over 200 arts organizations, K-12 schools, colleges and universities, and government and tribal entities including 60 organizations based in Santa Fe County. I regularly gathered the arts community through in person and online gatherings, conducted surveys and field research, and led strategic planning efforts. I’ve lived in Santa Fe for 18 years and my main community is made up of artists and writers. I’ve always straddled two cultures – American and English – as my mother was American and my father English. My mother’s family arrived on the east coast of this continent in the 1600s as settlers/colonists and still farm today. My father immigrated here in the late 1950s and I’m the first on his side of the family to be born in the US. I have dual citizenship. I’ve traveled a great deal – India, Nepal, Peru, most of Europe, including eastern Europe – and lived in England and Poland in addition to several states in the US. My mother’s early service as a teacher in India and her work on behalf of children throughout her life was my greatest inspiration to serve others as best I can. I am also a published writer, former magazine editor, and produced playwright.  I have an MFA in Creative Writing and a BS in Accounting.” Zip code: 87501, Age Range: 60-70, 18 years in Santa Fe, Languages: English

Hernan Gomez Chavez

“I am an artist and activist born and raised in Santa Fe. My family is from Mexico. I am a local to the Southside of Santa Fe and consider my community to be the Airport Road area. I also consider this city my home. I was previously on the intake team for Santa Fe Mutual Aid. My primary work included connecting individuals and families in need to resources available in Santa Fe County and in the state. I worked with the State Department of Finance and Administration to help people facing housing instability apply and receive aid through the Emergency Rental Assistance Program. One of the campaigns I started along with other community members was the ‘Keep Santa Fe Multicultural’ group.  We have focused on preservation of one of the last historic Chicano murals remaining here in Santa Fe. I am a sculptor and received a BA from the UNM in 2014.  In 2013 I studied abroad at the Academy of Art, Architecture, and Design in Prague. I pursued an MFA in sculpture at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago in 2016. My sculptural work deals with themes of power, place and infrastructure and I have shown work in the US and Prague, Czechoslovakia. My new projects explore artists’ role in gentrifying neighborhoods and the impact our current political climate has on US/Mexico relations.” Zip code: 87507, Age Range: 21-30, 21 years in Santa Fe (lifelong), Languages: English, Spanish

Kearsley Higgins, CHART Administrator
"I am excited to be the administrative coordinator for the CHART team and feel privileged to help organize this important project. I am a new resident to Santa Fe and eager to listen and learn from the diverse communities that call this place home. I am passionate about art as a form of expression and transformation. I have a degree in Radio, Television and Film from Northwestern University. I worked in management for feature films for a decade in for companies like 20th Century Fox and Pixar Animation Studios. When my daughter was born, I chose to take a step back from my professional career. Recent years have been filled with kids and chaos and with me volunteering my time to set design plays, write for a newsletter, or help our school district. I look forward to collaborative work with this amazing project team. I hope my organizational skills will be helpful in this bold attempt to look at the intricate fabric of Santa Fe, unearth divisions, and find pathways for understanding and healing."

Tintawi Kaigziabiher
“I am a mother of 5 creative souls, a wife and partner of 18 years, and an interdisciplinary artist of African descent. My blood lineages span the diaspora including the United States, Africa, Europe, and Australia. Oga Po’geh - Santa Fe has been my home for over 10 years and I consider it an honor and privilege to grow and raise my family on this sacred ground. My great grandparents are my connection to New Mexico, they lived and were laid to rest in Roswell. I am a board member with Black Health New Mexico, a member of NM Breastfeeding Task Force, an independent artist with Vital Spaces, a member of Earthseed Black Arts Alliance, and the nonfiction editor for the Santa Fe Literary Review. Additionally, I have engaged with the community through Santa Fe city and county cleanups, as a doula, and as the co-facilitator for Sista Circle Camp. In my professional work, I create ceremonial and nature-inspired art, I am a Trainer with Childbirth International and an Olorisa of Yemoja (Lukumi). My literary works can be found in the Santa Fe Reporter, The Santa Fe Literary Review, The Mistake House, and other literary magazines. My recent artwork was featured in the Re-Centering Santa Fe "Social Structures" project with Santa Fe Art Institute and in the "Handtools of Resilience" exhibit at Form and Concept. My creative work highlights the African experience in the diaspora. My life work is to be a bridge between the communities I connect with and serve. Zip code: 87508, Age Range: 41-50, 11 years in Santa Fe, Languages: English

Alexis Kaminsky, CHART Project Evaluator
“I was born and raised in New Mexico. I left in my late teens to go to college and, later, graduate school. I have a Ph.D. in program evaluation from Cornell University. I show art at Exhibit/208 in Albuquerque, work part-time at University of New Mexico as research faculty, and own a small consulting company that focuses on educational and community-based research and evaluation.”

Valerie Martinez, CHART Co-Director, Founding Director, Artful Life

“I was born and raised in Santa Fe in a loving community of families descended from the Spanish colonizers and Indigenous peoples of present-day Mexico and North America. My parents were career public school teachers with a wide circle of family and friends who were both socially and civically active in the heart of Santa Fe community life. After earning my B.A. in English (Vassar College) and M.F.A. in Creative Writing/Poetry (University of Arizona) I taught as a college/university professor for over 22 years--at the University of Arizona, Ursinus College, New Mexico Highlands University, University of New Mexico, Institute for American Indian Arts (IAIA), University of Miami, and the College of Santa Fe. When the College of Santa Fe closed, in 2009, I left academia and entered the field of arts and community development. I was a core team member and Executive Director with Littleglobe (Santa Fe), working with artist teams and community members on such large-scale arts and community projects as Lines and Circles; Common Ground TOC (Torreon/Cuba/Ojo Encino); Lifesongs; Memorylines: Voces de Nuestras Jornadas; Stories of Route 66: The International District, and Rivers Run Through Us. In 2015 I founded Artful Life to continue and evolve community arts work with additional projects in Albuquerque and Santa Fe. From 2018- 2021 I was the Director of History and Literary Arts at the National Hispanic Cultural Center, managing a wide range of history and literary projects for children, youth, adults, elders and families. I have also served as a consultant for community engagement projects (with an emphasis on public dialogue and art) since 2016. Finally, I am a poet–author of six books of poetry and one book of translations. I was honored to be Santa Fe’s second Poet Laureate from 2008-2010.”  Zip code: 87111, age range: 60-70, 21 years in Santa Fe; Languages: English and Spanish (reading, writing)

Simesha McEachern

“I am an African American female who grew up in the south (North Carolina, to be exact). I moved to Santa Fe from Austin, Texas where I resided for 11 years. My background is in education, first as a teacher and then as a trainer. My community is best represented as those who felt called to be a part of the Santa Fe community. From my very first visit in 2017, I knew that this felt like home. I moved here in 2019 for work and immediately sought out organizations where I could make a difference. I have joined the Santa Fe Branch of the NAACP where I am an active member and chair of two committees. I work full time as the Education Coordinator in Santa Fe County for Presbyterian Medical Services Children's Services division. In addition, I am an active member of St. Bede's where I serve as a greeter once a month. I have a B.S. in Elementary Education with a Minor in English, an M.Ed. in Instructional Technology and Design, and an Ed.D. in Curriculum and Teaching. I am fully devoted to the pursuit of teaching and learning both formally and informally. I am fully committed to improving the lives of others through education while acknowledging and paying tribute to my southern roots. I believe strongly that mother wit and good old fashioned horse sense are what makes the world go around and I prize these attributes

more highly than the degrees on my wall. Recent events have only served to further ignite my passion for Santa Fe and all of its people." Zip code: 87505, Age Range: 41-50, 2.5 years living in Santa Fe, Languages: English

Peter Cuong Nguyen
"Coming from a large family I learned to be conscientious and considerate of others. I learned to adapt to working with people from all backgrounds and the community in which I live. I make it a point to get to know the people and places in my community and to listen and learn about my community. I am a Vietnamese American. I am also an artist with an MFA in painting and printmaking. I have worked in the museum field for over 15 years and have lived in Santa Fe for 5 years off and on. I currently work for SITE Santa Fe but previously I worked for Turquoise Trail Charter School and, before that, at the Santa Fe Youth Symphony Association. Having held various positions in the museum field and non-profits, I have worked with people from various socio-economic backgrounds and ethnicities which have strengthened my connections to the communities I've worked with." Zip code: 87507, Age Range: 51-60, 5 years in Santa Fe, Languages: English, Vietnamese

R.T., High School Intern
"I come from a very Mexican family from the state of Chihuahua in Mexico. I would describe my ancestry as filled with traditions and culture. My ancestry has also taught me some very valuable lessons. It taught me why family is so important and why having so many traditions is just as important. I would describe myself as someone who has many goals in life and is willing to work as hard as needed to achieve them. I would say that I also have a mindset of jumping at any opportunity that life presents and trying not to have any regrets. The community I belong to is a great community. I think I am part of multiple communities, my neighborhood, my church, my school, and, overall, my town. I feel that I'm part of the Latino side of Santa Fe. My church is also another big community I think I am part of. We help each other as much as we can. My favorite school subject has always been math. I love that there will always just be one answer. I want to be an immigration lawyer when I'm older because the issues relating to immigration mean so much to me. Seeing how people are affected by immigration laws and their status really makes me want to help. Outside of school, I like to spend time with my family and friends. I am a big fan of making a lot of memories so I try to make them as often as I can." 87507, Age Range: 16-19, 17 years in Santa Fe (lifelong), Languages: English, Spanish

Kenneth Pin

“I am originally from New York City, the son of immigrants from Shanghai, China. I attended schools in New York and attained a Bachelor's in History from Hunter College. I moved to Santa Fe in 1992 and attained a master's degree in Community and Regional Planning from the University of New Mexico. I have been an active member of my community as a long-time contributor to local organizations such as Somos Un Pueblo and the Food Depot; as an original member of the Living Wage Roundtable; and as an active voice in the Internment Camp Monument discussion and reconciliation. My professional work has been in the fields of Planning, and Community Development working primarily with the Pueblos of New Mexico. I currently sit on the Board of Directors of the New Mexico Foundation and the Neighborhood Network in Santa Fe and am a Steering Committee member of the New Mexico Broadband Collective.” Zip code: 87505, Age Range: 61-70, 29.5 years in Santa Fe, Languages: English

Trace Rabern

“I have been a public interest lawyer in Santa Fe for almost all of my 25 years of legal practice. I am trained in both western law mediation and traditional peacekeeping techniques. I have worked as a legal aid farmworker advocate, an appellate judicial law clerk, a public defender in state court, a federal appointed public defender under the Criminal Justice Act in the Tenth Circuit and New Mexico Federal Courts, a domestic violence attorney specialist for Eight Northern Indian Pueblos Council, Inc, and co-leader of the legal side of the Peacekeepers program. For 5+ years I have practiced in the tribal courts of Northern NM, specializing in the area of domestic violence. I have been a tribal court judge for nearly 4 years, sitting on the panel of the Ohkay Owingeh Nanbii Wowatsi (Path to Wellness) Court. Mixed, privileged, and poor. I was raised in an adopted family and am the first in my family to go to graduate school. I grew up in rural South Dakota in a family that received government commodities to get by.”  Zip code: 87501, Age Range: 51-60, 27 years in Santa Fe, Languages: English, Spanish

A. R., High School Intern

“I am a student at Pojoaque High School and from the Pueblo of Tesuque. My ancestors were leaders, strong, and outgoing. I am very helpful and like giving back to my community. We work on helping the community by giving back to them, educating them on the effects of alcohol, tobacco, the long term effects. My favorite subjects in school are science and math and English. Outside school I like to stay active by going outdoors and playing baseball. I do not have any work experience but am willing to learn.” Zip code: 87506, 16-19, 16 years in Santa Fe (lifelong), Languages: English, Tewa

Thomas Romero

In memoriam: Thomas A. "Tomás" Romero (1946-2022) passed away on Saturday, March 12, 2022, shortly after being diagnosed with cancer and in the midst of the CHART project. Tomas was a beloved member of the CHART Team and we miss him dearly. "I was born in Santa Rosa, New Mexico and raised in Santa Fe. I consider myself a generational member of the New Mexican community with strong knowledge of NM history and its people. I was born of Hispanic parents, with generations of ancestors in NM tracing back to earliest colonizers and with traceable Native ancestry. My deepest experiences are rooted in rural communities and its people. More significantly, I have worked with and participated with the full range of communities in northern NM. My working career over 55 years included extensive experience in consulting, with 28 years heading my own practice, and 7 years for 2 international firms. I provided management consulting and business advisory services to government agencies, tribal governments, and businesses. I worked directly with NM state government and with the Santa Fe Community College. For the last 9 years I served as Executive Director of Northern Rio Grande Heritage Area, working with smaller communities and local governments throughout northern NM, promoting community planning, heritage development, and tourism. I've been an active volunteer in community organizations over the last 25 years, including as President and Board Member of El Museo Cultural, an Hispanic cultural center and community organization." Zip code: 87501, Age Range: 71-80, 60 years in Santa Fe, Languages: English, Spanish

Santiago Sanchez y Lucero

"I describe myself as many things. I am a dark-skinned young man. I am a third-generation college graduate. I am an artist, a scholar, a student, an educator, a role model, and I am a person who takes the responsibility of fulfilling these roles seriously. I am a Santa Fean, born and raised. I come from a community of laborers and artists and healers. My immediate family is an unexplored, unspoken, complex mix of Native American, Spanish, and white settlers genetically, but I was raised as "local Spanish/Hispanic". My grandparents and parents were all born across various regions of New Mexico. My father's parents were born in Governador, and Farmington, while my mother's parents were born in Taos and Tucumcari.  I am an international student of Global Studies passionate about social and environmental justice. I have experience in coral reef restoration, turtle hatchery projects, developing an "eco-brick" cleanup and recycling project, and as a behavioral husbandry intern at the New York Aquarium. In Santa Fe I have done community organizing work with former city councilor, Rosemary Romero, including affordable housing meetings, National Forest conferences, and contract work for the Census Bureau and NM Coalition to End Homelessness. I am a self-employed tutor and multimedia artist/graphic designer. I believe art is an invaluable tool for communication and creating positive change." M.O., High School Intern

“I see myself as a member of a community that is filled with diversity and acceptance to all. It’s a community that allows many different cultures to exist like mine, which is Mexican. My culture has food filled with all kinds of chilis, dairy products, plus beans. It also prioritizes family over everything, and believes you are not truly dead until you're forgotten. My work experience comes from volunteering with NHS, National Honors Society, which provides me with opportunities to volunteer. An example of our teamwork would be when we did a river clean up through which we were able to clean up trash and beautify the river.” Zip code: 87507, Age Range: 16-19, 16 years in Santa Fe (lifelong), Languages: English, Spanish

Mark Westberg

“I am a queer, mentally-divergent freelance artist, actor, musician, and activist who serves as a director with the Santa Fe Human Rights Alliance. I would describe myself as a traveler and as adventurous.  I am both willing and open to learning and trying new things and doing my best to try to expand my worldview and practice empathy daily. I also enjoy exploring different parts of my being, as opposed to just remaining a one-dimensional person. Myself as an artist, as well as a human being, are what I would describe as colorful, eclectic, and hyper-curious. My community is extremely multilingual, multicultural, and diverse, deriving from a wide and in-depth array of history, especially in Santa Fe, NM.  Additionally, I am Italian and Swedish.  My Italian grandparents, great grandmother and aunt immigrated through Ellis Island, New York City in the late 1900's. I'm very proud to be a product of immigration to this country.  I also graduated with honors from the Santa Fe University of Art & Design in spring 2014 with a BA in theatre performance. I earned my SAG/AFTRA card in 2016.  I employ many artistic fields of expression including composing and playing music as well as appearing on multiple stages performing in theatre productions. I believe that all the different fields combined go hand in hand and can easily influence one another. Music can inspire what I draw, and that piece of art can become music. In 2016, I released a solo EP titled Starseed Phantoms.” Zip code: 87507, Age Range: 21-30, 12 years in Santa Fe, Languages: English

QUESTIONS FOR PUBLIC DIALOGUE

PUBLIC DIALOGUE QUESTIONS

All CHART dialogue sessions began with questions/prompts that were provided to registered participants before each event. The questions/prompts were also repeated in the introduction to each session. Dialogues were held via Zoom throughout the project. In-person dialogue began in March 2022, following state health guidelines for COVID-19. The overall theme for the sessions in January, February and March were “Monuments,” “Equity,” and “Belonging,” respectively, and were determined by responses to CHART Survey 1. The same questions were the basis for one-on-one interviews conducted in May 2022.

MONUMENTS

- WHO or WHAT deserves a public monument/memorial/work of public art (etc.) and why? Who/What is worth honoring, and why?
- If existing monuments/memorials/works of art need to be reconsidered, what is the ideal process for this? What steps should be taken, and why?

EQUITY

The CHART project is using the following descriptions of equity and equality: equity involves trying to understand and give people what they need to enjoy full, healthy lives. Equality, in contrast, aims to ensure that everyone gets the same things. Like equity, equality aims to promote fairness and justice, but it assumes that everyone starts from the same place and needs the same things.

- Talk about an experience you’ve had in Santa Fe (city and/or county) that makes you think about equity and inequity. What made the situation equitable or inequitable?
- If you were an elected official, how would you make a real difference in terms of equity? Creative thinking and solutions are encouraged.

BELONGING

Share a story/experience when you felt a strong sense of belonging in Santa Fe?
Share a story/experience when you felt the opposite of belonging in Santa Fe? Where and when, for example, did you feel excluded?

DATA COLLECTION AND ANALYSIS*

Please see the "Methods" section of this report for an introduction to the following information.*

Data Collection

Meetings, Engagement, and Outreach

A dedicated log was maintained throughout the project in order to track activities, events, meetings, conversations, emails, and phone calls. By the end of the project the log had 314 entries. Each entry included the date, description, participants (names and/or task-based group), number of people involved or reached, primary affiliation(s) of attendees, CHART leadership and administration involved, location, and topic.

Internal meetings included: evaluation, planning for events, facilitator training sessions, team meetings (including mentoring with high school interns), survey development, and regular meetings with the City of Santa Fe's Cultural Affairs Department.

Engagement data tracked registration and participation for each activity and event hosted by CHART (e.g., Opening Ceremony, Implicit Bias Trainings, Teen Dialogues, Cultural History Series, Art Activations, and Public Dialogue events), CHART participation events and activities hosted by other groups such as Juneteenth and Indigenous Ways Festival, and other information gathering and coordination meetings. Additional engagement data included: CHART in the media (i.e., SF New Mexico, Albuquerque Journal), views of CHART recordings available on YouTube from the Cultural History Series (various dates) and short films (April 28, 2022), one-on-one interviews, and evaluation forms completed by participants for each event and activity. [1]

Outreach data focused on e-blasts, newsletters, email, snail mail, phone calls.

Website and Social Media

Additional engagement and outreach data were gathered based on website traffic and social media stats. Website metrics collected included: site sessions, unique visitors, average session duration, and most visited pages. Social media statistics include post reach, engagement, and followers.

Events and Activities

For every activity and event, CHART tracked attendance and documented the engagement with photos and video. For events in which CHART requested pre-registration or registration at the door, it collected documentation of the event itself, participants' feedback and evaluations, and facilitators' reflections. Cultural History Talks/Presentations were recorded and made available on CHART's YouTube channel as were short films created about several events. Extensive notes were taken at public dialogues as well as dialogues hosted by organizations and  listening sessions. Close to 120 pages of notes from twenty-eight events were produced and became part of the binders provided to the Community Solutions Table.

Participant Feedback

During the project, participant feedback was collected in a wide variety of ways depending on the kind of engagement activity. For CHART events in which participants pre-registered or provided contact information at the doors of public events, the project utilized an online Wufoo form. After these events, CHART emailed those who had registered and sent a link. At art activations, CHART relied on rapid response mechanisms that were easy to complete when walking around or leaving an event. CHART also gathered 737 comments from 86 unique individuals regarding the 85 proposals submitted for its "Monument Dreams and Conversations" program, one of the main art activations undertaken during the project.[2]  At a film and public dialogue event in partnership with Littleglobe, Inc, CHART invited participants to write down their reactions or reflections on Post-it notes which then became prompts for the post-film small group dialogues. Pictures below show some of the responses.

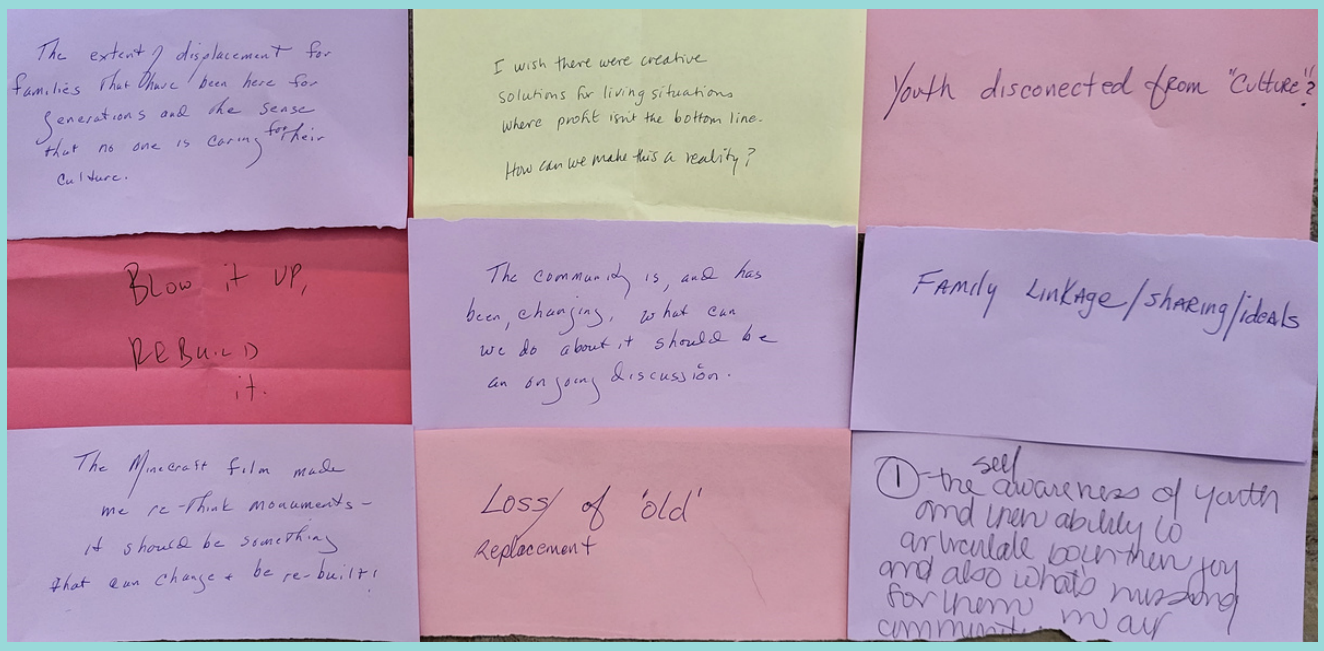

CHART also collected and stored participant feedback comments from calls and email communications and evaluation forms were sent to city staff and Governing Body members who attended implicit bias training. All became part of the large body of data collected during the project and informed activities going forward.

The evaluation forms submitted by those who pre-registered or registered at some events provide a subset of evaluation data that indicate participants' views about the quality and importance of the activity. After each of these events attendees were sent a link to a 15-item evaluation form in the 24 hours after the event.[3] Participants were asked what they learned, how important it was to have such activities in Santa Fe, if they planned to share what they learned with others, and if they would participate in another, similar event. Participants were also asked what more they would like to learn about and if there was anything else they'd like to share with CHART. Demographic information was requested, as well. For these particular events, the table below presents the proportion of participants who submitted evaluation forms:

| Event | Number of Participants | Response rate |
|---|---|---|
| January Public Dialogue | 69 | 65% |
| February Public Dialogue | 42 | 71% |
| March Public Dialogue | 29 | 55% |
| Cultural History Series Event 1 | 89 | 44% |
| Cultural History Series Event 2 | 39 | 46% |
| Cultural History Series Event 3 | 49 | 22%* |

*The discrepancy, here, may have to do with the fact that the third event was in person while the previous were online via Zoom. Before participants left Zoom events they received a link to the evaluation form, encouraging them to reply immediately while already online. With an in-person event, participants physically left the event and were emailed a link later. A much higher response rate occurred when participants were immediately able to access the online form to respond.

Evaluation forms from city staff and Governing Body members who attended the implicit bias trainings also provided a subset of evaluation data for the project. Attendees were asked to complete a 13-item evaluation form about their experiences. A total of 14 evaluation forms were submitted.

Surveys 1 and 2

As noted in the section on Iterative Development, Survey 1 was comprised of three open-ended questions: one on history, one on relationships, and one looking to the future. Between September and December 2021, 497 responses were received. Recommendations were extracted and included in the material provided to the Community Solutions Table for consideration.

Survey 2 was designed to gather quantitative information on important questions and topics raised by Santa Fe residents in CHART events and activities as well as from Survey 1 responses. Thirty-nine items were organized into 6 sections: culture, history, art, reconciliation, truth, and demographics. The survey was fielded during May and June of 2022. A total of 564 responses were received as of June 14, 2022. Results were included in the Community Solutions Table binders.

One-on-One Interviews

Finally, 13 one-on-one one interviews were conducted in May 2022 by CHART team members. These asked many of the same questions used in the January, February and March public dialogue sessions. CHART sought out interviewees from demographic groups that had not participated in large numbers at other dialogues, including Santa Feans ages 20-29, immigrants from Mexico and Latin America, and Indigenous, Black, and Asian American residents. Interviewers asked 7 open-ended questions. The data from these interviews is also part of the large body of information collected by the CHART project and assisted in the formation of questions for Survey 2.

Data Analysis

CHART analyzed data collected in several ways depending on the type of data and how it was going to be used. Two primary types of data were collected: open-ended, qualitative data and close-ended quantitative data. Data analysis was conducted for the purposes of project planning and reporting.

Quantitative data were collected through outreach and engagement logs, on evaluation forms, and through Survey 2. Simple frequencies were calculated using Excel 2016 for Mac and SurveyMonkey. Data were displayed using barcharts. Demographic data, where collected, was also analyzed to determine the ages, locations, and later race/ethnicity of participants. This information was used to inform outreach and reporting.

Qualitative data from Survey 1 was analyzed using several strategies appropriate to qualitative methods. A small analysis group was formed early on to identify recommendations as well as emergent themes, issues, claims, and concerns. Data was coded through a combination of project-related code and those that arose from the data themselves. For instance, project-related codes included cultural symbols such as the Obelisk, monuments, and statues as well as values such as respect, open-mindedness, justice, and pride. Coding was conducted in Dedoose 9.0, a qualitative analysis platform (www.dedoose.com) and Excel 2016 for Mac. Open coding was enhanced through word searches that were also coded. Data were sorted and analyzed by code to get a sense of convergence and divergence of experience and opinion. More detail on the coding for Survey 1 can be found in Appendix F.

Participation in Surveys

Survey 1 had 484 respondents, and Survey 2 had 593. The data across surveys were not aggregated because the responses were anonymous and there was no reliable way to determine if any particular individual completed one or both surveys.

Demographics

As noted earlier in this report, demographic information was collected from CHART participants where it was feasible and where it was unlikely to deter participation. Those opportunities were limited to CHART's 2 anonymous surveys, one fielded the third quarter of 2021 and the second one in May-June, 2022. Age and zip code were collected from survey respondents. Race/ethnicity information, not collected as part of Survey 1, was added to subsequent data collection for survey 2.

Race/ethnicity data collected for the purposes of tracking and ultimately addressing disparities in various sectors such as health and education. However, well-known data quality issues exist including misclassification and incompleteness. According to Kader et al. (2022), there are privacy concerns related to disaggregating results, especially for small populations.[4] For example, there are fears that findings can be used to target specific populations and can lead to willful misinterpretation to support stereotyping and discrimination. Additional issues are posed when limiting response options, and some individuals may not respond because they feel excluded if the race/ethnicity they identify with is not listed or when none of the responses apply.

By age

The bar chart below shows participation in the first and second survey by age. As the chart shows, the largest groups of participants for both surveys were between 60-69 and 70-79. These respondents accounted for 19.2% and 23.3% respectively of Survey 1 respondents and 20.2% and 20.6% of Survey 2 respondents. Although the age demographics skew older, this is consistent with Santa Fe's population overall based on the ACS-2019.[5] The chart below an uptick of respondents from individuals 30-69 compared to the first survey. There was also a decline in participation of people under 30.

By zip code

The figure below disaggregates survey respondents by zip code. All in all, the distribution of survey respondents from Survey 1 to Survey 2 did not change substantively, staying within the 5% range from Survey 1.

Although some residents from Santa Fe County completed one or both surveys, their numbers were few. For survey 1, .6% were from 87594 and .2% each from 87592, 87574, 87504, 87567, 87401, 87535, and 87591. For survey 2, .8% were from 87010; .3% from 87502, 87504, and 87056; and 2% from 87574, 87567, and 87503.

By Race/ethnicity

As noted above, originally, CHART did not gather this data to respect an individual's privacy and to avoid the possibility that people would find such questions intrusive. Upon request of several Santa Fe Governing Body members, CHART added a question to Survey 2 asking respondents how they identified. Response options included: Asian or Pacific Islander, Black or African American, Hispanic or Latino, Native American or Alaska Native, White or Caucasian, and Multiracial. Respondents could check as many boxes as they felt applied to them. The figure below summarizes the results.

Q38

Which of the following best describes you? (Check all that apply)

Answered: 589 Skipped: 50

| ANSWER CHOICES | RESPONSES |
|---|---|
| Asian or Pacific Islander | 2.04% |
| Black or African American | 2.55% |
| Hispanic or Latino | 33.62% |
| Native American or Alaskan Native | 7.47% |
| White or Caucasian | 59.93% |
| Multiracial or Biracial | 8.15% |
| A race/ethnicity not listed here | 5.43% |
| Total Respondents: 589 | |

Respondents could “Check all that apply,” and filtered results show that 60% of those who self-identify as Black or African American checked more than one box; 57% of those who self-identify as Native American or Pacific Islander checked more than one box; 50% of those who self-identify as Asian or Pacific Islander checked more than one box; and 31% of respondents who self-describe as “Hispanic/Latino” checked more than one box.

In the “Culture” and “History” sections, earlier in this report, we discuss the remarkably complex nature of the current Santa Fe community. It is why tracking demographics, using exclusive categories, is problematic.

Those who identify as White or Caucasian comprised just under 60% of respondents for Survey 2 followed by 34% who identified as Hispanic or Latino. Unfortunately, it is not possible to compare these proportions to those in the American Community Survey (ACS-2019) because Hispanic is written as a separate question in the Census. The ACS-2019 reported that 54.4% of Santa Fe residents responded that they were Hispanic, non-white, and 45.5% were white, non-Hispanic.[6]

Individuals identifying as Native American or Alaska Native made up 7.6% of Survey 2 respondents, more than 2 times as many as are reported in ACS-2019 (7.6 vs 3.2% respectively).

ONE-ON-ONE CONVERSATIONS (1 hour)

1:50 PM: VALERIE - Tribute to Tomas

VALERIE: Greet people again and ask people to please move to their designated rooms to get started. Room assignments will be in their programs.

In breakout rooms:
TEAM: Adjust chairs in concentric circles to match actual number of attendees in the room.

Make sure each attendee has a program and ask attendees to take a chair in the concentric circles, facing one other chair. Mention that anyone with limited mobility is encouraged to sit in the inner circle. Programs are important and will help with anyone who is hard of hearing and will help participants who are nervous about experiential/unfolding meetings where there is not a traditional structure.

NOTE: those in the "OUTSIDE" circle will shift from chair to chair. Those in the inner circle will stay put.

Once everyone is seated, CHART team members should sit down elsewhere in the room. From this point on, the primary facilitator will guide people through the prompts.

TEAM MEMBERS: If you are not facilitating the one-on-one conversations, your primary role during the first hour of the event is to assist the primary facilitator and participants in any way they need it. Help people in the OUTER circle to shift chairs to the right (especially in the first round as they're learning how to do this). Unobtrusively, listen to conversations for anything that could go wrong. Serve as gentle, ever-present assistants. At the same time, please sit rather than "standing over" the proceedings. Watch for things like the following:

- If anyone needs help settling in a chair, please assist.
- If someone looks confused or upset, please go to them, crouch down, and quietly ask if they need assistance.
- If anyone looks uncomfortable or there is conflict, go to the pair and mediate.
- If someone gets up and needs to go to the restroom while conversation is happening, it would be okay to keep their chair warm and engage with their partner while the other person is away.
- If you notice that anyone seems to be in medical distress, let the facilitator know right away.
- In other ways, assist with the smooth unfolding of activities.

JENICE IN KEARNY AND VALERIE IN O'KEEFFE:

Welcome participants and assist them with getting seated. Again, anyone with limited mobility or in a wheelchair should be seated in the INNER circle. Make sure participants are in the right room. Group assignments are in the program.

PRIMARY FACILITATOR (in each room) gives clear instructions:

- Welcome everyone warmly. Introduce yourself. Introduce the CHART team members in the room.
- Share a Land Acknowledgement: "Artful Life wishes to acknowledge that its project, CHART Santa Fe, takes place in locations on the unceded traditional lands of the Tewa people, O'gah'poh geh Owingeh (White Shell Water Place). We also acknowledge the surrounding landscapes of Pueblo, Apache and Navajo communities, whose people continue to maintain vital connections to this place. Artful Life is dedicated to maintaining respectful and mutually beneficial relationships with these communities";
- Housekeeping - point out location of restrooms, beverages and snacks, etc.
- Provide an overview of the session - CHART is dedicated to community-building through sharing our stories, perspectives, and values. More than addressing controversies about monuments and statues, CHART is also dedicated to truth, healing, and reconciliation for the community of Santa Fe.
- Today, you are going to meet many people in this room and share your experiences. This first hour is a kind of "round-robin." We hope this will be both interesting and very meaningful. We will guide you through the transitions.
- In your pairs, you will have four minutes - 2 minutes per person - to respond to the question/prompt. Please allow your partner two minutes to speak and share, and he/she/they will allow you two minutes as well. We will alert you when 2 minutes have passed so you can switch to your partner.
- Your program includes the questions for additional support.
- After each round, those in the OUTER circle will stand up and move to the chair to the RIGHT and then you will have time with a different partner. Don't worry, we have many CHART team members here to assist.
- Please be aware that there will be many conversations taking place at once to shift your chairs closer or further away from your partners to be able to hear each other. If you cannot hear your partner, please let them know to speak up a little.
- A few important GROUND RULES: while your partner is speaking, please refrain from interrupting. Your job is to listen during your partner's two minutes, and vice versa. If there's time left before shifting chairs, feel free to respond and ask questions of each other, But first, really listen to what your partner has to say.

- Please be aware that comments that are accusatory or offensive work against the goal of today's session which is making meaningful connections with each other. Honesty is encouraged; hostility is not. If any one of you feels uncomfortable during your conversation with another person, please walk away into the next room and we will make sure that a team member speaks to you privately.

OK, let's get started with the first prompt:

1. Introduce yourself to your partner and share a story that reveals something important about you, your family, or your background. (2 minutes each). After two minutes, ask pairs to switch roles.

Those in the OUTSIDE circle move one chair to the right.

Do the above THREE times.

2. Introduce yourself and share a story/experience when you felt a strong sense of belonging in Santa Fe. Where and when did this happen to you? What happened? (2 minutes each) With the same partner, share a story/experience when you felt the opposite of belonging in Santa Fe? Where and when, for example, did you feel excluded or marginalized? (2 minutes each).

Those in the OUTSIDE circle move one chair to the right.

Do the above TWO times.

3. Introduce yourself to your new partner. Now, share ideas about how to nurture connections between people from different backgrounds in Santa Fe. How can we build stronger relationships with our fellow Santa Feans? (3 minutes each)

Those in the OUTSIDE circle move one chair to the right.

Do the above TWO times.

PRIMARY FACILITATOR - thank everybody for this part of the event and let them know we'll take a break for 15 minutes. Let participants know there are flip chart papers on the walls in the middle room and we ask them to share their ideas for nurturing connections and building community on these sheets while enjoying refreshments.

15 MINUTE BREAK with refreshments

TWO TEAM MEMBERS: during the break, meet and greet the participants and encourage them to share ideas for community-building on the flip chart sheets.

ADDITIONAL TEAM MEMBERS: in your assigned room (Kearny or O'Keeffe) shift chairs so there are EIGHT CHAIRS at each table. Shift tables as far apart as possible to help with noise during the busy second part of the session.

AFTER 15 MINUTES: ask people to go back to the rooms they started in and look for their table number on their program. This will tell them where to go.

SMALL GROUP DIALOGUE (40-45 minutes or until 4 pm)

SMALL GROUP FACILITATORS: Lead a thoughtfully-facilitated open discussion in groups of 6. Notetaker will take notes. If there is no notetaker, audio record your small group session. Facilitator should make sure that each person gets an opportunity to speak for about the same time but there is no strict format. Watch the time.

NOTE: For groups without notetakers, please record the small group discussion.

QUESTIONS/PROMPTS FOR DISCUSSION

(Times are approximate)

1. Facilitator- introduce yourself and any notetaker or observer. Record session if no notetaker is present with clarification to attendees that records are only used to document session and will never be shared publicly.
2. Start with going around the table with introductions. Names are enough.
3. If you have to record your group (there is no notetaker), let the group know that the recording is used only to create notes and will never be shared publicly. Notes from the session will be part of the large body of information that will INFORM recommendations to the governing body.
4. Encourage participants to be both honest and respectful.
5. Let people know that you will facilitate the discussion and that your job is to make sure everyone gets to speak for about the same amount of time. Encourage people to keep their comments to 1-2 minutes at a time and be aware of balancing the amount of time everyone gets to speak. (#1-#5 10 minutes)
6. First question: what did you hear your fellow Santa Feans say about feelings of belonging and not belonging and what did this make you feel and think about? (15 minutes). If you need to, emphasize that this is about reflecting back to others what you heard.
7. Second question: what seems to be ENCOURAGING a sense of belonging in Santa Fe, and what is PREVENTING us from being a community of belonging? (15 minutes)

CHECK TIME - OUR GOAL IS TO FINISH AS CLOSE TO 4 PM AS POSSIBLE

8. Third question: What kinds of concrete things can we do to BUILD STRONGER RELATIONSHIPS between Santa Feans? (10 minutes)
9. Final question: What will you take away from today's event? (15 minutes)

I want to offer deep appreciation to CHART facilitators Simesha McEachern, Peter Nguyen, and Kenneth Pin for working with me in CHART's Qualitative Analysis Group. No small task to make sense of close to 300 pages of text and 484 responses. Your work and insights have been invaluable. Respect.

Introduction [2]
One of the first activities CHART conducted was fielding Survey 1 in English and in Spanish. The survey was comprised of three open-ended questions—one about history, one about the present, and one looking to the future. Responses were collected from September 8-December 31, 2021. A total of 497 responses were submitted, and 484 were retained for analysis. [3]

It's worthwhile revisiting what was happening in the United States and the world in the fall of 2021 and its lead up. The COVID pandemic continued to shutter businesses and schools after a year and a half. In person gatherings were not allowed under New Mexico public health orders, and a fraught mayoral race was gearing up for November's vote. The previous year, the Black Lives Matter movement had significant energy, crystalizing anger and frustration at systemic inequities that the pandemic had laid bare. Many statues and memorials, including Soldier's Monument (the Obelisk), were damaged and in some cases, removed, as they signified to many people tributes to violence and white supremacy. This is the context into which CHART launched its first survey. The themes that emerged in analyzing the survey results reflect this context and are best interpreted with this in mind.

Description of Survey and Data Collection
CHART's first survey had three open-ended questions: (1) How can we come to a fuller understanding of the history of Santa Fe? (2) How can we build healthier relationships while acknowledging our differences? and (3) How can we become good ancestors to our children, their children, and generations to come?

Responses were mostly gathered online through the Wufoo platform. CHART and the external evaluator, Alexis Kaminsky, assessed the demographic make-up of respondents over time to ensure proportional representation from city and county zip codes and across all age groups. The project developed a multipronged outreach effort to target residents who were under-represented in responses collected the first few months that the survey was open. Additional surveys were collected at CHART's Opening Event, Pojoaque Valley High School, Capital High School, El Camino Real Academy, Santa Fe Place Mall, El Museo Cultural de Santa Fe, Café Castro, Angel's Coffee House, and Children's Museum.

Data Analysis

Survey results were analyzed using several strategies appropriate to qualitative methods. First, a small group of CHART facilitators worked with Kaminsky to identify themes and topics in the responses and conduct preliminary data coding in Excel 2016 for Mac and Google Sheets. The team met every few weeks to review coding and to work through differences as part of building a strong, consistently applied coding system.

Codes used to tag and organize the data came from CHART's activities and goals as well as those that emerged from the data. For example, project–related codes included cultural symbols such as statues, memorials, and monuments and values (i.e., respect, honor, pride, compassion). Other codes were not identified beforehand but emerged from multiple readings of survey responses and identification of recurrent themes and topics. For instance, equity and belonging were two themes that emerged as important. Also important were the concepts of inclusion, difference, and sharedness or what is held in common. The emergent themes in particular, reflect the tenor and topics of the times.

Kaminsky transferred coding done in Excel to Dedoose (www.dedoose.com), a web-based qualitative data analysis platform, to facilitate analysis. Further coding was conducted via word searches. For instance, as part of identifying shared values, the Qualitative Analysis Group read through all of the survey responses, making note of values embedded in them. After meeting to discuss values that seemed to be most common, Kaminsky ran word searches in Dedoose to ensure thoroughness. Values on which word searches were conducted included: compassion, honor, pride, respect, tolerance, truth-telling, empathy, fairness, integrity, honesty, trust, open-mindedness, and tradition. Respect surfaced as the most shared value across the full set of responses and was brought up by 26% of Survey 1 respondents. The second and third most shared values were related to "tradition" (17% of respondents) and open-mindedness (8% of respondents). The table on the next page lists the codes used to analyze Survey 1 along with descriptions of what each code entailed:

| Table 1: Analysis Code and Descriptors | |
| Code | Description |
| Inclusivity | Has to do with fuller history, bringing in multiple perspectives and points of view, especially those of native peoples. Inclusiveness is also about complexity of relationships, both good and bad (as opposed to more mythologized relations where everyone from every group always got along). Also relates culture insofar as Santa Fe is more than tricultural. It is multicultural. Finally, inclusivity encompasses those that respondents felt should be involved in decisions about public art and monuments.Inclusivity brings challenges as well, particularly for those who have been dominant such as long-time Spanish families because they have to move over to make room for others. Inclusivity is brought up by 50% of Survey 1 respondents. |
| Education and Learning | Has to do with how to get to a fuller history of Santa Fe and how to be good ancestors. The code includes venues for learning, both formal K-16 as well as informal public dialogues, museums, libraries, and community organizations. Part of education and learning is addressing misconceptions from partial histories and working through what is and is not reliable information. Education and learning are brought up by 43% of Survey 1 respondents. |
| Dialogue and Listening | Has to do with building stronger relationships. Essential here is the attitude that one brings to engagement such as openness, honesty, and respect. Recommendations included facilitated dialogues, listening circles, and human library. More than talking, people need to listen. 33% of Survey 1 respondents mentioned dialogue and listening in their answers. |

|---|---|
| Equity | Has to do with how resources are allocated across Santa Fe, economic disparities, wage stagnation, housing, gentrification, and access to resources. Equity is also raised in relation to representation in public art and in acknowledgement that Santa Fe's statues and monuments do not reflect the contributions of many peoples that make up the community in the past and currently, particularly those first inhabitants. White privilege, colonialism, and racism all factor into inequities and perpetuating them. Equity is brought up by 45% of survey respondents. |
| Cultural Symbols | Includes terms such as: obelisk, monuments, statues, plaques, and memorials. Also coded here are comments about Soldier's Monument, what happened to it, and what should happen now. 28% of Survey 1 respondents mentioned cultural symbols. 12% of these comments related to Soldier’s Monument. |
| Environ-ment | Has to do with water, land, and climate change and is brought up mostly in relation to being good ancestors. It includes equity, property, and open space as well as the idea that environment is inextricable from Santa Fe culture and history, particularly in terms of colonialism and stolen lands. Environment is raised by 22% of Survey 1 respondents. |
| Belonging | Has to do with assumptions about who is "Santa Fean" and who is not, and correspondingly, who has a right to speak about what should happen in the city and county. Language related to belonging is often framed around who does not belong (i.e., "outsiders," "out of towners," "transplants," and "YOU") and implied in phrases about Santa Fe bonifides (e.g., "400 years). Belonging is brought up 19% of respondents. |

| Code | Description |
|---|---|
| Values | Encompasses the range of values stated implicitly and explicitly throughout Survey 1 responses. Value terms searched for included: courage, humility, tolerance, respect, open-mindedness, empathy, compassion, honesty, truth-telling, pride, tradition, heritage, cooperation, fairness, justice, and responsibility. |
| Respect | This value was most shared across the responses received. Respect was brought up by 21% of Survey 1 respondents. |
| Recom-menda-tions | Has to do with actionable suggestions from Survey 1 participants. These were extracted from Survey 1 data and provided to the Community Solutions Table for consideration. |
| "Angry" | Includes responses that read as condemnations and grievances. Take 3 primary forms: people from Spanish heritage who say that they are being "erased," fury about what happened to the Obelisk that specifically implicates the Mayor and City Councilors, and fury at white privilege and racism. Angry came up in about 14% of the responses received for Survey 1. |

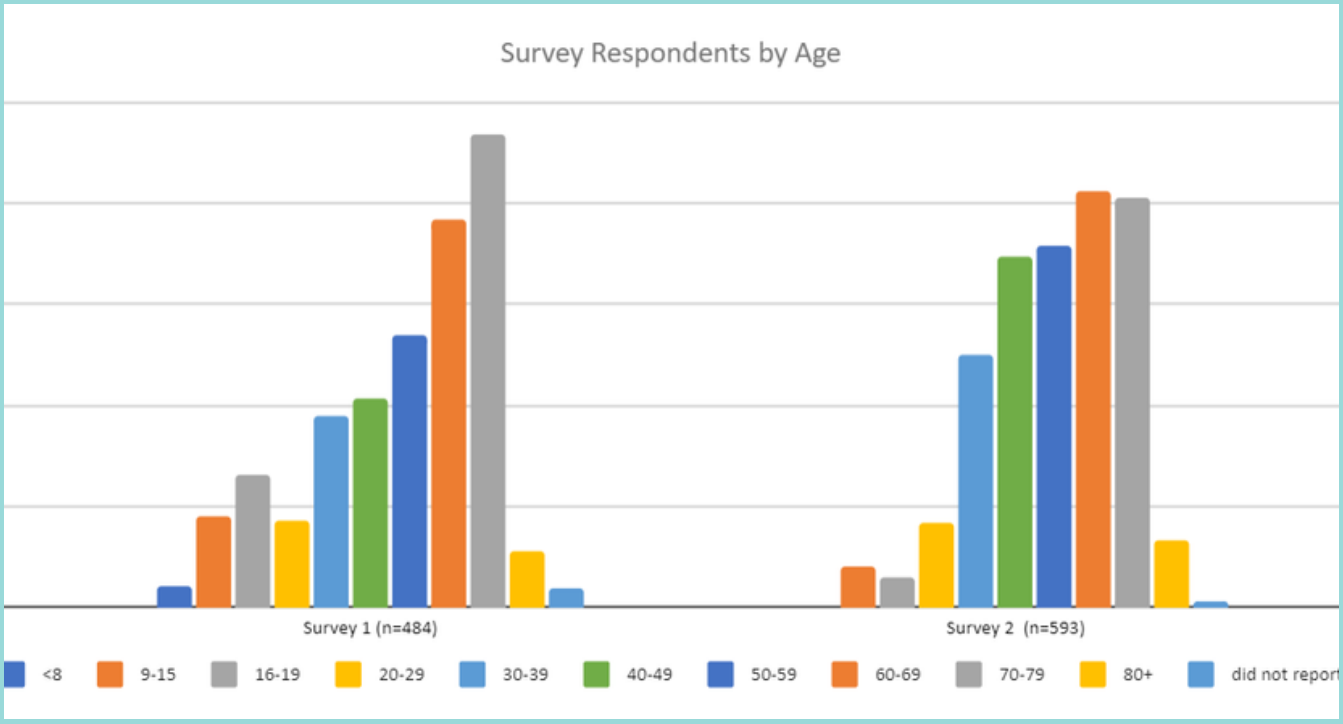

Data were sorted and extracted by code to examine similarities and differences across responses. For example, responses coded under “obelisk” included demands to restore it in toto, restore with more complete interpretative signage, and recommendations for replacing it. Responses coded under “equity” related to more inclusive representation in statues and monuments, the need for more equitable investment across all Santa Fe neighborhoods, and acknowledgement of significant disparities of wealth and access in the city.

Finally, to get a sense of the prevalence of various themes across the 484 responses received, code presence tables were generated in Dedoose. These tables were used to calculate the number of respondents making comments related to each theme. The number of responses per theme were then divided by 484 to determine the proportion of respondents making such comments.[4]

Results

Survey 1 Respondents

CHART gathered age and zip code information from individuals who answered Survey 1.[5] This information was collected to see who was responding to the survey and who was not and adjusted outreach efforts to reach people from groups not well represented. Figures1 below compares the ages of Survey 1 respondents to Santa Fe residents overall based on data collected for the American Community Survey 2019. [6]

As Figure 1 shows, Santa Fe residents who responded to CHART's first survey were somewhat older than Santa Feans overall. That said, individuals from every age range submitted some comments to Survey 1.

Figure 2 below shows the proportion of responses for each of the Santa Fe zip codes listed. Residents in 87505 submitted the most surveys (28%), those in 87507 second most (25%), and 87501 third most (20%). Less than .5% of surveys came from 87504, 87592, 87574, 87567, 87401, 87535, and 87591. Five percent of surveys did not list zip codes.

The remainder of this section reports the findings from the analysis process described above. It focuses on sharing the range of responses made by 484 individuals and relies heavily on direct comments made by Survey 1 respondents.[7]

How can we come to a fuller understanding of the history of Santa Fe?

Make History More Inclusive

By far, the most frequent response to coming to a fuller understanding of Santa Fe's history is what is conveyed to be more inclusive. In the context of a fuller history, more inclusive referred to: (1) bringing in various perspectives and peoples that have been in the region over centuries and eons, particularly those that have been overlooked or inadequately presented; (2) moving beyond the tricultural myth; and (3) embracing the complexity of relationships that made Santa Fe.

Capturing the sentiment of many respondents, one person wrote, "History must be told from many different voices, experiences, and perspectives. With each sharing, more nuance and truth is revealed" (ID426). Many respondents emphasized foregrounding Pueblo tribes and their ancestors as the original inhabitants of the area as illustrated in the following quotes:

> “I believe for years many people have forgotten the first people that lived here and inhabit these lands. I think many pueblos around Santa Fe don't feel much recognized or have been forgotten in general. The pueblo people once lived and considered Santa Fe sacred before Spanish conquest. I'm from a near by pueblo and a Native American. I do understand history can't be rewritten nor can it be erase[d]. I also understand there is both sides of the blood shed between Natives and Spanish colonizers. I do believe we need to co exist and work with each other to help grow our communities and cities.” (ID102)

> “Center indigenous voices in this work, as well as the voices of people of historically erased cultures & communities.” (ID233)

> “Listen to indigenous voices. Do it often.” (ID122)

> “We also very much need to have a sense of the Indian Pueblo people who were here before Europeans arrived. Then, we need a sense of how Santa Fe has grown, developed, and morphed since the time of the city's founding.” (ID124)

> “Include much more of the Native American perspective when teaching New Mexico history.” (ID146)

In addition to more emphasis and attention given to the area’s native peoples, a number of respondents stated that Santa Fe’s history was broader than the three cultures that New Mexico is usually associated with (Native American, Hispanic, Anglo) and should reflect that.

> “Perspectives solicited should expand beyond the triad of cultures that typically is presented as the face of New Mexico—Native American, Spanish, and Anglo.” (ID135)

> “I think it is important that we expand the history of Santa Fe beyond the story of the conquistadors to highlight the stories of the indigenous populations and lesser known communities such as the stories of African American, Jewish and Middle Eastern Populations.” (ID22)

> “Ensure there is acknowledgement and annual celebration of the different cultures in Santa Fe. The primary are of course, Anglo, Hispanic and First Nations. But others are here also; Islam, Sikhism, Buddhist, etc.” (ID107)

> “Listen…to the stories of as many individuals from as many groups (racial, cultural, age diverse, religious, economic, social, unhoused, sexually-diverse, differently abled, etc.).” (ID238)

> “Reading as much history as possible from as many divergent sources, not just the official tourist info. Learn about the Indigenous people who were first here, Spanish colonial settlers, Mexicano people and then the Anglo traders, hunters, etc. Ancient geological history is important.” (ID289)

As the foregoing quotes illustrate, the fuller history envisioned by many people who responded to CHART’s first survey should include narratives of different races and ethnicities that have settled in the area. Additionally, a fuller history includes perspectives of various faith traditions, LGBTQ+, all age groups, different economic strata, and abilities. A common thread was that people needed to be the authors of their own cultural histories rather than others writing about them. This sentiment is well captured in the following quote from a Survey 1 respondent: “Each constituent group needs to tell the stories from their own perspective.” (ID76).

Many respondents stated that an inclusive, fuller history would show the complexities that exist, the good and the bad of different groups as well as what is held in common and what is distinct as illustrated below:

> “Include the good, bad and ugly aspects so we can learn that we can get through this and can live together.” (ID19)

> “Teach all of it. The pretty and the not so pretty - be honest about all of it.” (ID302)

Summing the reparative value of a more inclusive history, one respondent wrote,

> “It is important not to limit our knowledge to a simplified version…whether a glorification understanding or a knee-jerk condemnation of our repressive past and/or present. We must learn when we have come together as peoples as well as how we have clashed. One of the ways I suggest that adults and high school students could reach a fuller understanding is by deliberately seeking out the point of view of others. A good place to start is the 2010 book White Shell Water Place, An Anthology of Native American Reflections on the 400th Anniversary of the Founding of Santa Fe, New Mexico. Nearly all of the authors are thoughtful in their writing and do back their statements with historical documents as well as tribal histories. It is very clear that there is no one Native American perspective.

> Since various Native American tribes had very different interactions with the Spanish colonizers, Mexican troops, and the American military their perspectives do differ. Greg Cajete [8], about 71, of Santa Clara Pueblo writes that he was not taught an appropriate history of New Mexico including the history of his own pueblo until he went to college. Now he emphasizes the tragic and oppressed conditions as well as the periods of cooperation where his people supported the colonizers against the raiding, nomadic Indians. This is all part of the history of Santa Fe." (ID327)

Although many respondents wrote affirming the value of a more inclusive, fuller history of Santa Fe, there were some residents who argued that Santa Fe's history was already documented. The following quotes reflect the general tenor of these types of responses:

> "Learn about it, read about it, study the last 400 years' worth of history regarding acequias, land grants, talk to our Spanish elders in small communities like Canada de Los Alamos, Canjilon and Mora to see what customs are still alive and important." (ID415)

> "Stop trying to rewrite history based upon todays mores. The world was a different place in the past. Don't change it. Respect it and learn from it." (ID118)

> "Not sure why you asked the question 'further understanding.' It's pretty clear the understanding of the culture of Santa Fe, the Hispanics the Native Americans and Anglo and other cultures have always lived in unity have always treated each other w/ respect. Attended each other's festivals ceremonies feast days, concerts, operas. And we've always been in [awe] of the cultural diversity and curiosity. And it's unique beautiful, physically and spiritually. We have always taking care of each other now it's been severed and the questions should be asked why is there a wedge drawn between cultures help me understand what is the point what is your objective. When you first heard of Santa Fe you are probably enticed aroused by its cultural diversity and its deep rooted history and now you want it to be a toy that you could turn on and off. You are a part of its history. Embrace it don't destroy it. It's not a game to win its deep rooted history that is so unique, one should hold up their head high when they say they are from Santa Fe. And not say I moved to Santa Fe to change it to what I feel it's history should be. You can't change the course of the rio grande] and you can't change history." (ID269)

> “To me this question alone, ‘How can we come to a fuller understanding of the history of Santa Fe?’ is a loaded one. We KNOW the history of Santa Fe, why are we trying to change it in a way that pits Spanish against Natives? It was never this way growing up. We all celebrated our traditions peacefully amongst one and other.” (ID280)

Common across comments such as those above is a nostalgia for what is remembered as pastoral, peaceful, and uncomplicated. Perhaps from a particular vantage point, these memories are true. Yet from other perspectives, Santa Fe’s history is not so kumbaya.

Cultural Symbols

Important in communicating history are a city’s cultural symbols, and respondents’ answers to Survey 1 reflect this. Cultural symbols include memorials like the Obelisk, public art in its various forms, vernacular architecture, community celebrations, names of streets and buildings, and natural features like the Santa Fe River. These symbols make evident what is important and valued in the community. They also imply who is not so important and valued by what is absent.

The Obelisk

Given the impetus for the resolution that gave rise to CHART was the damage and removal of Soldiers’ Monument, it is surprising that only 12% of respondents (58 of 484) brought it up in their survey responses.[9] Comments about the Obelisk clustered into three areas: (1) what the Obelisk means to different people in Santa Fe; (2) concerns about what happened to the obelisk—both the defacement and its removal; and (3) what should happen with it now.

The Obelisk means different things to different people based on the responses to Survey 1. The quotes below illustrate the range of meanings associated with it:

> “It seems with the removal of the obelisk and Don Diego statues, that we are moving towards only recognizing one side of our city’s history. The Fiestas celebration is important to many locals and a city with deep historical roots in the Spanish culture. I worry that may soon change as well. Restore the statutes, continue the celebration and acknowledge our history.” (ID10)

> “By re-building the obelisk to honor civil war solders and bring Santa Fe back to where it was before out of towners destroyed our plaza.” (ID200, in response to Healthier Relations)

> “With the destruction of the Plaza, it is important to construct a symbol recognizing the cognitive and affective factors that were destroyed. Two of my great-great grandfathers are New Mexico Civil War Veterans. I am so disappointed with the dishonoring of my Hispanic and Anglo great great grandfathers fighting for equal opportunity in New Mexico and the United States.” (ID223, in response to Healthier Relations)

> “Somehow the ugly, divisive obelisk has become a dividing line. The obelisk had no artistic or cultural merit. What is important about the obelisk is the base which used to contain the word savages until someone in the seventies chipped the word out in the middle of the day and no one saw a thing. That is very Santa Fe. I hope to see the base of the obelisk in a museum setting with its cultural context on display.” (ID218)

> “Any cultural element, like a monument, festival, or celebration that allows an oppressive act to be memorialized--like the obelisk or the Entrada--should be banned.” (ID110)

> “Stop pretending that the obelisk was anything except a monument to white supremacy. Stop pretending that Fiesta is not also a celebration of white supremacy in the guise of celebrating Spanish Culture. Find a different way to celebrate what is beautiful about that culture rather than what is hate filled. This is stolen land.” (ID221, in response to Healthier Relations)

> “I also think that far too much has been made of the Obelisk issue, when we have far greater social problems that need solutions in Santa Fe. For example, there are still unemployed residents who need help with food, rent and utilities. And there are serious pollution issues on the Southside, where environmental racism is alive and well.” (ID124, in response to Healthier Relations)

Comments from Survey 1 respondents who wrote about what happened to the Obelisk—both the damage done to it and its removal—converged around a couple of themes: (a) the damage and subsequent removal were done by “outsiders,” (b) those that did the damage should be held accountable, and (c) removal of the damaged obelisk was done without community input and was a bad decision.  A subset of people who responded along these lines were highly critical of the Mayor and the City Council and skeptical about CHART.  The following survey responses are illustrative of these themes:

“We can come to a fuller understanding of the history of Santa Fe by holding criminals who destroy public property accountable in a court of law. Without accountability it will be difficult to understand a four hundred year history of building mutual respect for each other even when we have disagreement on the story of our history” (ID382)

“Enforce laws against those who deface and vandalize our city in a meaningful way.” (ID165)

“I THINK WE NEED TO LEARN FROM HISTORY IN THE PAST, HISTORY SHOULD NOT BE ERASED. I MAKES NO SENSE TO ALLOW ANYONE TO TAKE DOWN HISTORICAL MONUMENTS OR SURPRESS ANYONES THOUGHTS OR IDEAS.” (emphasis in original) (ID167)

“This is beyond disappointing that the Mayor of Santa Fe and Councilors had to resort to paying an organization to serve as mediators doe actions of thugs on the plaza last October.” (ID290)

“Those who have already made up their minds that the Spanish created all this divisiveness need to get better educated and understand that Santa Fe was never this divided until Mayor Webber decided to meet with 3 sisters and Red Nation and he alone decided that the statue of DeVargas and the Soldiers Monument along with the Kit Carson Obelisk needed to be removed without any input from those organizations or cultures who are affected by his actions. Unfortunately you are going to have outsiders who are chosen to moderate and facilitate during CHART and these people will not have any understanding of the History of Santa Fe. As it stands now the fix is in already for an outcome that the Mayor wants to see. You do not pay a facilitator 270K for an outcome you do not want, Sad to say CHART will only further divide this city and its people due to the outcome that everyone knows will happen and the result the mayor wanted.” (ID41)

“Through these complexities and difficulties, many generations of all races of New Mexicans have decided that they would all come together to enjoy all that Santa Fe and New Mexico have to offer. This wonderful gathering and acceptance of multi-cultural peoples has recently been destroyed by the actions of a few extremely radical groups (Three Sisters Collective (3SC), Red Nation (RN), some City Governing Body members, self-proclaimed “White-Privileged” individuals who criminally destroyed the Plaza Soldiers’ Monument, etc.).” (ID308)

Some of the quotes shared above include recommendations for what should be done with the Obelisk now. Recommendations made included: restoring the Obelisk completely, restoring it along with additional signage to better contextualize it, restoring the Obelisk in a different location (i.e., at the Military Museum), and replacing the Obelisk with something else. The Survey 1 answers below share these recommendations in respondents' own words:

> "Help the city get the monument back up in the plaza." (ID251)

> "Not by eliminating art and monuments and statues, but by leaving them and making sure they tell the entire story from all aspects. Add additional plaques or even other statues to explain all sides." (ID398)

> "I believe that there if there is a city space that acts as a museum with parts of the obelisk and other monuments that need to come down would be a historical educational contribution." (ID139)

> "A monumental water fountain to commemorate Santa Fe's charter could be perfect to replace destroyed obelisk." (ID16)

Many Places and Ways To Learn History

"Learn about it," "educate yourself," "read," "research," and "listen"—these terms came up frequently in response to the question about gaining a fuller history of Santa Fe and are illustrated in the following quotations:

> "Listen to historians, research in our libraries." (ID414)

> "I believe that we can only come to a fuller understanding by reading, speaking with, and listening to different sources. It is impossible to see this town from all perspectives, but by seeing different views it may be easier to understand different opinions." (ID458)

> "We can read about multiple versions of the same events in our history. We can read stories and histories that offer a different narrative from the ones familiar to us. We can listen to speakers and panelists who present different historical perspectives." (ID75)

Mechanisms for conveying and learning about Santa Fe's fuller history that survey respondents suggested were multiple. Numerous respondents pointed to the critical role of formal K-12 education in teaching New Mexico history and are reflected in the following quotes:

> “Through education - in the schools.” (ID26)

> “Create ‘reach out’ programs in all elementary schools to help children learn from their early years the commonalities and to respect the differences among our mingled populations.” (ID24)

> “By working with the public schools on a well-rounded approach to New Mexican history, including from the point of view of the Native American population. I know that the schools are not governed by the City, but it might be a great idea to have elders/tribe historians come from the pueblos to teach the kids about Native American culture/history. Maybe this doesn't have to be in a school setting. Maybe at the libraries. It would be nice if it was in the schools though, so all the kids could learn.” (ID202)

> “Let us approach our public schools with activities. These activities need to respond to help meet state of New Mexico Standards. Perhaps retired teachers could be recruited to help design them. The film program at the Community College could be helpful in producing videos.” (ID2)

Some respondents that wrote that a fuller history should be learned in K-12 school acknowledged that their own education fell short. For instance, one person wrote, “Education, education, education. What I remember being taught in school (oh those many, many years ago) about history was all what we all now realize was so incomplete and inaccurate.” (ID412)

A few people who responded to Survey 1 enumerated existing historical resources in Santa Fe which are included below:

> “Better education of the history of Santa Fe (and New Mexico) is key. The state has extraordinary resources to utilize our museums and historians to become open-minded and respectful ancestors.” (ID144)

> “We do offer great museums, lectures, programs, events, art, poetry, music, historical sites and more and these should continue. More appreciation of our Pueblo values and history can and should be encouraged. A Southside 'Plaza del Sur' would be a great way to allow for more understanding and experience of more varied cultures living here.” (ID59)

> “We can take on the responsibility to educate ourselves about our history. We can do this by reading local histories, attending exhibits and lectures at the NM History Museum, the Museum of Spanish Colonial Art, the Museum of Indian Art and Culture and we can sign up for a docent led tour of historic Santa Fe that are sponsored by the NM History Museum. We can attempt to understand that cultural values change over times and that things that were acceptable beliefs in historic periods may no longer be acceptable by today's cultural standards.” (ID90)

> “Invite people from the original Pueblos to talk about their experiences and the history they know. Use books written and films created by Indigenous people, Mexicans, and professors of university programs such as IAIA, UNM, NMSU, etc. who know and study history. Have study circles where you read a book, listen to a presentation, etc. and then there is a discussion with the people present to clarify points, express ideas, etc.” (IDS1)

With these few excepts, lack of awareness of existing resources to learn about Santa Fe’s history was surprisingly common. For instance, numerous individuals proposed gathering oral histories from longtime Santa Fe residents; such stories have been collected and archived through various initiatives in the past. Other recommendations for venues and/or formats to communicate a fuller history of Santa Fe that Survey 1 respondents gave included: theater, nature walks, movies, books, lecture series, listening circles, town halls, oral histories, and public art, especially statues and monuments. These recommendations were sent on the Community Solutions Table for review and consideration.

Sticky Points

Gaining a fuller understanding of history is not unproblematic. Making room for others creates perceptions of “erasure” for those who feel they are losing status. The following quote describes this challenge well.

> “One of the challenges in understanding the history is the recent accusation of erasure of the past. Certain narratives have dominated the historical and cultural landscape of Santa Fe for a long time, particularly the narrative of successful and largely peaceful conquest. As we start to open ourselves to other narratives, many of those who held the previously dominant narrative have started to repeatedly say that they feel their culture is being erased. When a history is compiled, then, it is important to first show how there are many perspectives on history and that no one ‘true’ account exists” (ID121)

When history is viewed through multiple perspectives, long-standing narratives are questioned, raising concerns about what is true and what is biased, what are facts and what are opinions. Who or what are legitimate sources of knowledge also arise. The quotes below illustrate these types of issues.

“Talk to (listen to!) local descendants of original families of Santa Fe.” (ID295)

“Read and listen to people talk about their own peoples' histories, not just the academics.” (ID411)

“We need PROPER historians to tell their stories.” (emphasis in original) (ID280)

“We need to dispel the mythology of history and speak to the nuance and multiple ancestral perspectives of the history of Santa Fe. The mythology of ‘tricultural’ peace and love is getting in the way of a fuller understanding of a complex history.” (ID157)

“Make known: many indigenous peoples often were at war, the conditions that led to the Pueblo Revolt, the Spanish reconquest of 1692 was not peaceful, the Confederate and neo-Confederate lie called the Myth of the Lost Cause. Publicize: the internment camp for Americans of Japanese descent, how Polk started the Mexican War as a land grab that led to the American takeover of the southwest.” (ID79)

“Learn about the ancestral pueblo who lived here and then understand and teach truthfully and sensitively when the Spaniards arrived in 1598? And 1610. We all know the Spaniards explored and conquered globally. So how does history help us today? By accepting. Then we find common ways that peaceful coexistence was made possible. We have a beautiful and rich culture here because of the diversity. Even when 1920 artists arrive and 2021 tourists move here. Santa Fe is beautiful in its simplicity and welcoming ways. The history and home styles really are a special part of America —- like no other place. Should be cherished.” (ID418)

“Get beyond the folklore of our history, for example that the DeVargas reconquest was peaceful. Perhaps sponsor a scholar (probably should be an hispanic) to write a city history that dispells the myths, explores both the negative and positive actions of our major ethnic groups and synthesizes a history that does not lay blame or guilt but instead places it in the context of the human story emphasizing that worldwide there is much history that is reprehensible, as well as courageous and perhaps even inevitable.” (ID384)

“By being open to new ideas. By being forward looking. By acknowledging the past without being focused on grievances. By realizing that things are complex (and so are people), e.g., by realizing that ethnic, cultural, or racial pride is the opposite side of the coin of racism, and that people are like coins that have both sides.” (ID228)

It is worth noting that concerns about legitimate sources of knowledge, what is truth and what is opinion, are not unique to the CHART project or to what is happening in Santa Fe but part of the larger zeitgeist across the United States.

How can we build healthier relationships while acknowledging our differences?

Talk together. Listen more.
Many respondents wrote that healthier relations are built through dialogue and listening. Start with respect. Acknowledge differences. Find points of connection. Identify what is shared. These few points came up again and again in people's responses to Survey 1 and are illustrated by the quotes below:

> "By listening - hearing and acknowledging other perspectives. Identify the areas of overlap and commonality and make these the starting focus points." (ID206)

> "By talking and socializing and being kind to one another." (ID359)

> "We need to listen to each other respectfully and to hear other's concerns and viewpoints, even when then don't agree with ours, and through respectful dialogue, attempt to understand the other person's viewpoint and the factors shaping it." (ID90)

> "We need to listen more." (ID76)

> "Mutual respect and dialogue goes a long way to bringing peace and bringing people together." (ID416)

> "We probably need to find some little spot of common ground — which I believe is always possible — and then listen to each other's stories with interest." (ID326)

> "Get past the differences by realizing 'one way' is not better than the other. Teach respect of differences." (ID256)

> "Listen to both sides with respect. Respect other's opinions and beliefs. Bring a representative group together to discuss differences and lay out facts." (ID414)

> "Getting together individuals from diverse backgrounds, experiences and points of view for frank open, respectful conversations. Agreeing that it is o.k. to disagree without being disagreeable." (ID419)

What's Unique and What's Held in Common

Numerous respondents objected to framing the relationship question around differences. Concerns about using differences as a starting point for building healthier relationships are illustrated below:

> "As a person who identifies as Hispanic with integrated Native bloodlines, this question is appalling. Why could this not have simply been, 'How can we build healthier relationships?' I think that's because that is not what this city wants - Outsiders know that if they can keep us locals fighting, then we are distracted and they [can continue to] have free range to take over the city." ( ID71)

> "Quit emphasizing the differences. We are a mestizo people. Most of the native New Mexicans have indigenous blood and ties. New comers want to foment division and plant seeds of hatred that were long gone in Northern New Mexico." (ID56)

> "We need to cultivate a 'one-boat' approach rather than the us-them theme that has pervaded Santa Fe for decades." (ID81)

> "Everyone needs to take responsibility for how they use the information that they have. Make our differences sources of learning and sharing. No one owns the entire story of our complex history but we all have important chapters and characters that we can relate to. Healthy relationships come down to respect for another human regardless of their color, race, sex, age or religion. So, make every attempt to find common ground in our shared humanity." (ID17)

> "By acknowledging the richness found in each culture while stressing the importance of what we have in common." (ID60)

Identifying what is shared across myriad differences that make up Santa Fe can help build stronger, healthier relationships amongst the many peoples that live there, old timers and new arrivals alike. Quite a number of respondents wrote that more than conversation, doing things together is a powerful way to build relationships.

> "Try working together while emphasizing common ground. Don't get side tracked by 'this is what is right' or this is 'politically correct.' Sometimes, solutions are found by implementing unusual partnerships even if they don't meet the predetermined idealogies of the politicians." (ID220)

> "Shared experiences through the arts is an excellent way to listen and process those stories with others." (ID225)

> “Committing to collaborative relationships over artificial lines that divide people can teach our children to care and work together.” (ID226)

> “We can build health[ier] relationships by working together to counter the unfairness in our economic system so that all of our cultures can thrive on into the future.” (ID323)

> “I think coming together around town at interactive art pieces and having a shared experience or just meeting people or seeing people who you might not interact with on a daily basis can foster understand and build bridges.” (ID497)

> “[Share a meal] just folding chairs and homemade food” (ID195)

> “[Work on] community projects like acequia clean-ups, mural projects, etc.” (ID157)

> “Build connections among people. We need to get to know each other outside of our normal circles. Common goals unite. Common experiences unite.” (ID93)

> “SF has many different but separate events celebrating Native American, Spanish and Anglo cultural contributions to the history and culture of the city. We need to have more, specially joint events that simultaneously celebrate these cultures and the heritage of coexistence that is New Mexico.” (ID201)

> “Hold a multi-cultural food festival in the summer in an area of town that has plenty of parking and bus access.” (ID355)

Getting to the place where people are willing to work together on shared goals is not easy. Santa Fe has some deeply entrenched divisions. As one respondent wrote, “We must address healing old wounds that haven’t been adequately acknowledged. We have to be willing to be open minded and truly recognize the concerns of each of the cultures in our community” (ID1).

Obstacles to Building Healthy Relationships

Reading across the 484 responses to Survey 1, some of the things that get in the way of building healthier relations are: racism, distrust, reactivity, being dismissive of others, historic and current inequities, colonialism, white privilege, culture of grievance, and disrespect. One additional obstacle to building healthier relationships, is rooted in beliefs about who belongs in Santa Fe and who does not and is exemplified in the quotes below:

> “That will be pretty hard when outsiders come in and think and act like they are privileged and better than locals.” (ID254)

> “Santa Fe is comprised of people from many different cultures. Some people were born here and some chose to be here. The undercurrent that people of Spanish heritage are better than other citizens, or more important needs to stop. It makes people that chose to live here and care deeply about the city feel unwelcome.” (ID97)

The theme of belonging comes up in multiple ways both explicitly as illustrated above and implicitly as noted in the section on Cultural Symbols. It seems to be felt on all sides. How can residents build healthier relationships when so many insist that some people are “Santa Fean” and others are “outsiders”? This belief is divisive and unfortunately, tightly clung to, particularly by those who feel that their culture and history are being “erased.”

Further complicating efforts to build healthier relationships across individuals and groups in Santa Fe are economic inequities. The quotes below describe primary inequities that persist across Santa Fe:

> “Santa Fe is very segregated.” (ID411)

> “[M]iddle- to low-income residents live segregated from many wealthy retirees, who represent just one group of residents, mostly White or Spanish/Hispanic.” (ID124)

> “Gentrification of Santa Fe has abruptly changed the dynamics of our city and those who still feel like they have a freedom to express our rights to our history, culture, and faith, are being silenced.” (ID106)

> “Acknowledging historic/generational trauma, the inability of many to access the most basic aspects of opportunity, unpacking the institutional barriers (financial, land use, regulatory, educational, social) many face in trying to live their best lives, and standing for change.” (ID163)

> “One difference that must be acknowledged is that different groups have different economic and political power and this difference causes resentment as well as unfair advantages for some over others.” (ID323)

> “[U]ntil there is less economic disparity between groups in this city, relationships will always be fraught. The service economy that supports the tourism industry here must be well paid and include excellent benefits and pensions, otherwise resentment will continue....[W]e cannot have healthy relationships without economic security and housing for all.” (ID228)

> “[I]t is hard to build healthier relationships when certain people are actively being ‘priced out’ of the city in terms of housing and small business (rents). Without diversity and with gentrification it is hard to build relationships and we become less different. We can't learn from others if they are put in a place to not be able to actively contribute. The city should really work to provide better low-income housing and small business opportunities to ensure that those less financially blessed than other still have the opportunity to be represented.” (ID241)

> “It may not be our fault for the injustices of past racial discriminations in housing, medical care, or economic opportunity, but we must face the fact that those policies have left a scar upon us, and many of us enjoy privileges due in part to the happenings of the past. If we are to be brave, we must have the courage to encounter these realities and tackle them.” (ID108)

Areas of inequity respondents raised in Survey 1 responses included: education, environment, health, childcare, transportation, housing, wages, and the City of Santa Fe’s investment throughout the city. Many of the comments about inequities further noted that they fall mostly on black and brown people and new immigrants. Some of the ways that Survey 1 respondents suggested to address various inequities included:

> “Put indigenous people in positions of power.” (ID115)

> “Building communities more integrated low and high income.” (ID217)

> “'Work towards inclusivity and equal opportunities for all.” (ID220)

> “Focus on maintenance of and creation of diverse neighborhoods and meeting places.” (ID227)

> “Sustainability and quality of life must be a part of Long Range Planning (that office in City government has been eliminated in 2019).” (ID230)

> “Move forward with equitable housing, transportation, healthcare, and education for all residents.” (ID188)

> “Reexamine downtown parking meters.” (ID209)

> “Through thoughtful deliberation of issues—monuments, housing, transportation, policing, education, water, climate change, etc.—involving more or less proportional numbers of people from all demographic groups with a stake in the issue, who meet together with the help of facilitators and expert consultants as needed in a setting structured to encourage respectful listening and speaking and openness to learning from rather than winning the argument with those with different viewpoints.” (ID249)

“More effort needs to be made to develop neighborhood associations and use them to host cross neighborhood events.  Our parks and our schools need to become places to meet our neighbors with members of City Council, Mayor and staff encouraging/hosting such events.” (ID101)

“We must first acknowledge each other, that we live, work, and share resources on this land. As a collective, it is important to remember those who walked on this land, those whose descendants live here today, and all of the people from many parts of the country and world who call this soil their home.” (ID158)

“We need to go beyond ‘understanding’ each other and have a more equitable sharing of power.” (ID309)

“By acknowledging and accepting that history isn't always right and then righting those wrongs. By making space in a tourism-centric economy for those who can't financially afford to be otherwise represented. By figuring out low-income housing or some type of rent control to ensure Santa Fe doesn't continue to become a city of rich, white people. By publicly celebrating the city's true roots through installation of some type of art in the Plaza to replace the obelisk. By creating some type of fund (maybe taxing Santa Fe second home owners) to assist people in the historic district who can not afford to maintain their homes in accordance with conservation codes; this way Santa Fe stays beautiful and people can stay here versus having to sell something that may have been in their family for generations because historic preservation is too expensive. Planning more public celebrations/rituals in the Plaza that are community-focused (not tourism focused).” ID241 (in response to good ancestors)

“Designating our city as a sanctuary city and a welcoming one is a good place to start.  I'd like to see improvements in public education.  Water issues need to be dealt with.  The economy needs to be less dependent of tourism, more diversified.  I am pleased to see more apartment buildings filling in the downtown area and all around the city - it's important to have affordable housing for our employed people so they do not have to commute.” ID147 (in response to good ancestors)

Respect

As noted early on in this report, respect floated to the top of values that are shared across the people of Santa Fe.  Regardless of the mechanism for building healthier relationships, it must come from a place of respect.  Simply stated,

> “[E]veryone needs to chill. Newcomers need to show respect for traditions and some old school folks need to appreciate the investment that generations of migrants bring.” (ID19)

How can we become good ancestors to our children, their children, and generations to come?

> “I would say to co exist and respect each other's traditions and cultures. Teach own children about each others culture and teach them that even though it's different don't disrespect it….If we could learn and understand everyone's traditions then we can paint a path for our generations to come.” (ID102)

As the foregoing quote illustrates, learning about other perspectives with openness and respect can position people to be good ancestors. Indeed, numerous themes that came up in response to the questions about fuller history and healthier relationships were raised again in response to being good ancestors. Education, dialogue, and the importance of inclusive history showed up frequently. Calls for correcting economic inequities and uneven investment throughout Santa Fe were repeated. The minority of people demanding the Obelisk be restored before anything else restated their case.

Topics receiving greater emphasis than in the two previous questions were addressing climate change and being role models. In some ways, these topics are inseparable from one another just as the land and water are inescapably core to the history and relationships of Santa Fe. One Survey 1 respondent captures this well, writing,

> “We need to teach and learn sustainable ways of living in this beautiful land that will honor our community for generations. We need to learn to co-exist with water and land with respect and care. We need to pass down the ancestral teachings and practices which allowed generations of people to live harmoniously in this beautiful place. We also need to increase biking and walking and wheelchair accessible paths and reduce the use of cars in our city in order to reduce fossil fuel consumption in our community and allow us all to more fully exist outdoors and in connection to the elements and in community - saying hello to each other and not being in our own car bubbles.” (ID157)

Being a Good Ancestor to the Land and Water

Many responses to being a good ancestor to children is getting in better relation with the environment. Respect it. Protect it. Preserve it. Do not exploit it. Live lightly on it. Do no harm. The quotes that follow illustrate that if we are to be good ancestors, we must get right with our natural world.

“Promote laws that respond to and mitigate the effects of climate change especially drought and fires.” (ID96)

“[B]eing a good ancestor means living a sustainable life now. If we steal from future generations and limit their access to clean air, water, etc., then we are not thinking of the next generation.” (ID121)

“We need to view ourselves as extensions of an ecosystem, not merely as occupants and consumers. If we do not value and seek to protect our environment from destruction, as well as the most vulnerable people amongst our populations, we will have failed humanity and our ancestors.” (ID138)

“We must take care of the water. We must nourish the soil. We must take care of the people. We must help the people birthing. We must sit with the elders. We must collect this valuable data through those who lived it. We must look up and remember we share the same sky. We must honor our crossings into different phases of life. We must remember our connection and interconnection are an integral part of our experience. We must show our children the way through our actions. We must be gentler with each other and the environment. We can begin right where we are, in Oga Po'geh - Santa Fe.” (ID158)

“[T]ake care of our rivers and lakes! no plutonium!” (ID207)

“Follow one of the boy scout mottos - leave your campsite cleaner than you found it! We should all strive to improve any given effort, idea, physical site - DO NO HARM!” (ID215)

“Treat our environment and our material and human resources with respect and care.” (ID227)

“We can become better listeners and caretakers of the earth. We can work in solidarity and establish coalitions. We can fight the extractive tendencies of capitalism and white supremacy.” (ID341)

“Teach responsibility and respect for the people and the land.” (ID388)

“By changing our relationship to the more-than-human world away from that of exploitation. By overhauling our economic system to provide for everyone's needs. By divesting in all fossil fuels.” (ID126)

> “Do we have generations to come? Not if we don't fix our environmental issues, our political hate, our housing crisis, and our schools. Here's a start: subsidize housing for public servants (police, teachers, first responders, etc.) with a community service requirement to maintain low rent or mortgage payments. Adapt town meeting structure by neighborhood, with public servants taking on organization, with resources to actually address and solve community concerns. Centralize major projects like water and renewable energy, but let neighborhoods control neighborhood issues.” (ID365)

Being Role Models

Part of being a good role model and a good ancestor means unlearning more pernicious lessons that have been internalized. While only mentioned explicitly by a few respondents, it seems worth raising here:

> “First working on us and our mental health, working on our traumas and problems so we don't pass them to our kids. Then showing them what we want to see in them like being independent, worrying about others and helping others in need, treating people in a good and nice manner, etc.” (ID395)

> “Develop programs to eliminate the bad habits that come from multi-generational issues such as domestic violence, substance abuse and other learned behaviors that need to stop.” (ID19)

> “To break the pattern that perpetuates  Victimhood Shame Helplessness Need to numb in order to cope  Figure out how to reconcile between cultures of individualism and achievements vs. culture that values connection and oneness.” (ID135)

To be good ancestors, people today must be the good they hope to see in the environment and in each other. As the quotes below show, there are many ways and places to practice this:

> “We can be educators and examples to future generations by acknowledging history as it occured.  Acknowledge all people should be treated equally and with respect to their history, their cultural, and their traditions.” (ID275)

> “Our communities will be better, healthier, more tolerant if we can focus on our responsibilities to the community and each other as much as we focus on our freedoms.” (ID225)

> “Learn from our mistakes” (ID229)

“Volunteer; be involved.” (ID185)

“Leading the right example for younger generations to follow.” (ID471)

“Being positive political, parent, community and educational role models to our children is important. Elders can speak about their cultural stories so that today can be better than yesterday and that yesterday stories can teach lessons learned. And, that intergenerational knowledge is shared for the future generations.” (ID137)

“We can only be good ancestors if we bring shared intention and action. We must know who we are, where we come from, bring the best of ourselves, and heal the worst. We cannot be good ancestors if we’re divided and at odds with each other. In the larger view, we have to be the ones we’ve been waiting for or else the future will be untenable for future generations.” (ID168)

“By modeling a commitment to, and processes and structures, for decolonizing our communities and creating more egalitarian relationships. This should result in resolving our differences in open and honest dialogue. We then must use these tools to address climate change and its deleterious effects on our land. If we do not address climate change at all levels, there will be no future generations.” (ID13)

“I think we can tell the next generations that we tried to be open-minded, that we realized that there were events and people in the past that we had to reevaluate and reconsider their place in history. That we were willing to accept that we held beliefs that proved to be incomplete or even incorrect, and that we worked together to right those wrongs. As we know history has often been written by the victors, from their point of view- I think young people now are open to probing and questioning and that is a good thing.” (ID319)

Conclusions

Survey 1 was one of the first initiatives undertaken by the CHART project. By posing three broad questions about Santa Fe’s history, its present, and its future, the survey invited respondents to write what was important to them at that place and at that time. Between the pandemic and its disproportionate burden on people of color and people in poverty, police violence, and fury at racial injustices, and a City election, late 2021 was a firey time. Santa Fe was not immune to the trends across the U.S. then or now. In 484 responses, Survey 1 illustrated that there are other issues that need attention for old timers and newcomers to move forward together.

Embracing a more inclusive history, relationships starting from a place of mutual respect, more equitable dispersion of city resources and easier access to them, and a shared commitment to a future defined by getting in right relationship with the environment and each other can all bring Santa Fe closer to the city that so many seem to want. Some good recommendations have been made here and throughout the CHART process, should there be the will to act on them.

SURVEY 1 RECOMMENDATIONS*

*The following are recommendations culled from the large body of information provided by Survey 1 respondents. These are their direct responses.

SURVEY 1 RECOMMENDATIONS

Recommendations: How do we come to a fuller understanding of Santa Fe's history?

|---|---|
| ID: 1 | listen to an extremely diverse group of voices and seek out experts from each of the different communities that contributed to that history. |
| ID: 1 | actively seek truths |
| ID: 10 | Restore the statutes, continue the celebration and acknowledge our history. |
| ID: 101 | We need a Museum of Santa Fe that specifically focuses on the history of the land we live on and how it has changed culturally and environmentally. Santa Feans need to develop a deep sense of place and history regardless if they have been here for 10 generations or 1 year. The mission of the museum needs to be both historic and current and include a relationship with the Public Schools that is educational, everything from archaeology to ecology to the visual and performing arts. |
| ID: 106 | Gather facts from multiple perspectives and allow the people to be involved and share stories and information from the past. |
| ID: 107 | Work with City historian and State offices of Cultural Affairs, Archaeological Studies and Historic Preservation to designate reports, studies and books about the history of Santa Fe. |
| ID: 107 | Establish a list that all participents of CHART should read, and invite the public to read, over the next six months. Maybe even invite formation of book clubs by various faith communities? |

| ID: 107 | Seek out written documents that professionals have created over the past several decades. |
| ID: 109 | Through cultural monuments, programs, and events/observances and in educational curricula: present a balanced and comprehensive account of Santa Fe's history -- one that acknowledges the initial and ongoing presence and occupation of these lands by indigenous peoples - going back as much as 11,500 years - and the impact on these peoples and their cultures by Spanish, Mexican, and American colonialis |
| ID: 109 | Hold space for public conversations that allow for a truth and reconciliation process. |
| ID: 11 | Engage with historians, cultural experts, craftworkers and honor traditional ways |
| ID: 113 | During a televised presentation from the Square in Santa Fe historians from three groups should outline their respective historical references, without editorializing, and field audience questions. |
| ID: 119 | Add plaques for more information or where more space is available another statue or monument with a different viewpoint. |
| ID: 125 | Include the good, the bad, and the ugly in school curricula. Take kids on field trips. Keep meaningful exhibits at state cultural sites, including museums and historical and archaeological sites. |
| ID: 13 | Create a history. Recite it to indigenous, latino/a and white groups and modify based upon feedback--until all groups agree to it's fairness and veracity. |
| ID: 130 | create many permanent public display tokens (statues, figures, shapes, etc.) These should be attractive and have appeal and meaning to locals and tourists. They should celebrate the cultures that have come together to form glorious Santa Fe. |
| ID: 131 | conduct community meetings around various aspects |
| ID: 131 | make short videos about different aspects |
| ID: 131 | sponsor school presentations on Santa Fe history |
| ID: 135 | A live theatre experience or a video (either a documentary/interview style or motion graphics) that powerfully and artful present different viewpoints and giving space to each with the fullest human divinity and empathy. Perspectives solicited should expand beyond the triad of cultures that typically is presented as the face of New Mexico—Native American, Spanish, and Anglo. Human identity is beyond their race. Acknowledge the fullness of who live here now, too, and why they chose to be here. |

|---|---|
| ID: 136 | Acknowledge the role the 25th Infantry (Buffalo Soldiers) played guarding the Santa Fe Trail and settling the West (this is a forgotten narrative — the thousands of freed slaves who poured into the Southwest “early” in our history. Although this adds a layer of complication due to the Army’s execution of the Indian Wars and policies on expansion at the time. However, the Buffalo soldiers also fought fires and eventually became our nation’s first forest rangers and land stewards.). Be willing to talk about the DOJ Japanese Internment Camp, even though we had troops who participated in the Bataan Death March. One of our main state government buildings in town is the Bataan Building (where NM Arts sits, actually), and there’s a tiny sign on the highway (relatively new) and plaque in the dog park for the 4,000+ innocent people we held for four years in literal “concentration”. New Mexico actually had several, but Santa Fe was the largest. |
| ID: 136 | renaming some locations after their original, indigenous names. |
| ID: 138 | Understanding the history of Santa Fe more fully is to understand humans who have been here the longest, the ones most connected to the environment. If we consider the start of our history to be when we were first a national capital, or when colonizers first arrived on these lands, we allow the spoils of war and corruption to determine our past. The wording of the question proves the point: we don't need the history of Santa Fe as much as we need a history of O'gah'Po'ogeh. |
| ID: 144 | The Santa Fe Public Schools should begin to teach the history of New Mexico and Santa Fe, perhaps starting in the 3rd or 4th grade, then offering another course in middle school. |
| ID: 144 | The city could also sponsor a series of free lectures about various aspects of the history of Santa Fe. The series could be presented in different parts of the city in schools and/or libraries |
| ID: 147 | It seems to me the we have a very full range of institutions that present this history. We have the NM Museum of History right here in Santa Fe, likewise the Museum of Art, the Museum of Indian Arts and Culture, etc. There are tours one can take of historical buildings around the downtown area, and programs on geological and archeological history. I know the Museum Art keeps an archive of material on our artists. The history museum recently commissioned a graphic book on the conflicting views of the battle depicted in the Segesser hides as a way to update that conflict in the public mind. Plus, I'm about to reread Death Comes for the Archbishop, and there are many more fine literary histories of the area. What else do we need? |

|---|---|
| ID: 148 | Marketing campaign with billboards, a zine, a dedicated educational webpage, social media accounts focused on history of Santa Fe, public television programming, radio shows featuring museum directors and historians, illustrated historical comic book, historical trivia game for the family, a netflix documentary, free college course for teachers, |
| ID: 15 | create platforms and venues that will be interactive, enticing, and exciting, ones that will reach many ages as well as many groups |
| ID: 151 | Add signage describing the historical context (or complementary statuary chosen and defined by the affronted cultures) to culturally sensitive public works |
| ID: 153 | -Authentic storytelling and sharing personal histories and testimonials. -Devoting oneself to educating the public and ourselves to learning more about our neighbors, community members, and the history of this place. -Take stock of each perspective representing all of the ethnic and cultural voices here in Santa Fe -Offer equity to those who have been traditionally underrepresented or unfairly treated. -Promote the democratic ideals of equal representation and aim to rectify past inequalities. -Develop and foster the practice of land acknowledgements to better understand the cultures that came before in Santa Fe. |
| ID: 153 | -Authentic storytelling and sharing personal histories and testimonials. -Devoting oneself to educating the public and ourselves to learning more about our neighbors, community members, and the history of this place. -Take stock of each perspective representing all of the ethnic and cultural voices here in Santa Fe -Offer equity to those who have been traditionally underrepresented or unfairly treated. -Promote the democratic ideals of equal representation and aim to rectify past inequalities. -Develop and foster the practice of land acknowledgements to better understand the cultures that came before in Santa Fe. |
| ID: 157 | We could host storytelling forums where Santa Feans could share histories and stories of this place in a multivocal way to create a tapestry of histories, including intentionally centering Indigenous voices and oral histories. Maybe we could also a do a community reading initiative, reading a rich history of Santa Fe together as a community and hosting discussion forums about this. |
| ID: 16 | A monumental water fountain to commemorate Santa Fe's charter could be perfect to replace destroyed obelisk? |
| ID: 161 | By having series - plays, lectures, radio interviews, concerts, and other cultural events that show the true history. |

|---|---|
| ID: 165 | Openly debate the history in public forums for all to see |
| ID: 168 | I wish we could witness a collaboration between different areas of leadership: cultural, educational, medical, spiritual, business, political, etc. to model a process towards understanding history |
| ID: 174 | We need to start by gathering historical data and accounts of our past. There seem to be sometimes conflicting views on our history. Did the Spanish "enslave" the natives of the area or use a system similar to feudal serfs? Was it forced slavery of indentured servitude? Perhaps both were true, depending on one's perspective? Utilize noted historians, such as Dr. Mabry Vigil of Las Vegas, and the works of Dr. Lynn Perrigo, (deceased) both highly acclaimed former Professors of N.M. and Southwest History at Highlands University in Las Vegas, NM. Our own State Historians can and should weigh in. We need to define what we are seeking answers to - i.e., Did the local Spanish settlers enslave the natives? Did the natives benefit from the Spanish settlement? How? How do we judge the Po'pe led rebellion which resulted in the massacre of men, women and children...How many, and was it an "ambush" as claimed. Was it justified in any way? Define the many questions we need answered - start with a common base of knowledge. Was the Obelisk "bad" - it intended to celebrate the soldiers who beat back the confederates and the continuance of slavery in the U.S. Or was the reference to "savage" Indians bad? What are we trying to address? One aspect that I haven't seen articulated yet is the impact of the Anglo American conquest of Santa Fe and New Mexico. I believe that one of the reasons that many Hispanics cherish, support and vigorously defend customs and traditions may be in reaction to the Mexican American war (which I believe most historians would agree was contrived by the U.S. in the pursuit of "manifest destiny".) The issue of reconciliation needs to comprehend this fact as well in considering how we move forward. |
| ID: 176 | Establishing in our museums at present and in the future for to provide the history of how Santa Fe came to be with periodicals, artifacts and historical photos as well videos of those telling stories of how living in Santa Fe was and is (oral history). To understand the history of Santa Fe is by exploring aspects by providing advertisement through marketing via websites and television like the program on Channel 5 COLORES. |
| ID: 18 | field-trips, lectures and presentations of 1 hand account (recorded at time of action) |
| ID: 180 | I think there should be a task force to get the plaza restoration underway asap. CHART could be an advisor for that shorter term project. An expert task force for the plaza/obelisk project should be multidisciplinary, highly expert, but also include members of the community and CHART.. It should be guided by a cultural affairs consultant, and have a mechanism for involving global artistic input. |

|---|---|
| ID: 195 | Start with studying "The Great River" by Paul Horgan and move on to the history of slavery at that Pecos Church and then to the Conquerors, the Pueblo Revolt and then the gang of thieves who came in the 1800's to exploit minerals and people. Move on to those who wanted statehood to keep political/economic control in the hands of traditional white channels until this day. Oh, don't forget the A-bomb, the movie makers, the artists and the hippies and organic food folks and traditional food folks who came in mass to change it all around. Mostly, tell us how our viejos made us wise and help us still. |
| ID: 196 | I imagine a small sculpture garden that depicts the experience of pueblo people, original Hispanic settlers and more recent new comers with sufficient commentary so that visitors learn of our complicated and intertwined history. Has to encompass the whole history of this place. |
| ID: 2 | Perhaps it would be helpful to have a series of columns, published in all local papers, in Tewa, Towa, Keres, Spanish and English. Maybe Navajo and Apache, too. These columns could also be online and perhaps read on different radio stations. |
| ID: 204 | publish small booklets to be distributed by NM Tourism detailing the history, all the good stuff and bad stuff, from a neutral standpoint, for people to educate themselves. |
| ID: 206 | From the perspective on not being native to Santa Fe, it would be great to see more history from the lens of the native communities communicated through as many channels as possible including the contemporary arts and entertainment. An example is Virgil Ortiz who's work which is grounded in the history of the Pueblo Revolt on 1680. As a person who moved to new Mexico in the 1990's, I was never even aware of this history until I encountered his work in 2012. |
| ID: 21 | The City of Santa Fe should sponsor and host a multicultural, anthropological history conference in conjunction with some major annual festival that always attracts residents and tourists. Guest speakers representing the different points of view each year, over several years. |
| ID: 213 | The museums at the plaza need to have standing exhibits of native history. |
| ID: 213 | Every European based history plaque (there should be some) should also be be mirrored by The native side of the story, or at least a native element pertinent to the space. Every European Public Art piece should have two sides (European and Native), but native pieces can be solo. |
| ID: 213 | There should be a Native restaurant on the Plaza, and this should be subsidized by the govt. until viable. |

|---|---|
| ID: 213 | The Camino Real Trail needs to be heightened and celebrated, especially on the south side of town |
| ID: 214 | Teach critical race theory in primary and secondary education curriculum 2. Provide public art and lecture series that teaches the history of NM including the impact of Spanish colonial history on Indigenous peoples, their history, and their lands 3. Teach the foundations that lead to the drafting of the US Constitution with attention on the use of trade as related to land resources and the notion of manifest destiny 4. Teach the history of NM Indigenous nations from the perspective of Indigenous peoples; compare and contrast the narratives presented by White historians and Indigenous historians 5. Present public presentations of the real history of the founding of Santa Fe; who was here prior to the Spanish. Include Indigenous hsitory along side of the Spanish narratives of NM's history. |
| ID: 219 | Create a "History Center" at midtown where al historical monuments & statues are gathered together. |
| ID: 22 | I think it is important that we expand the history of Santa Fe beyond the story of the conquistadors to highlight the stories of the indigenous populations and lesser known communities such as the stories of African American, Jewish and Middle Eastern Populations. |
| ID: 226 | a well made film could start with presentations by representatives of different perspectives from different groups, and then be artfully merged to a coherent timeline that acknowledges different versions, while framing them together into one community. This could be screened frequently to different groups (schools, churches, public venues), with Q & A panel discussions after. A free course could be offered at the libraries that contextualizes conflicting points of view and acknowledges legitimate disagreements, while also recognizing that all sides of conflicts do some good and some wrong. Rationalities of the times and places were different in the past, and opportunities exist in the present for bridging and collaborating. Again, time at the end of each class for group discussion. |
| ID: 226 | A stage production can be written and produced addressing historic events and dramatizing progression into the 21st century in which people evolve to live and work together, retaining their culture and pride in their heritage, while recognizing that things were done at different times that would not be condoned today. There can be a program at schools and libraries for promoting history books. |
| ID: 226 | Reading clubs that have different groups reading each others' literature and pov, can be facilitated by trained coaches, teachers, therapists who can help navigate the material and reach new understandings. |

|---|---|
| ID: 226 | Workshops with skits that cast people of one group in the shoes of people from another group can give people a way of loosening their grip on one way of seeing. |
| ID: 227 | Develop exhibits in museums, online, and in schools with recorded interviews of people from past generations (20, 40, 60, 80 yrs ago), from different races, ethnicities and economic classes about their experiences and memories of living in Santa Fe. |
| ID: 228 | I believe the current historical exhibition at the New Mexico History Museum is a good start. It is critical that there are recurring opportunities for Indigenous and Hispanic voices to frame the story of the city's history, mirroring the approach in the excellent curriculum Facing History And Ourselves that I found very impactful and useful as a middle school teacher of the history of immigration to our shores. |
| ID: 230 | Look to the surrounding communities that supported the City of Santa Fe, like Agua Fria Village and La Cienega. The city itself as the Capitol was always La Villa Real de Santa Fé de San Francisco de Asís. The myth of this “Royal City.” Even when it was the Native American: “place of the white shell” in 1100. It was a purely ceremonial and commercial site that the pueblos would meet at and dance, and have a feast day. Why? Because professor Hilario Romero has proven that the altitude only allowed about 45 days less agriculture (date of first and last frost). Not even time to have any crops. So a place of commerce completely supported by the very humble and very hard working Hispanos and Indios. These ancianos, elders and the antepasados are not in the traditional history books. Yet, they built the city with adobes, kept it warm with firewood and fed it. The Santa Fe River should be honored as its lifeblood and protected for the downstream users as Judge Captain Roque Madrid of Pueblo Quemado (Agua Fria) ruled in 1695. These people were of mixed blood and may have been looked down on. Some may have been indentured servants. The Anglo influence on Santa Fe has been to attack the adobe and to change it to Cape Cod-styled-housing as written by the 1880 editor of the New Mexican. The CHART Committee celebrates the Dine (Navajo) people. These were the raiders of Pueblos, Agua Fria and La Cienega. Yet, after the acquisition of horses, the Navajo and Ute, and to a lesser extent the Apache and Comanche, were a constant initiation of military campaigns led against them by Roque Madrid. Even in Josiah Gregg’s book he talks about the Navajo raid on Agua Fria to steal horses. |
| ID: 24 | A public forum and/or roundtable led by representatives from NM tribes; Hispanic leaders or representatives; and Anglo people both long timers & newcomers. |
| ID: 24 | Permanent & identical displays in all of the Santa Fe Museum Foundation group: History Museum, Indian Arts & Culture Museum; Intl Folk Art Museum that weave together the commonalities and differences among the representative Indian, Hispanic, and Anglo populations. |

| ID: 240 | By Starting a series of Lectures by historians |
| ID: 240 | series of newspaper articles |
| ID: 240 | By Listening and publishing Pueblo Historians that the public can easily obtain. |
| ID: 241 | we and the city should actively acknowledge our existence on Jicarilla Apache and Puebloan land. It would be great if some kind of information about this fact was provided in the Plaza |
| ID: 242 | it would help to have a salaried City Historian who would build a bibliography of credible historical reference material; include the outcomes of the CHART process; and work to fulfill the recommendations of the CHART process that are appropriately assigned to such an office. |
| ID: 242 | The Historian should prepare and deliver presentations on Santa Fe's history for various age groups and backgrounds, and with different foci, |
| ID: 243 | multiple avenues for discovering the roots of Santa Fe. |
| ID: 244 | Create History Parks containing the controversial statues and plaques with historical explanations. Have discussion and reflection centers. Include these parks in school curriculum |
| ID: 245 | PROVIDE FOR OPEN DISCUSSIONS in order that ALL can hear each/others inputs - and be able to ask revelent questions! |
| ID: 253 | I would recommend a series of accessible, seminar-style listening sessions on Santa Fe’s history involving historians (I use the term loosely) of all backgrounds. These sessions could cover both human and natural history and would be open to contributions from academic historians, family historians, oral historians, and more. It would create a door for a fuller, more equitable history. Once consolidated and edited, I would strongly recommend taking the conclusions of these sessions to Santa Fe Public Schools or even NM Public Education Department for implementation into textbooks/additions to existing curriculum |
| ID: 255 | We need a public discussion where the Native American, Hispanic, Anglo, Immigrant, and LBGTQ each publish their histories of Santa Fe. I really this would involve written presentations prepared by historians and leaders of each community of no more than 20 pp. and PowerPoints in a series of public meetings where everyone has an opportunity to speak |

|---|---|
| ID: 26 | Truthfully presenting all sides of the historical narrative, rather than eliminating those symbols. Much like the approach of a history museum |
| ID: 268 | Talk with residents of the neighborhoods and areas with ancient and recent histories. Example: Rancho Siringo Neighborhood regarding the historic ranches and the Manhattan Project during WWII. |
| ID: 272 | Use our archives, local historians and locals. |
| ID: 279 | We should promote better evidence about "historical trauma." |
| ID: 28 | Offering Town Hall discussions on a regular basis where community participants of all backgrounds, age, race, ethnicity can meet, converse openly, and share their stories and perspective. |
| ID: 28 | Create a focus group that includes individuals that have diverse backgrounds and experience to work on a community project, come up with a solution to a community concern or need. Include new residents in the discussion and community members that are not normally involved, who bring valuable perspectives and insight as well. |
| ID: 285 | One of two important methods is one you're doing on November 18--having two historians speak to interested people about the history. Since history, of course, occurs differently for different races/classes/economic statuses of people, the second method would be to find out more from elders within long-standing communities/groups in the area. |
| ID: 298 | Share our stories in culturally meaningful ways that are significant to multiple cultures, using multiple genres. Make these sharing and presentation accessible through locations transit help, etc. |
| ID: 298 | Specific request: a bus stop at Fort Marcy and a bus stop at Casa Milagro. |
| ID: 311 | There should be a brief pamphlet hand-out, containing facts about our heritage-and the history of Santa Fe, reflecting only historical truths, that should be given to each newcomer to Santa Fe. This pamphlet, with historical truths and facts, should be the result of meaningful analysis by historians familiar with the traditional culture of Santa Fe. |
| ID: 32 | Develop a proper chronology of the history of Santa Fe. We have a rich written history beginning with Gaspar Perez de Villagra's 1610 Epic Poem, Historia de la Nueva México. There are numerous letters, legal documents, and other statements as well. |

|---|---|
| ID: 321 | interview (or at lease directly invite the following to take this survey) a number of residents who have invested themselves in the common good of Santa Fe--social workers, politicians, artists, teachers, service organization leaders and volunteers, church leaders and involved parishioners, law enforcement personnel, long-time residents of Spanish descent and American Indian descent (and others whose family has been in Santa Fe for several generations), and several newer members of the community. |
| ID: 325 | It would be cool if there was an interpretive guide on the plaza. It could be a footpath or something similar that directs people along and tells the stories. It would have to be created by a committee representing all diverse cultures - Indigenous, Spaniard, Crypto/Converso Jews, Caucasian relocatees, recent immigrants. |
| ID: 326 | Encouraging us as participants to take this survey back to our families and even into our social groups is a good idea. We get practice and may get better at understanding and communicating. Then later we can use our growing knowledge of Santa Fe history to ask questions, listen and discuss with people we do not know. I'd like to see a 2-page spread in the local newspapers with all the rich information, not just the pretty stuff, and with a link to an extensive, selected bibliography. Get the libraries involved. Maybe offer a template for how to have our own discussion? |
| ID: 327 | I feel that it is first important to acknowledge that the history of Santa Fe is complex and that a clear understanding of our history takes time to learn those complexities as well as to understand how various people do naturally have different perspectives on that information. But without knowledge each individual will be handicapped in coming to a fuller understanding. It is important not to limit our knowledge to a simplified version…whether a glorification understanding or a knee-jerk condemnation of our repressive past and/or present. We must learn when we have come together as peoples as well as how we have clashed. One of the ways I suggest that adults and high school students could reach a fuller understanding is by deliberately seeking out the point of view of others. A good place to start is the 2010 book White Shell Water Place, An Anthology of Native American Reflections on the 400th Anniversary of the Founding of Santa Fe, New Mexico. Nearly all of the authors are thoughtful in their writing and do back their statements with historical documents as well as tribal histories. It is very clear that there is no one Native American perspective. Since various Native American tribes had very different interactions with the Spanish colonizers, Mexican troops, and the American military their perspectives do differ. Greg Cajete, about 71, of Santa Clara Pueblo writes that he was not taught an appropriate history of New Mexico including the history of his own pueblo until he went to college. Now he emphasizes the tragic and oppressed conditions as well as the periods of cooperation where his people supported the colonizers against the raiding, nomadic Indians. This is all part of the history of Santa Fe. |

| ID: 365 | Create a basic timeline of the history of Santa Fe. Read that timeline as if you were Native American. After assimilating that perspective fully, read the timeline as if you were descendants of the Spanish settlers. Then read the timeline as Anglo. Finally, read the timeline as recent immigrants to the area. Although these viewpoints conflict over certain events, they aren't competitive; they are Santa Fe. Our multicultural history is a strength and should be celebrated as such. |
| ID: 369 | The city could sponsor a series of public lectures, which would also be recorded, televised, made available on Zoom, etc., and invite historians and speakers of different backgrounds to inform the public about our history. |
| ID: 371 | Replace statues, obelisk, plaques, historiacal markers etc., with explainations of their original establishment and the relationship to today's changing times. The message is: how we came to today's perception of progress. |
| ID: 375 | Create a public committee consisting of historians, anthropologists, social scientists, professors and classroom teachers, to spend a year meeting occasionally to develop a revised social studies curriculum for SFPS. SFPS should be required to adopt the product(s) of the public committee after a substantial public process that would invite comments from all members of the community. |
| ID: 379 | the Santa Fe Plaza should have a blank exhibition area that allows for revolving (monthly, bi monthly) art or other installations that present these specific and other viewpoints or interpretations. |

Form a committee to review and distill this material into the shortest practical document. 3. Distribute this information through all possible media. 4. Develop a series of fora (again, using all relevant media) for facilitated community discussion to work toward shared understanding of contributions made to the city by the various communities. |
| ID: 39 | Community events celebrating and teaching culture and history. |
| ID: 390 | Start with the history of Ohkay Owingeh.and later the history of White Shell Water Place. |
| ID: 396 | compile a list of the already many written histories of Santa Fe. A few years ago a series of lectures on various aspects of SF history and life were held at a local hotel—Hotel Santa Fe |
| ID: 40 | A continuing series of articles about key aspects of the city's and area's history could be placed in local newspapers, especially The Santa Fe New Mexican and Santa Fe Reporter, and perhaps also the northern NM version of the Albuquerque Journal. |
| ID: 413 | Teach in the schools, have community dialogue w local peoples, keep out of state rebellious instigators out of the Santa Fe community. We were peaceful before they arrived. They hit and run. Listen! Hire a local respected community leader to moderate. |
| ID: 42 | add a plaque to original art work explaining the art and now that we know better we have and will do better |
| ID: 429 | Consider collaborating to create a special edition of a publication such as Green Fire Times, which is still widely distributed in print (and online) around Santa Fe, central and Northern New Mexico. The many intersecting historical narratives could be illuminated and it would give people something to contemplate. It could be a platform where the different constituencies can publicly have their say. Green Fire Times has offered to do this. |
| ID: 43 | Teach what actually happened. Teach about the differences in culture and groups, the Spanish and natives. Teach how people suffered. |

|---|---|
| ID: 44 | Good didactic displays in the history museum; lectures open to the public; monuments stressing the diversity of our region, not honoring the conquest and subjugation of one peoples over another. |
| ID: 46 | We need to have discussions regarding statues, memorials, museums, monuments and all other stuff that matter in our community. Having serious discussions about what went on and how we have over come these things to live in harmony. |
| ID: 48 | the past is only useful in the context of our current situation. It will help explain how we got to our current situation and what we can take from the past to continue to grow and what we can eliminate from our behaviors to better our community. |
| ID: 49 | Have community workshops that Native Santa Fean's facilitate. Have documentaries at the Theaters. Have City Meetings raising awareness. |
| ID: 51 | scavenger hunts are popular for tourists and locals alike, competitions for art and stories reflecting Santa Fe NM history, tribal, hispanic and anglo historic expert panels and videos for SFPS |
| ID: 53 | One aspect of this process is to help people WANT to gain a fuller understanding of Santa Fe history. Look for ways to engage people with stories. These can come through different formats...memoir, poetry/expressive writing, film, biography (I'm thinking colorful personalities...Governor Lew Wallace...the White Sisters...Allan Houser are some that come to mind. Video artist Robert Drummond did extensive research for an art project that projected the image and voice of a dozen unknown but wonderfully colorful historic New Mexicans from the second floor windows of the Catron Building 7 or 8 years ago. You may be able to find him through the SF Arts Commission. Images will be key...documentary photographs, paintings that reveal cultural and natural history. |
| ID: 54 | Speak with elders from Cochiti, Santa Clara, Santa Dominigo, Tesuque, Nambe, etc. Bring in many historians, and include Howard Zinn's collection of stories of our city. |

| ID: 58 | By having opportunities to listen and honor the stories and story tellers. More than markets and parades, actual visits in the schools, churches, libraries, common places. Pop up sharings in Walmart parking lots, etc |
| ID: 59 | More appreciation of our Pueblo values and history can and should be encouraged. |

|---|---|
| ID: 59 | A Southside 'Plaza del Sur' would be a great way to allow for more understanding and experience of more varied cultures living here. |
| ID: 6 | Understand why historical buildings and markers are there and why. |
| ID: 64 | I’m sure that written records from various viewpoints exist. If a summary booklet could be created, it should be distributed both via tourist outlets (which also distribute maps and ‘to do’ booklets) AND to the general population via Pasatiempo special edition. |
| ID: 68 | Put out a call for people -- making sure to include everyone (tribal representatives, educators, students, scientists, artists, retirees, historians, curators, everyday folks...everyone who may have relevant stories and information) to share their stories whether written or otherwise recorded and start a repository where anyone can access this information. |
| ID: 68 | compile a factual, date-based historic timeline and then place some or all of these stories (links) on this overarching historical timeline. |
| ID: 68 | Create virtual and in-person "exhibitions" of the history that can be accessed (and added to) by anyone |
| ID: 68 | Develop a series of talks, conversations and presentations to share and discuss the history and stories, and have story contributors as guests and/or panelists. Roll out all of this into our schools and other public facilities for even greater access |
| ID: 68 | Create a Santa Fe history course with syllabus that can taught/shared in schools and online. |
| ID: 70 | A series of signs positioned around the Plaza with short stories about the history would be helpful. |
| ID: 74 | Present the full historical context of any statue or similar public display ( written by a PhD history professor specializing in NM, Spanish colonial, Mexican studies, immigrant studies, Jewish studies, Indiginous studies or other specialty appropriate to the object) so that people can be educated. |

|---|---|
| ID: 75 | We can produce facilitated 'Listening Circles" where people have a certain number of minutes to share something about their history or culture that they love, or something about their own culture that they feel was a mistake. We can bring people together in the Plaza for 'speed dating' events where each takes turn telling the other about their view of a certain historic event, and then they can talk it over. There can be some prepping guidelines for this. This can and should be not only about our own cultures, but well-known examples from other places and times. We can create campaigns to encourage people to make an effort to meet someone out of our customary group, once a month, and get to know each other. |
| ID: 79 | Properly curate statues and monuments. Start by reading James Loewen's Lies Across America, then follow his advice |
| ID: 79 | Make known: many indigenous peoples often were at war, the conditions that led to the Pueblo Revolt, the Spanish reconquest of 1692 was not peaceful, the Confederate and neo-Confederate lie called the Myth of the Lost Cause. Publicize: the internment camp for Americans of Japanese descent, how Polk started the Mexican War as a land grab that led to the American takeover of the southwest. |
| ID: 8 | Youtube, booklets, history museum etc |
| ID: 80 | Provide grants to Native American owned businesses around and near the plaza, encourage new native-owned/employees businesses. |
| ID: 80 | Create more tributes to variety of historical persons and events, change street names, erect statuary/art around town reflecting diverse history. Install a Pope or prominent Indigenous statue on lower Cerrillos where most people enter the city. More visibility of women and women’s history. |
| ID: 81 | Perhaps rotating exhibits at the Convention center to highlight different groups would acknowledge our diverse cultural landscape. |
| ID: 83 | Community panel discussions with historians and experts who can tell the truth it's much encouraged. |
| ID: 85 | I would like to see antique-looking plaques around Downtown SF and the Plaza with simple verbiage showing the timeline of Peoples living here along with snippits of their history. Nothing overwhelming |

| ID: 96 | Support diverse perspectives of history education in the schools, even for the youngest students, presented in the form of storytelling, music, dance and other arts. |
| ID: S1 | Invite people from the original Pueblos to talk about their experiences and the history they know |
| ID: S1 | Use books written and films created by Indigenous people, Mexicans, and professors of university programs such as IAIA, UNM, MNSU, etc. who know and study history. |

Recommendations: How can we build healthier relationships while acknowledging our differences?

|---|---|
| ID: 1 | It's wonderful that we have separate focuses for different groups such as the weekend focused on Native Americans for the Indian Market, and the weekend for the Hispanic Market, but it might be helpful to also have more events with blended cultural experiences and ways of presenting how various cultures express similar values, ideals, activities in different ways. Especially we should help children understand the beauty and goodness in each culture, and how to understand that difference are to be valued and celebrated and not one chosen as better over another. It is important that we also emphasize the beauty of other cultures that are under-represented in our community. We will have to listen to each other more with open minds. We must address healing old wounds that haven't been adequately acknowledged. We have to be willing to be open minded and truly recognize the concerns of each of the cultures in our community. |
| ID: 101 | develop neighborhood associations and use them to host cross neighborhood events. |

|---|---|
| ID: 104 | Ideas to place plaques explaining why a monument was erected with points of view from those who support the monument and those who are offended by the monument would be better than removing monuments. |
| ID: 107 | Use the faith communities to establish a calendar of these celebrations, and provide annual studies in their specific community of the other communities. City Hall needs to remaim "agnostic" while still offering equal support to all. |
| ID: 109 | Be sensitive to economic and market forces that are pushing out the presence of older, traditional communities and structures and counter them with incentives and policies that allow them to survive and thrive. |
| ID: 109 | Through monuments, interpretive signs and exhibits, cultural programs, and events/observances and in educational curricula: cultivate an acknowledgement and honoring of cultures, histories, current stories, and traditions that is well-balanced between the Indigeous, Hispanic, Anglo and other cultures. For events like Fiesta, have a governing/managing body that has balanced representation and involvement from the Indigeous, Hispanic, and Anglo cultures |
| ID: 110 | Start by an acknowledgement of the basic history, and beyond that make opportunities equal for everyone. Also education is the key to moving forward. |
| ID: 110 | Any cultural element, like a monument, festival, or celebration that allows an oppressive act to be memorialized--like the obelisk or the Entrada--should be banned. |
| ID: 115 | Another important part of that dialogue is an exploration of the use of language. In one recent discussion, for example, a priest talked of mission but then a Rabbi shared how that term is very negatively loaded for the Jewish community. The same words mean different things in differing communities, and their meanings should not be assumed. In short, we can achieve this by creating a shared vision, by allowing everyone to be an expert in their own field and not in the field of other people, and by approving a communal understanding of appropriate terminology. That vision needs to be sustainable, inclusive and just, and must be borne of desire to learn from each other instead of protecting our own previous legacies at the cost of other people’s rights. |

| ID: 121 | Ideas to place plaques explaining why a monument was erected with points of view from those who support the monument and those who are offended by the monument would be better than removing monuments. |

| ID: 123 | The Interfaith Leadership Alliance of Santa Fe exists for exactly this purpose. To achieve this, ...first create a common connection ...[for example] religious organizations with a shared vision of improving the lives of Santa Feans. After that, ... explore how [groups] differ in ... approaches to that vision. In ... book group ... ask the adherents of the religion being studied to share their thoughts of the chapter, and then those who were not adherents of that religion only got to ask questions. This was an important and deliberate process so that ...[the groups].... acknowledged who had authority on a topic and who did not. ...[Do] not speak on other people's behalf. |
| ID: 131 | round tables that promote similarities and discuss differences and ways to be accepting of different points of view. |
| ID: 134 | Hold face-to-face sessions with a mediator between groups who are at odds about issues. |
| ID: 134 | Acknowledging past harms and a plan to do better |
| ID: 139 | I suggest getting people together from different backgrounds to obtain perspectives. Have a significant round circle with those with the most debate. Have smaller groups. Have two people meet to discuss who they are and their stories, i.e., Native Amercian meets with a local Hispanic, a religious person meets with someone who used to be in a gang, a senior meets with a young person of color or transgender etc.... I would also interview people who are incarcerated as part of the process. |
| ID: 142 | To build a healthy relationship starts with the a mayor apologizing in a public platform for allowing an open attack on Hispanic community members. |

|---|---|
| ID: 144 | A series of lectures with panel discussions afterwards |
| ID: 144 | Santa Fe's Fiesta could do more outreach to the community |
| ID: 144 | more outreach for pueblo feast days or education tours of pueblos. |
| ID: 145 | Maintain clean and healthy public spaces with shade in all parts of town. Rose Park and public libraries are great examples. |
| ID: 146 | Implement universal team building activities and have a zero tolerance policy regarding the us-and-them attitude. |
| ID: 148 | Last week the Pope Francis apologized to the world for the crimes done by the church during la Conquista. Local descendants of Spaniards need to come to terms with the harm that was done by their ancestors and their faith. We should have the Knights of Columbus read Bartolome de las Casas in public. |
| ID: 149 | Work on a be kind campaign. |
| ID: 15 | Create a great number of small groups that agree to meet many times over a period of months. Select representatives from larger groups (Hispanic, Anglo, Native, different ages, etc.) and provide an experienced facilitator for each. The facilitator will use the early sessions for building trust/community and teaching respectful communication skills, and then will step back and let the group exchange their stories. CHART could provide topics for the meetings |
| ID: 151 | 1) Publicize personal anecdotes of historical context drawing attention to occurrences i) when the trials and tribulations of common folks are shown to be culturally equivalent or ii) when cultures provided mutual support in an uncaring world/environment. 2) Laud the complementary attributes brought different cultures and hi light the times when the sum is greater than the parts |
| ID: 154 | Reduce the militaristic aspect if policing and replace it with community service workers- visible, in the streets, with actual resources-like food and water. Not weapons and flak jackets and million dollar vehicles. Open forum in open spaces not old elite theatres. Get rid of white male developers who just want to continue to sell off native lands. IMPROVE EDUCATION AND CHILD CARE. Teach good manners, communication, and civility in public affairs. |
| ID: 157 | Getting to know people better through facilitated dialogues and community projects like acequia clean-ups, mural projects, etc. |

|---|---|
| ID: 161 | By sharing in cultural celebrations and pastimes that are fully informed and supported. |
| ID: 183 | Require cultural training for all government employees, on an ongoing basis. Encourage businesses and schools to do the same, providing printed materials with references. Or Utube videos, etc. |
| ID: 183 | Train law enforcement and utility professionals in neutral communication styles. Have folks trained in mediation skills assigned to public forums, school boards, city council, state government, city government. |
| ID: 185 | Demonstrate this type of a dialog, in public, between respected leaders. offer opportunity for small group conversations with persons who consider themselves different from each other. Establish community exposure days with local groups, tours, movies +discussions. |
| ID: 186 | It should be mandatory, especially in New Mexico, for students in schools to keep a gratitude journal. |
| ID: 190 | Perhaps start a column in the New Mexican from CHART members and invite comments |
| ID: 191 | By making events and opportunities more inclusive to our Hispano, Native American and immigrant populations and less Anglo-centric. |
| ID: 191 | have more of an eye to marketing to LOCALS instead of just the wealthy tourists and transplants. |
| ID: 195 | Face to face contact over common needs without the bankers, lawyers, or politicians in their begged, borrowed or stolen roles as leaders or big shots, just folding chairs and homemade food and no talk of money with lots of children running around reminding us we are doing it for them. |
| ID: 196 | I think that only happens when people with different backgrounds, history and perspectives get to know each other. I think the Cafe Conversations https://thecafe.org/cafe-conversations/ offer a model to start. |
| ID: 2 | Perhaps starting with a "tourist" perspective would be a good beginning. Displaying food, music, cultural items (like dress), etc., is non threatening and can therefore be a welcoming action. However, we need to almost immediately go deeper than that. Could we have these actives on the Plaza? This is where we can come together. This is where we all feel pain right now. |

| ID: 200 | By re-building the obelisk to honor civil war solders |
| ID: 201 | SF has many different but separate events celebrating Native American, Spanish and Anglo cultural contributions to the history and culture of the city. We need to have more, specially joint events that simultaneously celebrate these cultures and the heritage of coexistence that is New Mexico. This heritage should be celebrated throughout the city, designated public spaces, neighborhoods and parks, not just in the historic center. Make it present! |
| ID: 207 | more cross cultural dialogues - including creative engagement |
| ID: 209 | Find COMMON GROUND, shared values, appreciation and history. Acknowledge that we all share certain things. Work with museums to be more open, responsive, pro active, and imaginative. Reexamine downtown parking meters. |
| ID: 212 | Facilitate community learning circles where people can be heard. The more community connections we have, the healthier our relationships will be. |
| ID: 213 | We need to support both hispanic and native people from the area in becoming educated about city processes, and encourage them (support them financially) to build Santa Fe different. This may mean subsidizing housing for native/local people to get educated while interning in a city department (preferably planning, or housing and human services). We need to involve them in the process of re-writing city landuse codes. We need to have a program to keep some people from Santa Fe in Santa Fe. We need to have youth employment programs IN and FOR THE CITY, so that the youth are invested in making the city better, and have something gainful to do besides school. The locations for these need to be on a bus line, and some should be in the South part of town. These programs should focus on getting youth from as wide a spatial spread as possible. They should also be associated with "invite your family" celebrations, award ceremonies, or events after the program has been in place for a while so that engaged youth encourage their families to take part. These events should encourage public discourse and bonding (games? Also food, so that people's blood sugar and emotions are managed from a physical aspect). For every European holiday (fiestas), we should have a native holiday equally as important (if city staff get time off for one, then the other too for example. If the city spends x dollars on a parade for one, then it spends x dollars on something for the other). |
| ID: 214 | Teaching critical race theory will go a long way in assisting everyone in understanding current beliefs that have led to divisions among the different ethnicities living in NM. Presenting public lectures (free), films, and public forums to discuss the beliefs that currently exist. Each of us tends to link our identiy to out beliefs, and when these beliefs are questioned or challenged with an alternative narrative, divisions often occur. It is essential that documented, sourced, and accurate historical facts be presented along with forums that encourage exploration of accepted historical beliefs. |

|---|---|
| ID: 219 | Build into k-12 curricula accurate and comprehensive stories of SF history, including stories written and performed by all of the cultures represented in SF. |
| ID: 223 | Involve Rob Martinez, New Mexico State Historian, to facilitate fairness. |
| ID: 225 | Southern Poverty Law has excellent tools for teaching tolerance and encouraging youth to learn about others. Their programs are a good place to start to look at teaching about others and establishing a norm of common good for our community. |
| ID: 226 | Listening circles with talking sticks, where everyone has a chance to expressed what is important to them, can be a way of seeing other sides. Rounds and rounds of listening to mixed groups of people express their pride and meaning, can lead to more empathy. Taking mixed groups into nature to cook and build huts together and walk and discover can give people a way of overcoming prejudices, and owning our strengths. |
| ID: 227 | Focus on maintenance of and creation of diverse neighborhoods and meeting places - then the relationships are organic, as opposed for the need to fabricate them in a segregated society. |
| ID: 230 | Allow for history forums and media that the youth will be reached with (social media, videos, QR codes, etc.). Celebrate history as a tourism draw. We already have a tourist campaign focused on eco-tourism (skiing, hiking, biking, fishing)---move it to “history-based tourism” also. |
| ID: 230 | Honor people like former State Historian and professor Hilario Romero, who of mixed blood understands the blessings of a multi-cultural approach. |
| ID: 230 | “income inequality” must also be addressed. Sustainability and quality of life must be a part of Long Range Planning (that office in City government has been eliminated in 2019). Congruently, the City government must work closer with the County Government to get all their services done. Things like the City-County Regional Planning Authority have not met since 2009. |
| ID: 238 | Have more education online classes about different diverse groups that we can attend. From transgender and sexuality issues to hearing from different peoples to share maybe focused on a particular topic. |
| ID: 238 | Maybe learn about different cultures through food. food often brings people together. |

|---|---|
| ID: 239 | Open meetings with an agenda and rules so it doesn't go off track. A FOCUS group of the various groups/cultures. In order for people to speak up and be vulnerable, they have to trust the others. Once they have built that trust, they have to be open to state their minds/opinions without any negative feedback. THEN and only then, after you have trust and productive conflict, can you have full commitment and accountability from everyone. All of this, ends with positive results. The Five Behaviors - read about it! It will help get you started. |
| ID: 24 | Create "reach out" programs in all elementary schools to help children learn from their early years the commonalities and to respect the differences among our mingled populations. |
| ID: 247 | Keep a separation between church and state. Remove the 10 Commandments monument from Fire Station #3 on Cerrillos Rd. |
| ID: 248 | We need conflict resolution skills to be taught and modeled as well as how to listen to each other at a deeper level. |
| ID: 249 | Through thoughtful deliberation of issues—monuments, housing, transportation, policing, education, water, climate change, etc.—involving more or less proportional numbers of people from all demographic groups with a stake in the issue, who meet together with the help of facilitators and expert consultants as needed in a setting structured to encourage respectful listening and speaking and openness to learning from rather than winning the argument with those with different viewpoints. It would help to have an assigned task for the entire group: for example, finding common ground on the basis of which the group as a whole is asked to make recommendations for actions by the City’s Governing Body. |
| ID: 25 | create specific paid government positions to address this exact question as this sort of reconciliation and healing process requires a level of expertise that most people (myself included) do not have. At the same time, all of us as individuals must take responsibility for doing the work of learning more about colonization and white supremacy - providing programming for this in the community is important |
| ID: 25 | provide and resource spaces for marginalized communities to gather safely while also providing integrated spaces to build trust and relationships and reduce otherizing. |
| ID: 253 | I would recommend a series of accessible, seminar-style listening sessions on this topic as well. Right now, Santa Feans are expressing our differences with anger because nothing else has made an impact. Perhaps the listening session participants could be nominated by their peers? They could come from different sectors - schools, cultural groups, business groups/chamber of commerce, various nonprofit sectors, etc. It would probably be best to bring long-time locals to these sessions, because they understand the city’s attitudes and history. |

|---|---|
| ID: 255 | There needs to be a series of mediated public discussions of where everyone's (historical, culture, economic, etc.) grievances are aired. Out of that, hopefully, that can lead to an agreed process and actions that will be undertaken by a cross section of the community around joint participation and public events and public art (broadly defined) that honor everyone. |
| ID: 257 | More block parties in different neighborhoods. Rotating the neighborhoods. More historical way finding in neighborhoods. More walks and story time. |
| ID: 27 | Assemble a group of 10 or 15 people from diverse social, economic and cultural backgrounds. Pick an event, such as the Entrada of Juan de Onate, or the Pueblo Revolt, or Mexican Independence, or New Mexican statehood, or the traditional Fiesta in Santa Fe. Or pick a place, such as the Cathedral, the Obelisk and the Plaza, the Palace of Governers, the Santa Fe River, the Village of Agua Fria. Ask each participant to relate a story that they grew up with about each of these events or places. |
| ID: 279 | First is to knowledge that we are all human. Then, support cordial public dialogue and discussions with non-biased mediators. Invite impartial news outlets to report the facts of the dialogue. Expose state funding that SOLELY supports only those groups who keep a biased agendas and aggression. |
| ID: 284 | We need a clear, unbiased, statement of Santa Fe history. We also need a document showing the recent contributions to Santa Fe of all persons. Again, this needs to be as unbiased a document as possible. |
| ID: 289 | Alot of what I just said is relevant to this. Experience the foods, spiritual and religious practices, arts and crafts, cultural festivals etc. Rub shoulders, break bread with others outside your normal circle of friends and family. Probably best to keep "politics" out of the discussion for developing civil dialogue, at least at first. Getting to know people on a personal level, their own history and story, is the best and first way to begin. We are all human beings in the world sharing many commonalities as well as differences. |
| ID: 294 | Return de Vargas statue to the people of Santa Fe! |
| ID: 30 | Replace conquistador memorials and events with memorials and events that celebrate Hispanic forebears who did positive and beneficial things. Have events, such as meals. dance exhibitions, music that involve members of all communities but especially Hispanic and Native American, since the hostility is greatest between those two. Outreach to churches that bring different groups together. Outreach to young people in all groups, such as by bringing them together to perform modern takes on traditional music or art. |

|---|---|
| ID: 306 | Real estate agents need to be told to stop "red lining" neighbors. Families of former inhabitants of the old East Side invited to return to relatives houses on Canyon Rd, Acequia Madre, Camino Monte del Sol. I would host an event. |
| ID: 311 | The City of Santa Fe should sponsor a "Meet Your Neighbor," function(mixer) at the Plaza, or something similar to that, at least twice during the year, with free pizza or hamburgers, and soft drinks for everyone. |
| ID: 316 | Can colonizers and the colonized/conquered get along? Do you see large segments of Pueblo people living in the city? Can we acknowledge the influence of the other cultures in ourselves? We see it in the foods of northern New Mexico. Maybe it needs to go beyond acknowledging differences and look for similarities. Maybe we all need to take the ancestry DNA test. |
| ID: 321 | There are many cultural events that take place already in Santa Fe. Ask organizations that sponsor these events to reach out to people who might not ordinarily attend such events. At some point during the event, invite a respected member of the community to speak about the event and the cultural group that it represents, inviting the whole community to support this group and to value its contributions. |
| ID: 322 | Integrating "inclusion" into all City services and law enforcement, while also increasing salaries. This takes $. Discuss with state and county representatives ways to increase tax revenue. Perhaps tax second, or non-primary residences in Santa Fe? Having more owner-residents and reducing investment properties (or at least generating more tax revenue from them) might help. |
| ID: 326 | We probably need to find some little spot of common ground — which I believe is always possible — and then listen to each other's stories with interest. The we need to ask questions about what we feel as well as what we think. We usually need Robert's or Roberta's Rules of Order to help us -- or at least some guidelines that we can all pretty much agree to use. We need to be able to state our case. We need to see the value in listening. We need forgiveness and patience and time for insights. Sometimes we REALLY need to laugh together -- what is so funny??? Laughing together pushes away cloying distrust and mistrust. We may need more times to get to know each other. |
| ID: 327 | I am very hopeful that an opportunity to meet together to learn more about our history and to discuss our feelings about that history is a good place to begin. I do feel that it is important to have an “it” as a basis of for discussion. That “it” can be a writing (like https://estevanraelgalvez.medium.com/centering-truths-not-so-evident-9573b344d1e6), a video, a news item about an event, or a historic document. I feel that it would be less helpful for folks just to state their points of view so the lines are draw. Still it is important that people have a chance to talk about their personal experiences with the history of Santa Fe as they have lived it and those opportunities must be available. |

| ID: 33 | Open discussion where everyone can say what they need to express (without being offensive or bullied) Team building for a small city minus the ropes course or playing charades. Conversations in different parts of the city in every language needed to fully respect all we are. We can have an art installation on the plaza where people express what they need.want to about their heritage. Myopia serves no one - only honest and open dialogue can have each see another's point of view. We can only build healthier relationships if we want to build healthier relationships. Engaging those who are emotionally tied to the past and their own point of view will be the hardest to nudge along. A local talk show dedicated to the fabulous history of Santa Fe with guest speakers perhaps. |
| ID: 342 | 19 Pueblo tribal involvement, lessons and learning activities. Culture awareness through council and chamber. Put learning interactive lessons at public locations. |
| ID: 343 | A food festival in the summer for them to make their food and they could all be friends and not fight because of their different colter . |
| ID: 344 | hold a multi-cutrul food ogainizatoin so that people can learn about diffrent culterd foods. and we can make a food drive with diffrent foods. We can also try to make these free of more affordable to the comuntity |

| ID: 350 | Hold a muiti-cultural food festival in the summer in a area the has lots of parking and room for buses and space for children to play. Create a social club. |
| ID: 351 | Make a social club for people from each culture to know each other and get along like friends |

| ID: 358 | Hold a multi-cultural food festival in the summer in an area of town that has plenty of parking and bus access. Create a space for a social club, at the festival, or a permanent place for a multi-cultural social club. Events that celebrate many cultures. Make these events affordable for all community members. |
| ID: 362 | Have an even amount of representation from all . |
| ID: 363 | perhaps getting people to get together and share our family’s past history. |
| ID: 365 | Listen, really listen, to the quiet people. Being passionate isn't being right; it is simply being egotistical about being representative. Loud voices and aggressive actions only convince others you are disrespectful, which undercuts the power of your point and makes for reaction, not understanding. How to listen to the quiet people, how to hear many perspectives before making decisions, how to act and not react, those skills are a constant process that used to be the basis of democracy. Maybe Santa Fe needs a town meeting structure, like towns in New England. |
| ID: 375 | There are many good programs in SF that help kids learn about all kinds of stuff. Those programs, whether from SFPS or other institutions, should be funded more generously. If they are not already included, studios that teach martial arts should be eligible to compete for grants. |

|---|---|
| ID: 384 | have the city publish in paperback this history that hopefully will be lively written, concise, and truthful in a broad "non-woke" sense avoiding a tediously and guiltfully political correctness that would prove off-putting to many. Something around 80 pages or less since anything longer would defeat the purpose because many would not read a longer text. |
| ID: 385 | By developing narratives from the population groups involved: appoint historians to committees representing each population group and have each of them summarize a presentation about their group's complaints about other groups activities. |
| ID: 386 | Conduct learning workshops (again, using all useful media) to teach citizens fundamental principles of social cooperation and compromise. Identify leaders from Santa Fe's various demographic groups to help the process. |
| ID: 393 | Talking about different cultures with them and showing them how different cultures do different traditions |
| ID: 396 | For all local activities related to the area's history that are sponsored by the City of Santa Fe, all organizations and groups devoted to aspects of or perspectives on that history can be invited to participate in planning the events. |
| ID: 398 | Not by eliminating art and monuments and statues, but by leaving them and making sure they tell the entire story from all aspects. Add additional plaques or even other statues to explain all sides. |
| ID: 401 | Again we should amplify diverse voices and recognize past wrongs. We should not cover up our faults nor valorize those who did harm to others. We should create new stories and monuments together that represent who we are now as a richly diverse community rather than what we were. |
| ID: 405 | Stop allowing the illegal destruction of artifacts and statues. |
| ID: 406 | Have Madrid rule. |
| ID: 408 | Remove the mayor's money, influence and explain his actions, agenda and demonstrated rhetoric and prejudice against leaders in this movement to balance the scale of misinformation. Remove his insulation from appointees doing his dirty work in city government in the name of law, safety, protecting and and serving the public. Make it mandatory that his agents, appointees, contractors and others provide transparency and be required to attend all CHART public events. |

|---|---|
| ID: 418 | Encourage Spanish speaking around town. Spanish natives also can guide us toward more unity. They seem to also want to tell their history (de Vargas and queen stuff. — no one needs that anymore. It just perpetuates division. My way is better than your way. No, not anymore. We are ALL in this history together. Let's embrace it! Spanish and pueblo days. Spanish and pueblo and other artist festivals together. Separate too. But also a day or two of unity on display. |
| ID: 419 | Getting together individuals from diverse backgrounds, experiences and points of view for frank open, respectful conversations. Agreeing that it is o.k. to disagree without being disagreeable. |
| ID: 421 | In Santa Fe we have many organizations that help build community. For example, the Santa Fe Conservation Trust sponsors walking programs for all ages. It would be great for Chart to partner with organizations in Santa Fe in addition to carrying out Chart's mission. For example, the Santa Fe Botanical Garden has an horno and sample gardens that define multiple cultures that could be used to bring people together and learn something about differences and strengths in our relationships. Another idea would be to partner with the Santa Fe Public Library and have a book club with relevant reading suggested both by Chart and people of the community. The book club could meet online and in person. |
| ID: 422 | While CHART is a project of the City of Santa Fe, it's not owned by the city, but its citizens should own it. Therefore any effort should focus on engagement and inclusion. The project is called CHART, an acronym that includes just one action word – Reconciliation. If you want to reconcile anyone, you need to know what needs to be reconciled. You need to know the people, what moves them, and what makes them want to be in Santa Fe. The pre-step of reconciliation is knowledge and acceptance of who we are. Santa Fe is already a city with many faces. It is multi-cultural and embraces many cultures. Its history is rich and long before becoming Santa Fe. So the first question we should ask ourselves is, who are we? At the same time, the process has to be embraced by all cultures together or separately then shared to stimulate cross-learning. While I could go on listing what should be done, I would instead like to list what I would like to see: • City-wise events that include discussions/talks, performances that are engaging, and educational workshops, cooking demonstrations of all foods, intro to all local languages (Tewa and Navajo and old spanish), • Posters of Santa Feans saying what makes them be Santa Fean. • Street names include the original names of places in Tewa, or other languages that apply. And in some cases, streets and places should be renamed to raise awareness of their origin. • Santa Fean market/festival/day and not just Hispanic and Indian – the concept of the two markets have a long history, but one of segregation as well. • There is so much information out there that is false, based on incorrect facts, full of biases. It should not be eliminated but explained through a peer-review process. |

| ID: 429 | By looking to and learning from traditional aspects of Native and Indo-Hispano cultures, which inspire people and have important contemporary applications, particularly in terms of things such as local food production, water and environmental management, we can recognize and nurture essential things that are key to all cultures' ability to live here. |
| ID: 44 | Bringing people of all backgrounds to the table together for public discussions, panels and presentations. These people should be from all walks of life and age groups. Openness in government is critical and a stop to the obfuscation and finger pointing. Equal expenditure in all neighborhoods so that all people in SF have equal services, shopping ( aka the food desert) and amenities. |
| ID: 47 | Historical tours would be a good start. Like the old Chinese proverb says, "Hearing a thousand times is not as good as seeing once." Invest funds into "inclusive" history lessons! Be more inclusive of "all" cultures--especially those more closely related to our state for many generations. Include the history of Blackdom! Highlight our roots with all previous cultures. Comparison and Contrast sessions would help to shed some light on our similarities and differences. |
| ID: 49 | Educate, Educate, Educate. Promote awareness about oppression that our Native Santa Fean's face daily. Have Community Awareness days where people can buy books, food, pamphlets, that are fun. |
| ID: 497 | I think coming together around town at interactive art pieces and having a shared experience or just meeting people or seeing people who you might not interact with on a daily basis can foster understand and build bridges. I would really love to see more interactive art pieces rather than monumnets or statues, plaques....Items like splash parks, playgrounds, interactive music installations, labyrinths, gardens, orchards, berry patches, fountains, river parks (interesting things to do along the park ways and picnic tables). I think of cities I've lived in and the places you meet people that are different from you and it is open spaces with an experience we are all having together. Santa fe feels very stagnant in its art choices around town. There is so much potential out there. |
| ID: 497 | I would really love to see more interactive art pieces rather than monumnets or statues, plaques....Items like splash parks, playgrounds, interactive music installations, labyrinths, gardens, orchards, berry patches, fountains, river parks (interesting things to do along the park ways and picnic tables). I think of cities I've lived in and the places you meet people that are different from you and it is open spaces with an experience we are all having together. Santa fe feels very stagnant in its art choices around town. There is so much potential out there. |

| ID: 50 | sit in a room, with masks on, a round room would be best, and just feel the energy of people who really want to get along and need to find out how. Lay out the enthusiastic ideas, everyone gets to speak in an ongoing brainstorm, like what you are doing here |
| ID: 51 | tolerance building exercises free multi'cultural therapy or cultural competency classes, foreign language learning starting in pre'school and elementary school |
| ID: 54 | Ask about people's families, children, grandparents...share stories (what was their neighborhood like where they grew up? What kinds of food did you eat? Did you learn to swim? How? Where? Who was your favorite Grandparent, or Great Aunt, Uncle? Why? The personal story creates community, draws us in and allows us to see each other as people, people who are different but who also loved peaches picked warm from a tree. Our differences do not divide us, it is our inability to accept and celebrate those differences (Audre Lorde). We celebrate those differences when we can truly see each other through our stories. |
| ID: 54 | Present people with a collaborative poetry project. Starting with individual drawings done in response to a photograph, video, or story. Then each person writes the first line of a poem in response to their own drawing. Then moves over to write the second line of a poem on their neighbors paper...responding to their neighbor's drawing and first line of their poem. And so on around the table until you end up back at your own drawing and, complete poem. Have people read read these aloud while holding up their drawings. Ah ha! You have all just worked together! |
| ID: 6 | All sides must be heard. Use side by side comparisons of different points of view. Generate lists of both the good and the controversial aspects of each situation / historical figure. List why figures and events were chosen to be memorialized. List why they are still admirable qualities. List the controversial aspects. This should be presented in the spirit of : "You may be right, but I am not wrong". Get each side to acknowledge the other's point of view. |
| ID: 63 | city council meetings on Saturdays during day time |
| ID: 64 | Let’s educate against graffiti, against public display of prejudice. |
| ID: 70 | A smart, respected artist can create a symbolic sculpture to stand in the middle of the Plaza that would show unity and separation (like the Olympic Rings). Each and every person wants recognition. Perhaps a collaboration between three or more artists representing Spanish, Hispano, Native, and Anglo. With so much talent, surely these creatives could be found. |

| ID: 74 | If a group of people in the community is offended by a historical object or its location, they should develop a position, state the groups or organizations that support the position, and present it to a board of HISTORY professors with expertise. The independent group can then develop a mediated solution to the grievance and present it to the City Council. For example, an commenoration of the Spanish conquest of indiginous peoples may need to be reinterpreted to more accurately reflect an unbias history or be moved to a more appropriate location with proper historical context. |
| ID: 75 | We can host group experiences/workshops to learn better listening styles/habits. We can host performances where different kinds of cultural groups share something that is emblematic or telling for them, and have Q & A afterwards. We can find skilled mediators to join in a threesome with people representing different points of view, for 1/2 our conversations on a pre-determined topic. Then share with everyone present what that was like. We can invite people to eat each other's foods and share recipes. We can show films to the public that epitomize conflicts and ways people have resolved them, or not. Then break into small groups to discuss, with a facilitator. Then share small group experiences with the entire audience present. |
| ID: 78 | Allow all local traditions to shine not just the ones that make $$$ put the same energy and respect into Spanish Market and other events. 4th of July pancakes on the Plaza the Fiesta Court back into schools. Gay Pride Bring locals who live here back to the Plaza. Bring local businesses Back to plaza, cap rents so outsiders with $ who don't care about our city and history make the rent so high only ugly boot companies and Mall jewellery stores can only afford a space. And make out downtown area look cheap and fake. The history of art, and community is lost. More free local events and entry to museums for families who can not afford it. Don't nickel and dime locals. Everything is getting so expensive. Put more $ and respect into other areas and roads in town. Not just Gonzale Road. And the East Side. Clean up our parks and roads. Starting with respectiing the land and everyone who lives here not just the rich. The Railyard is the new plaza but it does not welcome Spanish and Native locals as much as tourist and others and it shows. People of color are being pushed out and until that changes we will continue to have more crime more retaliation. Stop building we have no water!!! Put more money into our boys and girls club!! Our public swimming pools. Public tennis courts, basketball courts. People that have less have nothing to do! Start respecting the community at large and the history will shine. |
| ID: 80 | Don’t take statues down ( we don’t have that many) but add more and different ones. Start with indigenous people statues. Honor current people too. Need way more non-Spanish men. Change name place names, take an ordinary street name, for example Airport Rd., and change to something historic and diverse. Make sure committees/boards/commissions are fully diverse. |

| ID: 83 | Question: Healthier_relations; Answer: I think we need to have more cultural events which demonstrate the diversity of our cultures these are events that should happen either on the plaza or in the convention center or places where people can gather like the lensic theater and we can have events such as dances and panel discussions about culture and just sharing instead of always politicking. |
| ID: 85 | NOT BY: tearing down locally painted murals; positioning the Natives, in subordinate ways, sitting on the ground under the Governor's Palace Portal and behind the stage and away from the happenings in the Plaza. We need to honor them by giving them spots to sell in more visible and prominent places. POC need help: housing the homeless, who are usually People of Color hanging out and begging for money; not pushing out the POC community for lack of affordable housing; This all causes gentrification/whitewashing/removal of actually SEEING our differences--our various cultures, mostly POC populations. We can't SEE differences among a whole bunch of rich, white folks. |
| ID: 86 | Create open table meals for neighborhoods, close street traffic for big communal meals. Why not close a few blocks on Agua Fria for a day? |
| ID: 93 | Not sure why this questions suggests these are in opposition. Involve Roshi Joan at Upaya. She has thought very deeply about these issues and is amazing to speak on them. Build connections among people. We need to get to know each other outside of our normal circles. Common goals unite. Common experiences unite. |
| ID: 96 | Support outdoor public art and events throughout Santa Fe, the more public art that is accessible, the more diverse perspectives can be shared and discussed |
| ID: 96 | Support bilingual education throughout the public school system. |

Recommendations: How can we become good ancestors to our children, their children, and generations to come?

|---|---|
| ID: 15 | A few simple rules: Listen with respect and kindness, setting a good example. Tell our stories, being sure to eliminate demonizing others. Involve our offspring in civic events that celebrate all cultures. Teach sacredness of the land. Stay curious and eager to make genuine, respectful connections with people who have different backgrounds and ideas new to us. |

|---|---|
| ID: 185 | Volunteer; be involved; seek joy for people in all circumstances. Read about others' experiences and write about ours. Evolve thinking by continued education and social engagement after traditional schooling years. Improve the schools by housing teachers locally. Establish a standard volunteer gap year for post high school. Bike and support localized community resources to reduce pollution. |
| ID: 19 | Develop programs to eliminate the bad habits that come from multi-generational issues such as domestic violence, substance abuse and other learned behaviors that need to stop |
| ID: 198 | By supporting the CHART process and following through in good faith with its findings and recommendations. |
| ID: 2 | Let us approach our public schools with activities. These activities need to respond to help meet state of New Mexico Standards. Perhaps retired teachers could be recruited to help design them. The film program at the Community College could be helpful in producing videos. |
| ID: 201 | By building permanent reminders of our shared history throughout the city - again not just at the historic center surrounding the plaza which has become a marketplace for tourists (as important to the city's economy as that might be). Dedicate and design public places for this purpose, places and spaces that one can walk to or stop not just drive by or pass through on the way to somewhere else. |
| ID: 213 | We need to leave a walkable city, with parks connected by trails and landuse codes that allows for freedom of movement by all people and protect publically used passageways, as well as creates a system for creating a more walkable city among the existing spaces. We should invest in open spaces and stewardship/habitat restoration, maybe increase the gas tax and sales taxes to pay for open space land stewardship and acquisition. We need to change landuse codes to force mixed-uses, and disallow grocery stores and essential services to be only in one or two locations. These need to be distributed throughout the neighborhoods so that everyone can walk now. Then we need to encourage cultural shift so that we walk/bike as a fact of life, and everyone does it. Parks need to be safe, and accessible. We need to encourage citizens to interact with each other through walking. |
| ID: 237 | RESPECT starts with Respecting oneself and when you show respect for others you set an example for others to follow no matter what generation we are talking about. I would like to mention.I think the base of the plaza monument should be installed at Fort Marcy complimenting the military history there. |

| ID: 24 | Create public displays in the Plaza and around town that highlight the positive aspects of our varied cultures. For Pete's sake, remove the statues that continue to rub salt in the wounds of so many. Create a public display, perhaps on the Plaza, noting the history--its triumphs AND its tragedies--but looking forward to peace and reconciliation. |
| ID: 241 | By making space in a tourism-centric economy for those who can't financially afford to be otherwise represented. By figuring out low-income housing or some type of rent control to ensure Santa Fe doesn't continue to become a city of rich, white people. By publicly celebrating the city's true roots through installation of some type of art in the Plaza to replace the obelisk. By creating some type of fund (maybe taxing Santa Fe second home owners) to assist people in the historic district who can not afford to maintain their homes in accordance with conservation codes; this way Santa Fe stays beautiful and people can stay here versus having to sell something that may have been in their family for generations because historic preservation is too expensive. Planning more public celebrations/rituals in the Plaza that are community-focused (not tourism focused). |
| ID: 306 | "Welcome wagon" staffed by volunteers to attempt to educate well-off white newcomers about the real history of this place. |
| ID: 326 | I recommend looking through the photo book: "Through the Lens, Creating Santa Fe" c.2008 …[and]... "Santa Fe: 400 Years, 400 Questions" . Both of these books are available at our Public Libraries. |
| ID: 33 | By listening to our ancestors and keeping their stories, struggles and successes alive. Santa Fe was a beacon for blended societies living together and respecting one another's cultures. Do we want to become another anonymous city with pretty geography or keep the Native and Hispanic histories alive? If so, we need a host of different modalities to accomplish that. Immerse the city with the knowledge of what came before. Coloring books, banners, meet a historian day, hear stories from elders, have a Spotify presence or Tik Tok. In order to keep relevancy through out future generations, we have to keep current in how younger generations learn or engage. Have youth groups comprised of the different cultures planning for the future and how to take pride in their history. |
| ID: 346 | have a offcial holiday in the city of Santa Fe. |
| ID: 348 | We should make a big event to people around the world to taste diffrent culture's and to make it affortable. We should make a wall painted of something and that well make or children know the culture. we should celebrate holidays offical in santa fe. |

| ID: 358 | Have an official holiday in the city of Santa Fe that acknowledges all of the cultures that are here...make it a huge event that people from around the world would want to attend, but also affordable for local citizens. Festivals. Statues/plaques in a dedicated park. Special museum. Dedicated place for a multi-cultural mural. Things that kids help create. Invite young people to all planning meetings. |
| ID: 422 | The CHART consulting team should stimulate the creation of events and activities that can take place in schools, community centers, religious places of prayer, libraries, museums, farmers markets, practically everywhere where people convene. I would like to see multiple calls for art, performances that are newly created to teach history in an inclusive way. I would like to see public artwork that refers to Santa Fe's historical events that have not been told enough. For example, I would like to learn why Santa Fe was called Ogap'oge (olivella water place) and what it meant to everyone at the time. The art that Japanese internment camp members created should be brought NM and exhibited. These are just a few examples that bring hidden facts to life and educate the next generations. |

The iterative process employed by CHART was also used to develop Survey 2, a 39-item questionnaire based on the data collected during the first seven months of the project that would aid in the formation of recommendations to the Governing Body in the final report. [2]

Please see a detailed discussion of the iterative process in the “Methods” section of this report.

Review of data collected via Survey 1; recommendations culled from Survey 1; notes from public dialogues, listening sessions, meetings, and one-on-one interviews; evaluation feedback, and proposals received for the “Monumental Dreams and Conversations” (at the time of survey development) informed the formation of 39 questions for Survey 2.

In terms of survey platforms, there were a range of options to choose from including SurveyMonkey, SurveyGizmo, Google Forms, SurveyPlanet, SurveyLegend, and Qualtrics. For our target market (community survey, general public, ages 14 and over), SurveyMonkey was deemed ideal for the following reasons: reputation (98% of Fortune 500 companies utilize it), Question Bank feature (to minimize bias and solicit accurate responses), Editing capability (question per page feature), ease, and design options. Members of the team were also familiar with SurveyMonkey with varying degrees of expertise.

Due to the breadth of data collected, a few potential organizing principles for the questions were considered with a final decision to organize according to the principal topic areas outlined in the acronym of “CHART”--Culture, History, Art, Reconciliation, and Truth. Data results effectively cohered under these topic areas and indicated a logical structure for Survey 2.

Fifty-two questions were generated in the brainstorming phase of question development with a goal of condensing the questions to 30-35 for a survey that would take no longer (on average) than 10 minutes to complete. Aware that the second survey needed to be substantial due to the complexity of the project purpose and scope while cognizant that a too-long survey might be prohibitive, survey length was an important consideration.

> "In addition to the decreased time spent answering each question as surveys grew in length, we saw survey abandon rates increase for surveys that took more than 7-8 minutes to complete; with completion rates dropping anywhere from 5% to 20%. The tolerance for lengthier surveys was greater for surveys that were work or school related and decreased when they were customer related."[3]

The only change in the organizing principle was to situate the "Reconciliation" section last (rather than concluding with "Truth" questions) due to priming. "Truth" questions served as appropriate priming for answering "Reconciliation" questions in a fifth topic section. A sixth section was added to collect demographic information.

During the brainstorming phase, all types of survey questions were encouraged in order to provide the broadest range of options for consideration, including closed-ended with pre-defined list of answer options; open-ended format; multiple choice; rating scale; likert scale; matrix questions; dropdown; demographic; ranking; and slider. An emphasis on generating quantitative data was preferred as Survey 1 had been qualitative (see Appendix F). The second survey, coming later in the project period, was meant to confirm or deny information previously gathered, suggest consensus, and provide a strong basis for generating a final report with recommendations.

A circular process was undertaken to arrive at finalized questions: a) review existing project data while considering potential questions/statements; b) revise survey questions; c) return to data to verify both the necessity of question, its appropriate articulation (along with answer options), and the likelihood of indicative results, d) revise questions, e) repeat the process. One month of brainstorming questions followed by two months of the circular process ensured that Survey 2 was asking the right questions in the right ways in order to reflect the data generated during the public engagement process and to generate important, accurate, and useful information for the final report.

Ultimately, the following types of questions comprised the survey: 27 Likert, 5 Choice/Check all that apply, 3 open-ended, 4 demographics (zip code, age, ethnicity/race, years living in Santa Fe).

Twenty-seven questions consisted of a statement followed by a five point Likert scale; an additional 5 questions consisted of a question with answer options determined by data collected during the first 7 months of the project. For example, Q9 asks “Which of the following resources have you used to learn more about the history of Oga Po'gay/Santa Fe? (Check all that apply).” The 16 answer options come from data collected. Another example, Q18 asks “What should be done with Soldier’s Monument (“Obelisk”) on the Santa Fe Plaza?” The 7 answer options come from data collected.

The 5 point Likert scale utilized was the following, in the order indicated: Strongly agree; Agree; Neither agree nor disagree; Disagree; Strongly Disagree. This scale was used with the following logic: fewer number of choices; relative simplicity and ease of understanding scale; a neutral option is easy to identify; opposing extremes are easy to comprehend as either completely positive or completely negative.

In terms of survey format, SurveyMonkey offers the following options: “Classic” - shows all questions on a page at once. Respondents can scroll to navigate between questions. “Question at Time” - shows one question at a time in the center of the screen. When respondents finish a question the survey automatically scrolls to the next. “Conversation” - survey displays like a chat conversation. For Survey 2, “Question at a time” was chosen to facilitate ease and speed of survey while also encouraging respondents to focus on one question at a time without others in peripheral vision.

Skip Logic was utilized for individual sections–Culture, History, Art, Reconciliation, Truth, Demographics–but did not prevent respondents from exiting the survey at the end of a section, if necessary. This approach allowed for some flexibility, on the part of the user, and prevented users from getting locked into a web page with no time to complete the entire survey. With this option, regardless of its advantages, there might be users who exit the survey without completing other sections and numbers of responses to questions would inevitably vary. Even so, engagement within a section would be guaranteed and the overall results vis a vis topics would be dependable.

The English version of the survey was created first followed by a Spanish version. Both were made available online, via survey links posted on the CHART website, and shared widely including via CHART social media, by the City of Santa Fe weekly wraps and updates, and by the Santa Fe Public Schools with students, staff, and parents (via text). Paper versions in English and Spanish were also generated and distributed at targeted locations (e.g., Santa Fe Place Mall) and project events (e.g., Monumental Dreams gallery, Indigenous Ways Festival, Juneteenth).

Surveys were collected from 8 a.m., May 1, 2022, until midnight, June 19, 2022. Total surveys submitted were 653: 635 in English and 18 in Spanish. After the deadline, paper surveys were manually entered into the appropriate SurveyMonkey Collector, one of 3.

After closing the survey, results were analyzed via summary view of data; filter, compare, and show rules to analyze specific data views and segments; view and categorize open-ended responses; browse individual responses and more. Subsequently, the platform was used to download results in multiple formats and to create and export dynamic charts present in this report.

Survey results in English and Spanish were provided to the Community Solutions table (along with a large body of additional information) for their use in addressing issues and forming recommendations for this report.

All survey questions and results are discussed in the “Results and Recommendations” section of this report, followed by recommendations made on the basis of data collected before Survey 2 as well as related Survey 2 results.

[1] Survey 2 was created by the CHART project Evaluator and the project Co-Directors who had the most comprehensive knowledge and understanding of project data at the time of survey formation.

GUIDELINES FOR PUBLIC DIALOGUE SESSIONS

Zoom

One of the most important goals of the CHART project is to foster mutual understanding of shared values among people of diverse backgrounds and perspectives. Though sparked by controversies about monuments and statues, the project is much broader in scope and emphasizes community member-to-community member sharing, storytelling, and listening about a range of topics.

In a moment we will be sending you into Zoom breakout rooms. There, you will be guided by a CHART team facilitator and she or he will guide you to address the questions we sent by email, ahead of this session.

In each group, there will also be a note-taker who will be taking detailed notes. Some groups will also have an additional CHART team member present to observe, including our high school interns.

Each group will be structured so that each person will have time to speak for up to 2 minutes at a time, going around the Zoom room. When it is your time to speak, feel free to respond to the question and/or respond to a point that someone else has made. There will be two rounds for each question and these rounds will be followed by 5 minutes of group discussion.

These sessions are structured for equal sharing and a lot of listening. One thing that we heard over and over again, in responses to our first CHART survey, is that Santa Feans want us to listen to each other much more and to do so with a willingness to hear perspectives different from our own.

Your small group session will be recorded. CHART is collecting a wealth of information and data over the course of the project that will inform a final report with recommendations to the Governing Body. Recording ensures that we accurately document what citizens want to share. This said, we will never publicly share individual comments identified with your names.

Expect your small group session to last about an hour and a half.

Please mind the following guidelines that encourage respectful and civil dialogue:

- Listen carefully with an open mind and heart.
- Speak in turn. If you'd like to respond to a particular comment that someone else has made, wait until it's your turn to share. It may help to have a pen and paper handy so you can write down comments you'd like to return to when it's your turn to speak.
- Focus your comments on the subject matter of the question.
- Please keep your camera turned on. Eye contact is important to dialogue. Because we're not in-person, we want to humanize Zoom as much as we can.
- Never interrupt a person while she/he/they is speaking.
- Comments that are accusatory, verbally abusive, and/or profane may result in your removal from the room
- Anything that promotes discrimination and/or hatred against a person's or group's physical, mental, and emotional well-being will result in removal from the room.

If you are not comfortable with any of the above guidelines, simply stay behind after the others have gone to their breakout rooms and the CHART Co-Directors will be happy to address your concerns.

8. PRESENTATIONS

a. FY21 Audit Update; (Ricky Bejarano, Interim Assistant Finance Director, 505.629.6988, rabjejaraon@santafenm.gov)

Ms. Bustos-Mihelcic read the caption.

Director Bejarano presented the update. The FY21 contract was signed. A couple of corrections were made. They got permission to contract for the FY22 audit and working to be on time. The year-end closed on time for first the time since 2019. And, for the first time in three years, month-end closes started in July 2022, so the Department is quickly getting transactions posted on time and getting caught up.

Councilor Rivera asked if the monthly close outs have created delays in their work.

Director Bejarano said it has but they will get better as they go along. July went very well. It will also shorten the annual close.

Councilor Rivera asked what happens when something was procured in June but not finished until much later.

Director Bejarano said the City uses a modified accrual and it becomes on a cash basis in that circumstance. A bill on August 15 would be posted in August.

Director Bejarano said this allows the Department to correct errors as they go along. They can have up to a thousand JEs and without monthly closes becomes overwhelming if it waits until the end of the fiscal year. Staff are a little frustrated by it but learning.

Councilor Michael Garcia asked if the report on Piñon Ventures was ever submitted to the Governing Body. He wanted to learn from the report.

Director Bejarano said a draft has been issued and awaiting final clearance. Once it is final, it will be made public. It should be ready by the next Finance Committee meeting.

Councilor Romero-Wirth underscored the significance of monthly closes. It is the first time to close the FY on time in three years and first time using the new system. She congratulated Director Bejarano and his team on that big deal. It will help the City do a lot of things. So, we are now in FY 23 and now closing the first month of our first FY month. That will keep us on track. Not only will the City get audits done on time, but the Finance Committee can now review current finance reports in real time.

Director Bejarano agreed.

Ms. Bustos-Mihelcic read the caption for this item and its BAR.

MOTION: Councilor Romero-Wirth moved, seconded by Councilor Cassutt, to approve the purchase and the Budget Adjustment Resolution as presented.

Discussion on the Motion:

Councilor Lindell asked if there was anyone here to address it. She apologized for pulling this but needed clarification. In the packet it said these front-end loaders were used at the compost facility and she was not aware the City even had such a facility.

Mr. Heerbrandt said he didn't know the answer because he just started.

Councilor Lindell pointed out that the City is spending over $600,000 there and the revenue stream there is about $30,000. She was concerned about that. It was hard for her to support that. Buying two seemed impossible. She thought one would be sufficient and asked why the City would we buy two front end loaders.

Mr. Heerbrandt said they need to take sludge out of the wastewater and are saving money by doing that.

Councilor Lindell asked if the City could contract with a company instead.

Mr. Heerbrandt said he was not aware of a company that would take our sludge and turn it into compost as a method of disposal.

Councilor Lindell suggested coming up with a cost/benefit analysis as opposed to paying tipping fees. It just sounded like a very expensive program.

Mr. Heerbrandt said that was done when the City was planning to construct the compost facility.

Councilor Lindell asked for a copy of it and Mr. Heerbrandt agreed to provide it.

Councilor Rivera heard some sludge was used for composting and asked what was done with the rest.

Mr. Heerbrandt said they had a permit to use it on the land, but the permit has ended. It is more economic to compost it than to take it to the landfill. We have several we can use. Right now, we don't have an agreement with the landfill. We need an approved plan first.

Councilor Rivera understood only certain landfills can do that.

Mr. Heerbrandt said they intend to use Caja del Rio after a state plan is approved.

Councilor Cassutt asked if there were other environment benefits aside from economic benefit.

Mr. Heerbrandt said the compost can be reused, and some of it is used in construction projects.

Councilor Cassutt believed the environmental benefit was as important as the economic benefit.

Mr. Heerbrandt agreed and briefly described the benefit.

Councilor Lee Garcia asked if any of the final product would have to be disposed of.

Mr. Heerbrandt said they have adequate demand for all the compost.

Councilor Lee Garcia asked if these loaders were to replace old units.

Mr. Heerbrandt agreed. Both of them recently broke down and they had to rent units to use. He didn't know the cost for the rental. He added that the loaders were used at places other than compost facility. The new loaders are expected to last 15-20 years.

VOTE: The motion was approved on a unanimous voice vote:

Ms. Bustos-Mihelcic read the caption and noted that Manager Lovato was not present. Acting Finance Director, Alexis Lotero was present for questions.

MOTION: Councilor Michael Garcia moved, seconded by Councilor Romero-Wirth, to approve the PSA for audit services as presented.

Discussion on the Motion:

Councilor Lindell did not like the way the contract was put together at $3 million over a course of four years. The total concerned her to pay for outside accounting services. Part of the $3 million was the $30,000 for travel fees per month which made no sense to her. The Governing Body should not agree to a contract with that much in travel fees.

Councilor Michael Garcia asked Director Lotero where they are traveling from.

Director Lotero said they would travel from Albuquerque. She noted the contracted amount for travel was up to $30,000 so the City does have some control over that. It is potentially 10k per =year. It would be mainly auto and gasoline.

Manager Blair clarified that the $30,000 was not just for travel but also software, etc. This is a month-by-month contract which gives Finance a review each month. There will also be a national consultant for accountability up to $30,000 per month but not necessarily that much. Last year, the City had four consultants at a total of $2.5 million.

We are trying to hire a full-time Finance Director to build out our staff and to wean ourselves off the contract before long.

Councilor Michael Garcia said that does provide a better context. They would have lodging and food to pay for. He knew it was expensive when he had to go to DC often. He asked how much of this was due to the current vacancy rate.

Director Lotero said it was about a 40% vacancy rate for several years. Just closing the fiscal year timely is a huge accomplishment. To close a year in one month was a major task and some of that was because of the internal vacancies. She added that Director Bejarano knows what needs to be done. In this market, it is difficult to hire good candidates. She did not anticipate needing the full $3 million nor needing it in place for the full four years.

Councilor Michael Garcia asked if there was an option for requesting an amendment based on need changing.

Director Lotero agreed. That was why the contract said, “up to x amount” and over the course of the next few years on an as-needed basis. She anticipated it will decrease. She strongly encouraged the Governing Body not to take more time to delay it further.

Ms. McSherry clarified that the Governing Body could do amendments in line with the RFP, but the elements of the criteria could not be modified.

Councilor Michael Garcia asked if that meant on the total amount.

Ms. McSherry agreed.

Councilor Rivera asked if the contractor did not agree to the contract amendment to reduce the amount, whether the Governing Body would need to go back to do the RFP again.

Ms. McSherry said only if the contract was terminated would they need to go back to the RFP process again.

Councilor Romero-Wirth cautioned the Governing Body about the need to do that. It seems we have more than we need but we want our staff to be focused on the task at hand get the books in order so that there would be a better chance to have on-time audits.

She understood about the difficulty in finding Staff. These jobs are in high demand.

Director Lotero agreed it is difficult to find a person who can do it.

Councilor Romero-Wirth observed it is so helpful to be able to work on the FY22 audit while we are working on the FY21 audit simultaneously.

Councilor Rivera agreed with the imminent need to get books in order, but under normal circumstances, he would not vote to approve the contract. It is very high and appears to be top loaded. But getting back on track with our audits is so important. Right now, some departments are waiting on the audit so they can apply for grants. He trusted the Staff would make best use of the money.

Councilor Villarreal said six proposals were submitted. We know the criteria they must meet. She asked if Director Lotero could share the criteria that was followed to evaluate proposals.

Director Lotero said the criteria included the hourly rate, the staffing levels, experience, references, and similar things. The RFP committee has a manager who oversees the process.

Councilor Villarreal said it is a big contract, and you will be scrutinizing very closely. And I feel better about the opportunity to adjust it if we need. When the city starts filling vacancies, we can reduce the contract. She hoped that would work. The sooner we get the contract place the better off we all are.

Councilor Lee Garcia heard from Ms. McSherry about a 30-day retraction. He asked if there were any caveats and penalties.

Ms. McSherry said the City would have to pay for any work completed and page 4 of the contract details it. There was no penalty.

Councilor Lee Garcia was not comfortable with the price tag either, but he appreciated the work on this.

Ms. McSherry recommended making the motion contingent on the BAR that will be necessary on this contract.

MOTION: Councilor Romero-Wirth moved, seconded by Councilor Cassutt, to amend the main motion to add "to make it contingent on a budget adjustment in the amount necessary" for this contract being approved.

Discussion on the Amendment:

Councilor Michael Garcia supported the amendment.

VOTE: The amendment to the main motion was approved on the following roll vote:

For: Mayor Webber, Councilor Cassutt, Councilor Chavez, Councilor L. Garcia, Councilor M. Garcia, Councilor Lindell, Councilor Rivera, Councilor Romero-Wirth, and Councilor Villarreal.

Against: None.

VOTE: The motion as amended was approved on the following roll call vote:

g. CONSIDERATION OF RESOLUTION NO. 2022-39. (Councilor Rivera)
A Resolution Adopting the 2024-2028 Infrastructure Capital Improvements Plan ("ICIP"). (Regina Wheeler, Public Works Department Director: rawheeler@santafenm.gov, 505-955-6622)
Committee Review:
Governing Body (Introduced): 07/27/2022
Finance Committee: 08/01/2022
Public Works and Utilities Committee: 08/08/2022

Ms. Bustos-Mihelcic read the caption for this item and noted Director Wheeler was available for questions.

MOTION: Councilor Rivera moved, seconded by Councilor Romero-Wirth, to approve the ICIP Resolution as presented.

Discussion on the Motion:

Councilor Rivera thanked Director Wheeler and Director Ochoa who came up with ideas on other funding sources that would support the ICIP amendment. One idea was to replace MRC with libraries. Staff is engaged in all these projects and the Governing Body as well.

The amendment he proposed was cosponsored by Councilor Cassutt and Councilor Michael Garcia, and in the packet. He read his amendment which was to rank Project ID #40054, MRC Soccer Valley Expansion, MRC as #05 and to rank Project ID # 36143, Permanent and Transitional Housing and Homelessness, #06, and to rank Project ID #39891 La Acequia Trail Extension La Cieneguilla as #063.

MOTION: Councilor Rivera moved, seconded by Councilor Romero-Wirth, to approve the amendment as presented.

Discussion on the Amendment

Councilor Cassutt thanked Councilor Rivera for his work on the amendment. As to why, we have an anonymous donor to match the $3 million for Soccer Valley in a time limited offer. So, it will complete the plan which has been around for a decade. There seems to be other viable funding for the housing project, which was why that was moved down on the list.

Director Ochoa thanked Councilor Cassutt and spoke to it and her thanks for Councilor Rivera for his work. The work on homelessness is very collaborative with foundations and the County. We have a coordinator for it. The group is working very hard on conversion of hotels and other options. The State also recognizes the need with a $10 million allocation for the entire State. She spoke earlier with Ms. McSherry about using some of the opioid settlement for it too.

Ms. Tucker spoke to the new central library for the community. It is the one free space for culture for the City to plan a modern public library for this City.

Councilor Cassutt spoke about the MRC and importance of building Soccer Valley which provides a prevention resource and recreation for adults and social cohesion to make sure people can stay healthy and avoid falling into addicting patterns. This project will provide more of the resources.

Director Ochoa wholeheartedly agreed about how important that sport is – especially for our immigrant community but it is also an investment she wholeheartedly supported.

Councilor Villarreal thanked Councilor Cassutt for the reasoning behind this project. She was curious about the amount. Is it to request $3 million to match the donation.

Director Wheeler explained that we are seeking other funding but didn't say anything was received. $7.5 million is requested to reach for other funding.

Councilor Villarreal asked if the library project was $22 million and if Director Wheeler could say more about how the perspective changed on and what is best to request at the Legislation that is reasonable.

Director Wheeler said it is like the Teen Center match to go full speed on design and next year the construction and the third year for requesting the equipment. This could be done the same way. The same thing happened with the airport strategy. As the Governing Body continues consistently with the top five, those things can be achieved.

She identified other sources of funding that are possible. Ms. Tucker is adept at that for libraries.

Councilor Michael Garcia thanked the people that put forth the proposal to finish up the soccer master plan. There is also an economic impact that can be achieved as a world-class soccer city with tournaments from all over the world. He hoped the Legislature supports it.

Mayor Webber clarified while celebrating sports for young people, the City has not de-escalated SWAN Park. Phase 2 is coming online with offerings to the southside people. It is an optimistic trajectory here as we grow as a community. With all the young people living there, we want to make opportunities there nearby for outdoor recreation and staying positively engaged.

Councilor Chavez thanked colleagues for the work and exciting to see the community center in the top five. Much of drug abuse is due to lack of resources for the young people and will have positive impact in the future.

She has advocated for the young people wo have passion for this sport. This is a move in the right direction.

VOTE: The amendment was approved on the following roll call vote:

For: Mayor Webber, Councilor Cassutt, Councilor Chavez, Councilor L. Garcia, Councilor M. Garcia, Councilor Lindell, Councilor Rivera, Councilor Romero-Wirth, and Councilor Villarreal.

Against: None.

VOTE: The main motion as amended was approved on the following roll call vote:

For: Mayor Webber, Councilor Cassutt, Councilor Chavez, Councilor L. Garcia, Councilor M. Garcia, Councilor Lindell, Councilor Rivera, Councilor Romero-Wirth, and Councilor Villarreal.

A Resolution Updating the Terms of Approval Included in Resolution Nos. 2020-24 and 2022-9 to Change the Permitted Location of Banners Commemorating “Hometown Heroes” From the Cerrillos Road Corridor to the Railyard, Guadalupe Street, and the Greater Downtown Area. Governing Body: 08/10/2022

Ms. Bustos-Mihelcic read the caption for this Resolution.

Councilor Michael Garcia explained the resolution was postponed because it was limiting the location to the new location and removed the former location. He wanted to leave all locations open.

Ms. McSherry said an amendment to this would work and just make sure the caption is worded similarly to what was done with Zozobra. When a caption is changed, the City has to put it in the newspaper.

Councilor Michael Garcia wanted the Cerrillos Road location to remain valid.

Ms. McSherry agreed that would be within the spirit of what he wanted to do.

Mayor Webber urged him to create the amendment to have it ready to move.

Mayor Webber asked how we interpret this resolution. He asked if what Councilor Michael Garcia is asking was not to exclude Cerrillos. Mayor Webber felt the resolution does not exclude Cerrillos Road. He asked Ms. McSherry to guide this. He was not looking for a vote tonight but an opportunity to have correct at the right time to vote on it.

Ms. McSherry agreed. That was her recommendation too.

Mayor Webber offered to call a special meeting or have it at the next regular meeting.

Councilor Michael Garcia thanked him. That was helpful.

MOTION: Councilor Michael Garcia moved, seconded by Councilor Cassutt, to postpone this item.

VOTE: The motion was approved on a unanimous voice vote:

For: Mayor Webber, Councilor Cassutt, Councilor Chavez, Councilor L. Garcia, Councilor M. Garcia, Councilor Lindell, Councilor Rivera, Councilor Romero-Wirth, and Councilor Villarreal.

1. Request for the Approval of a Budget Amendment Resolution (BAR) in the Total Amount of $10,117,243 for Constructing Road Improvements on Guadalupe St. Under Org/Obj 3309980/572970.

Ms. Bustos-Mihelcic read the caption for this item

MOTION: Councilor Villarreal moved, seconded by Councilor Cassutt, to approve the Cooperative Project Agreement and the BAR as presented.

Discussion on the Motion:

Ms. Glorioso-Moss presented the request and noted it is the largest road improvement funding ever for the City. The construction would begin in October including two travel lanes, raise the median in the center and create 5-foot bike lanes on both sides of the street and 6-foot sidewalks and driveway improvements. This project will make it safer for pedestrians, bikers, elderly, and children. The speed is to be a 20-mph limit. The construction span is one year, and the Governing Body could amend it for longer time, if needed.

Councilor Villarreal congratulated Ms. Glorioso-Moss for this stage of the project despite all the hindrances.

VOTE: The motion was approved on a unanimous voice vote:

For: Mayor Webber, Councilor Cassutt, Councilor Chavez, Councilor L. Garcia, Councilor M. Garcia, Councilor Lindell, Councilor Rivera, Councilor Romero-Wirth, and Councilor Villarreal.

Against: None.

11. MATTERS FROM THE CITY MANAGER

Manager Blair reported making progress on the RFP to hire a new lobbyist and hoped for an offer this week or next.

He announced the newspaper reported the new RECC Director Roberto Lujan was hired and worked as interim director before.

He acknowledged some staff who are celebrating anniversaries and identified those with anniversaries of 5 years, 10 years, 15 years, and 20 years. He added that Bernadette Cortez, with Fire Administration just hit 28 years with the City, and Randy Lopez, with Parks, Trails, & Watershed just hit 32 years with the City of Santa Fe, and Mark Vigil, who works with the Parks Department, is at 33 years with the City. He thanked them all for their service and all present applauded.

12. MATTERS FROM THE CITY ATTORNEY

Ms. McSherry updated the office on operations. In July alone, they received 671 requests for public records. By August 8, only 150 of those were still open. A vast number were for police records. All three of the team are now able to access police records after background checks and fingerprinting.

The City Attorney Office is doing collaboration with other jurisdictions for best practices. She was happy to have the extra resources.

She mentioned the best way to review confidential proposals for procurement when the Governing Body is interested. Councilors can always reach out to the procurement team or request an executive session at any time to discuss them, even without it being on the agenda, such as confidential proposals for competitive procurement. She explained she could not take questions now, but she was happy to have a talk with anyone who has questions. She added that proposal and scoring are confidential until it is awarded.

13. MATTERS FROM THE CITY CLERK

Ms. Bustos-Mihelcic said the City is still moving toward the date change on collection of refuse.

The last movie of the summer season is this coming Friday night and is teen night there. There will also be a popup bike cruise that night.

The Bicentennial has extended hours through September 11.

She hired Christina Montoya as Records Management Technician. So far, she has reviewed 5,000 boxes and reviewing the allowable destruction date. They are moving into technology of tracking software and scanning documents. It is a huge project.

Manager Blair said he forgot one update. Senior Staff met about locked doors at City Hall. The Lincoln Street door is open until 5:00 p.m. and starting now, the Lincoln doors will be the only doors open. He is preparing signs to direct people to the Lincoln doors for evening meetings. He will make sure it gets done.

14. COMMUNICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNING BODY

Councilor Chavez said she went with Maria Tucker to Senior Services and was blown away with the work being done there. Seniors make up a lot of our population and the staff there are working hard. Over last year, they provided 7,204 rides, registration, and outreach of 2,282 citizens now enrolled with Senior Services, 1,841 nutritious hot meals were served, 171,710 meals delivered by Meals on Wheels, 41,729 grab and go meals, 10,000 volunteers for tutoring and mentoring, 20,000 hours of assistance and friendship provided. 30,000 hours provided by RTC volunteers. It is a very large operation and a beautiful team effort.

Councilor Lee Garcia announced events this weekend. One on Saturday, August 13 from 1-6 pm on Jaguar Drive and Paseo del Sol sponsored by Southwest Santa Fe Advocates, inviting the community to come out to talk about community things. He gave a shout out to the planning team and spoke in Spanish about the event.

He also invited everyone to the Southside Fair hosted by the Chamber of Commerce on August 18 at the Fraternal Order of Police from 4-7 p.m.

He also gave a shout out to the sponsor, State Farm, as well.

Councilor Cassutt also highlighted the August 18 event and mentioned its sponsors. There would also be helpful resources for small businesses offered there.

She highlighted the $900,000 of ARPA funds for job development for childcare providers. An accelerated degree program is offered at SFCC.

She wished Happy Birthdays to her son’s father on August 13 and her little son who is turning 4 on August 24.

Councilor Romero-Wirth said there were three vacancies on the Water Conservation Committee, and they will be accepting candidates to help with looking at water conservation projects. Christine Chavez is the department head. She urged residents to reach out to her or Ms. Chavez if interested.

She gave a shout out to her husband on our 32nd anniversary tomorrow.

Councilor Lindell said she was at Ft Marcy Park this past weekend to help with Zozobra things. She noticed the pickleball courts were mobbed. There was a food truck there. It was a tournament supporting Habitat for Humanity and raised $5,000. She was thinking about the pickleball club.

Councilor Villarreal gave a shout out to the library team and the 15th anniversary of the Southside Library celebration. She thanked Maria Tucker for her community-oriented vision as Library Director and the innovative team helping her. They had many creative ideas for programming at the Southside Library.

Councilor Michael Garcia recognized school will soon be back in session. His oldest daughter is a sophomore in high school and their year already started. He urged drivers to keep an eye out or little ones trying to get to school.

Councilor Rivera invited everyone to the Southside Library Saturday for Community Day. He wished all young people a great start to school on August 17.

To Ms. McSherry he mentioned that about contracts. There was confusion on Monday night about what staff can put into Prime Gov and whether that is open to the public.

To Manager Blair about the Lincoln entrance, he recalled a couple meetings before, a person walked through the entrance from outside of Chambers. That needs to be given attention for safety. He thanked Manager Blair for recognizing staff anniversaries. He mentioned the Employee Benefit Committee who once handled those recognitions at the Governing Body meetings. They might have some ideas on how to make it work.

Mayor Webber observed our City is full of activities and events going on.

He went today to a LEDA grant award to Parting Stone start up that is now three years old and will have 100 employees dealing with death and remains and using technology for commemorative stone for connecting. Their success is outstanding. So many startups are succeeding in our City.

He announced a group to develop health care in skilled workers and an award of $6.4 million award to them. There will be an event to celebrate it soon. This is one among 32 national award winders out of 509 national applications in the nation.

Our Tourism Newsletter continues to demonstrate how Santa Fe stacks up in world economic growth.

Santa Fe was voted the third best city in the United States on World Best City lists. People want to come here because they are treated well, are safe, and have a lot to do. Tourism makes the experiences available. There is a shuttle to the Balloon Festival. Music Week is August 27 through September 3. That doesn't count all our city events.

He applauded the great work being done in hiring. HR did another rapid hire event at GCCC. Twenty offer letters went out to the Public Utilities Department to staff up people in all parts of that department.

He attended the swearing in of four new lateral hires last week and this week, seven more lateral hires were given offers to join SFPD. That is making significant strides with the offers going out and people accepting. We see people want to work at SFPD right now. He gave a shout out to Chief Joye and Director Ochoa.

Councilor Rivera also gave a shout out to Melissa McDonald for the concert at SWAN Park this past weekend that had great attendance. One critic of the ball in field talked with him and he called Director McDonald, and it was taken care of by that evening.

15. INTRODUCTION OF LEGISLATION

a. CONSIDERATION OF RESOLUTION NO. 2022-__. (Councilor Cassutt, Councilwoman Villarreal, Councilor M. Garcia, Councilor Chavez)
A Resolution Advancing Complete Streets as a Proven Countermeasure to Provide Safer and More Equitable Transportation Improvements in the Santa Fe Metropolitan Planning Area While Reducing the Impacts of Climate Change. (Erick Aune, Transportation Planner: ejaune@santafenm.gov, 505-955-6664)
Committee Review:
Introduced: 08/10/22
Quality of Life Committee: 08/17/22
Public Works and Utilities Committee: 08/29/22
Governing Body: 08/31/22

Ms. Bustos-Mihelcic read the caption.

Councilor Cassutt explained this resolution recommits the dedication of the City to Complete Streets - Multi-modal traffic plan, and Chapter 14 to incorporate Complete Streets into the legislation and how we would like transit options for cars, biking, and public transit. It would create a scenario for economic or environmental reasons to use alternate forms of transportation.

Councilor Villarreal added that it was passed at the MPO Policy Board. This concept has been around a long time to improve connectivity and mobile opportunity and planning for safety and wellbeing and equity and sustainability goals.

Councilor Michael Garcia echoed those comments. This got BTAC support, and he gave MPO Staff Erick Aune a shout out Councilor Chavez said Complete Streets also helps with safety for seniors in our community.

16. PETITIONS FROM THE FLOOR

Ms. Bustos-Mihelcic opened the floor for petitions.

Stefanie Beninato gave her petition on the budget discussion. She said it is the same discussion going on for four years. No other City fails to meet the deadlines as much as Santa Fe does.

She wondered how the last CHART events played into their role in the contract. She applauded Ms. Tucker's efforts at Senior Services. She complained about Ft. Marcy pool limited hours. She texted Melissa McDonald about the absence of No Smoking signs on the Plaza.

She said since she was a Tour Guide, she gets a lot of complaints about vehicle noise downtown. Some drivers rev their engines to make more noise which is deafening.

Her last issue was about the City Historian who was retiring. The position needs a person with a degree in history and not someone just out of school and new to Santa Fe. She also complained about the HDRB procedures.

There were no other petitions.

17. PUBLIC COMMENT ON BILLS (FIRST PUBLIC COMMENT, NO ACTION)

There were no public comments on Bills.

18. FINAL ACTION ON LEGISLATION (PUBLIC HEARING)

There was no legislation for final action.

Committee Review:
Governing Body Special Meeting: 8/15/2022

Ms. Mihelcic read the caption for this agenda item. Officer Bejarano was present.

MOTION: Councilor Michel Garcia moved, seconded by Councilor Villarreal, to approve the BAR for audit services as presented.

Discussion on the Motion:

Officer Bejarano explained this is to cover what was not covered before. The contract was approved contingent upon getting this budget adjustment at $1.996 million. The original budget was $1.1 million so the request is for the Governing Body to approve the $1.996 million to bring it to the full amount of the contract of $3,096,000

Councilor Lee Garcia asked where the money was found for this BAR.

Officer Bejarano deferred to Budget Officer Andy Hopkins.

Officer Hopkins clarified that $1.1m was already in the General Fund and received the notice that the caveat from the approval of the contract was in there that the Governing Body needed to approve the remainder. That was why the extra funding was in this item.

As noted in Committee meetings and previous Council meeting, the City does not foresee spending that entire amount. That was a “not to exceed” amount. We anticipate spending significantly less, but how much is impossible to say. The contract says up to that amount so that is the amount that will be put in the budget.

Councilor Lee Garcia understood the Governing Body did not know that amount the last time it was discussed.

Officer Hopkins agreed. In the caveat at Governing Body approval, we decided to include that additional amount in the budgeted amount. That was requested to be taken from the overage of the GRT which was above the amount in the General Fund budget last year. It came in stronger through the last FY and the City had more money available for things like Police Department vehicles, Public Works vehicles and work on public streets.

Councilor Lee Garcia concluded that this will not take away from other projects.

Officer Hopkins agreed. It was unanticipated extra revenue above last year's budget.

Councilor Rivera wondered why, since we anticipated much less expense, we are not waiting until mid-year to have this BAR, when a better estimate of what it will cost would be known.

Officer Hopkins said that was what they originally planned, but because of the caveat put in the approval of the contract, as contingent upon having the entire budget amount in the contract, we had no chance to do that with the approval.

Councilor Rivera agreed with Councilor Lindell that putting in all of it would almost encourage spending the entire amount. He had hoped for a different way to do it.

Ms. McSherry explained that the entire amount was put in the contract, so the City is required to have that amount in the budget.

Councilor Lindell understood the entire amount was in the contract. She asked Ms. McSherry if the Governing Body couldn't have done it on a year-by-year basis.

Ms. McSherry said the approval was only for one year. The four-year estimate was $12 million.

Councilor Lindell said she was asking if we could have done it in a different way.

Ms. McSherry agreed.

There was no further discussion on the motion.

VOTE: The motion was approved on the following majority roll call vote:

For: Mayor Webber, Councilor Cassutt, Councilor Chavez, Councilor L. Garcia, Councilor M. Garcia, Councilor Romero-Wirth, and Councilor Villarreal.

Against: Councilor Lindell and Councilor Rivera.

b. CONSIDERATION OF RESOLUTION NO. 2022-42. (Councilor M. Garcia, Councilor Rivera, Mayor Webber, Councilor Romero-Wirth, Councilor Chavez, Councilwoman Villarreal, Councilor Cassutt, Councilor L. Garcia, and Councilor Lindell)
A Resolution Updating the Terms of Approval Included in Resolution Nos. 2020-24 and 2022-9 to Change the Permitted Location of Banners Commemorating "Hometown Heroes" From the Cerrillos Road Corridor to the Railyard, Guadalupe Street, and the Greater Downtown Area.

Governing Body: 07/27/2022 (Postponed)
Governing Body: 08/10/2022(Postponed)
Special Governing Body: 08/15/2022

Ms. Mihelcic read the caption for this item.

Ms. McSherry pointed out the main motion was already on the table.

Motion to amend the Resolution:

MOTION: Councilor Michael Garcia moved, seconded by Councilor Rivera, to amend the Resolution as it was included in the packet.

Discussion on the Motion to Amend:

Councilor Michael Garcia understood the amendment has many pieces. It was to have leeway to hang them anywhere in the City. Governor Lujan Grisham allowed for the banners to be hung on St. Francis from I-25 to the front of the National Cemetery. The amendment allows for the adoption of prior approved location from Cerrillos Road to St. Michael's Drive and also extended it to the state roadways to St. Francis and also includes the Railyard District, the Guadalupe area and the greater downtown area.

He said the hope was to be able to hang veterans' banners throughout the entirety of this great City. He thought they could accommodate 340+ banners through the tireless efforts of Mayor Webber, Councilor Rivera, City Manager Blair, City Attorney McSherry, various City Staff who are trying to figure out how to do it. It took more time than anticipated but we hope with this final results, the veterans' families will be pleased with the expanded locations.

Councilor Michael Garcia said several folks have stated these banners represented the people who willingly went to serve our country which is absolutely not true. Many veterans whose banners will be hung, served in World War II, many served in the Viet Name War, And 66% of those who served in WWII were drafted. They served our country unwillingly. Roughly 30% of the Viet Nam veterans were drafted and served unwillingly. That accounts for Viet Nam alone nearly 17,000 deaths in the Viet Nam War.

He clarified that these banners were not just for those who went willingly to serve our country. Many were given their orders to go serve.

Mayor Webber said he left off one person – he forgot to mention himself for his service. He has been very instrumental in his outreach and support for ways to get this done. It was a teamwork requiring a lot of patience and setbacks happened along the way and disappointments. But there were unflagging efforts to get it done. Kudos to him. He deserves thanks.

Councilor Michael Garcia recognized some of the local people on the Committee who worked on this. Hometown Heroes organizer, Don Christie, American Legion Commander, Major Carmela Quintana, and the rest of the American Legion who helped. And most importantly, the veterans' families. They have been a tremendous support for this. He wanted to make sure they were duly recognized.

Manager Blair gave some logistics on this. Driving down Cerrillos Road now, you can see what the Governor hung already. Probably by the end of this week, 147 brackets should arrive for the remainder of the banners to be hung.

Manager Blair clarified that this resolution is specific to this year. When he decided the banners needed to come down, he met with the veterans' organizations to figure out how fast we could get them hung them and afterward, decide on a longer season next year.

Councilor Villarreal thanked Councilor Michael Garcia, Councilor Rivera, and Manager Blair for their support for this. She appreciated that the Governing Body took time to work with community members to get this done well. She also thanked the Governor for being part of the solution.

There was no further discussion on the motion.

VOTE: The amendment was approved on the following roll call vote:

The Director of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Division (ABC) has reviewed the referenced Application and granted Conditional Preliminary Approval. It is being forwarded to you for Local Option District approval or disapproval of the Liquor License Application.

Notice of the Public Hearing required by the Liquor Control Act shall be given by the governing body by publishing a notice of the date, time, and place of the hearing twice during the 30 days prior to the hearing in a newspaper of general circulation within the territorial limits of the governing body. The first notice must be published at least thirty (30) days before the hearing. Both publications must occur before a hearing can be conducted. The notice shall include:

(A) Name and address of the Applicant/Licensee;
(B) The action proposed to be taken;
(C) The location of the licensed premises.

In addition, if the Local Option District has a website, the Notice shall also be published on the website.

While the law states that "within forty-five (45) days after receipt of a Notice from the Alcoholic Beverage Control, the governing body shall hold a Public Hearing in the question of whether the department should approve the proposed issuance or transfer", we recognize the potential for conflict between the requirement for publication of 30 day notice and the 45 day hearing requirement.

With that in mind, when a local governing body receives a liquor license application from ABC, that governing body has a couple of options:

1) Hold a hearing on the license application within the statutory time frame of forty-five (45) days, as required by the Liquor Control Act, and comply with all other statutory and regulatory procedures and notify ABC of your decision within thirty (30) days of the hearing;
2) Request from ABC an extension of time, past the forty-five (45) days, designating how much additional time will be needed to conduct the hearing in compliance with all statutory and regulatory procedures. After the extension is granted and the hearing is held, notify ABC of your decision within thirty (30) days of the hearing;

ABC has no preference in the option you choose.

The governing body is required to send notice by certified mail to the Applicant of the date, time, and place of the Public Hearing. The governing body may designate a Hearing Officer to conduct the hearing. A record shall be made of the hearing.

The Applicant is seeking a Restaurant A Liquor License. APPLICANT IS REQUESTING A WAIVER AS THE PREMISES IS LOCATED WITHIN 300 FT OF THE NEAREST CHURCH OR SCHOOL.

Within thirty (30) days after the Public Hearing, the governing body shall notify ABC of their decision to approve or disapprove the issuance or transfer of the license by signing the enclosed original Page 1 of the Application. The original Page 1 of the Application must be returned together with the notices of publication. If the Governing Body fails to either approve or disapprove the issuance or transfer of the license within thirty days after the Public Hearing, the Director may issue the license.

If the Governing Body disapproves the issuance or transfer of the license, it shall notify ABC within thirty (30) days setting forth the reasons for the disapproval. A copy of the Minutes of the Public Hearing shall be submitted to ABC with the Notice of Disapproval (Page 1 of the Application, noting disapproval).

6. Default and Force Majeure

The City reserves the right to cancel all or any part of any orders placed under this contract without cost to the City, if the Contractor fails to meet the provisions of this contract and, except as otherwise provided herein, to hold the Contractor liable for any excess cost occasioned by the City due to the Contractor's default. The Contractor shall not be liable for any excess costs if failure to perform the order arises out of causes beyond the control and without the fault or negligence of the Contractor; such causes include, but are not restricted to, acts of God or the public enemy, acts of the State or Federal Government, fires, floods, epidemics, quarantine restrictions, strikes, freight embargoes, unusually severe weather and defaults of sub-contractors due to any of the above, unless the City shall determine that the supplies or services to be furnished by the sub-contractor were obtainable from other sources in sufficient time to permit the Contractor to meet the required delivery scheduled. 11. Subcontracting

The Contractor shall not subcontract any portion of the services to be performed under this Agreement without the prior written approval of the City. No such subcontract shall relieve the primary Contractor from its obligations and liabilities under this Agreement, nor shall any subcontract obligate direct payment from the City.

13. Inspection of Plant

If it is later determined that the Contractor knowingly rendered an erroneous disclosure, in addition to other remedies available to the Government, the City may terminate the involved contract for cause. Still further the City may suspend or debar the Contractor from eligibility for future solicitations until such time as the matter is resolved to the satisfaction of the City.

40. Suspension, Delay or Interruption of Work

The City may, without cause, order the Contractor, in writing, to suspend, delay or interrupt the work in whole or in part for such period of time as the City may determine. Upon receipt of such notice, Contractor shall leave the jobsite and any equipment in a safe condition prior to departing. Contractor must assert rights to additional compensation within thirty (30) days after suspension of work is lifted and return to work is authorized. Any compensation requested for which entitlement is granted and the contract sum adjusted, shall have profit included (for work completed) and for cost only (not profit) for Contractor costs incurred directly tied to the suspension itself and not otherwise covered by Contract remedy. Any change in Total Compensation must be reflected in an Amendment executed pursuant to Section 8 of this Agreement.

SOLE SOURCE REQUEST AND DETERMINATION FORM

This form must be forwarded to the Purchasing Officer for the City of Santa Fe Purchasing Office for processing.

Date: 6/7/2022

Prepared By: Mike Dozier Title: WWM Div. Director

Vendor Name: Parkson Corporation

Address: 562 Bunker Court

City: Vernon Hills State: IL Zip Code: 60061

Description of Good/Service to be Procured:

Estimated Cost: $274,699 Term of Contract: 6/30/2023

1. Explain why this is the only available source that can be meet the needs of your department.

Parkson Corporation is the only provider for the parts. Parkson Corp. is the original manufacturer/ supplier for the Aqua Guard bar/filter and wash press. In addition to being the only vendor that has the parts and is the sole manufacturer they must install, provide training and schedules of maintenance to the City's PUD which will warrant the project.

2. Explain why this vendor is the only available source from which to obtain this product of service.

[X] The company has affirmed (memo from vendor is attached) that there is no other source for this item. Our search for possible vendors proved unsuccessful; or [ ] Other reason, please explain in full. Attach additional sheets, if necessary.

Parkson Corp affirming sole source has provided a letter. Parksons Corporation is the Manufacturer and Sole provider of the parts and services.

3. Explain why the price is considered fair and reasonable.

Due to inflation and timing obtaining these part within the timeframe provided is at best. However, to change the type of self-cleaning bar/filter and wash press units that currently operate the pre-treatment process, would require a whole new system and additional services that would cost millions for a new project of this size. This is simply a replacement due to age of equipment. The ability to replace these parts is cost saving rather than propose a new project that would cost

4. Describe the efforts made to obtain the best possible price from this sole source vendor for the taxpayers. What (if any) is the total cost savings from the original quote? (Attach additional sheets, if necessary.)

Ordering at this time and locking in cost being that they are the only source and manufacturer that can provide the necessary parts and services. No other source is available. There are no other quotes that entail savings to purchase the parts and services provided by a sole vendor who is also the manufacturer. This is replacement of aging parts not a replacement for the whole system which would cost millions.

Approvals:

Based on the above facts, the Purchasing Office has made the determination that the justification for the Sole Source procurement is in accordance with Section 13-1-126, NMSA 1978 and will be posted for a 30-day period prior to award.

SUMMARY

One bid (1) was received on May 27, 2022. The bid was reviewed for completeness and accuracy. The lowest qualified bidder is Smith Power Products with a total bid amount of $1,371,568.00 plus nmgrt. Smith Power Products is a qualified bidder under the ITB specifications.

This project consists of a four-year service contract for the warranty and preventative maintenance of the two new Biogas Cogeneration units that were purchased and installed as part of the WWRF Digester Project (CIP #950), as well as the preventative maintenance service for the three emergency power generation units at the WWRF, and the emergency power generation unit at the Canyon Road Pumping Station.

The Biogas Cogeneration units are two generators that will run off of the methane generated by the digestion of wastewater residual solids generated by the treatment of wastewater. These units must be serviced by factory authorized technicians in order to maintain warranty coverage of the two generators. The power produced by the cogeneration units will be fed into the electrical grid and act to offset the Paseo Real facility's carbon footprint and reduce electrical costs for operation of the facility.

The three emergency power units at the Paseo Real WWRF allow the plant to continue operating in the event of a utility service interruption. These units must be prepared to start-up automatically and provide power to the facility to operate critical equipment to maintain treatment, until utility service is restored. Although these units are no longer under warranty, they require periodic preventative maintenance to assure their availability when needed.

Approximately one quarter of the total bid amount will be invoiced each year over the 4-year contract period.

A. The Contractor shall defend, at its own expense, the City against any claim that any product or service provided under this Agreement infringes any patent, copyright to trademark in the United States or Puerto Rico, and shall pay all costs, damages and attorneys' fees that a court finally awards as a result of any such claim. In addition, if any third party obtains a judgment against the City based upon Contractor's trade secret infringement relating to any product or services provided under this Agreement, the Contractor agrees to reimburse the City for all costs, attorneys' fees and amount of the judgment. To qualify for such defense and or payment, the City shall:

1) give the Contractor prompt written notice within 48 hours of any claim;
2) allow the Contractor to control the defense of settlement of the claim; and
3) cooperate with the Contractor in a reasonable way to facilitate the defense or settlement of the claim.

B. If any product or service becomes, or in the Contractor's opinion is likely to become the subject of a claim of infringement, the Contractor shall at its option and expense:

1) provide the City the right to continue using the product or service and fully indemnify the City against all claims that may arise out of the City's use of the product or service;
2) replace or modify the product or service so that it becomes non-infringing; or,

3) accept the return of the product or service and refund an amount equal to the value of the returned product or service, less the unpaid portion of the purchase price and any other amounts, which are due to the Contractor. The Contractor's obligation will be void as to any product or service modified by the City to the extent such modification is the cause of the claim.

38. Survival

The Agreement paragraphs titled "Patent, Copyright, Trademark, and Trade Secret Indemnification; Indemnification; and Limit of Liability" shall survive the expiration of this Agreement. Software licenses, leases, maintenance and any other unexpired Agreements that were entered into under the terms and conditions of this Agreement shall survive this Agreement.

39. Disclosure Regarding Responsibility

A. Any prospective Contractor and any of its Principals who enter into a contract greater than sixty thousand dollars ($60,000.00) with any City for professional services, tangible personal property, services or construction agrees to disclose whether the Contractor, or any principal of the Contractor's company is presently debarred, suspended, proposed for debarment, or declared ineligible for award of contract by any federal entity, state agency or local public body.

B. Principal, for the purpose of this disclosure, means an officer, director, owner, partner, or a person having primary management or supervisory responsibilities within a business entity or related entities.

C. The Contractor shall provide immediate written notice to the City if, at any time during the term of this Agreement, the Contractor learns that the Contractor's disclosure was at any time erroneous or became erroneous by reason of changed circumstances.

D. A disclosure that any of the items in this requirement exist will not necessarily result in termination of this Agreement. However, the disclosure will be considered in the determination of the Contractor's responsibility and ability to perform under this Agreement. Failure of the Contractor to furnish a disclosure or provide additional information as requested will be grounds for immediate termination of this Agreement pursuant to the conditions set forth in Paragraph 7 of this Agreement.

E. Nothing contained in the foregoing shall be construed to require establishment of a system of records in order to render, in good faith, the disclosure required by this document. The knowledge and information of a Contractor is not required to exceed that which is the normally possessed by a prudent person in the ordinary course of business dealings.

F. The disclosure requirement provided is a material representation of fact upon which reliance was placed when making an award and is a continuing material representation of the facts during the term of this Agreement. If during the performance of the contract, the Contractor is indicted for or otherwise criminally or civilly charged by any government entity (federal, state or local) with commission of any offenses named in this document the Contractor must provide immediate written notice to the City. If it is later determined that the Contractor knowingly rendered an erroneous disclosure, in addition to other remedies available to the Government, the City may terminate the involved contract for cause. Still further the City may suspend or debar the Contractor from eligibility for future solicitations until such time as the matter is resolved to the satisfaction of the City.

40. Suspension, Delay or Interruption of Work

The City may, without cause, order the Contractor, in writing, to suspend, delay or interrupt the work in whole or in part for such period of time as the City may determine. The contract sum and contract time shall be adjusted for increases in cost and/or time associated with Contractor's compliance therewith. Upon receipt of such notice, Contractor shall leave the jobsite and any equipment in a safe condition prior to departing. Contractor must assert rights to additional compensation within thirty (30) days after suspension of work is lifted and return to work is authorized. Any compensation requested for which entitlement is granted and the contract sum adjusted, shall have profit included (for work completed) and for cost only (not profit) for Contractor costs incurred directly tied to the suspension itself and not otherwise covered by Contract remedy. Any change in Total Compensation must be reflected in an Amendment executed pursuant to Section 8 of this Agreement.

41. Notification

Either party may give written notice to the other party in accordance with the terms of this Paragraph. RECITALS:

A. The Lessor and Lessee are parties to the Lease under which the Lessee leases Lessor-owned real property, referred to as the Midtown campus (hereinafter "Midtown Campus"), and generally located at 1600 St. Michaels Drive in the City of Santa Fe, NM. The Premises delineated in Section 1(A) and Exhibit A of the Lease are located within the Midtown Campus. B. By virtue of the holdover period currently in effect under Section 3(B) of the Lease, the original Term set forth in Section 3(A) of the Lease has previously been extended through November 8, 2020.

C. The Parties to the Lease understand that the Premises and Grounds on the Midtown Campus are the subject of a Request for Expressions of Interest ("RFEI") for redevelopment and will be disposed of and developed over the course of the next several years. The development program at the Midtown Campus includes the ongoing operations and expansion of the film and multi-media production uses, as well as film production school and training.

D. The parties wish to solely modify Sections 1, 3, 4, 5, 6, 10, and 16 of the Agreement and to keep all remaining Sections of the Agreement intact.

WITNESSETH:

In consideration of Lessee's promises herein, and other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which are hereby acknowledged, the Parties agree that the Lease be amended as follows.

AMENDMENT:

1. Amendments to Section 1, "Premises Granted," of the Lease.

A. Section 1(A) description of the "Premises" that are the subject of the Lease shall be amended to include the Lessor-owned real property at 1600 St. Michael's Drive, Santa Fe, New Mexico, including Lessor's personal property within it, as described in "Exhibit 1" to this Amendment.

2. Amendments to Section 3, "Term," of the Lease.

A. By this Amendment, Section 3(A), "Term," of the Lease is hereby removed and replaced with the following:

> A. Term. The term of this Lease, (the "Term"), commenced at 12:00 a.m. on the Effective Date of the Lease. The Term of this lease shall terminate at midnight on November 8, 2020.

B. Section 3(B), "Thirty-Six Month Maximum Holdover," of the Lease is hereby removed and replaced with the following:

> B. Twenty-Four Month Maximum Holdover.
> (i) In the event Lessee enters into a third-party license agreement with Big Sky Productions, LLC, or its designee, (hereinafter "Production Entity"), for any use of the Premises authorized under the Lease, then the Term of the Lease shall be automatically extended to midnight on July 31, 2021, provided that Lessee must notify Lessor or its successor(s) in interest in writing on or before August 31, 2020, that this contingency has been met; and
> (ii) In the event the Production Entity exercises an option for a second year of production on the Premises pursuant to the terms and conditions of the third-party license agreement being contemplated between Lessee and the Production Entity, then the Term of the Lease shall be automatically extended to midnight on July 31, 2022, provided that Lessee must notify Lessor or its successor(s) in interest in writing on or before June 30, 2021, that this contingency has been met.

C. The following language shall be added to the Lease as Section 3(E):

> E. Shelter in Place Extension. In the event the State of New Mexico or any other relevant local, state or federal authority issues a "shelter in place" order, or similar emergency order, regarding COVID-19 that directly prevents the full use of the Premises by Lessee or Lessee's licensees for its intended use stated within the License, then the Term of this Lease, or any holdover period then in effect, shall automatically be extended for a period equal to the duration of the emergency order's prevention of the Lessee's or licensees' full use of the Premises.

D. The following language shall be added to the Lease as Section 3(F):

F. Other Production Delays. In the event any Allowed Uses that are the subject of a third-party license agreement between Lessee and the Production Entity, are delayed for a period in excess of 14 days due to circumstances outside Lessee's control, then the Term of this Lease, or any holdover period then in effect, shall automatically be extended for a period equal to the full duration of each such production delay. Such extensions may not exceed three (3) months cumulatively.

E. The following language shall be added to the Lease as Section 3(G):

G. Disposition and Development Agreement. It is understood and agreed that Lessor intends to enter into a Disposition and Development Agreement (DDA) with a master developer during the Term of this Lease. Notwithstanding the execution of any such DDA, this Lease shall remain in full force and effect as against Lessor or its successor(s) in interest unless and until it expires or is terminated as set forth herein.

3. Amendment to Section 4, "Use of Premises and Grounds," of the Lease.

A. Section 4(A), "Licensed Use," shall be removed and replaced with the following:

Although the Premises includes Lot G for parking, Lessor and its successor(s) in interest reserve the right, commencing on August 1, 2021, to exclude portions of Lot G from the Premises for the purpose of future development of the Midtown Campus. If the Lessor excludes portions of Lot G, Lessor shall thereafter provide Lessee comparable access and parking for the Premises during the remainder of the Term, and any holdover period granted to Lessee.

Production of obscene material, deemed by the Supreme Court of the United States as not protected by the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution, is expressly understood to be prohibited and not an Allowed Use. Prior to executing a License Agreement between the Lessee and the Production Entity, the Lessee shall submit a License Use Summary ("License Use Summary") to the Lessor for approval. Once approved by the City, the License Use Summary shall become an Exhibit to the completed License Agreement between the Lessee and the Production Entity. Lessee shall not conduct any dangerous or illegal activities at the Premises or Grounds; keep any toxic, hazardous, dangerous or offensive materials on the Premises or Grounds; or keep substances or articles in or about the Premises or Grounds or any other part of the Lessor's property which will in any way impair or invalidate, or increase the premium costs of insurance policies carried by the Lessor.

Lessee shall not light fires or discharge firearms, smoke effects, or explosives on or about the Premises or Grounds without having first obtained all necessary permits from any and all appropriate governmental authorities and permission from the City's Fire Chief. Lessee shall in all cases have employed or require its licensee to employ a licensed operator to discharge firearms or explosives. Lessee shall secure or shall ensure that any licensee has secured, at the end of each production day, all firearms and explosives brought on the Premises or Grounds by Lessee or its licensee.

Lessee hereby specifically indemnifies and agrees to hold the City and the City's employees, officers, managers, agents and assignees harmless from and against any and all liability, causes of action, damages, costs or expenses, including without limitation reasonable outside attorney's fees, directly arising out of or in any way connected with the use or possession by Lessee or its licensee of firearms, fires, smoke effects, noxious gases and explosives at the Premises or Grounds.

Lessee shall have the sole responsibility for the daily removal and legally proper disposal of all hazardous wastes from the Premises. Lessee shall not spray or otherwise utilize any toxic or hazardous material inside the Premises or Grounds without prior written consent from the Lessor. Any such approved use of toxic or hazardous material shall comply with all applicable legal requirements. Under no circumstance shall Lessee alter in any way, or use for any production purpose, any firehose, sprinkler system or equipment supplying water to the hoses or sprinkler system.

J. Security. The Lessor reserves the right, in its reasonable but sole discretion, to refuse admittance to the Premises or Grounds to any employee, licensee, or other person associated with Lessee who behaves in a negligent or dangerous manner that could result in harm to the Premises or Grounds, or people.

K. Photographic rights. Lessor hereby acknowledges that Lessor does not have any interest in Lessee's or its licensee's still photography, film or other recording on or of the Premises or Grounds, nor any right of action against a licensee or any other party arising out of any use of said photography. Lessor hereby grants to Lessee, its licensees, assigns, and successors the irrevocable and perpetual right, worldwide, in any manner and in any media to use and exploit the films, photographs, and recordings made of or on the Premises or Grounds in connection with the Films in such manner and to such extent as Lessee desires in its sole discretion. Lessee and its licensees, assigns and successors shall be the sole and exclusive owner of all rights of whatever nature, including all copyrights, in and to all films, photographs and recordings made on or of the Premises or Grounds, in perpetuity, throughout the universe. Lessor has no rights of whatever nature, including without limitation all copyrights, in all films, photographs and recordings made of or on said Premises or Grounds in connection with the Film and including, without limitation, the exclusive right to assign and/or license Lessee's or its licensee's rights without restriction or impairment of any kind.

In the event of a breach of this Lease by Lessee or breach of a license by a licensee, Lessor shall not have the right to enjoin or otherwise restrain the production, marketing, or exploitation of the Film.

L. Confidentiality. The Lessor shall not use any name, logo, Film title, trademark or other proprietary mark of Lessee or its licensees in any manner. The Lessor agrees to not officially publicize, advertise or promote the appearance of the Premises or Grounds in the Films, without the prior written consent of Lessee or its licensee. The Lessor's confidentiality obligations hereunder shall apply to any and all media, including, without limitation, any social networking site; microblogging service; user-generated or user-uploaded content website; online forum, discussion thread or comment section; personal website or blog; user modified website; or any other website, service, platform, application or other form or method of communication, whether now known or hereafter devised (e.g., Facebook and Twitter). Lessee acknowledges that the owner and lessor of the Premises and Grounds is the City of Santa Fe, a municipal corporation and political subdivision of the State of New Mexico and, as such, is required to comply with the State of New Mexico Inspection of Public Records Act (IPRA) and, to the extent that Lessor possesses written or electronic information about the Film, that Lessor may be required by law to release that information pursuant to an IPRA information request.

In acknowledgement of the above, and to maintain confidentiality regarding the Film, the Parties agree as follows:

Lessee shall not transmit to Lessor any information regarding the Film that any licensee desires to remain confidential including, without limitation, information and photographs regarding a licensee, participants in the Film (e.g., actors, producers, crew, etc.), the set, storylines and methods of production of the Film and any other non-public information (whether written, electronic, graphic or any other form).
Lessor shall use reasonable care in its responses to IPRA requests to protect, as allowed by law, any of Lessee's or its licensee's confidential information.

M. Compliance with Laws. Lessee's use of the Premises and Grounds shall at all times be in compliance with the City of Santa Fe Municipal Code and other applicable local, state and federal regulations including but not limited to compliance with the City of Santa Fe Integrated Pest Management Policy (§10-7 SFCC 1987) and the City's Noise Ordinance (§10-2 SFCC 1987). Failure of Lessee to comply with conditions of use of the Premises and Grounds as provided herein shall be deemed a breach of this Lease and may constitute grounds for termination of this Lease by the Lessor pursuant to Section 16 of this Lease.

N. Stage Manager. The Lessee shall cause its licensees to be solely responsible to contract with and assume all costs for a Stage Manager approved in advance in writing by the Lessor. The Stage Manager shall comply with all legal, regulatory, and contractual requirements for use of the Premises and Grounds and shall seek and obtain prior written approval by the Lessor for the Lessee or its licensees to use certain personal property in the production of the Film. The Stage Manager shall regulate licensees' ingress, egress and filming on the Premises and Grounds.

other than the personal property purchased as an Operational Expense, and shall clean the Premises, steam clean the office carpet, and remove all residue and articles of rubbish so as to leave the Premises in substantially the same condition as when Lessee took possession thereof, reasonable wear and tear excepted. In the event Lessee lays materials on or paints any portion of the stage floor, wall, or cyclorama, or makes any alterations as described herein with the Lessor's approval, Lessee shall either restore or compensate the Lessor for restoration of that portion of the premises. Further, to the extent deemed necessary by the Lessor due to the condition of the Premises, the cost of a professional cleaning service will be charged to the Lessee, provided that the Lessor shall provide Lessee with three (3) days prior written notice via email and an opportunity to clean Premises prior to the Lessor charging for such cleaning.

Pursuant to its obligation under the Lease, Lessee specifically agrees to repaint the stage floors whichever stage(s) Lessee uses (Stage A, Stage B and/or Stage C) in a reasonable and professional manner under the direction of the Stage Manager as follows: Dunn-Edwards Rustoleum matte water-based urethane, "Walrus" color; for Stage A, minimum 25 gallons; for Stage B, minimum 12 gallons; for Stage C, minimum 7 gallons. Amounts may be doubled if a second coat is required at the discretion of the Lessor or Stage Manager. For the Green Screen, the use of Mann Brothers paint (or equivalent) is required in the color Digital Green- Vara Bond, Acrylic Latex Flat.

P. Failure to Comply. Failure of Lessee to comply with conditions of use of the Premises and Grounds as provided herein shall be deemed a breach of this Lease and may constitute grounds for termination of this Lease by the Lessor pursuant to Section 16 of this Lease.

C. Form License. Lessee shall use the form license agreement ("Form License"), attached as Exhibit C, incorporated herein, to license the use of the respective Premises or Grounds or portions thereof, to respective Production Entities. The licensing of the Lessor's personal property, with the exception of typical office furniture, is not included on the Form License and must be approved in writing before any license for such may be entered into.

D. Lessor Approval Required. Prior written approval by the Lessor shall be required before Lessee may enter into any License agreement.

E. Acceptance and Feasibility. In entering this Lease, Lessee agrees that the explicit terms in the Form License are acceptable to the Lessee and feasible for the Lessee to execute.

F. Termination or Expiration of License. Lessee shall immediately notify the Lessor upon any one or more of the following events: Lessee's receipt of notice that a licensee intends to terminate a license with Lessee; Lessee's intent to terminate a license with a licensee; or the termination or expiration of a License.

6. RENT

During the Term of and in consideration of this Lease and the demise of the Premises or Temporarily Reduced Premises by Lessor to Lessee, Lessee hereby agrees and covenants with Lessor to pay for said Premises or Temporarily Reduced Premises the Net Base Rent on the first day of each month in which the use accrues for duration of the Term.

A. Net Base Rent. "Net Base Rent" equals the Base Rent or Revised Base Rent, less eligible direct out-of-pocket operational expenses in furtherance of the Lease for that month. For any individual Operational Expense to be eligible for deduction from the Base Rent or Revised Base Rent, such expense must be less than Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00), unless Lessee obtains prior written approval from Lessor. In addition, prior written Lessor approval is required if the total Operational Expenses in any given month exceeds Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000.00). Net Base Rent equals Base Rent or Revised Base Rent, minus Operational Expenses.

(i) Base Rent: "Base Rent" shall be the base rent for each month, which shall be calculated as the sum of the respective Quantities of each designated Garson Studio Area comprising the Premises or Temporarily Reduced Premises in the month in which the use accrues, multiplied by the corresponding Annual Rates shown in the following table, and divided by the twelve months of the year:

| Garson Studios Area | Quantity | Units | Annual Rate | Monthly Rent |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Department Head Office | 330 | Square Feet | $15.47 per SF | $425 |
| Stages A, B & C and Production Offices | 29,168 | Square Feet | $22.45 per SF | $54,575 |
| Parking Lot G | 4.6 | Acres | $13,015 per Acre | $5,000 |
| BASE RENT FOR THE PREMISES | | | | $60,000 |

(ii) Revised Base Rent. If an MAI-certified appraiser licensed by the State of New Mexico establishes via a real estate appraisal ("Appraisal") that the monthly fair market rent (the "MFMR") of the Premises or Temporarily Reduced Premises differs by more than 5% from the Base Rent as stated herein, then the Lessor shall obtain the Appraisal and notify Lessee of the Base Rent established thereby. The revised base rent ("Revised Base Rent") shall equal the MFMR in the Appraisal and will be due on the first day of the month after the expiration of sixty (60) days' notice to the Lessee.

(iii) Termination. Upon notification of the Revised Base Rent by Lessor, Lessee may terminate this Lease in accordance with Section 16 of this Lease. In such event, the Parties agree to negotiate in good faith to establish the amount of the Base Rent due for the period that Lessee occupied the Premises prior to termination.

(iv) Operational Expense. "Operational Expense" shall mean any and all expense incurred by Lessee in connection with the operation, maintenance and repair of the Premises as necessary for a licensees' production of Films, including, but not limited to, the following: purchases of personal property including without limitation durable, moveable equipment such as refrigerators, washer and dryers, microwaves and coffee machines which are not considered fixtures; charges or fees for, and taxes on, the furnishing of electricity, fuel, water, sewer, gas, oil and other utilities unless otherwise assigned in Section 8.; security; pest control; cleaning of windows; janitorial services; trash and snow removal; landscaping and repair and maintenance of grounds; governmental permits; cleaning supplies; services or management contracts with independent contractors; and the costs of any other items which, under generally accepted accounting principles consistently applies to the Premises. Operational Expenses shall not include any expense which is paid by a licensee, interest, amortization, or other payments on loans to Lessee, whether secured or unsecured; insurance costs; depreciation of the Premises and Grounds or other said improvements; ground rent; leasing commissions; salaries, wages or other compensation paid to officers or executives of Lessor; or income, excess profits or other such taxes imposed on the income of the Lessee from the operation of the Project. All personal property purchased or the value thereof, shall remain on the Premises and become the personal property of the Lessor upon the termination or expiration of this Lease.

(v) Any payment due under the Lease not received by the Lessor within fifteen (15) days of the due date shall be subject to a late payment penalty of five percent (5%) of the amount due.

B. Grounds License Income: Lessee shall pay to the Lessor without demand and by the first day of the following month after any income is received by the Lessee for Allowed Uses of the Grounds licensed under this Agreement ("Grounds License Income"), the following: 100% of the Grounds License Income.

C. Sole Financial Responsibility. In consideration for Lessee's use of the Premises and Grounds as granted by this Lease, Lessee assumes sole financial responsibility for the operation and maintenance of the Premises and shall operate and maintain the Premises at no cost to the Lessor, unless as otherwise provided for herein.

7. RECORDS, ACCOUNTS, AUDITS

D. Records Inspection and Audit. The Lessee shall maintain, throughout the Term of this Lease and for a period of six years thereafter, all records pertaining to this Lease and Licenses, including but not limited to all amounts received and paid, invoices, receipts and financial accounts. These records shall be subject to inspection upon request by the Lessor. The Lessor shall be entitled to cause independent certified public accountants to conduct an audit of the books and records maintained pursuant to this Lease. The right to conduct an audit includes the right to make tests of the Lessee's accounting records and such other auditing procedure that are appropriate under the circumstances. The audit may be conducted after reasonable notice during regular business hours.

8. UTILITIES & SERVICES

The Lessor shall notify Lessee of all rate increases before commencing such services to Lessee.

The City of Santa Fe shall be named as Loss Payee on such policy of insurance.

B. Commercial General Liability Insurance. Lessee shall carry and maintain in full force and effect during the term of this Lease, Commercial General Liability insurance, which shall be written on an occurrence based form, covering bodily injury (including death), personal and advertising injury, and property damage, in a form and with an insurance company acceptable to Lessor, with limits of coverage not less than $1,000,000 per occurrence and $2,000,000 in the aggregate. Said policy shall include broad form contractual liability coverage and shall be endorsed to name the City of Santa Fe, its officials, employees, and agents as additional insureds. Such policy shall provide that the coverage evidenced thereby shall not be terminated or modified for any reason without thirty (30) days prior written notice to the Lessor. A certificate or policy which states that failure to give such notice imposes no obligation on the part of the insurer shall be unacceptable to Lessor, and Lessee shall be responsible for removing such language from such certificate or policy.
All policies of insurance shall be written by an insurer with an A. M. Best rating of not less than A- (Excellent), Financial Size Category VII, and must be authorized to do business within the State of New Mexico.

G. Waiver of Subrogation. Lessee hereby grants to the Lessor a waiver of any right to subrogation which any insurer of Lessee may acquire against the Lessor by virtue of the payment of any loss under such insurance. Lessee agrees to obtain any endorsements that may be necessary to affect this waiver of subrogation, but this provision applies regardless of whether the Lessor has received a waiver of subrogation endorsement from the insurer.

The Lessor shall have no obligation to allow access to the Premises or Grounds until and unless Lessee has provided to the Lessor the certificates of insurance required above.

12. INDEMNIFICATION
Lessee shall indemnify, hold harmless and defend Lessor, its agents, officials, officers, and employees against all losses, damages, claims or judgments, including payment of all attorney's fees and costs, on account of any suit, judgment, execution, claim, action or demand whatsoever arising from Lessee's use, maintenance and occupancy of the Premises or Grounds hereunder, including use of the Premises or Grounds by Lessee's licensees, employees, agents, representatives, contractors, agents, guests, invitees or allowed assigns. Except as otherwise allowed or provided under this Agreement, the City's sole liability upon such termination shall be to pay for acceptable work performed prior to the Contractor's receipt of the notice of termination, if the City is the terminating party, or the Contractor's sending of the notice of termination, if the Contractor is the terminating party; provided, however, that a notice of termination shall not nullify or otherwise affect either party's liability for pre-termination defaults under or breaches of this Agreement. The Contractor shall submit an invoice for such work within thirty (30) days of receiving or sending the notice of termination. Notwithstanding the foregoing, this Agreement may be terminated immediately upon written notice to the Contractor if the Contractor becomes unable to perform the services contracted for, as determined by the City or if, during the term of this Agreement, the Contractor or any of its officers, employees or agents is indicted for fraud, embezzlement or other crime due to misuse of City funds or due to the Appropriations paragraph herein. THIS PROVISION IS NOT EXCLUSIVE AND DOES NOT WAIVE THE City's OTHER LEGAL RIGHTS AND REMEDIES CAUSED BY THE CONTRACTOR'S DEFAULT/BREACH OF THIS AGREEMENT.

B Termination Management. Immediately upon receipt by either the City or the Contractor of notice of termination of this Agreement, the Contractor shall: 1) not incur any further obligations for salaries, services or any other expenditure of funds under this Agreement without written approval of the City; 2) comply with all directives issued by the City in the notice of termination as to the performance of work under this Agreement; and, 3) take such action as the City shall direct for the protection, preservation, retention or transfer of all property titled to the City and records generated under this Agreement. No such subcontract shall relieve the primary Contractor from its obligations and liabilities under this Agreement, nor shall any subcontract obligate direct payment from the City.

9. Release.

Final payment of the amounts due under this Agreement shall operate as a release of the City, its officers and employees from all liabilities, claims and obligations whatsoever arising from or under this Agreement.

10. Confidentiality.

Any confidential information provided to or developed by the Contractor in the performance of this Agreement shall be kept confidential and shall not be made available to any individual or organization by the Contractor without the prior written approval of the City.

C. Contractor's representations and warranties in Paragraphs A and B of this Article 12 are material representations of fact upon which the City relied when this Agreement was entered into by the parties. Contractor shall provide immediate written notice to the City if, at any time during the term of this Agreement, Contractor learns that Contractor's representations and warranties in Paragraphs A and B of this Article 12 were erroneous on the effective date of this Agreement or have become erroneous by reason of new or changed circumstances. If it is later determined that Contractor's representations and warranties in Paragraphs A and B of this Article 12 were erroneous on the effective date of this Agreement or have become erroneous by reason of new or changed circumstances, in addition to other remedies available to the City and notwithstanding anything in the Agreement to the contrary, the City may immediately terminate the Agreement.

D. All terms defined in the Governmental Conduct Act have the same meaning in this section.

13. Amendment.

A. This Agreement shall not be altered, changed or amended except by instrument in writing executed by the parties hereto and all other required signatories.

B. If the City proposes an amendment to the Agreement to unilaterally reduce funding due to budget or other considerations, the Contractor shall, within thirty (30) days of receipt of the proposed Amendment, have the option to terminate the Agreement, pursuant to the termination provisions as set forth in Article 4 herein, or to agree to the reduced funding.

14. Merger.

This Agreement incorporates all the Agreements, covenants and understandings between the parties hereto concerning the subject matter hereof, and all such covenants, Agreements and understandings have been merged into this written Agreement. Re: Amendment #2 to Lease Agreement between the City of Santa Fe and the Santa Fe Civic Housing Authority

---

ACTION REQUESTED

Request approval of Amendment #2 of the lease agreement between the City of Santa Fe and the Santa Fe Civic Housing Authority to allow non-housing uses for a specific part of the property, as shown on the survey exhibit.

BACKGROUND

Some of the properties operated by the Santa Fe Civic Housing Authority (SFCHA) are sited on city-owned land, whereby SFCHA manages the units and provides services to the residents. The use of the property in the Hopewall-Mann neighborhood of Santa Fe is governed by a lease that was put in place in 2013. At the time, the Housing Authority was applying for low income housing tax credits (LIHTC) and the underwriting requirements included standard language about limiting uses of the property to housing units.

ITEM AND ISSUE

Over the course of the renovation, SFCHA determined that the buildings on one portion of the property were obsolete and not appropriate for renovation. The odd shape of the parcel also prohibited the construction of new units in a cost effective manner. At that time, SFCHA reached out to residents and local service providers and determined that there was a need for a community health center in the neighborhood. The Hopewell-Mann neighborhood has a poverty rate of over 30% and many people do not have reliable transportation to access various services. Presbyterian Medical Services (PMS) agreed to provide services and SFCHA raised funds to design and build a medical center to serve the neighborhood. This center is walkable to over 400 families. An additional space in the building is operated by a provider of vision and dental care.

In order to make the community services consistent with the terms of its lease with the City, SFCHA requests a language modification that would enable eligible uses to include community services.

Re: Amendment #2 to Lease Agreement between the City of Santa Fe and the Santa Fe Civic Housing Authority

---

ACTION REQUESTED

Request approval of Amendment #2 of the lease agreement between the City of Santa Fe and the Santa Fe Civic Housing Authority to allow non-housing uses for a specific part of the property, as shown on the survey exhibit.

BACKGROUND

Some of the properties operated by the Santa Fe Civic Housing Authority (SFCHA) are sited on city-owned land, whereby SFCHA manages the units and provides services to the residents. The use of the property in the Hopewall-Mann neighborhood of Santa Fe is governed by a lease that was put in place in 2013. At the time, the Housing Authority was applying for low income housing tax credits (LIHTC) and the underwriting requirements included standard language about limiting uses of the property to housing units.

ITEM AND ISSUE

Over the course of the renovation, SFCHA determined that the buildings on one portion of the property were obsolete and not appropriate for renovation. The odd shape of the parcel also prohibited the construction of new units in a cost effective manner. At that time, SFCHA reached out to residents and local service providers and determined that there was a need for a community health center in the neighborhood. The Hopewell-Mann neighborhood has a poverty rate of over 30% and many people do not have reliable transportation to access various services. Presbyterian Medical Services (PMS) agreed to provide services and SFCHA raised funds to design and build a medical center to serve the neighborhood. This center is walkable to over 400 families. An additional space in the building is operated by a provider of vision and dental care.

In order to make the community services consistent with the terms of its lease with the City, SFCHA requests a language modification that would enable eligible uses to include community services.

Second Amendment to Lease
between
Santa Fe Civic Housing Authority, Inc. and
City of Santa Fe, New Mexico

This Second Amendment to Lease ("Amendment") is made effective this ____ day of _____, 2022 (the "Effective Date"), by and between Santa Fe Civic Housing Authority, Inc., a New Mexico nonprofit corporation ("Tenant"), located at 664 Alta Vista Street, Santa Fe, New Mexico 87505, and the City of Santa Fe, New Mexico ("Landlord"), for and in consideration of the mutual covenants hereinafter contained, the receipt of sufficiency of which are hereby acknowledged, the parties agree as follows:

RECITALS

A. Tenant and Landlord entered into that certain Lease 1 Between City of Santa Fe and Santa Fe Civic Housing Authority dated as of June 12, 2013 (the "Lease"), and recorded in the Office of the County Clerk of Santa Fe County, New Mexico on August 15, 2013 as Instrument No. 1715128, that leases the premises described therein consisting of land legally described on Exhibit A attached thereto (the "Premises"); and

C. Section 9.1 of the Lease ("Permitted Use"), as amended by the First Amendment, restricts use of the Premises to "Multi-family mixed income rental units"; and

D. The parties wish to amend the Lease and the First Amendment to allow certain additional uses, specifically the development, marketing for lease and leasing of a certain portion of the Premises for public health and other community services, and associated administrative operations.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the foregoing, the covenants of the parties hereinafter expressed, and other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which the parties hereby acknowledge, the parties agree as follows:

SECOND AMENDMENT

Article 9.1 of the Lease and the First Amendment shall be amended as follows (added material in underline):

Section 9.1 Permitted Use.

Lease or any part thereof which is junior in priority to the lien of the Permitted Leasehold Mortgage, if applicable, held by such Permitted Leasehold Mortgagee, and (ii) past non-monetary obligations then in default and not reasonably susceptible of being cured by such Permitted Leasehold Mortgagee; and

(b) Except to the extent enjoined and stayed, take steps to acquire or sell Tenant's interest in this Lease, by foreclosure of such Permitted Leasehold Mortgagee, or other appropriate means and prosecute the same to completion with reasonable efforts.

Section 12.6 Extension of Cure Period

If at the end of the six-month period specified in Section 12.5, such Leasehold Mortgagee, if applicable, is complying with Section 12.5(a), and provided that any Leasehold Mortgagee shall be permitted to avail itself of additional cure periods as described at Section 12.4 and 12.5, and the time for completion by such Leasehold Mortgagee of its proceedings shall continue so long as such Leasehold Mortgagee is enjoined or stayed and thereafter for so long as such Leasehold Mortgagee proceeds to complete steps to acquire or sell Tenant's interest in this Lease, by foreclosure of its Leasehold Mortgage or by other appropriate means with reasonable efforts. Nothing in this Article 12, however, shall be construed to extend this Lease beyond the Term. If any Leasehold Mortgagee is complying with Section 12.5, upon the acquisition of Tenant's interest in this Lease by such Leasehold Mortgagee or its designee, or any other purchaser at a foreclosure sale or otherwise and the discharge, by operation of law or otherwise, of any lien, charge or encumbrance against Tenant's interest in this Lease or any part thereof which is junior in priority to the lien of the Leasehold Mortgage held by such Leasehold Mortgagee and which Tenant is obligated to satisfy and discharge by the terms of this Lease, this Lease shall continue in full force and effect as if Tenant had not defaulted under this Lease.

Section 12.7 Right to New Lease

In the event that the Lease is terminated by Landlord, Landlord shall, if requested by Leasehold Mortgagee, if applicable, grant to the Leasehold Mortgagee a new lease on the following terms and conditions:

(a) In the event of the termination of this Lease prior to its stated expiration date, Landlord agrees that it will enter into a new lease of the Premises with any Leasehold Mortgagee, if necessary, including but not limited to a corporation or other entity formed by or on behalf of such Leasehold Mortgagee, for the remainder of the Term of this Lease effective as of the date of such termination, at the Base Rent and Additional Rent and upon the same covenants, agreements, terms, provisions, and limitations herein contained, provided (i) such Leasehold Mortgagee makes written request upon Landlord for such new lease within thirty (30) days from the date Landlord notifies such Leasehold Mortgagee of such termination and such written request is accompanied by payment to Landlord of all amounts then due to Landlord under this Lease but for such termination, (ii) such Leasehold Mortgagee pays or causes to be paid to Landlord at the time of the execution and delivery of such new lease any and all sums which would at the time of the execution and delivery thereof be due under this Lease but for such termination and pays or causes to be paid any and all expenses, including reasonable counsel fees, court costs, and costs and disbursements incurred by Landlord in connection with any such termination and in connection with the execution and delivery of such new lease and (iii) such Leasehold Mortgagee agrees to reinstate the lien and take the Premises subject to the loan of any other Leasehold Mortgagee which held a lien senior in priority to the lien of such Leasehold Mortgagee if such senior Leasehold Mortgagee had also requested a new lease and tendered the required payments(s).

(b) Any new lease made pursuant to this Section 12.7 shall have the same priority as this Lease (except with respect to any non-electing Leasehold Mortgagee) and shall be prior to any mortgage or any lien, charge or encumbrance of the fee of the Premises created by Landlord, except the Declaration of Restrictive Covenants, for a term of years equal to the balance of the Term of this Lease.

(c) Any permitted mortgage or deed of trust upon Landlord's interest in the Premises and any action by such mortgagee or trustee or beneficiary of such deed of trust by way of receivership, foreclosure, exercise or power of sale, or deed in lieu thereof shall be subject to this Lease and to the new lease to be given pursuant to this Section 12.7 and any mortgagee or holder of such mortgage or the beneficiary and trustee of any such deed of trust must recognize this Lease and any new lease and all rights of Tenant and each Leasehold Mortgagee hereunder and thereunder.

(d) The provisions of this Section 12.7 shall be self-operative and require no further action by the mortgagee of any mortgage or beneficiary and trustees of any deed of trust encumbering Landlord's interest in the Premises, the Development, or both, but upon request by Tenant or the Leasehold Mortgagee electing under Section 12.7(a), Landlord agrees to obtain from such mortgagee or beneficiary and trustees an instrument duly executed and acknowledged confirming the priority of such new lease.

Section 12.8 Assumption of Tenant's Obligations

For purposes of Articles 11 and 12, the making of a Leasehold Mortgage, if applicable, shall not be deemed to constitute an assignment or transfer of this Lease or Tenant's interest created hereby, nor shall any Leasehold Mortgagee, as such, be deemed to be an assignee or transferee of this Lease or of Tenant's interests under this Lease so as to require such Leasehold Mortgagee, as such, to assume the performance of any of the terms, covenants or conditions on the part of Tenant to be performed hereunder, but a Leasehold Mortgagee may become the holder of Tenant's leasehold estate and succeed to Tenant's interest in this Lease by foreclosure of its Leasehold Mortgage or as a result of the assignment of this Lease in lieu of foreclosure, and any purchaser at any sale of Tenant's interest under this Lease in any proceeding for the foreclosure of any mortgage or the assignee or transferee of Tenant's interest in this Lease under any instrument of assignment or transfer in lieu of the foreclosure of any mortgage shall be deemed to be an assignee or transferee approved by Landlord and shall be deemed to have agreed to perform all of the terms, covenants and conditions on the part of Tenant to be performed hereunder, but only for so long as such purchaser or assignee is the owner of Tenant's interest in this Lease.

Section 12.9 Non-Curable Defaults.

Nothing in this Article 12 shall require any Leasehold Mortgagee, if applicable, or its designee as a condition to the exercise of rights provided under this Article 12 to cure any default of Tenant not reasonably susceptible of being cured by such Leasehold Mortgagee or its designee as such susceptibility is reasonably determined solely by Landlord. The foregoing shall not be deemed to excuse any Leasehold Mortgagee from performing covenants relating to the condition of the Development on the Premises, operation in compliance with applicable Multi-family housing, or other similar matters requiring access control, or both of the Premises, from and after such time as such Leasehold Mortgagee acquires Tenant's interest in this Lease by foreclosure or otherwise.

Section 12.10 No Merger.

So long as any Leasehold Mortgage is in existence, unless all Leasehold Mortgagees shall otherwise expressly consent in writing, the fee title to the Premises and the leasehold estate of Tenant therein shall not merge but shall remain separate and distinct, notwithstanding the acquisition of said fee title and said leasehold estate by any single owner, other than by termination of this Lease by Landlord in compliance with the provisions of this Article 12.

Section 12.11 Landlord's Fee to Remain Unsubordinated

Landlord and Tenant expressly acknowledge and agree that Landlord shall have no obligation under this Lease or otherwise to subordinate fee title of Landlord in the Premises or any rights of Landlord in this Lease to the leasehold estate of Tenant created by this Lease or to join any such mortgage or encumbrance or otherwise in any manner subordinate the fee title of Landlord in and to the Premises or interest of Landlord under this Lease.

Section 12.12 Sale of Premises

In the event of any sale or conveyance of the Premises by Landlord, any such sale or conveyance of all or any part of the Premises shall be subject to this Lease and all of the provisions hereof, and notice of such sale shall be provided each Leasehold Mortgagee.

ARTICLE 13 – MAINTENANCE AND REPAIR

Section 13.1 Tenant's Obligations

ARTICLE 14 – OWNERSHIP AND ALTERATIONS

Section 14.1 Ownership of Any Future Development Any future development shall be or become part of the Premises upon Substantial Completion of construction (regardless of whether the Premises and the Project are referred to separately in this Lease), and such future development and any and all subsequent additions, substitutions and/or fixtures therein shall be owned by Tenant until the expiration or earlier termination of the Term, and during the Term and for the years in which the Term begins and ends, the Tenant alone shall be entitled to any tax and amortization attributes thereof, including, but not limited to, depreciation deductions and, if applicable, any tax credits thereon for income taxes purposes. Section 14.2 Alterations.

Any improvements made to the Premises by either party hereto shall be made only in a good and workmanlike manner, using new materials of the same general quality as the original improvements, and in accordance with all applicable building codes and the Applicable Multi-family Housing Requirements.

Section 14.3 No Liens.

Tenant shall make, or cause to be made, prompt payment of all monies due and legally owing to all persons, firms, and corporations doing any work, furnishing any materials or supplies, or renting any equipment to the Tenant or any of its contractors or subcontractors in connection with the construction and/or demolition, furnishing, repair, maintenance, or operation of the Premises and/or any future development and in all events will bond or cause to be bonded, with surety companies reasonably satisfactory to the Landlord, or pay or cause to be paid in full forthwith, any lien, security interest, or other encumbrance incurred in connection therewith, whether due to the actions of the Tenant, or any person under control of the Tenant, against the Premises and/or any future development, other than a Permitted Encumbrance/Mortgage pursuant to Section 12.1 hereof.

Tenant shall have the right to contest any such lien or encumbrance by appropriate proceeding which shall prevent the collection of or other realization upon such lien, security interest, or encumbrance so contested, and the sale, forfeiture, or loss of the Premises and/or any future development to satisfy the same, provided that such contest shall not subject the Landlord to the risk of any criminal liability or civil penalty, and provided further that the Tenant shall give such reasonable security as may be requested by the Landlord to insure payment of such lien, security interest, or encumbrance, and to prevent any sale or forfeiture of the Premises and/or any future developments by reason of such nonpayment, and the Tenant hereby indemnifies the Landlord for any such liability or penalty. Upon the termination after final appeal of any proceeding relating to any amount contested by the Tenant pursuant to this Section 14.3, the Tenant shall immediately pay any amount determined in such proceeding to be due, and in the event the Tenant fails to make such payment, the Landlord shall have the right after five (5) days notice to Tenant to make any such payment on behalf of the Tenant and to charge the Tenant therefore.

In connection with the foregoing, the Landlord shall be entitled to cause the fee interest in the Premises and the leasehold interest in the Premises to be separate, rather than have the two merged. ## ARTICLE 16 – CASUALTY, CONDEMNATION

Section 16.1 Damage or Destruction to Premises

Tenant shall give prompt written notice to Landlord after the occurrence of any fire, earthquake, act of God or other casualty to or in connection with the Premises, the Developments or any portion thereof. Subject to Section 16.2 below, if during the Term of this Lease, the Developments shall be damaged or destroyed by casualty, Tenant shall repair or restore the Developments so long as it is lawful, and all Leasehold Mortgagees agree that it is feasible to do so and adequate insurance proceeds are made available to Tenant to complete such repairs and restoration. Upon the occurrence of any such casualty, Tenant, promptly and with all due diligence, shall, apply for and collect all applicable insurance proceeds recoverable with respect to such casualty, for the benefit of any Leasehold Mortgagees, if applicable. In the event that more than twenty percent (20%) of the value of the Developments, the Premises, or both are damaged or destroyed, and Tenant shall determine, subject to the rights of the holders of any Leasehold Mortgage, if applicable, and shall notify Landlord in writing within thirty (30) days after receipt by Tenant of any such insurance proceeds, that it is not economically practical to restore the Premises to substantially the same condition in which they existed prior to the occurrence of such casualty, Tenant may terminate this Lease as of a date that is not less than thirty (30) days after the date of such notice. If Tenant terminates this Lease pursuant to this Section, Tenant shall surrender possession of the Premises to Landlord immediately and assign to Landlord (or, if same has already been received by Tenant, pay to Landlord) all of its right, title, and interest in and to the proceeds from Tenant's insurance upon the Premises, subject to the prior rights of any Leasehold Mortgagees, as referenced in Section 16.2 below.

Section 16.2 Distribution

In the event that this Lease is terminated (in whole or in part) pursuant to Section 16.1, the insurance proceeds received as the result of the subject casualty shall be distributed and disbursed as provided in applicable Multi-family housing regulations.

Section 16.3 Condemnation

(a) If, by exercise of the right of eminent domain or by conveyance made in response to the threat of the exercise of such right (in either case a "Taking"), all of the Premises are taken, or if so much of the Premises are taken that the Premises cannot be used by Tenant in a commercially reasonable manner for the purposes for which they were used immediately before the Taking, then this Lease shall, at Tenant's sole option, subject to the rights of any Leasehold Mortgagee, if applicable, terminate on the earlier of the vesting title to the Premises in the condemning authority, or the taking of possession of the Premises by the condemning authority.

(b) Landlord and Tenant agree that, in the event of a Taking that does not result in the termination of this Lease pursuant to this Article, this Lease shall continue in effect as to the remainder of the Premises and any future development, and the net amounts owed or paid to the parties or to which either of the parties may be or become entitled by reason of any Taking pursuant to any agreement with any condemning authority which has been made in settlement of any proceeding relating to a Taking, less any costs and expenses incurred by the Parties in collecting such award or payment (the "Net Condemnation Award") shall be distributed and disbursed as provided in applicable Multi-family housing laws and regulations. However, if the distribution is not covered by one or more of the preceding instruments, then as follows: (i) first to any Leasehold Mortgagee in an amount sufficient to satisfy the terms and conditions of the Leasehold Mortgage, if applicable, if required, and (ii) to the extent permitted by the foregoing instruments, in accordance with subsection (d) below. Notwithstanding the foregoing, to the extent permitted in any Leasehold Mortgage, if applicable, the Net Condemnation Award shall be used by Tenant to make the remainder of the Premises a complete, unified and efficient operating unit as nearly as reasonably possible to the condition existing prior to the Taking, subject to any applicable requirements of any Leasehold Mortgage, if applicable. However, Tenant is not obligated to expend any sums to restore the Premises that are in excess of the Net Condemnation Award made available to it for that purpose.

(c) If there shall be a temporary Taking with respect to all or any part of the Premises or of Tenant's interest in this Lease, then the Term shall not be reduced and Tenant shall continue to pay in full all Rent and other charges required herein except Operating Expenses attributable to the taken property, without reduction or abatement thereof at the times herein specified; provided, however, that Tenant shall not be required to perform such obligations that Tenant is prevented from performing by reason of such temporary Taking.

(d) If there is a Taking, whether whole or partial, Landlord (solely in its capacity as Landlord under this Lease and not in its capacity, if applicable, as maker of any loan to Tenant) and Tenant shall be entitled to receive and retain such separate awards and portions of lump sum awards as may be allocated to their respective interests in any condemnation proceedings, or as may be otherwise agreed, subject to the rights of any Leasehold Mortgagee, taking into consideration the fact that Landlord's interest in the Premises is limited to the land and the Development, for which Landlord shall have contributed an amount toward the construction thereof (the actual aggregate amount so contributed being referred to as the "Landlord's Contribution,") as encumbered by this Lease, and a reversionary interest in the Premises and the Development upon the expiration of the Term. If the Premises shall be restored as is contemplated in subsection (b) above, Tenant shall be entitled to recover the costs and expenses incurred in such restoration out of any Net Condemnation Award. Thereafter, if the condemning authority does not make separate awards, the Parties agree that any Net Condemnation Award will be allocated between them on a proportionate basis, taking into account the relative percentage of the Development that consists of the Mixed Finance Housing Units and the portion of Landlord's Contribution that has not been repaid to Landlord. If the Parties are unable to agree as to the exact percentage of such allocation or if such allocation is no longer applicable because of the repayment of Landlord's Contribution, and the Parties are unable to agree as to the amounts that are to be allocated to the respective interests of each party, then each party shall select an independent M.A.I. real estate appraiser (an "Appraiser"). Each Appraiser shall separately determine the amount of the balance of the Net Condemnation Award allocated to each party. If the percentage allocated to Landlord by one Appraiser is within ten percent (10%) of the percentage allocated to Landlord by the other Appraiser, then the two percentage allocations shall be averaged and such average percentage shall be the percentage allocated to Landlord, with the remaining percentage of the balance of the Net Condemnation Award to be allocated to Tenant. If the percentage allocated to Landlord by an Appraiser is not within ten percent (10%) of that allocated to Landlord by the other Appraiser, then the two Appraisers shall select a third appraiser, who shall independently determine the percentage of the balance of the Net Condemnation Award that should be allocated to each party, and the average of the percentages determined by the three Appraisers to be allocable to Landlord shall be the percentage that is allocated to Landlord and the remaining percentage of the balance of the Net Condemnation Award shall be allocated to Tenant.

(e) Landlord and Tenant agree that all then-existing Leasehold Mortgagees, to the extent permitted by law and to the extent their interests are affected by the Taking, shall be made a party to any Taking proceeding.

ARTICLE 17 – DEFAULT and REMEDIES

Section 17.1 Landlord's Right to Perform.

(a) Landlord's Option to terminate if Tenant does not receive LIHTC. If Tenant does not obtain an award of Low Income Housing Tax Credits for the fiscal years 2013 or 2014 on or before August 31, 2014, then Landlord may immediately terminate the Lease. In the event Tenant is successful in obtaining an award, Tenant, at Tenant's sole expense, may obtain a market valuation/analysis of the value of this Lease and indicate on the application for the LIHTC that the value of this Lease will be donated to the LIHTC project to be developed on the Premises. Landlord also intends to make application for New Mexico Affordable Housing Tax Credits, and if Landlord is successful in its application for these additional tax credits, Landlord agrees to use the proceeds from the sale or other disposition of the Affordable Tax Credits for the sole purpose of development of the Premises for the purpose set forth herein.

(b) Landlord's Option if Tenant fails to pay when due amounts payable. If Tenant fails to pay when due amounts payable by Tenant in accordance with Tenant's obligations under this Lease, then Landlord, after ten (10) calendar days' prior written notice to Tenant and without waiving any of its rights under this Lease, may (but will not be required to) pay such amount, unless Tenant notifies Landlord in writing during such ten (10) calendar day period that Tenant is withholding the subject payment due to a dispute as to the legitimacy or correctness of same and takes steps reasonably necessary to protect Landlord's interests. If Tenant fails to perform any of its other obligations under this Lease within the time permitted for its performance, then Landlord, after ten (10) calendar days' prior written notice to Tenant and without waiving any of its rights under this Lease, may (but will not be required to) perform such obligation, unless Tenant notifies Landlord in writing during such ten (10) day period that Tenant is withholding performance due to a dispute as to the legitimacy or correctness of same and takes steps reasonably necessary to protect Landlord's interests or that Tenant has commenced the curing of such default within such ten (10) day period and continues to prosecute such cure in good faith until it has effected such cure.

(c) Additional Rent. All amounts which Tenant is obligated to pay pursuant to Article VI of this Lease, which if not paid may be paid by Landlord, and all reasonable costs and expenses incurred by Landlord in connection with the performance of any such Tenant obligations will be payable by Tenant to Landlord within ten (10) calendar days after Landlord has notified Tenant in writing of the amounts incurred by Landlord on its behalf and shall constitute "Additional Rent," with interest accrued thereon at the rate equal to two percent (2%) above the prime rate then in effect, as published from time to time in the Wall Street Journal. Landlord shall provide Tenant with invoices and other reasonable evidence of the amounts paid or incurred by Landlord in connection with its exercise of its rights pursuant to this Article.

Section 17.2 Events of Default.

At the option of Landlord, the occurrence of any of the following events shall constitute and are defined as an "Event of Default" by Tenant:

(a) Tenant defaults in the due and punctual payment of any Base Rent or Additional Rent, and such default continues for fifteen (15) calendar days after written notice from Landlord, unless Tenant notifies Landlord in writing during such fifteen (15) calendar day period that Tenant is withholding the subject payment or performance due to a dispute as to the legitimacy or correctness of same and takes steps reasonably necessary to protect Landlord's interests; or

(b) Tenant vacates (except by reason of casualty or condemnation) the Premises for a period of more than thirty (30) consecutive days, or abandons the Premises; or

(c) This Lease or the Premises or any part of the Premises are taken upon execution or by other process of law directed against Tenant, or are taken upon or subjected to any attachment by any creditor of Tenant or claimant against Tenant, and such attachment is not discharged or bonded off within ninety (90) calendar days after its levy; or

(d) Tenant breaches any of the other agreements, terms, covenants, or conditions which this Lease requires Tenant to perform, including without limitation the provisions of Article 12 hereof, and such breach continues for a period of thirty (30) calendar days after notice by Landlord to Tenant; provided, however, if the nature of the breach is such that it cannot be cured by Tenant reasonably within the period of thirty (30) calendar days, Tenant shall not be deemed in default of this Lease if Tenant commences the curing of such default within such period of thirty (30) days and prosecutes in good faith the curing of same continuously thereafter until the same is, in fact, cured; or

(e) Tenant fails to complete construction of the Future Development by the completion date and in accordance with closing documents to be entered into by the Parties at a closing on the financing for the Development; or

(f) Tenants fails to operate and maintain the Multi-family mixed income rental properties in accordance with all Applicable Multi-family Housing Requirements; or

(g) A lien is placed on the Premises, with the exception of any Permitted Mortgages, if applicable, approved in writing by Landlord, that is not released or bonded no later than thirty (30) days of filing; or

(h) Tenant uses the Premises for uses other than the permitted use provided for in Section 9.1 herein; or

(i) Tenant makes any assignment in violation of this Lease.

Section 17.3 Remedy

If any one or more Events of Default set forth in Section 17.2 occurs, and continues beyond the applicable grace or cure periods, then Landlord may, at Landlord's sole and exclusive remedy, at law or in equity, but subject in all respects to the rights of any holder of a Permitted Mortgage, if applicable, as set forth in Article 12 hereof, terminate this Lease by written notice to Tenant of its intention to terminate this Lease on the date (including any cure period described above) specified in such notice, and, on the date specified in such notice, Tenant's right to possession of the Premises and the Development will cease and the estate conveyed by this Lease shall re-vest in Landlord.

Section 17.4 Tenant's Right to Perform.

(a) Right to Perform Covenants. If Landlord shall, at any time, fail to perform any of its obligations hereunder or be in breach of any of its representations and warranties herein, Tenant shall, except in the event of an emergency, provide Landlord will notice of such default, and if Landlord does not commence action to cure any such default within the time period specified below after the giving of such notice, or immediately, in the event of an emergency, then Tenant may, without any obligation so to do and without waiving or releasing any obligation of Landlord contained in this Lease, take such actions and make such payment as may be necessary or appropriate to fulfill Landlord's obligations or otherwise cure any default of Landlord hereunder. In case of emergency, Tenant shall nevertheless make every effort to provide notice of default to Landlord. Where no emergency exists, and after giving notice to Landlord, Tenant shall allow Landlord ten (10) calendar days to commence a cure, unless Tenant's interests would be jeopardized by such delay.

(b) Costs and Expenses. All reasonable sums so paid by Tenant and all reasonable and essential costs and expenses incurred by Tenant in connection with the performance of any of the obligations of Landlord hereunder, or on account of any breach by Landlord of its representations and warranties herein shall be payable by Landlord to Tenant, but only after Tenant provides Landlord with invoices and other evidence of the amounts paid and essential expenses incurred by Tenant in connection with its reasonable exercise of its rights pursuant to this Article. In the event Landlord does not pay Tenant the amounts set forth in such invoices, then Tenant may withhold such amounts from the next installment of rent due under this Lease, until paid in full.

Article 17.5 Excusable Delay

Any time deadline or limitation shall be subject to extension for any delay that arises from unforeseeable causes beyond the reasonable control and without the fault or negligence of Landlord or Tenant. Examples of such cause include, without limitation, (a) acts of God, or public enemy, (b) acts or failure to act of other governmental entity in either their sovereign or contractual capacity, to the extent action by other governmental entity is required hereunder, provided that the party hereunder seeking such action by other governmental entity properly requests same in a timely manner and thereafter diligently pursues same, (c) acts or failure to act of a contractor in the performance of a contract with Landlord or Tenant, provided that the party hereunder seeking such action by the contractor property requests same in a timely manner and Landlord and Tenant each represents and warrants to the other that it has not dealt with any broker or finder with regard to the Premises or this Lease.

Section 18.2 Recordation

Subject to Section 17.5 herein, time is of the essence of each and every provision of this Lease.

Section 18.4 No Waiver.

No waiver of any condition or agreement in this Lease by either Landlord or Tenant will imply or constitute a further waiver by such party of the same or any other condition or agreement. No act or thing done by Landlord or Landlord's agents during the Term of this Lease will be deemed an acceptance of a surrender of the Premises, and no agreement to accept such surrender will be valid unless in writing signed by Landlord. Neither payment by Tenant, nor receipt from Landlord, of a lesser amount than the Base Rent and Additional Rent or other charges stipulated in this Lease will be deemed to be anything other than a payment on account of the earliest stipulated Base Rent and Additional Rent. No endorsement or statement on any check, or any letter accompanying any check or payment as Base Rent or Additional Rent, will be deemed an accord and satisfaction. Landlord will accept such check for payment without prejudice to Landlord's rights to recover the balance of such Base Rent or Additional Rent or to pursue any other remedy available to Landlord. If this Lease is assigned, or if the Premises or any parts of the Premises are sublet or occupied by anyone other than Tenant, Landlord may collect rent from the assignee, subtenant, or occupant and apply the net amount collected to the Base Rent and Additional Rent reserved in this Lease. No such collection will be deemed a waiver of the covenant in this Lease against assignment and subletting, or the acceptance of assignee, subtenant, or occupant of Tenant, or a release of Tenant from the complete performance by Tenant to its covenants in this Lease.

BETWEEN
THE CITY OF SANTA FE AND SANTA FE RECOVERY CENTER, INC.
(BUILDINGS 6B-1, 6B-2, AND PORTION OF BUILDING 12)

This LEASE AGREEMENT (Lease Agreement) is made and entered into this 15TH day of AUGUST, 2018 by and between the CITY OF SANTA FE, a municipal corporation (Lessor) and SANTA FE RECOVERY CENTER, INC., a New Mexico non-profit corporation (Lessee), collectively the "Parties".

WITNESSETH:

In consideration of Lessee's promises herein, Lessor hereby gives Lessee a Lease Agreement, revocable and terminable as hereinafter provided, to enter on, occupy, make use of, and improve the real property of Lessor as follows:

1. PREMISES

Lessor allows Lessee to use, occupy, and improve, subject to the terms and conditions of this Lease Agreement, those certain existing city-owned buildings known as Buildings 6B-1 and 6B-2 (Student Apartments) (containing twenty-four (24) two-bedroom apartments of approximately 625 square-feet each), an adjacent laundry/office accessory building (approximately 400 square-feet), and a portion of Building 12 (King Hall) (approximately 1,960 square-feet) all located at 1600 St. Michael's Drive on the former campus of the Santa Fe University of Art & Design in the City of Santa Fe (the Premises), as more fully described and shown on Exhibit A attached hereto and incorporated herein. Lessee accepts the Premises in its present state and agrees that it is in good condition, without any representation or warranty by Lessor as to the condition of the Premises or as to the use which may be made thereof.

2. EFFECTIVE DATE

This Lease Agreement shall become effective August 15, 2018 (the Effective Date).

3. LEASE TERM

The term of this Lease Agreement shall commence at 12:00 a.m. on the Effective Date. The term of this Lease Agreement shall consist of an "Initial Term" of eleven (11) months with one (2) "Optional Additional Terms" of six (6) months each. The Initial Term and any Optional Additional Terms are hereinafter referred to collectively as the "Term".

Lessee's exercise of any Optional Additional Term is contingent upon compliance with this Lease Agreement and with proper written notice by Lessee to Lessor at least ninety (90) days prior to the expiration of the Initial Term and shall be at Lessor's sole discretion.

In the event Lessee remains in possession of the Premises after the expiration of the Term of this Lease Agreement, such possession may, at the sole option of Lessor, be continued as a month-to-month tenancy. During any such month-to-month tenancy, the Rent due shall be prorated and payable on a monthly basis, and the terms and conditions of the Lease Agreement shall be otherwise applicable.

4. USE OF PREMISES

A. Conditions of Use. Lessee shall use the Premises solely for the specific purpose of operating the "Extended Residential" and "Recovery Housing" programs of the Santa Fe

Recovery Center subject to the following conditions:

i. Only Lessee's clients and staff are allowed to reside at the Premises, except that spouses and children of Lessee's clients may be allowed to reside on the Premises on a case-by-case basis at Lessee's discretion. No other persons are allowed to reside at the Premises;

ii. No violent felons or individuals who are a danger to themselves or others shall be allowed on the Premises;

iii. No alcohol or drugs (other than those prescribed by physicians for Lessee's clients) are allowed to be used or present on the Premises;

iv. Lessee shall require that all client vehicles parked at the Premises be equipped with functioning ignition interlock devices;

v. Lessee's clients that relapse while residing at the Premises shall be physically escorted off of the Santa Fe University of Art & Design campus by Lessee and shall not be allowed to return for a minimum of thirty (30) days;

vi. Lessee shall deploy security cameras at the Premises over the front door of each apartment unit and in the interior courtyard between Buildings 6B-1 and 6B-2. Lessor reserves the right to require Lessee to employ licensed security guards at the Premises;

vii. Lessee shall staff the Premises twenty-four (24) hours per day and seven (7) days per week. Lessee's staff shall include a medical technician(s); viii. Lessee shall place no signage of any kind on the exterior of the buildings or on the grounds without the prior written consent of Lessor;

ix. Lessee's residents and staff shall park in the existing parking lots immediately south of Building 6B-2, north of Building 6B-1 and east of Building 12.

x. Lessee shall restrict its client's visitors as follows: a) scheduled visits only during the client's first ninety (90) days of residency; and b) visitor check-in and check-out with Lessee's staff after the client's first ninety (90) days of residency;

B. Improvement of the Premises. Lessee may, with the prior written consent of Lessor and at no cost to Lessor, make minor improvements to the Premises as it deems necessary in furtherance of the intended use of the Premises as provided in Section 4.A above. Lessee shall upon Lessor's request, remove all such improvements made to the Premises at the termination of this Lease Agreement.

C. Trade Fixtures. All trade fixtures installed by Lessee after the Effective Date of this Lease Agreement shall remain the property of Lessee, who may remove the same upon termination of this Lease Agreement, provided that removal shall be done in such a manner as not to injure or damage the Premises.

In the event that Lessee fails to remove said trade fixtures after receipt of notice from Lessor to do so, Lessor may remove and dispose of the same as it sees fit and Lessee agrees to sell, assign, transfer and set over to Lessor all of Lessee's right, title and interest in and to said trade fixtures and any personal property not removed by Lessee. Lessee further agrees that should Lessor remove said trade fixtures pursuant to this paragraph, that Lessee shall pay Lessor upon demand the cost of such removal, plus the cost of transportation and disposal thereof.

D. Repairs and Maintenance. Lessee shall not cause or permit any waste, damage or injury to the Premises or to any improvements made to the Premises. Lessee shall, at its sole expense, keep and maintain the Premises in good and clean condition at all times and shall be responsible for the costs of any and all required repairs, replacements, and capital improvements that arise during the Term of this Lease Agreement. Repairs and replacements required to be made by the Lessee shall be made promptly as and when necessary and shall be at least equal in quality of materials and workmanship to that originally existing in the Premises.

Lessor reserves the right to inspect the Premises at any time during the Term of this Lease Agreement to verify Lessee's compliance with this Section 4.D. In the event Lessee fails to maintain the Premises at a standard acceptable to the Lessor, as determined in Lessor's sole discretion, Lessor may terminate this Lease Agreement in accordance with Section 12 herein.

E. Compliance with Laws. Lessee's use of the Premises shall at all times be in compliance with the City of Santa Fe Municipal Code and other applicable local, state and federal regulations including but not limited to compliance with the City of Santa Fe Integrated Pest Management Policy (§10-7 SFCC 1987) (the Pest Management Policy).

5. RENT

A. Base Rent during Initial Term. Lessee shall pay nineteen thousand, three hundred thirty dollars ($19,330.00) as monthly "Rent". Rent is due on the Effective Date and thereafter due in full on the first day of each month during the Term without notice or demand and without deduction or offset for any cause whatsoever. Lessee shall make payments to the Lessor's cashier office, Room 114, 200 Lincoln Ave., Santa Fe, NM.

B. Base Rent Offsets during Initial Term. Lessee shall offset the first month's Rent due by deducting from the first month's Rent the cost of initial repairs to the Premises as specified in Exhibit B attached hereto. The Parties acknowledge that additional repairs to or replacements of exterior stairways at Buildings 6B-1 and 6B-2 may be required. The Parties agree to offset the second month's Rent by deducting the actual cost of repair or replacement of the subject stairways, provided that Lessor has reviewed and approved cost proposal(s) obtained by Lessee for said repairs or replacements prior to any work being performed.

C. Rent during Optional Additional Term(s). The Rent during any Optional Additional Term(s) of this Lease Agreement shall be increased by an amount calculated by multiplying the Rent during the Initial Term by two and one-half percent (2.5%).

6. UTILITIES & SERVICES

Beginning on the Effective Date and until the termination of this Lease Agreement, the responsibility and costs for providing utilities and services to the Premises shall be the responsibility of the Parties as specified below:

A. Responsibility of Lessor. All natural gas, electricity, domestic water, and sanitary sewer service shall be provided to the Premises by Lessor.

B. Responsibility of Lessee. A certificate or policy which states that failure to give such notice imposes no obligation on the part of the insurer shall be unacceptable to Lessor, and Lessee shall be responsible for removing such language from such certificate or policy.

10. INDEMNIFICATION

Lessee shall indemnify, hold harmless and defend Lessor from all losses, damages, claims or judgments, including payment of all attorney's fees and costs, on account of any suit, judgment, execution, claim, action or demand whatsoever arising from damages occurring on the Premises and Lessee's use of the Premises hereunder, including use of the Premises by Lessee's employees, agents, representatives, contractors, agents, guests, invitees or permitted assigns. RE: Adoption of New Council Committee Rules

---

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY:

The proposed Resolution adopts a new version of the Committee Rules applicable to the City Council Standing Committees.

BACKGROUND:

On January 13, 2022 the Governing Body adopted Resolution No. 2022-4 that adopted a new version of the Governing Body Procedural Rules. The proposed Resolution adopts a new version of rules for the City Council Standing Committees that aligns the Committee Rules with the Governing Body Procedural Rules.

The current Committee Rules were first adopted in 1984 and most recently amended in 2009. They do not reflect the realistic workings of committees and make no distinction between City Council Standing Committees and advisory committees. The proposed rules provide guidance to City Council Standing Committees that correlates with the Governing Body Procedural Rules. Rules for advisory committees will be forthcoming.

ACTION REQUESTED:

Approve the Resolution and attached Council Committee Procedural Rules as presented.

RE: Complete Streets Resolution

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY:

The Resolution proposes to adopt "Complete Streets" design standards for the City of Santa Fe. The standards are intended to reduce fatalities and carbon emissions by improving conditions for, among other things, multi-modal transport, slower vehicle speeds, and transportation access.

BACKGROUND:

"Complete Streets" is a design standard that is based on a decades-long, national movement championed by the Smart Growth Coalition, a non-profit advocacy group dedicated to design and building safer streets and roadways. Statistically, the United States has the worst safety record for roads and streets of all the developed countries. Of all the states in the U.S., New Mexico has the most fatalities per capita, and the state's rate is worsening. A combination of design standards, codes, and outdated transportation policies and engineering values that favor maximizing traffic operations over pedestrian and bicycle safety are contributing factors to this reality. Complete Street design standards are the product of a movement that seeks to challenge these decades-old practices and provide communities with safer and more equitable transportation improvements.

It is important to note that the Public Works Department has been striving to deliver Complete Streets designs and principles throughout the transportation network as evidenced by multiple planned and implemented infrastructure improvement projects. These include the partnership with Tierra Contenta developers and the planned Paseo del Sol extension, the redesign of N. Guadalupe, the reconstruction of S. Guadalupe, redesign of Harrison Road, the round-about at Camino Entrada, desired redesign of Bishop's Lodge Road and Hyde Park Road, lane reduction on Siler Road and more. The resolution is intended to further support, honor and strengthen the work of the City. One example of strengthening existing street guidelines in the code is to be more inclusive of innovative designs that accommodate pedestrian and bicycle facilities, support varied road lane widths and sidewalk widths intended to balance all mobility options. Another example is the level of work put into the Mid-Town Campus proposed transportation network that is purposefully seeking to accommodate greater levels of walking, public transit and bicycle movements.

The core principles and tenants of Complete Streets design standards have evolved over the past decade nationally and have become well accepted by the U.S. Department of Transportation as proven safety counter measures to high fatalities. The sponsors of this Resolution and the Santa Fe MPO see this Resolution as a benefit for safety, equity, and environmental justice for all users of the City of Santa Fe's streets and roads.

A commitment to support Complete Streets design standards will assist with leveraging state and federal funding from sources that support communities that actively embrace Complete Streets. An example is the Bi-Partisan Infrastructure Bill signed into law in November of 2021 which require Complete Streets policies be supported in order to be eligible for funding.

In 2007, the Santa Fe Metropolitan Planning Organization Transportation Policy Board adopted Resolution No. 2007-1 "A Resolution Advancing Complete Streets for the Santa Fe Metropolitan Area". The document resolved that bicycle, pedestrian, equestrian, and transit needs should be given full consideration in the planning and development of transportation facilities in the Santa Fe metropolitan area.

On May 26, 2022, the Santa Fe Metropolitan Planning Organization Transportation Policy Board adopted a version of this resolution. On May 31, 2022, the Santa Fe County Commission adopted a version of this resolution.

ACTION REQUESTED:

Adoption of the resolution supporting Complete Streets design standards to promote safer and more equitable transportation improvements in the Santa Fe Metropolitan Planning Area and reduce the impact of climate change from vehicle emissions.

CITY OF SANTA FE, NEW MEXICO

RESOLUTION NO. 2022-__

INTRODUCED BY:

Councilor Jamie Cassutt

Councilwoman Renee Villarreal

Councilor Michael J. Garcia

Councilor Amanda Chavez

A RESOLUTION

SUPPORTING "COMPLETE STREETS" DESIGN STANDARDS, WHICH ARE INTENDED TO PROVIDE SAFER AND MORE EQUITABLE TRANSPORTATION IMPROVEMENTS AND REDUCING THE IMPACTS OF CLIMATE CHANGE IN THE SANTA FE METROPOLITAN PLANNING AREA

WHEREAS, "Complete Streets" design standards were created by a national movement called the Smart Growth Coalition, a national planning non-profit, public interest organization; and

WHEREAS, adopting Complete Streets is intended to result in comprehensive, integrated transportation networks with infrastructure and design that support safe and well-managed travel along and across streets for all users, including pedestrians, users of public transit, bicyclists, persons with disabilities, seniors, children, motorists, visitors, shared mobility services, and movers of commercial goods; and

WHEREAS, Complete Streets support the health and wellbeing of residents and the environment by creating and improving sustainable transportation options, providing opportunities for physical activity through improved access to active transportation, improving air quality through reduced vehicle emissions, mitigating the urban heat island effect, utilizing stormwater runoff and decreasing stormwater pollutants, and maximizing shade trees and vegetation; and

WHEREAS, Complete Streets are essential in providing safe routes to schools and parks for children and parents; and

WHEREAS, the encouragement of diverse and comprehensive public engagement and participation in community decisions concerning street design is critical and, to date, public engagement results in response to the draft Santa Fe Multimodal Transition Plan and the City of Santa Fe (City) Metropolitan Planning Organization's ("MPO's") Master Plan, which each had formal public engagement activities, have revealed a commanding desire for a more walkable, bikeable, and transit-accessible transportation network; and

WHEREAS, public streets ought to be designed not only to accommodate safe access for all users, but in a manner in which creates vibrant, attractive, and sustainable public places that advance ambitious environmental and social equity goals; and

WHEREAS, according to Smart Growth America's "Benefits of Complete Streets" on-line tool kit, streets designed for all users and not just for commuter convenience offer long-term cost savings for local and state governments, provide public health, and financial benefits to property owners and businesses; and

WHEREAS, there is a continued and urgent recognition that impacts of climate change are occurring more frequently and with added severity, and designing and promoting a multi-modal, regional transportation system supports a comprehensive climate action strategy to reduce greenhouse gas emissions; and

WHEREAS, the MPO has adopted, and the City has implemented, MPO Master Plans that promote transportation improvements that encourage walking, bicycling, and transit use and see them as equal mobility options to the automobile; and

WHEREAS, the MPO has voted to support Complete Streets a number of times: (1) the principles of Complete Streets in 2007; (2) the subsequent development and implementation of the 2012 Metropolitan Bicycle Master Plan, which was updated in 2019; (3) the 2015 Metropolitan Pedestrian Master Plan; and (4) the 2020 Metropolitan Transportation Plan improving road and street safety through design (“MPO Complete Streets Resolution");

WHEREAS, the MPO Complete Streets Resolution includes the understanding that all trips have equal value and acknowledges the benefits and value for the public health and welfare of reducing vehicle miles traveled and increasing transportation alternatives, such as walking, bicycling, and public transportation; and

WHEREAS, the implementation of Complete Streets will help to shift the City toward carbon neutrality and is a sustainable planning practice, features that are consistent with Santa Fe’s Sustainability Plan and Climate Impact Reduction Goals; and

WHEREAS, for eight years (2012-2019), the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has identified New Mexico as one of the four states nationwide with the highest rates of pedestrian fatalities per 100,000 population; and

WHEREAS, the U.S. Department of Transportation has found that designing streets for speeds over 25 miles per hour dramatically increases the likelihood that a person struck while walking will be killed; and

WHEREAS, studies have shown that street designs that encourage lower speeds save lives by reducing both vehicle speed and driver error; and

WHEREAS, the City, in light of urgent safety needs and climate change impacts, wishes to strengthen its commitment to Complete Streets, promoting safe and convenient travel for all users and recognizing community context, sustainability, and social equity with the use of design guidelines and standards that support best practices; and

WHEREAS, the attached graphic summary (Exhibit A) of the benefits of Complete Streets within the Santa Fe Metropolitan Planning Area articulates a vison of how roads and streets may be repurposed to advance the goals of sustainability, community, affordable housing, safety, economic development, and public health and represents the City's commitment to further advance these goals.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE GOVERNING BODY OF THE CITY OF SANTA FE that the Governing Body commits to Complete Streets as a core value and directs that this resolution shall proactively inform and guide the development or revision of land use codes, regulations, and plans so that the design and construction of streets in the city form a comprehensive, safe, and integrated transportation network for all road users.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that new road construction or retrofits of existing roads, project funding priorities, and other instances involving a potential change to the design of any street shall be reviewed for compliance with the Complete Streets design standards.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that City-initiated development shall embrace and incorporate Complete Street designs.

WHAT ARE COMPLETE STREETS?

COMPLETE STREETS ARE STREETS FOR EVERYONE.

Complete Streets are an approach that integrate people and place in the planning, design, construction, operation, and maintenance of transportation networks.

WHAT IS A COMPLETE STREET?

Complete Streets:

MAKE OUR STREETS SAFER

ARE SUPPORTED BY THE COMMUNITY

IMPROVE SOCIAL EQUITY

SUPPORT ENVIRONMENTAL, CLIMATE CHANGE, AND SUSTAINABILITY GOALS

HOW DO COMPLETE STREETS BENEFIT SANTA FE AND THE REGION?

They support all modes.

GOAL: MULTIMODAL MOBILITY & ACCESSIBILITY: An accessible, connected, and integrated transportation system.

Santa Fe MPO Metropolitan Transportation Plan 2020-2045

GOAL: CONNECTIVITY - Provide critical connections for bicyclists and pedestrians of all ages and abilities that link destinations, transit, and neighborhoods.

SANTA FE METROPOLITAN BICYCLE MASTER PLAN 2019

Complete streets balance the needs of multiple modes in the right-of-way and across the transportation network – creating space for convenient and efficient transit, ensuring complete sidewalks, and providing safe bicycling infrastructure. Complete streets prioritize more than the traditional vehicle throughput and speed – and instead elevate safety and convenience across all modes and abilities as the most important elements of a street.

In Santa Fe, large arterial roads bisect the city and create barriers for pedestrians and people on bikes. These streets (like Airport Road and Cerrillos Road) contain many of the commercial and employment destinations in the city but they lack safe, low-stress bike infrastructure, are difficult to cross, and are unpleasant to walk along. This leads 87.5% of people in Santa Fe to drive or carpool to work.

But, by building complete streets on key corridors, and developing additional multimodal routes that connect neighborhoods and important destinations (like schools and grocery stores), Santa Fe can create a community that offers a variety of transportation options.

They make our streets safer.

GOAL: SAFETY: a safe and secure transportation system for motorized and non-motorized users.

Santa Fe MPO Metropolitan Transportation Plan 2020-2045

GOAL: Improve pedestrian safety through well-designed facilities along and across roadways, and by promoting safe driving, walking, and bicycling behaviors.

SANTA FE METROPOLITAN PEDESTRIAN MASTER PLAN

Between 2010 and 2019, New Mexico had the highest rate of pedestrian fatalities per 100,000 people of all states.[1] 58.8 percent of those deaths were on arterials.[2] This is during a time period where, nationwide, the number of pedestrians struck and killed by drivers increased by an astonishing 45 percent.

However, designing a street with pedestrians in mind – sidewalks, raised medians, traffic-calming measures, and treatments for travelers with disabilities – can reduce pedestrian risk by as much as 28%.[1]

In many cases, reducing speeding will be paramount to increasing safety. At 20 miles per hour, there's a 5% fatality rate for people struck by a car. That fatality rate rises to 85% at 40 MPH.[3] Complete streets incorporate the treatments above – and many more – to provide cues to drivers to slow down.

They support mobility for all ages and abilities.

VISION: Santa Fe is a place where people of all ages and abilities can safely and comfortably have bicycle and pedestrian access along a comprehensive network of multi-use trails and complete streets, connecting residential neighborhoods with employment centers, parks, open space, schools, retail centers, and other public and private services throughout the metropolitan area.

SANTA FE METROPOLITAN BICYCLE MASTER PLAN 2019

GOAL: SAFETY - Create a bicycle network that is safe and comfortable for bicyclists of all ages and abilities, particularly at schools and surrounding neighborhoods.

SANTA FE METROPOLITAN BICYCLE MASTER PLAN 2019

Incomplete streets are often primarily designed for able-bodied adults who can walk quickly, easily interpret road risks, or confidently navigate on a bicycle. Alternatively, complete streets improve transportation options and safety for everyone – extra consideration is given to children, the elderly, and the physically impaired in complete street designs.

In Santa Fe, 13% of residents have some form of disability, 25% are over 65 years of age, and 16% are under the age of 16.[4]

Despite the number of people in Santa Fe that face these challenges, many sidewalks in Santa Fe are extremely narrow (too narrow for wheelchairs or strollers) missing curb ramps, or contain physical obstacles (like light posts and signs). Other streets lack sidewalks altogether. Removing these barriers can make it easier to navigate our streets and community.

Children also deserve a transportation system that serves their needs. Complete Streets provide children with opportunities to walk, bike and play in a safe environment - allowing them to stay active and gain independence.[5] By slowing traffic and providing additional safety improvements, complete streets can make streets safe for kids (and their parents) to view walking or biking to school as viable options.

They help our community be healthier.

GOAL: Develop a pedestrian network that promotes active, healthy lifestyles and sustains a healthy environment.

SANTA FE METROPOLITAN PEDESTRIAN MASTER PLAN

GOAL: PUBLIC HEALTH: A transportation system that supports healthy lifestyles.

Santa Fe MPO Metropolitan Transportation Plan 2020-2045

Engaging in physical activity for as little as 30 minutes a day can prevent or help treat conditions such as diabetes, breast and colon cancer, depression, dementia, anxiety, osteoporosis, cardiovascular disease, obesity, and high blood pressure.[6]

Providing opportunities for people to integrate walking or biking into their daily routines can help them meet daily and weekly exercise recommendations and stay healthy and fit. According to a study released in 2014 by the American Journal of Public Health, there is a direct and significant correlation between how close people live to biking and walking infrastructure and the amount of weekly exercise they get.[7] By providing complete streets throughout Santa Fe, many more residents can live near facilities that allow them to incorporate exercise into their everyday routine.

In Santa Fe County, obesity affects 18.4% of adults and more than 14% of those ages 10-17. Only 24.1% of adolescents in Santa Fe were physically active for at least 60 minutes per day.[8] As stated in the Santa Fe Metropolitan Bicycle Master Plan, “Given Santa Fe’s educational budget restrictions and declining offerings in physical education, promoting walking to school and establishing a safe and reliable bicycle network is a logical strategy for children’s health that can benefit the entire community”

They are good for the community and are supported by the community.

During public outreach that was conducted during the development of Santa Fe's many transportation plans – Bicycle, Pedestrian, Transit, Multimodal Transition, and Metropolitan Transportation – the public has repeatedly requested the implementation of complete streets infrastructure and the improvement of multimodal networks.

Across all these plans, when Santa Fe residents were asked during transportation planning efforts what their top priorities were for improvement to the transportation network, the top for responses were:

1. Expanded bus and train service
2. Better connected and safer bicycle and pedestrian networks
3. Improved quality of infrastructure for all modes
4. Target improvements for those populations who need it most

The responses above can all be addressed through the implementation of complete streets within Santa Fe.

Additionally, as part of the development of the Santa Fe Metropolitan Transportation Plan, when asked, "If you had $5 million available to spend on the transportation network, where would you spend it?" 73% of residents chose to allocate their funds to transit, bike/pedestrian, or road safety improvements.[9] Complete streets would improve the transportation network in relation to each of these categories.

They support environmental, sustainability goals, climate goals.

GOALS: Plan for and invest in a safe, modernized transportation system that supports low-emission, active, and equitable mobility options for all users.

Achieve annual reductions in daily vehicle miles traveled. Achieve annual increases in the total miles of sidewalks, on-road bicycle lanes and multi-use paths. Increase public transit ridership annually..

Sustainable Santa Fe
25-Year Plan
October 2018

In the Sustainable Santa Fe Plan, and other city and MPO plans, sustainability and mitigating climate change have been expressed as a major priority of the city and region. With transportation accounting for the largest share of carbon emissions in the U.S., achieving ambitious climate targets and creating more livable communities requires us to build streets and transportation networks that allow people to get around outside of a car.

In the Santa Fe Metropolitan Planning Area, transportation is the economic sector responsible for the majority of carbon dioxide emissions – at 41% of all emissions. Complete streets can help cut these emissions, as households located in a network of complete streets make significantly fewer of their daily trips by car.[10]

And, due to its compact size, almost all trips within Santa Fe have the potential to be completed by active transportation or transit. 48 percent of all trips in Santa Fe are within a mile, which would be about a 20-minute walk. And 81% of all trips taken are within five miles, which would be up to a 30-minute bike ride.[11] Replacing these short trips currently taken by car can greatly reduce harmful emissions.

Driving related emissions for households living in non-car-dependent neighborhoods can be up to half of what they are for households in the car-dependent neighborhoods.[12] By implementing complete streets, Santa Fe can help make every neighborhood a neighborhood that doesn't necessitate car use.

They create economic benefits.

GOAL: Enhance economic vibrancy by creating safe and aesthetically pleasing walking environments with easy connections to commercial centers and attractive and enjoyable public places

SANTA FE METROPOLITAN PEDESTRIAN MASTER PLAN

GOAL: ECONOMIC & COMMUNITY VITALITY: A transportation system that supports economic and community vitality

Santa Fe MPO Metropolitan Transportation Plan 2020-2045

What do communities get for their investments in complete streets? Compared to conventional transportation projects, complete streets projects are remarkably economical - for the most part, costing significantly less than conventional transportation projects.[13]

Dollar for dollar, bicycling is by far one of the cheapest transportation modes to support. Often bicycle facilities utilize existing roadway space, and only require relatively low-cost pavement markings and/or signage.

By installing infrastructure that increases the rates of biking, walking and transit use, the carrying capacity of a street can be increased for a fraction of the cost of acquiring additional right-of-way and installing additional lane miles – miles that would also eventually require repaving and maintenance in the future.

Complete streets aren't just cheaper to build, they grow the economy where they all installed. Complete streets projects lead to broader economic gains like increased employment, higher property values, and increased net new businesses.[4]

They improve social equity.

GOAL: SOCIAL EQUITY: Equitable investments in transportation that enable quality of life for all residents

Santa Fe MPO Metropolitan Transportation Plan 2020-2045

Everyone deserves the opportunity to achieve their full potential regardless of where they live, how they travel, who they are, or what social position they occupy. An equitable transportation network offers convenient and affordable access to jobs, medical services, education, grocery shopping, and social/recreational activities - no matter the mode used for transportation.

In a study of upward mobility, commuting time has emerged as the single strongest factor in the odds of a household escaping poverty. The longer the average commute is in a given county, the worse the chances a low-income family there has of moving up the socioeconomic ladder.[14] Those without access to a car (or unable to drive), who rely on public transit, are likely to suffer from the longer commute times. By ensuring good transit service and access through complete streets elements, commute times can be reduced and access to jobs and opportunity improved.

People in Santa Fe spend 22% of their household income on transportation each year, or about $11,718.[15] When people have the opportunity to walk, bike, or take transit, they have more control over their expenses and aren't forced to consider purchasing a car they may not be able to afford.

While those with vehicles can choose to avoid unsafe streets and walking conditions, those without (3.5% of households in Santa Fe) are forced to walk or bike along streets that aren't designed with them in mind.

Because of this, people die while walking at much higher rates in lower-income communities compared to higher-income areas. However, low-income communities are significantly less likely to have sidewalks, marked crosswalks, and street design to support safer, slower speeds.[16]

Complete streets distributed equitably throughout Santa Fe can remove the safety risks of walking along our streets, bringing safety equity between those who walk, bike, or use transit as a means of transportation, and those who drive.

HOW DOES IT ALL FIT TOGETHER?

The City, County, and Metropolitan Planning Organization of Santa Fe are working together to advance complete streets and reduce the impacts of climate change in order to help meet their overlapping community goals.

A RESOLUTION

SUPPORTING LEGISLATION IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA AND THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO TO PROTECT THE RIGHT TO A SAFE ABORTION.

WHEREAS, New Mexico Governor Michelle Lujan Grisham signed an Executive Order 2022-107 on June 27, 2022, prohibiting State employees from assisting other jurisdictions seeking criminal or civil penalties related to accessing reproductive healthcare, with limited exceptions; protecting medical providers from attempts at legal retribution, and establishing that the State will not entertain extradition attempts from other states relating to receiving or performing reproductive services, with limited exceptions; and

WHEREAS, the State repealed a statute banning abortion during the 2021 regular session, when Row v. Wade was still the law of the land; and

WHEREAS, according to the Center for Reproductive Rights, 970 million women/people with the capacity for pregnancy, representing 59 percent of people of reproductive capacity of reproductive age, live in countries that broadly allow abortion, while 41 percent live under restrictive laws; and

WHEREAS, legal restrictions on abortion result in higher numbers of unsafe abortions, compelling those seeking abortions to risk their lives and health by resorting to unsafe abortion practices[1]; and

WHEREAS, according to the World Health Organization, 23,000 people with the capacity for pregnancy die of unsafe abortions each year; and

WHEREAS, people with the capacity for pregnancy across the world have fought for the right to access safe and legal abortion for decades; and

WHEREAS, in the United States, the 1973, Roe v. Wade Supreme Court decision recognized the right to receive an abortion under the 14th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution; and

WHEREAS, the 1992, Planned Parenthood v. Casey Supreme Court decision upheld the right to receive an abortion, adding that any restrictions should be evaluated under an "undue burden" standard; and

WHEREAS, in December of 2021, the Supreme Court of the United States heard oral arguments in Dobbs v. Jackson Women 's Health Clinic, concerning a Mississippi abortion law that directly challenged Roe v. Wade; and

WHEREAS, Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Clinic overruled Roe v. Wade; and

WHEREAS, millions of people with the capacity for pregnancy lost their legal right to abortion when the Supreme Court overturned Roe v. Wade; and

WHEREAS, the greatest impact of this decision will be felt by persons from marginalized groups who already face significant barriers accessing abortion care, particularly low-income people of color; and

WHEREAS, research published in the Duke University Press, Demography (2021) 58

[1] https://www.npr.org/sections/goatsandsoda/2022/05/27/1099739656/do-restrictive-abortion-laws-actually-reduce-abortion-a-global-map-offers-insigh

2019-2028 estimates that banning abortion in the United States may lead to a 21 percent increase in the number of pregnancy-related deaths overall and a 33 percent increase in the number of pregnancy-related deaths among non-Hispanic Black people; and

WHEREAS, the City of Santa Fe ("City") is committed to staunch advocacy for reproductive rights and to being a safe haven for all people seeking abortions.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE GOVERNING BODY OF THE CITY OF SANTA FE that the Governing Body hereby supports legislation that would codify the right to safe abortion into law and urges the State and the federal governments to take immediate action to pass legislation to this effect.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the City Clerk is directed to send this resolution to the Santa Fe Legislative Delegation, the Governor of New Mexico, and the New Mexico Congressional Delegation.

ITEM AND ISSUE:
A RESOLUTION ADOPTING THE 2024-2028 SENIOR INFRASTRUCTURE CAPITAL IMPROVEMENTS PLAN (ICIP) FOR THE DIVISION OF SENIOR SERVICES, COMMUNITY SERVICES DEPARTMENT.

BACKGROUND AND SUMMARY:
The state-coordinated Senior Program Infrastructure Capital Improvements Plan (ICIP) establishes priorities for anticipated capital projects. It encourages entities to plan for the development of capital improvements of Senior Programs so they do not find themselves in emergency situations, but plan for, fund, and develop infrastructure at a pace that sustains their activities. In an attempt by the State to gain a full assessment of the infrastructure needs for Senior Citizen facilities, this category was added to the ICIP and requires all Senior Citizen facilities to submit an ICIP separately from their respective fiscal agent. Complying with this requirement allows Senior Services to compete for capital outlay grants from the Aging and Long Term Services Department.

Attached is the 2024-2028 ICIP for the City of Santa Fe, Division of Senior Services (DSS). As in years past, this process is completely beholden to the rules and regulation of the State Department of Finance and Administration. It includes the top ten projects for DSS for 2024-2028. The Fiscal Impact Report, which is also attached, shows no direct impact on the City of Santa Fe operating budget.

ACTION REQUESTED:
Request for approval of a resolution to adopt the 2024-2028 Senior ICIP.

PHASING BUDGET

Can this project be phased? No

Phasing: Stand Alone: No Multi-Phased: No

A project single phase approach is used for projects that can be completed with one process because it is manageable, affordable, and will not require any foreseeable additional resources or activities to be fully operational when complete.

A project multi-phased approach is used for breaking down very large projects into manageable standalone parts that are independently functional and easier to fund.

If the multi-phase approach is being used it is required to provide accurate dates, costs, and funding sources for prior phases, and be able to provide reasonable projections of dates, costs, and funding sources for future phases. In addition, each multi-phase has three main levels: Planning, Design, and Construction. Each level can be funded individually, however strong emphasis is put on completing all three levels.

PHASING BUDGET

Can this project be phased? No

Phasing: Stand Alone: Yes Multi-Phased: No

A project single phase approach is used for projects that can be completed with one process because it is manageable, affordable, and will not require any foreseeable additional resources or activities to be fully operational when complete.

A project multi-phased approach is used for breaking down very large projects into manageable standalone parts that are independently functional and easier to fund.

If the multi-phase approach is being used it is required to provide accurate dates, costs, and funding sources for prior phases, and be able to provide reasonable projections of dates, costs, and funding sources for future phases. In addition, each multi-phase has three main levels: Planning, Design, and Construction. Each level can be funded individually, however strong emphasis is put on completing all three levels.

PHASING BUDGET

Can this project be phased? No

Phasing: Stand Alone: Yes Multi-Phased: No

A project single phase approach is used for projects that can be completed with one process because it is manageable, affordable, and will not require any foreseeable additional resources or activities to be fully operational when complete.

A project multi-phased approach is used for breaking down very large projects into manageable standalone parts that are independently functional and easier to fund.

If the multi-phase approach is being used it is required to provide accurate dates, costs, and funding sources for prior phases, and be able to provide reasonable projections of dates, costs, and funding sources for future phases. In addition, each multi-phase has three main levels: Planning, Design, and Construction. Each level can be funded individually, however strong emphasis is put on completing all three levels.

INTRODUCED BY:

Councilor Jamie Cassutt

Mayor Alan Webber

A RESOLUTION

SUPPORTING THE SANTA FE PUBLIC SCHOOLS' BOARD OF EDUCATION'S APPLICATION FOR GRANT FUNDING TO BUILD OUT A DISTRICT-WIDE COMMUNITY SCHOOLS MODEL DESIGNED TO REDUCE CHRONIC ABSENTEEISM, DECREASE OUT-OF-SCHOOL TIME CAUSED BY SUSPENSIONS, INCREASE PARENTAL INVOLVEMENT, AND IMPROVE KINDERGARTEN READINESS SKILLS.

WHEREAS, Santa Fe is a city with students that hail from all ranges of wealth; and

WHEREAS, many students that come from the lower end of the income spectrum struggle in school, where many of life's most important lessons are learned; and

WHEREAS, Santa Fe Public Schools' Board of Education ("BoE") has applied for a grant to establish a district-wide community schools model designed to provide a holistic and familial approach to learning; and

WHEREAS, the grant amount can range between $250k-$500k per year for five years, an amount determined by the grant reviewers; and

WHEREAS, a community school is a research-based, equity driven strategy that brings students, families, organizations, and communities together to transform education and create well-rounded educational opportunities and support systems; and

WHEREAS, community schools vary based on the context of needs, assets, and priorities of the body of students attending the school; and

WHEREAS, according to the New Mexico Community Schools Logic Model, which outlines a long-term strategy for improving the learning environment for its students, the "theory of action" states that "if school and community partners meet the needs of the whole child, then transformational changes will occur that result in healthy, secure students ready for college, career and life"; and

WHEREAS, there are four pillars of community schools: expanded and enriched learning time and opportunities, collaborative leadership and practices, active family and community engagement, and integrated student supports; and

WHEREAS, expanded and enriched learning time and opportunities includes enrichment activities that emphasize real-world learning and community problem solving as well as after school, weekend, and summer programs that provide academic instruction and individualized support; and

WHEREAS, collaborative leadership and practices enable parents, students, teachers, principals, and community partners to build a culture of professional learning, collective trust, and shared responsibility using strategies such as site-based leadership teams and teacher learning communities; and

WHEREAS, active family and community engagement allows schools to function as neighborhood hubs where there are educational opportunities for adults and family members to share their stories and serve as equal partners in promoting student success; and

WHEREAS, integrated students support provides a dedicated staff member to coordinate support programs to address out-of-school learning barriers for students and families and provides mental and physical health services support to boost student success.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE GOVERNING BODY OF THE CITY OF SANTA FE that the Governing Body strongly supports the Santa Fe Public Schools Board of Education's application for grant funding to build out a district-wide community schools model designed to reduce chronic absenteeism, decrease out-of-school time caused by suspensions, increase parental involvement, and improve kindergarten readiness skills.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that this resolution demonstrates the Governing Body's continued commitment to collaboration with Santa Fe Public Schools on innovative projects that increase overall student development and school learning systems.

CITY OF SANTA FE, NEW MEXICO

RESOLUTION NO. 2022-__

INTRODUCED BY:

Councilor Amanda Chavez

Councilor Signe I. Lindell

Councilor Lee Garcia

A RESOLUTION

CREATING A SIX-MONTH PILOT PROGRAM TO ENCOURAGE AND INCENTIVIZE EMPLOYERS TO PAY FOR EMPLOYEE PARKING IN CITY OF SANTA FE ("CITY") PARKING FACILITIES AT SANDOVAL STREET, THE CONVENTION CENTER, AND THE RAILYARD.

WHEREAS, local employees are spending a significant portion of their income on parking in the downtown and Railyard Areas; and

WHEREAS, local merchants are competing with employers outside the downtown area, who can offer free parking, making recruiting and retention of employees in the downtown area difficult; and

WHEREAS, the City Parking Division currently offers a "downtown business employee rate" for monthly parking of thirty-five dollars ($35.00) per month for all three City-owned garages for workers who are employed by a downtown business and earn fifteen dollars ($15) an hour or less with an annual salary not to exceed $31,200, including tips; and

WHEREAS, if an employee does not qualify for the "downtown business employee rate", a parking permit is available at the standard rate of $68.25 per month; and

WHEREAS, a minority of employees working for businesses downtown are eligible for the current downtown business employee rate program; and

WHEREAS, the Santa Fe Railyard Community Corporation ("SFRCC") surveyed businesses within the Railyard and Guadalupe Districts, regarding employee parking needs and their employees' commuting and parking practices; and

WHEREAS, the survey indicated that 45% of respondents have between 1-5 employees, while 25% of respondents have 21 or more employees, demonstrating the wide range of business sizes that require parking for their employees; and

WHEREAS, the results of the survey indicate that most employees park on the street or pay a daily rate in a parking garage, while several employers indicated they already purchase parking permits for at least a portion of their employees; and

WHEREAS, fifty percent (50%) of the survey respondents said that they would pay between $20-$30 per permit for their employees to park in City-owned parking garages; and

WHEREAS, the Governing Body wants local businesses to ensure sufficient and convenient parking for their employees; and

WHEREAS, many downtown service industry workers do not have a convenient and reliable method of transportation to get to work, which can lead to lower staffing levels; and

WHEREAS, service workers are essential to the City's vibrant restaurant and lodging industries that provide the bulk of services to Santa Fe's tourism sector.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE GOVERNING BODY OF THE CITY OF SANTA FE that the City shall continue to offer a downtown business employee monthly parking rate of thirty-five dollars ($35.00) per month for all three City-owned garages;

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the City shall implement a six-month pilot program called the "downtown business employee parking program" ("Program") through which downtown businesses may purchase parking permits to be used by their employees, regardless of the employees' income.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Program will allow employees to park at the Railyard Parking Garage, Sandoval Parking Garage, or the Santa Fe Community Convention Center Parking Garage.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Program shall incentivize purchase of parking for employees by businesses by pricing bulk purchases at a rate that is lower than the monthly parking permit that is currently available for employees making $15 dollars or less per hour.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that business owners may purchase no more than fifteen parking permits for their employees for twenty-five dollars per month.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that monthly parking permits offered through the Program shall be sold directly to businesses, issued in the name of the business, and may be shared by employees at the business owner's discretion and in strict accordance with the Parking Division's current policies and procedures.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the City Manager shall report back to the Governing Body regarding the success of the program, within sixty (60) days of completing the six (6) month pilot program. In particular, the Governing Body would like to review the following three criteria:

1. The number of permits purchased per month.
2. The number of permits scanned at each of the garages.
3. Input from businesses about the effectiveness of the program, based on survey results conducted by the parking division.

Memorandum

DATE: August 19, 2022

TO: Governing Body

VIA: Regina Wheeler, Public Works Department Director RW

FROM: Romella Glorioso-Moss, AICP, Senior Project Administrator RGM

ITEM AND ISSUE:
Request for the Approval of a Resolution to Accept Local Government Road Fund in the Total Amount of $73,599 for the Planning, Design, Construction, and Pavement Rehabilitation of Buckman Road; New Mexico Department of Transportation; Romella Glorioso-Moss, rsglorioso-moss@santafenm.gov, (505) 955-6623.

BACKGROUND AND SUMMARY:
In 2021, the Bicycling and Pedestrian Advisory Committee chaired by Councilor Michael Garcia has prioritized pavement rehabilitation of Buckman Road from the cattle guard crossing to the intersection of Buckman Rd. and Camino de las Crucitas with project length of 1.32 miles (Fig.1).

Fig. 1 Location Map

The intensity of use of this road for bicycling is shown in Fig. 2 where the lighter color signifies more bicycling activity. Based on this Heat Map generated from Strava and Strava Metro, the amount of bicycling activity on Buckman Road far exceeds other roads in the vicinity and demonstrates the vital connection Buckman provides for people on bikes. However, Buckman Road is not pedestrian and bicycle friendly. Although Buckman Road is a major collector road and connects to local parks such as Frank S. Ortiz Dog Park, Frank S. Ortiz Park and Torreon Parks, and major trails such as La Tierra Trails and Chile Line Trail, it doesn't have sidewalks and bicycle lanes. Its walkability score is 1 out of 100 (www.walkscore.com). It has huge potential for reducing GHG emissions as it is only 19-minute bicycle ride to downtown Santa Fe compared to 11-minute drive by car.

Fig. 2 Heat Map (Isolated for Bicycling Activity)

In March 2022, Staff applied for funding from Local Government Road Fund to plan and design the project from which we are receiving a total of $73,599 to be funded in proportional share by the NMDOT and the City. NMDOT share is 75% or $55,199 while City share is 25% or $18,400. The City share would be coming from road impacts fee.

The funding agreement which terminates on December 31, 2023 requires a Resolution from the Governing Body to get approved by the NMDOT.

CITY OF SANTA FE, NEW MEXICO

RESOLUTION NO. 2022-__

INTRODUCED BY:

Mayor Alan Webber

Councilor Jamie Cassutt

A RESOLUTION

AFFIRMING THE PARTNERSHIP OF SANTA FE COUNTY AND THE CITY OF SANTA FE TO DEVELOP STRATEGIES AND TAKE ACTIONS TO END HOMELESSNESS.

WHEREAS, the nation is experiencing one of the most severe affordable housing crises in history, significantly impacting communities of color and those who live in poverty (National Alliance to End Homelessness, 2020); and

WHEREAS, eight million Americans of low-income households pay at least half their income toward housing, putting them at risk of housing instability and homelessness (National Alliance to End Homelessness, 2020); and

WHEREAS, in 2019 approximately 13 percent of Santa Fe County residents reported an income below the federal poverty level (US Census Bureau American Community Survey of Median Earnings for Worker 5-Year Estimates 2019); and

WHEREAS, Santa Fe County had a larger number of cost-burdened homeowners per capita than did New Mexico and the United States in 2020, with 78 percent of renters below 30 percent of Area Median Income (AMI) and 74 percent of renters between 31 percent and 60 percent of AMI being cost burdened. (Santa Fe Housing Report, Santa Fe Association of Realtors, 2020); and

WHEREAS, in Santa Fe City, 86 percent of renter households earning less than $50,000 a year are cost burdened, a number that has risen by 13 percent between 2016 and 2018 (Santa Fe Housing Report, Santa Fe Association of Realtors, 2020); and

WHEREAS, the City of Santa Fe and Santa Fe County have a history of supporting efforts to assist people experiencing homelessness; and

WHEREAS, according to the New Mexico Mortgage Finance Authority, there was an estimated shortage of 7,343 affordable rental units in the Santa Fe Metropolitan Statistical Area in 2020 (Santa Fe Housing Report, Santa Fe Association of Realtors, 2020); and

WHEREAS, economic and societal factors such as a lack of affordable housing, a lack of adequate income, a lack affordable and accessible healthcare including behavioral health care, discrimination, domestic violence, and other systemic social challenges can cause homelessness; and

WHEREAS, as of August 2022, the New Mexico Coalition to End Homelessness Coordinated Entry System, which is not yet tracking all homeless people in Santa Fe, recorded a total of 363 individuals, 49 families, and 18 homeless youth in Santa Fe, with 205 individuals being chronically homeless, 22 being chronically homeless veterans, and a disproportionate number of Native American and African American people experiencing homelessness; and

WHEREAS, the ongoing pandemic has brought additional awareness to the issue of homelessness and housing instability and has created an opportunity for government entities, politicians, non-profit service providers, private foundations, Santa Fe residents, and other interested stakeholders to work collectively to address this long-standing community issue; and

WHEREAS, the City of Santa Fe is a partner in the Built for Zero Initiative, a national movement where communities assist each other in developing and following evidence-based strategies for reducing and ending homelessness; and

WHEREAS, Santa Fe County has recently opened a behavioral health crisis center, La Sala, to better address the needs of people experiencing a behavioral health crisis; and

WHEREAS, Santa Fe County developed the CONNECT network, now a City and County partnership providing services related to the social determinants of health; and

WHEREAS, these efforts by the City and County to combat housing insecurity and homelessness are being coordinated with those of philanthropic foundations and non-profit partners in an initiative known as the S3 (Safe, Stable, and Supportive) Santa Fe Housing Initiative; and

WHEREAS, the Anchorum St. Vincent Foundation, Thornburg Foundation, McCune Charitable Foundation, Frost Foundation and Santa Fe Community Foundation have provided funding to address immediate needs and longer-term solutions to homelessness since the beginning of the pandemic; and

WHEREAS, the vision of this partnership is for public and private partners to work collaboratively with community providers and advocacy groups to ensure that Santa Fe is a place where homelessness is rare, brief, and non-recurring, and that access to safe, affordable, and sustainable housing is a reality for all community members; and

WHEREAS, analysis of existing providers and housing options conducted as part of the S3 Santa Fe Housing Initiative indicates that the overall housing system in the Santa Fe area has been functioning with insufficient support and infrastructure.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE GOVERNING BODY OF THE CITY OF SANTA FE that the Santa Fe County Board of County Commissioners and the Governing Body of the City of Santa Fe affirm our alignment to address homelessness by securing and stabilizing housing and social services for our most vulnerable residents.

The Santa Fe County Board of County Commissioners and the Governing Body of the City of Santa Fe agree to focus efforts in the following six areas through the S3 Santa Fe Housing Initiative:

1. PRESERVATION AND PREVENTION: Increase resources and develop strategies to prevent homelessness, including the preservation of existing affordable housing and enhanced utilization of social services; increased financial supports, such as the City and County Affordable Housing Trust Funds, to prevent homelessness and stabilize those who are precariously housed; and support for local regulation and land use policy changes that increase housing stability for residents.
2. EMERGENCY SHELTER: Create and further develop collective community agreements specific to emergency shelter provision, including expanding options for emergency shelter care to include safe and legal outdoor sleeping spaces and non-congregate shelter and improving shelter access to housing and supportive service resources.
3. BUILDINGS/HOUSING UNITS: Quantify the need for additional affordable units, and through new construction, conversion, subsidization, and redevelopment, increase the local affordable housing stock inventory with a goal of at least 100-200 units per year.
4. INDIVIDUAL VOUCHERS/PROGRAM BASED VOUCHERS: Increase funding for housing vouchers, both short and long term, and develop strategies to ensure that those vouchers can be flexibly utilized in ways that promote equity and housing choice; and ensure that existing voucher programs are expended in full.
5. SUPPORTIVE SERVICES: Ensure all interested individuals and families participating in housing programs have high-quality crisis intervention, behavioral healthcare, and other supportive services to maintain safe housing.
6. SYSTEM INFRASTRUCTURE: Continue development of the community-wide homeless response system which includes strategic planning and clarifying the roles, function, and authority of each partner. The system development will include collective identification of system gaps through collecting accurate data, creation of cooperative strategies to address gaps, and consistent cross-agency communication on funding opportunities, housing initiatives and overall system development.

Re: Bill relating to small commercial permits for cultural events on the Plaza Park

ACTION:

Approval to amend Section 23-5.1 to add definitions for "cultural event" and "small commercial event" and to amend Section 23.5-2 to add up to eight (8) small commercial permits for cultural events on the Santa Fe Historic Plaza (Melissa McDonald, Parks and Open Space Division Director, mamcdonald@santafenm.gov , 505-303-9502)

BACKGROUND/SUMMARY:

With outdoor activities gaining in popularity and a predicted rise in tourism as a result of a likely-waning pandemic, vendors are desired to enhance existing cultural events on the Plaza Park. This bill adds definitions for "cultural event" and "small commercial event" and also includes adding eight (8) small commercial permits for cultural events, in addition to the eight (8) major commercial events that already occur annually on Santa Fe's Historic Plaza. Two named cultural events (Juneteenth and Indigenous People's Day) and six events chosen by lottery are included in the bill. Small commercial event organizers will be required to respect the spaces currently used by existing plaza vendors and pushcarts and no vendors will be allowed on any streets surrounding the Plaza. These events will import local and tourist dollars citywide, encourage locals to enjoy the Plaza, and foster additional short- and long-term benefits.

The City will incur additional expenses associated with these events as City employees perform permitting, preparation, monitoring and cleanup from events. The costs can only be roughly estimated at this time since the exact nature of these events is not known. Additional revenue and costs associated with these events were not included in the FY23 budget.

Section 2. Section 23-5.2 of SFCC 1987 (being Ord. No. 1981-39, § 1, as amended) is amended to read:

23-5.2 Plaza uses; commercial events; allowed uses.

A. Major Commercial Events.

(1) No more than eight (8) permits per calendar year shall be issued by the city for major commercial events held in the Plaza. The events permitted are as follows:

([~~1~~]a) Challenge New Mexico Arts and Crafts Show;

([~~2~~]b) Fourth of July Pancake Breakfast;

([~~3~~]c) Spanish Market;

([~~4~~]d) Contemporary Hispanic Market;

([~~5~~]e) Santa Fe Girls' Inc. Arts and Crafts Show;

([~~6~~]f) Indian Market;

([~~7~~]g) Santa Fe Fiesta Labor Day Arts and Crafts Market; and ([~~8~~]h) Santa Fe Fiesta.

~~B~~. Each of the major commercial events noted in paragraph A above shall continue their assigned locations, and the Contemporary Hispanic Market shall be allocated the space along Lincoln Avenue between Palace Avenue and Federal Place.

([~~1~~]3) In order to accommodate the Spanish Market's growth requirements, this subsection will allow the Spanish Colonial Arts Society use of East San Francisco Street from Don Gaspar Avenue to Cathedral Place and Palace Avenue from Grant Avenue to Cathedral Place. The Spanish Market will also extend thirty-three feet, six inches (33' 6") onto the east side of Lincoln Avenue. This will allow the Spanish Colonial Arts Society the similar configuration as the Southwest Indian Arts' annual Indian Market.

([~~2~~]4) This subsection will allow the Contemporary Hispanic Market use of Lincoln Avenue from Palace Avenue intersection starting at thirty-three feet six inches (33' 6") on the east side and twenty feet (20') from the fire hydrant on the west side all the way to Federal Place. This will allow the Contemporary Hispanic Market the ability to provide for their immediate and future growth needs. Depending upon the number of booths, as an alternative to using Lincoln Avenue between Marcy Street and Federal Place, the city may require booths to be located on Marcy Street between Lincoln Avenue and Sheridan Street.

B. Small Commercial Events.

(1) No more than eight (8) small commercial permits per calendar year shall be issued by the city for one-day cultural events held in the Plaza Park, including the following two (2) events:

a) Juneteenth; and

b) Indigenous People's Day; and

(2) The remaining six (6) permits for one-day cultural events are subject to a lottery selection in January of each calendar year. To participate in the lottery, potential permittees must have organized and held the same, city-permitted event in at least two (2) of the prior five (5) years and may only submit one (1) entry in the lottery per year.

(3) Plaza artists/artisans licensed pursuant to SFCC 1987 Section 23-5.3 and Plaza pushcart vendors licensed pursuant to SFCC 1987 Section 23-5.5 shall retain the right to sell in their designated spaces during small commercial events.

C. Each of the major and small commercial permitted events noted in paragraphs A(1) and B(1) and (2) above shall submit a preliminary site plan for their event to city staff for their review and approval no less than three (3) months prior to the event. Adequate access for public health, safety and welfare shall be maintained. Access to existing businesses shall be considered. The city may require specific booth layouts. The city shall provide written comments to the event sponsor on the preliminary site plan within thirty (30) days of receipt of the plan. A final site plan shall be submitted to city staff no less than one (1) month prior to the event for their review and approval. City staff shall conduct inspections at the time of event setup.

D. Community Days Festival may occur on the Plaza the Friday, Saturday, and Sunday preceding the Memorial Day Weekend.

E. [~~No other e~~]Events other than those noted in paragraphs A and B above shall not occur on the Plaza unless [~~it qualifies~~] they qualify as a noncommercial use. Sponsoring organizations shall comply with the fees as authorized in subsection 23-4.7 SFCC 1987 and established by resolution, unless the event is sponsored by the city.

F. Except for the authority to issue Plaza Park artist/artisan licenses for sales activity on the Plaza Park pursuant to subsection 23-5.3 SFCC 1987, a permit or authority to use the Plaza Park for major and small commercial events shall be granted only to a nonprofit organization and not [~~an~~]to for-profit organizations [~~for profit~~] or to an individual.

G. The governing body shall, by resolution, authorize either a committee or city staff to receive, review and approve or deny requests for any function of a commercial or noncommercial use on the Plaza or Plaza Park.

H. Applicants for use of the Plaza or Plaza Park shall follow and be subject to the procedures, requirements, and restrictions adopted by the governing body.

I. Any decision by the city manager or the city manager's designee may be appealed to the governing body within thirty (30) days of the decision. This provision does not apply to Plaza Park artist/artisan licenses that shall comply with subsection 23-5.3 SFCC 1987.

J. The city shall appoint a staff liaison for all major and small commercial events or noncommercial uses on the Plaza to oversee the administration of city regulations as they apply to each event.

K. Fees for the major and small commercial events shall be established by the governing body by adoption of a resolution. Fees shall not be waived.

L. Sponsors of special events for both major and small commercial events shall be responsible for ensuring that all participants in their event have special event vendor licenses. Special event sponsor license applications and special event vendor license applications shall include a statement signed by the applicant that the applicant agrees to file and pay applicable gross receipts taxes on receipts from the special event. Sponsors shall file with the city the informational material they distribute to the vendors regarding the vendor's responsibility to file and pay gross receipts taxes on their sales at the special event.

Legislation/2022/Bills/Small Commercial Events on The Plaza

FIR No. 10401

FISCAL IMPACT REPORT

General Information:

(Check) Bill: X Resolution: _____

Short Title(s): Small Commercial Permits for Cultural Events on the Plaza

Sponsor(s): Councilwoman Villarreal, Councilor Rivera

Reviewing Department(s): Public Works Department, Community and Economic Development, Parks Division, Tourism Division, and CAO

Staff Completing FIR: Melissa McDonald/Jesse Guillen Date: 4/21/22 Phone: 303-9502/955-6518

Reviewed by City Attorney: _____ Date: Jul 7, 2022

Reviewed by Finance Director: Alexis Lotero ~~Alexis Lotero (Jul 8, 2022 15:02 MDT)~~ Date: Jul 8, 2022

Summary:
The proposed bill amends Section 23-5.1 to add definitions for "cultural event" and "small commercial event" and amends Section 23-5.2 to permit up to eight small commercial events on the Plaza Park annually. Two named cultural events – Juneteenth and Indigenous People's Day – and six cultural events chosen by lottery would be permitted.

Departments Affected:
Public Works Department, Community Health and Safety Department, Community and Economic Development Department,

Consequences of Not Enacting Legislation:
Not enacting this legislation reduces the Plaza's potential to attract locals back to our historic downtown and also limits local- and tourism-based GRT-revenues.

Conflict, Duplication, Companionship, or Relationship to Other Legislation:
Enforcement of site plan will be important in order to limit conflicts with adjacent Plaza vendors and pushcart venders.

Performance and Administrative Implications:
Administration of permits will be required equaling 10 hours per event for a total of 80 hours. Overtime for inspections may be required.

Fiscal Implications:
Labor associated with permit processing, site inspections, licensed electricians, trash removals, and other staff requirements will incur costs. The total anticipated budget increase would range from about $32,000 to $45,000 dollars per year, which does not include regular wear-and-tear. Anticipated economic magnifier effect is likely significant, but unknown at this time.

We have enough activity and NO oversight on the plaza. Buskers and vendors who lack licenses who amplify and compete with each other. Vendors on E Palace—no permits. When will the plaza be open and peaceful for locals to enjoy—that is hang out and visit with friends? It is so refreshing and a relief to see the Thunderbird Grill not having tables on the street. It gives the plaza some breathing room
Also when will the NO SMOKING ORDINANCE there be enforced. I have asked head of parks McDonald twice about putting up visible no smoking signs on benches and tables and like a good bureaucrat she smiles and gives a non-responsive, dismissive answer.

III. EXECUTIVE SUMMARY:

The subject property is located at 3007 S. St. Francis Drive, in the southwest corner of the Plaza Entrada shopping center, previously named San Miguel Plaza. The property is comprised of a 123-unit multi-family apartment community spread across eight buildings on two parcels of land: Lot D-5 and Lot D-6 (the "Property"), sized ±4.58 acres.

The property was purchased by Vincent's Legacy, LLC, in December of 2020, in partnership with the City of Santa Fe. The City provided Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act funding to help finance the project and used the authority of the City's COVID Emergency Proclamation to convert the property into supportive multi-family housing. Due to the emergency nature of the project, the typical Land Use approvals were not required at the time.

With this application, Vincent's Legacy, LLC is requesting a Development Plan Amendment and Rezoning that would allow the Santa Fe Suites to continue operating as a multi-family, supportive, affordable, residential community - permanently. The purpose of the proposed San Miguel Plaza Development Plan Amendment #1 request is to amend the Plaza Entrada Shopping Center Development Plan to reflect the change of use of Santa Fe Suites on lots D5 and D6 from Residential Suites Hotel to High Density Residential.

The purpose of the rezoning of lots D5 and D6 is to exclude these parcels from requirements of the South Central Highway Corridor (SCHC) Overlay. This exclusion would allow for an increase in the permissible density of the Property from 21 dwellings per acre, (plus 15% density bonus, totaling 24.28 dwellings per acre) to the underlying SC-1 density, which does not have a unit per acre maximum and instead is regulated by building dimensional standards. If approved, the rezoning would allow the Applicant to fully utilize each of the 123 existing units in the property, which is currently operating at a density of 35.5 dwellings per acre. The property meets all other dimensional standards for the SCHC Overlay besides the density requirements.

The proposal does not include construction of any new structures, and renovations have already been made to convert the extended-stay hotel into a multi-family residential community with supportive services. The Development Plan Amendment and Rezoning requested in this application seek to formalize and bring into compliance the existing uses and intensities permitted at the property in response to the pandemic.

IV. BACKGROUND

In 1997, The City of Santa Fe approved the existing Development Plan for San Miguel Plaza, now known as Plaza Entrada. The Santa Fe Suites Extended Stay Hotel was subsequently constructed as illustrated in the adopted Development Plan and operated as such until 2020.

In the years prior to 2020, the Santa Fe Suites Extended Stay Hotel struggled to maintain profitability. When the COVID-19 pandemic and subsequent housing crisis struck the City in early 2020, the City of Santa Fe partnered with Community Solutions, a national non-profit organization that "works to achieve a lasting end to homelessness," to leverage federal CARES Act funding to purchase properties that could be quickly converted into emergency housing. Through this partnership, Santa Fe Suites was purchased in December 2020 and immediately converted into both supportive units and affordable, market-rate units.

Community Solutions provided the initial infrastructure, organizational capacity, and partial funding to convert the property from a hotel to a residential community. They have since set up Vincent's Legacy, LLC, as a local entity through which they manage the property's finances. Community Solutions have partnered with the Santa Fe Community Housing Trust, St. Elizabeth's Shelter Corporation, and the City of Santa Fe to develop a referral list of formally homeless individuals who are seeking permanent housing. Additionally, High Desert Housing provides day-to-day facility management, including scheduling of on-site supportive services, which are coordinated with St. Elizabeth's Shelter.

V. PROJECT ANALYSIS: DEVELOPMENT PLAN AMENDMENT AND REZONING

Project Description

The Santa Fe Suites complex is comprised of eight two-story structures. The complex's 123 units are split approximately evenly between each of the buildings. The hotel's lobby and 5 of the original 128 hotel units have been converted into space to host supportive services, such onsite counseling, case management and job placement as well as legal, financial, mental health, educational, medical and rehabilitation services.

Community Solutions has renovated the existing extended-stay suites into studio apartments, including a kitchenette and bathroom. The community shares a laundry room, several small courtyards with picnic tables, and a shared parking lot. Other amenities include open space adjacent to an arroyo to the south, a shared-use path to the east, and a connection to the Santa Fe Rail Trail to the west. Additionally, the community is proximate to commercial amenities within the shopping center including an Albertsons, several restaurants, retail, and medical office facilities.

The Project's 123 apartments are broken down accordingly:

- 122 studios and 1 one-bedroom unit, including
    - 2 units reserved for staff
    - 6 units reserved for the Cancer Foundation of New Mexico
    - 50% residents receive supportive services
    - 50% workforce residents

The approximately 50% of residents who are formerly chronically homeless and/or homeless individuals are referred from the "By-Name List" (a comprehensive list of every person experiencing homelessness in the Santa Fe community, created using information collected and shared with their consent). The remaining 50% of units are leased at an affordable, market-rate to any individual earning ~60% AMI. These market-rate units will be maintained for long-term affordability. Additionally, in partnership with the Cancer Foundation of New Mexico (CFFNM), Santa Fe Suites has dedicated six units to low-income patients currently receiving treatment at CHRISTUS St. Vincent Regional Cancer Center. Residents range from small families to single adults. The residents have 24/7 access to a staff member, including one who lives on-site.

Surrounding Zoning and Land Use

The surrounding zoning includes SC-1 to the north, C-1 to the east and south, I-1 to the west, and R-1 to the northwest. These land uses consist of Albertson's grocery store and retail shops, medical offices, Vizcaya Apartments (high-density residential), recreational, and single family, respectfully. Across S. St. Francis to the west is the current location of the Zia Road Railrunner Train Station and Rail Trail and is the future home of the Zia Flats mixed-use development.

Project Zoning

The Property is zoned SC-1 (Shopping Center) with Residential Suite Hotel (RS) and South Central Highway Corridor (SCHC) Protection Overlay. Multi-family residential is a permitted land use under all of these zoning categories. In fact, the existing structures with the proposed use already comply with SC-1 and SCHC Overlay requirements, except for the SCHC Density requirements, which is why the applicants are requesting a zoning map amendment. Zoning and Overlay requirements are outlined below in Table 2.

Table 2. Zoning and Overlay Requirements

| Requirement | SC-1 | SCHC | Existing |
|---|---|---|---|
| Height | 35 feet | 25 feet | 24' 6" |
| Setbacks | Established by the development plan | 50 feet | 120 feet |
| Open Space | None | 50% | 50% |
| Lot Coverage | None | Underlying | N/A |
| DensityGross area: 4.57 acresFloodplain: 1.12 acreNet area: 3.46 acres | No maximum | (21 units/acre x 3.46) + 15% Density Bonus = 84 Units | 35.5 units/acre x 3. 46 ac = 123 units |

The purpose of rezoning lots D5 and D6 out of the South Central Highway Corridor (SCHC) Overlay is to allow for an increase in the permissible density of the Property from 21 dwellings per acre, (plus 15% density bonus, totaling 24.28 dwellings per acre) to the underlying SC-1 density, which does not have a unit per acre maximum and instead is regulated by building dimensional standards. The rezoning would allow the Applicants to fully utilize each of the 123 existing units in the Santa Fe Suites, which is currently operating at a density of 35.5 dwellings per acre. Without rezoning out of the SCHC Overlay, the applicant's only option would be to reduce the number of units to 84 units as shown in Table 2.

Architecture
No structural or architectural changes will be made as part of this application. The existing structures reference the Territorial Style, with stuccoed walls adorned with large windows with white trim. The existing structures feature pitched, red metal roofs with occasional overhangs and portals.

Access and Traffic
The primary vehicular access for the property is via a driveway facing north, which itself is accessed through the shopping center parking lot via entrances off Zia Road. Pedestrians can access the property via a network of sidewalks that cross through the shopping center and connect to the sidewalk network on Zia Road and S. St. Francis Drive. The shopping center also features a short shared-use path that runs on the eastern edge of the development and connects to Zia Road. The sidewalk network and shared-use path connect to the Rail Trail via a spur trail that runs north from the main shopping center entrance at Zia Road. The Rail Trail can also be accessed by crossing S. St. Francis Drive at Zia Road.

The property has direct access to both bus and train service. Bus service is accessed via stops on Zia Road, on the north end of the property. Train service is accessed via the Railrunner at Zia Road Station across S. St. Francis Drive.

A Site Threshold Analysis was performed and submitted to Public Works by Santa Fe Engineering. Public Works determined that a Traffic Impact Analysis was not necessary as the likely traffic impact will be equal to or less than the current use.

Parking
The applicant has requested a parking requirement reduction as part of their application. As per code provisions for reducing parking, they have provided a Parking Demand Analysis (included in the Application Materials Exhibit C) to justify reducing their parking requirement by 23 spaces. The current parking requirements are as follows:

Total Required: Units < 800 sf: (123) units x 1.25 = 154 spaces
Total Provided = 131 spaces (10 ADA spaces including 1 van accessible space)

The Parking Demand Analysis uses various methods to argue that the 1.25 spaces per unit requirement is excessive in this context, including an analysis of alternative transportation options, parking needs for lower-income residents, and evocation of the City's stated goals of reducing car dependency, particularly for affordable housing near transit. However, the most compelling argument for reducing the parking requirement is the fact that the community has been operating at full capacity for several years.

It is the opinion of both Land Use Staff and the MPO Staff that the parking reduction should be granted based on the information presented in the applicant's Parking Demand Analysis, the existing demonstrated demand, and the reasoning laid out by the MPO in a memo included in the DRT Comments Exhibit A of this report. The MPO memo cites, among other sources, the forthcoming City of Santa Fe Multimodal Transition Plan, which recommends parking requirement reductions City-wide, as a strong justification to grant the parking reduction.

Grading and Drainage/Terrain Management
The site slopes gently to the south. The arroyo to the south is almost entirely within the 100-year floodplain, however there is no section of the development that is within the floodplain. The applicants have provided a Terrain Management Report. Some remediation of erosion due to drainage outflows in the arroyo will be repaired as part of the project.

Open Space, Landscaping, Signage and Lighting
SC-1 zoning does not have open space or lot coverage requirements, therefore if the property is rezoned, it will not have any requirements to meet. The SCHC Overlay does require open space, which the existing site meets (Reference Table 2 above). The SCHC overlay requires 50% of the lot must be preserved as open space. For the property's gross lot area of 4.58 acres, that would require 2.29 acres. According to the applicant's development plan, the property provides 2.3 acres of open space.

The proposed landscaping includes maintaining the existing street and parking lot trees, while adding additional native/drought tolerant plants throughout the complex. Most existing turf grass will be removed and replaced, thereby decreasing the water demand.

The three existing signs on the property will remain, including a pole sign oriented to S. St. Francis, a wall sign, and a small rectangular sign at the main entrance. There will be no additional signs on the property as part of this application. One small hotel-related sign on the northeast corner of the property will be removed.

The six existing pole lights and additional parking lot lighting were installed before the city's Outdoor Lighting Ordinance, and therefore do not have to be removed under the new use. The project is not adding any additional lighting.

Fire Prevention and Emergency Access
Fire and Emergency access requirements are satisfied by the existing 20-ft wide driveway which circumnavigates the property. The property includes two fire hydrants located on both the north and south sides of the property, for a total of four fire hydrants. Each building already provides an FDC near the main entry to the building. Fire Prevention has added a condition of approval that sprinklers are installed in the buildings as part of the new use as detailed in Table 1.

Water and Sewer
The Property will continue to be served by City water and sewer infrastructure via a water main on Zia Road and a wastewater collection pipe which runs east-west across the property. No improvements are required to water and wastewater infrastructure.

Water Budget
A full budget is included in Application Materials Exhibit C.

- Previous use as a Hotel: 18.27 AFY
- Current Use as Apartments: 9.16 AFY
- Water Offset Fee: $16,600

Impact Fees
Impact fees due as a result in change of use will be calculated and paid by way of a building permit approval. Impact fees for a change of use are calculated by finding the difference in the proposed use impact fee and the existing use impact fee. If the proposed use is higher, the difference is paid.

Impact on Schools
Santa Fe public school was notified as part the DRT process and did not provide any comments.

Archaeology
The Project is in the Suburban Archaeological Review District. The property is under 10 acres and will not need new utility extensions, therefore an archaeological review is not required.

Santa Fe HOMES Program
The Applicant has supplied a Santa Fe Homes Program Proposal which is included in the application materials Exhibit C.

VI. REZONING APPROVAL CRITERIA SECTION 14-3.5(C)

SFCC Section 14-3.5 governs the authority, procedures, and restrictions for rezonings. The Criteria for approval of rezonings are detailed below:

| Criterion 1: one or more of the following conditions exist: | Criterion Met: (Yes/No) |
|---|---|
| 1. there was a mistake in the original zoning; | YES |
| 2. there has been a change in the surrounding area, altering the character of the neighborhood to such an extent as to justify changing the zoning; | |
| 3. a different use category is more advantageous to the community, as articulated in the general plan or other adopted city plans; | |
| Applicant Response: The Santa Fe community continues to experience an unprecedented housing crisis. In December of 2020, the City of Santa Fe deployed the emergency CARES Act COVID relief funds to provide affordable and subsidized housing to provide much needed housing for the increasing number of people experiencing homelessness. By utilizing an existing asset – an under-used, extended-stay hotel – the City leaders in partnership with Community Solutions, a non-profit organization, were able to quickly satisfy this urgent and growing need.In order for the Property to continue to operate in this manner, a change of use must be approved along with the rezoning out of the SCHC Overlay to allow the existing density to align with applicable zoning regulations. This is a unique instance where the SCHC Overlay standards are out of alignment with a creative solution to an urgent community need. If approved, this rezoning request will create an advantage for the Santa Fe community in supporting this type of creative problem solving and utilization of existing assets to serve current needs. The reason for higher density is the nature of the housing project utilizing an existing structure. A vacant hotel is an opportunity for an adaptive reuse | |

| of an underutilized existing development to rapidly meet some of housing needs that have been exacerbated by the COVID-19 pandemic. | |
| Staff Response:1. Not applicable.2. The Rezoning is justified by the change in the surrounding area, including the recently approved ZIA Station Mixed Use development, and other developments that will provide new housing choices and amenities along the S. St. Francis Drive Corridor.3. The proposed use (multi-family housing) is more advantageous to the city than the previous use (extended stay hotel). The combined pressures of a general housing crisis and COVID-19 related evictions mean that housing, particularly for those at risk of homelessness, is needed more than ever. As evidenced by the actions of the City of Santa Fe in partnership with Community Solutions, in purchasing the struggling extended stay hotel in December 2020, the more advantageous use of the property is as a multi-family housing community offering supportive services. | |
| Criterion 2: all the rezoning requirements of Chapter 14 have been met; | Criterion Met:(Yes/No)YES |
| Applicant Response: All the rezoning requirements of Chapter 14 have been met. | |
| Staff Response: The rezoning requirements have been met. | |
| Criterion 3: the rezoning is consistent with the applicable policies of the general plan, including the future land use map; | Criterion Met:(Yes/No)YES |
| Applicant Response: With respect to the Future Land Use Map, the subject property is designated Community Commercial, in which a mix of uses including Residential is allowed. The following aspects of the rezoning are especially consistent with the policies of the 1999 General Plan's Growth Management and Land Use Chapters:• Affordable Housing: "Actively participate in the creation of affordable housing". The rezoning of the property in order to allow existing density will provide 123 units of affordable housing to the community.• Quality of Life: "Enhance the quality of life of the community and ensure provision of community services for residents." The rezoning of Santa Fe Suites to allow existing density to serve a residential use will ensure that supportive services are provided for 50% of tenants. This benefit to specific individuals has a profound ripple effect on the community, by providing more secure and stable housing units and additional support to individuals who need it the most.• Urban Form: "Promote a compact urban form and encourage sensitive/compatible infill development." This multi-family project will operate within existing structures; no new structures, nor development are being proposed. Therefore, it is inherently promoting urban form by adaptive reuse of existing urban fabric. | |
| Staff Response: The Property is designated as Community Commercial in the Future Land Use Map, which includes residential uses. The rezoning is also consistent with several stated goals of the general plan, including affordable housing, quality of life, and urban form. | |

| Criterion 3: the amount of land proposed for rezoning and the proposed use for the land is consistent with city policies regarding the provision of urban land sufficient to meet the amount, rate and geographic location of the growth of the city; and | Criterion Met: (Yes/No) YES |
| Applicant Response: General Plan Figure 4-4, Urban Sub-Areas, designates the subject properties and surrounding area as an "Infill Area." General Plan Section 4.1 states, "In both 'infill' and 'future growth' areas, the city must encourage higher densities of residential and commercial development than existing zoning often allows" to help "create efficient use of already existing roads and utilities, help ensure cost-efficient public transit, and provide the type of housing that will be in demand…". Adaptive reuse of existing hotel structures to serve a residential purpose as affordable housing satisfies this intent of the General Plan by utilizing existing buildings and infrastructure. | |
| Staff Response: The Property is designed as "Infill area" in the General Plan. Infill areas are encouraged to be developed at higher densities that "help create efficient use of already existing roads and utilities, help ensure cost-efficient public transit, and provide the type of housing that will be in demand…" Adaptive reuse of the Santa Fe Suites hotel to create affordable housing that is transit and multi-modal accessible is consistent with city policies including the type of infill the General Plan encourages. | |
| Criterion 4: the existing and proposed infrastructure, such as the streets system, sewer and water lines, and public facilities, such as fire stations and parks, will be able to accommodate the impacts of the proposed development. | Criterion Met: (Yes/No) YES |
| Applicant Response: The proposed change of use and rezoning will be accommodated by the existing infrastructure and surrounding public facilities. Additionally, the proposed change of use and rezoning will not create a need for additional infrastructure of any sort. As a result, there will be no physical impacts imposed by the proposed Project. | |
| Staff Response: The proposed use will not require any additional infrastructure, nor will it intensify the use of existing infrastructure. The existing infrastructure meets the needs of the proposed use. | |
| Criterion 5: Unless the proposed change is consistent with applicable general plan policies, the planning commission and the governing body shall not recommend or approve any rezoning, the practical effect of which is to:a. allow uses or a change in character significantly different from or inconsistent with the prevailing use and character in the area;b. affect an area of less than two acres, unless adjusting boundaries between districts; orc. benefit one or a few landowners at the expense of the surrounding landowners or general public. | Criterion Met: (Yes/No) YES |
| Applicant Response: Santa Fe Suites rezoning out of the SCHC Overlay not only complies with numerous General Plan policies (Affordable Housing, Quality of Life, Urban Form) as addressed above, it is a model of the type of adaptive reuse and infill development that the Plan specifically encourages. The proposed use is compatible with the historic use of the Property, and there will be | |

| no change in character from the existing condition. The Property is of sufficient size to warrant the rezoning request, and the Project will benefit those members of our community who are most in need of immediate housing and services. |
| Staff Response:a. the proposed use is not significantly different from or inconsistent with the prevailing uses in the area, which features several high-density residential uses;b. The area is more than two acres; and,c. The project will benefit the entire community by providing affordable housing and supportive services to those in most need, while reducing housing demand overall and alleviating homelessness rates in the city. |

VII. DEVELOPMENT PLAN APPROVAL CRITERIA SECTION 14-3.8(D)(1)

SFCC Section 14-3.8 governs the authority, procedures, and restrictions for development plans. The Criteria for approval of Development Plans are detailed below:

|---|---|
| Criterion 1: that the Planning Commission has the authority and is empowered to approve the development plan under the section of Chapter 14 described in the application; | Criterion Met:(Yes/No)YES |
| Applicant Response: The Planning Commission has the authority to review and approve this plan, per SFCC §14-2.3(C)(1). | |
| Staff Response: Santa Fe City Code (SFCC) Subsection 14-2.3(C)(1) authorizes the Planning Commission to review and approve or disapprove development plans. | |
| Criterion 2: that approving the development plan will not adversely affect the public interest; and | Criterion Met:(Yes/No)YES |
| Applicant Response: The proposed development plan establishes predictable parameters for future use of the proposed multifamily residential community. In doing so, the development plan accommodates existing conditions, and creates housing opportunities in close proximity to transit, services, and employment. These projected outcomes are in the public interest. | |
| Staff Response: The Governing Body has implemented the General Plan and ordinances in order to establish minimum standards for health, safety and welfare affecting land uses and developments as a means to protect the public interest. Subject to staff recommended conditions of approval, the proposed development plan complies with SFCC Chapter 14 and will not adversely affect the public interest.The proposed development plan serves the public's interest as it provides affordable housing and supportive services to the most vulnerable members of the community, does not significantly burden existing infrastructure, and contributes to growing the city's housing stock. | |
| Criterion 3: that the use and any associated buildings are compatible with and adaptable to buildings, structures and uses of the abutting property and other properties in the vicinity of the premises under consideration. | Criterion Met:(Yes/No)YES |
| Applicant Response: The proposed development plan for a 123-unit apartment community is compatible with abutting mixed land uses, which include retail, medical, office, commercial, and | |

| residential, etc. The property has been an extended stay hotel use for decades and will be converted to multi-family residential use with the approval of this development plan. The proposed use is compatible with nearby multi-family housing projects in the vicinity, such as the Vizcaya Apartments, which are located across the Arroyo En Medio and are zoned C-1. |
| Staff Response: Due to the unique conditions of the pandemic that provided for the adaptive reuse of the property, it has shown to be a compatible use. Under emergency-use authorization and with CARES Act funding, the property was adapted from an extended stay hotel to a multi-family residence. Except for some minor renovations, the continuation of the residential use will not change the physical characteristics of the existing structures. The existing structures are well established in the neighborhood and comply with Santa Fe style, generally. The multi-family residential use is also compatible with the structures and uses of abutting properties – there are several existing multi-family communities in the area, including the Vizcaya Apartments to the south. |

VIII. EARLY NEIGHBORHOOD NOTIFICATION

An Early Neighborhood Notification meeting was held on March 31st, 2022. Approximately thirty-four (34) people attended, including the applicants and City Staff. After the applicant's agent presented the proposed development plan amendment and rezoning in detail, attendees brought up questions regarding the approval process, impact on the arroyo/local environment, and concerns about crime. In addition, support was expressed for the project and its mission.

IX. EXPIRATION

Per SFCC Section 14-3.19(B)(4) "Approval of a final development plan, or any development plan for which no preliminary development plan was required, shall expire three years after final action approving it unless actual development of the site or offsite improvements has begun and is continued pursuant to Subsection 14-3.19(B)(6)." Re: Santa Fe Suites Traffic Review

Dear Mr. Alvarado,

On behalf of the City of Santa Fe, Wilson & Company has completed review of the Santa Fe Suite STH for compliance with the New Mexico Department of Transportation State Access Management Manual and Chapter 14 Land Development Code. A traffic engineering study was not required to be performed since the development is anticipated to have negligible impacts. This review does not replace the developer's Engineer-of-Record's professional responsibility for modeling, data collection, methodology, and analysis.

Thank you,

Sincerely,

RE: SITE THRESHOLD ASSESSMENT FOR THE SANTA FE SUITES CONVERSION – AMENDMENT NO. 1

Dear Ms. Jenkins,

We have prepared a Site Threshold Assessment for the conversion of the Santa Fe Suites (128 room motel) located at 3007 St. Francis Drive, Plaza Entrada, in Santa Fe, NM to a 123-unit apartment complex.

The existing motel and proposed apartments were analyzed to determine the traffic generated during the AM and PM peak hours. Traffic Generation Rates were determined using the Institute of Transportation Engineers (ITE) TripGen Web-Based App, Version 1.3.1. The ITE TripGen Web-Based App is based upon the ITE Trip Generation Handbook, 10th Edition. The results are as follows:

TRIP GENERATION
MOTEL VERSUS APARTMENTS

| | AM Peak | | PM Peak | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| | Entry | Exit | Entry | Exit |
| Motel (128 rooms) (ITE 320) | 18 | 31 | 26 | 23 |
| Multifamily Low-Rise Apartments (123 units) (ITE 220) | 13 | 45 | 45 | 26 |
| Difference | -5 | +14 | +19 | +3 |

The trip generation calculations and the NMDOT STH form are attached. The traffic from the 128-room motel had been previously evaluated and the traffic signal at Zia Road and the existing driveway to the site was constructed to mitigate the Plaza Entrada which included the motel traffic. Based upon the scoping meeting with the City of Santa Fe and their traffic consultant it was agreed that the difference between the motel and the apartments would be used for the STH. The difference in traffic does not meet the threshold for a Traffic Impact Analysis (TIA).

Sincerely,

Michael Gomez, P.E., P.T.O.E.

ITEM & ISSUE:

Case #2022- 5397. 3007 S Saint Frances Drive Development Plan Amendment
Support of parking reduction request

RECOMMENDATIONS:

The MPO supports the developer's request to reduce the required parking for their 123 unit development that is almost entirely studio apartments. The residents will have a multitude of opportunities to utilize other means of transportation such as biking, walking, and public transit with close proximity to the Zia Rail Runner Station, Santa Fe Trails Route 6 stops on Zia, the Gail Ryba multi-use trail, and the Arroyo Chamiso multi-use trail. Additionally, parking in this area is plentiful with approximately 50% of the land use between the development and Zia Road dedicated to parking and parking access.

The Sustainable Santa Fe 2040 Plan outlines a City goal of achieving carbon neutrality by 2040. One strategy to reach this goal is to increase the utilization of multimodal transportation, which can be supported by right-sized parking and access to transportation options such as these residents will have.

New research demonstrates that when developments provide more parking, residents are more likely to own cars and drive more. Therefore the assumption that demand for parking is fixed and not related to available parking appears incorrect. This research indicates that parking demand, parking spaces, and multimodal transportation are all correlated.
https://www.sightline.org/2021/01/28/more-parking-isnt-harmless-it-actually-makes-us-drive-more/

This development specifically and directly addresses the shortage of affordable housing in our city. Transportation costs are the second leading cost for many of these households. The Santa Fe 2020-2045 Metropolitan Transportation Plan states on page 6-11 that "According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics average transportation costs (gas, insurance, car payments, maintenance, etc.) in America grew from $9,049 to $9,761 from 2016 to 2018 and comprise approximately 16 percent of consumer expenses. This is second only to housing costs, which comprise approximately 33 percent of consumer expenditures. Within the Santa Fe MPO, the average household spends $12,321 on transportation annually; approximately 23 percent of income is spent on transportation." Thus, it is important to not incentivize the maintenance of multiple cars per household, and to allow the abundance of alternative transportation choices in this area to factor into a context sensitive solution for this location.

These ideas are supported and upheld in the forthcoming Multimodal Transition Plan, which the City is in the midst of finalizing approval for. This plan integrates public transportation, parking, and active transportation into a comprehensive view providing recommendations to improve non-automotive means of transportation. This plan fully supports reducing parking minimums as shown below:

"The City must use progressive, future-forward parking policies, such as by reducing parking requirements to avoid excess parking and to consider parking management where feasible to encourage non-auto access, to ensure that these new buildings offer parking and access in a way that mirrors the City's overall desire for a multimodal approach that prioritizes people over cars." (p89)

"There is increasing awareness nationwide regarding the disadvantages of excessive requirements for off-street parking. Community design can be degraded by excessive parking that is never or only infrequently used, with parallel impacts on water quality, heat island effects and degradation of pedestrian travel. Desired new development (such as affordable housing) or reuse of older structures can be limited or made infeasible by high parking requirements. At a broader level, excessive parking has been shown to encourage additional auto use by margins of 40 to 50 percent." (p92)

Additionally, the Multimodal Transition Plan recommends changing the code to only require 1 parking space per studio apartment and 1.25 spaces per one-bedroom apartment (p93). Therefore in this development, only 123.25 or 124 parking spaces would be required.

Finally, increased impervious surfaces that maybe required by an expanded parking requirement in this area will increase the amount of runoff and the power of that storm water discharge to the nearby arroyo, which is already suffering from high erosion according to discussion with city drainage staff.

RE: Santa Fe Suites Residential Conversion at 3007 S Saint Francis S Drive Development Plan Amendment and Rezoning Applications

Dear Daniel:

This letter is respectfully submitted on behalf of Vincent's Legacy, LLC ("Applicant") for review and approval of the following applications: (1) Amendment to the 1997 San Miguel Plaza Development Plan requesting a conversion of Santa Fe Suites from a 128-unit extended stay residential suite hotel to a 123-unit multi-family residential community, and (2) a rezoning application to remove the existing structure from the South Central Highway Corridor (SCHC) Protection Overlay District in order to allow for the existing density of 35.5 dwellings per acre, which exceeds the allowable density of 21 dwellings per acre in the SCHC Overlay (the "Project"). No changes to the existing structures or new development are being proposed with these applications.

Project Description

The subject property comprises of ±4.58 acres, located at 3007 S. St. Francis Drive and is currently used as a 123-unit multi-family apartment community spread across eight buildings on two parcels of land: Lot D-5 and Lot D-6 (the "Property"). The Property is zoned SC-1 (Shopping Center) with Residential Suite Hotel (RS) Overlay and South Central Highway Corridor (SCHC) Overlay in which a multi-family residential is a permissible use with a maximum density requirement of 21 dwellings per acre, plus 15% density bonus = 24.28 dwellings per acre.

The Project is located in the Plaza Entrada shopping center, previously named San Miguel Plaza. Its neighbors are medical and office buildings zoned C-1 to the east, as well as Albertson's grocery store and retail shops, zoned SC-1 to the north. The South St. Francis Drive runs along the west plaza boundary, and the property abuts the Arroyo En Medio to the south with Zia Road defining the north boundary of the shopping plaza. Neighboring residential development across the arroyo is the Vizcaya Apartments zoned C-1.

The Project will utilize the existing extended-stay suites as studio apartments, each of which is already equipped with a kitchenette and a bathroom. Community amenities include a Laundry Room and access to social services as described in the Background section of the report below. The south parking lot boundary adjoins green active open space, access to which exists for tenant recreation, nature enjoyment, and/or pet walking. Direct access to the Zia Trail is available via the open space and adjacent parking areas. The existing site is to remain, including the existing paving, landscaping, lighting and signage. A reduction in required parking is being requested, as supported by the Parking Demand Analysis included with the application and discussed below.

The purpose of the proposed San Miguel Plaza Development Plan Amendment #1 and rezoning request is to reflect the change of use of Santa Fe Suites on lots D5 and D6 from Residential Suites Hotel to High Density Residential. Lots D1, D2, D3, D4, and track F2 remain subject to the terms and conditions of the San Miguel Plaza Development Plan, as originally approved in 1997 and depicted in the records of the Santa Fe County Clerk as Instrument #990203, Book 367 / Page 25. The proposed amendment to the 1997 San Miguel Development Plan and the proposed exclusion of these parcels from the SCHC Overlay District only pertain to the subject parcels referenced as Lots D5 and D6. Furthermore, Office Tract F1 (A&B) is to remain subject to the terms and conditions of the Plaza Entrada Professional Office Building Development Plan recorded, in the records of the Santa Fe County Clerk on March 8, 2002, as Instrument #1196229, Book 495 / Page 45.

Background

In December of 2020, Community Solutions purchased Santa Fe Suites, an extended-stay hotel, in partnership with the City of Santa Fe. Leveraging federal funding made available with the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act of 2020, the City of Santa Fe pioneered an innovative way to repurpose the struggling hotel to meet the needs of the community and help address an unprecedented housing shortage. The 123-room studio apartment community helps to address the housing crisis resulting from the COVID-19 pandemic and accelerate the City's efforts to end homelessness. The property provides its tenants, many of whom are housing-insecure, access to critical social services and community services, such as a grocery store, pharmacy, public transportation. The proposed unit mix balances affordable market rate units and supportive units.

The Santa Fe Suites residential conversion is not a 100% supportive housing project; however, approximately 50% of the apartments provide permanent housing for the formerly chronically homeless and/or homeless individuals from the "By-Name List" (a comprehensive list of every person experiencing homelessness in the Santa Fe community, created using information collected and shared with their consent). The remaining 50% of units are leased to middle income or workforce housing (earning ~60% AMI) and will maintain long-term affordability. Formerly homeless residents are referred by community partners, which include the Santa Fe Community Housing Trust, St. Elizabeth's Shelter Corporation, and the City of Santa Fe. Additionally, in partnership with the Cancer Foundation of New Mexico (CFFNM), Santa Fe Suites has dedicated six units to low-income patients needing respite following treatment at the nearby CHRISTUS St. Vincent Regional Cancer Center. Residents range from small families to single adults, as well as one staff member who lives onsite. The Project comprises 123 apartments:

- 122 studios and 1 one-bedroom unit
- 2 units are reserved for staff
- 6 units are reserved for the Cancer Foundation of New Mexico
- 50% residents receive supportive services
- 50% workforce residents

Supportive services include onsite counseling and case management, job placement assistance as well assistance with obtaining legal, financial, mental health, educational, medical and rehabilitation services. This on-site essential support is coordinated by St. Elizabeth's.

Zoning

The Property is zoned SC-1 (Shopping Center) with Residential Suite Hotel (RS) Overlay and South Central Highway Corridor (SCHC) Protection Overlay. Multi-family residential is a permissible use under these zoning designations. The existing structures comply with all SC-1 and SCHC Overlay code requirements except density.

The total acreage of the subject property is ±4.58 acres and the existing dwelling unit count is 123 units, resulting in an existing density of 35.5 dwellings per acre. As such, the density exceeds allowable density in the SCHC Overlay of 21 dwellings per acre. Since there are no maximum density requirements in the SC-1 zoning, this development plan amendment application is accompanied by a rezoning application to remove the property from the SCHC Overlay, and rezoning approval criteria are addressed elsewhere in this report.

Because the SC-1 underlying zoning has no maximum density requirement, the maximum density defaults to 21 dwellings per acre, per SCHC Overlay District standards defined in SFCC §14-5.5(A)(4)(a)(i). Density calculations for the existing development are as follows:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Gross Lot Area | 4.58 acres | |
| Floodplain | 1.12 acres | |
| Net Lot Area | 3.46 acres | |
| | | |
| Density Allowed in SCHC | | 21 DU/acre x 3.46 acres = 73 DU |
| 15% Density Bonus for Affordable | | 72.6 DU + 15% Density Bonus= 84 DU |
| Existing Density | | 123 DU / 3.46 acres = 35.5 DU/acre |

In the SCHC Overlay District, per SFCC §14-5.5(A)(4)(a)(ii) "The maximum height of structures shall be twenty-five (25) feet, not including a parapet." Per Table 14-7.3-1, the maximum allowable height in SC-1 zoning is 35 feet. The height of each of the eight existing structures is 24'-6" and thus does not exceed the maximum allowable height.

In the SCHC Overlay District, per SFCC §14-5.5 (A)(4)(a)(iii) "The minimum building setback or yard from the edge of the right-of-way shall be fifty (50) feet except that the minimum building setback from Old Pecos Trail between I-25 and St. Michael's Drive shall be seventy-five (75) feet; and (Ord. No. 2012-11 § 10)." Per Table 14-7.3-1, the minimum setback in SC-1 zoning "shall be equivalent to the minimum yard requirements in any adjoining zoning district." The adjoining district to Santa Fe Suites is C-1, which dictates that the minimum setback in residential uses is to match R-21 requirements. Per Table 14-7.2-1, "Generally, setbacks are established by a development plan approved by the Planning Commission". The existing setback to S St. Francis Drive is 120 feet, well in excess of the SCHC Overlay minimum setback requirement.

In regards to open space requirements, SFCC §14-5.5(A)(4)(b)(v) states: "… for any nonresidential permitted use, a minimum of thirty-five percent of the lot and for any residential permitted use, a minimum of fifty percent of the lot shall be open space." There is no required open space in SC-1 zoning per Table 14-7.3. The existing site provides just over the required 50% of lot size of open space as calculated below, and is thus compliant with zoning requirements.

|---|---|
| Gross Lot Area: | 4.58 acres |
| Required Open Space: | 4.58 acres x 50% = 2.29 acres |
| Provided Open Space: | 2.30 acres |

In terms of lot coverage, SFCC §14-5.5(A)(4) states the following for the SCHC Overlay: "The standards applicable to development within the SCHC district are the same as the underlying zoning district," and according to Table 14-7.3-1, there is no maximum lot coverage requirement for SC-1 zoning. Therefore, the Project is in compliance with lot coverage requirements.

Rezoning Approval Criteria

As noted above, the subject property (both parcels D-5 and D-6) is zoned SC-1 (Shopping Center) with Residential Suite Hotel (RS) Overlay and South Central Highway Corridor (SCHC) Protection Overlay. Multi-family residential is a permissible use under these zoning designations; however, the existing density exceeds the maximum allowed in the SCHC Protection Overlay. The Applicant requests to remove the Property from the SCHC Overlay District, such that it will be compliant with the underlying SC-1 zoning, in which there is no maximum residential density requirement.

Responses to the rezoning approval criteria in SFCC §14-3.5(C) and (D) are detailed below.

1. The planning commission and the governing body shall review all rezoning proposals on the basis of the criteria provided in this section, and the reviewing entities must make complete findings of fact sufficient to show that these criteria have been met before recommending or approving any rezoning:

a. one or more of the following conditions exist:

1. there was a mistake in the original zoning; N/A

2. there has been a change in the surrounding area, altering the character of the neighborhood to such an extent as to justify changing the zoning; N/A

3. a different use category is more advantageous to the community, as articulated in the general plan or other adopted city plans;

Response: The Santa Fe community continues to experience an unprecedented housing crisis. In December of 2020, the City of Santa Fe deployed the emergency CARES Act COVID relief funds to provide affordable and subsidized housing to provide much needed housing for the increasing number of people experiencing homelessness. By utilizing an existing asset – an under-used, extended-stay hotel – the City leaders in partnership with Community Solutions, a non-profit organization, were able to quickly satisfy this urgent and growing need.

In order for the Property to continue to operate in this manner, a change of use must be approved along with the rezoning out of the SCHC Overlay to allow the existing density to align with applicable zoning regulations. This is a unique instance where the SCHC Overlay standards are out of alignment with a creative solution to an urgent community need. If approved, this rezoning request will create an advantage for the Santa Fe community in supporting this type of creative problem solving and utilization of existing assets to serve current needs. The reason for higher density is the nature of the housing project utilizing an existing structure. A vacant hotel is an opportunity for an adaptive reuse of an underutilized existing development to rapidly meet some of housing needs that have been exacerbated by the COVID-19 pandemic.

b. all the rezoning requirements of Chapter 14 have been met;

Response: All the rezoning requirements of Chapter 14 have been met.

c. the rezoning is consistent with the applicable policies of the general plan, including the future land use map;

Response: With respect to the Future Land Use Map, the subject property is designated Community Commercial, in which a mix of uses including Residential is allowed. The following aspects of the rezoning are especially consistent with the policies of the 1999 General Plan's Growth Management and Land Use Chapters:

- Affordable Housing: "Actively participate in the creation of affordable housing". The rezoning of the property in order to allow existing density will provide 123 units of affordable housing to the community.
- Quality of Life: "*Enhance the quality of life of the community and ensure provision of community services for residen*ts." The rezoning of Santa Fe Suites to allow existing density to serve a residential use will ensure that supportive services are provided for 50% of tenants. This benefit to specific individuals has a profound ripple effect on the community, by providing more secure and stable housing units and additional support to individuals who need it the most.

- Urban Form: "Promote a compact urban form and encourage sensitive/compatible infill development." This multi-family project will operate within existing structures; no new structures, nor development are being proposed. Therefore, it is inherently promoting urban form by adaptive reuse of existing urban fabric.

d. the amount of land proposed for rezoning and the proposed use for the land is consistent with city policies regarding the provision of urban land sufficient to meet the amount, rate and geographic location of the growth of the city; and Response: General Plan Figure 4-4, Urban Sub-Areas, designates the subject properties and surrounding area as an "Infill Area." General Plan Section 4.1 states, "In both 'infill' and 'future growth' areas, the city must encourage higher densities of residential and commercial development than existing zoning often allows" to help "create efficient use of already existing roads and utilities, help ensure cost-efficient public transit, and provide the type of housing that will be in demand…". Adaptive reuse of existing hotel structures to serve a residential purpose as affordable housing satisfies this intent of the General Plan by utilizing existing buildings and infrastructure.

e. the existing and proposed infrastructure, such as the streets system, sewer and water lines, and public facilities, such as fire stations and parks, will be able to accommodate the impacts of the proposed development.

Response: The proposed change of use and rezoning will be accommodated by the existing infrastructure and surrounding public facilities. Additionally, the proposed change of use and rezoning will not create a need for additional infrastructure of any sort. As a result, there will be no physical impacts imposed by the proposed Project.

2. Unless the proposed change is consistent with applicable general plan policies, the planning commission and the governing body shall not recommend or approve any rezoning, the practical effect of which is to:

a. allow uses or a change in character significantly different from or inconsistent with the prevailing use and character in the area;
b. affect an area of less than two acres, unless adjusting boundaries between districts; or c. benefit one or a few landowners at the expense of the surrounding landowners or general public.

Response: Santa Fe Suites rezoning out of the SCHC Overlay not only complies with numerous General Plan policies (Affordable Housing, Quality of Life, Urban Form) as addressed above, it is a model of the type of adaptive reuse and infill development that the Plan specifically encourages. The proposed use is compatible with the historic use of the Property, and there will be no change in character from the existing condition. The Property is of sufficient size to warrant the rezoning request, and the Project will benefit those members of our community who are most in need of immediate housing and services.

Development Plan Approval Criteria

The Development Plan approval criteria outlined in §14-3.8(D)(1) are addressed below:

a. that it is empowered to approve the plan under the section of Chapter 14 described in the application

Response: The Planning Commission has the authority to review and approve this plan, per SFCC §14-2.3(C)(1).

b. that approving the development plan does not adversely affect the public interest

Response: The proposed development plan establishes predictable parameters for future use of the proposed multifamily residential community. In doing so, the development plan accommodates existing conditions, and creates housing opportunities in close proximity to transit, services, and employment. These projected outcomes are in the public interest.

c. that the use and any associated buildings are compatible with and adaptable to buildings, structures and uses of the abutting property and other properties in the vicinity of the premises under consideration.

Response: The proposed development plan for a 123-unit apartment community is compatible with abutting mixed land uses, which include retail, medical, office, commercial, and residential, etc. The property has been an extended stay hotel use for decades and will be converted to multi-family residential use with the approval of this development plan. The proposed use is compatible with nearby multi-family housing projects in the vicinity, such as the Vizcaya Apartments, which are located across the Arroyo En Medio and are zoned C-1.

Change of Use Impact Fees

The proposed Development Plan requests change of use from Hotel to Residential. Change of Use Impact Fees are calculated as follows:

Proposed Residential: $2,457 per Unit
123 Units
123 x $2,457 = $302,211

Existing Commercial: $4,388 per 1000 SF Gross Area

Gross Area: 46,492 SF
46.492 x $4,388 = $204,006.90

Impact Fees at Change of Use:
$302,211- $204,006.90= $98,204.10

Santa Fe Homes Program

In accordance with the provisions of City of Santa Fe Ordinance 2016-9, the Santa Fe Homes Program Proposal is submitted herewith for your reference. Please reference Exhibit A for proposal details.

Traffic

A Site Threshold Analysis was performed and submitted to Public Works by Santa Fe Engineering for the change of use, and is under review. Please reference Exhibit B.

Parking Reduction Request

As part of the development plan application in support of the proposed residential conversion, a parking reduction is requested. The attached Parking Demand Analysis determined that the one hundred thirty-one (131) provided parking spaces are sufficient for the Project. The study found that for this project type, the SFCC requirement per Table 14.8.6-1 is to provide 1.25 parking spaces per unit is excessive and inefficient based on project location, type of use, unit size and expected occupancy. According to the Parking Demand Analysis demonstrates that the existing parking lot has more than enough spaces to meet demand. In support of our request please reference Exhibit C.

The existing parking lot has 135 spaces overall; however, four of those spaces lie just outside of the lot line and outside of the parking easement, therefore the official count is 131 spaces.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Units < 800 sf: | (123) units x 1.25 = | 154 spaces |
| | Total Required = | 154 spaces |
| | Total Provided = | 131 spaces |

|---|---|
| ADA including 1 van-accessible space | 10 spaces |
| Regular | 121 spaces |
| TOTAL | 131 spaces |

The project will also provide twelve (12) exterior bicycle parking spaces in accordance with the provisions of Table 14-8.6-3.

Terrain Management and Water Harvesting

The soils and drainage conditions of the existing drainage infrastructure were analyzed to determine if this project meets current City of Santa Fe Terrain and Stormwater Management Regulations (SFCC 14-8.2). This analysis compared both predeveloped conditions (circa 1997) and the current (2022) conditions and determined that the project would meet current City of Santa Fe Terrain Management requirements provided that some remedial work and maintenance is provided on the existing drainage infrastructure as detailed in the attached Terrain Management Report (Exhibit D).

Water & Sewer

The existing Project on Lots D-5 and D-6 will continue to be served with existing City water and sewer infrastructure. The Project is connected to the City water system via an existing main on Zia Road. Per SFCC §14-8.13(B)(3), "When a proposed new structure or use replaces an existing structure or use, the development water budget for the proposed new structure or use may be reduced by an amount equal to the average annual consumption in the twenty-four months that the highest water use was active during the preceding ten years or by the amount of water previously offset if the previously offset amount is higher. Consumption shall be determined through city utility billing system records."

Historic usage data was obtained from the City Utilities however it was discovered that the data was inaccurate. For the purposes of this report, water impact fees are calculated based on the standards set forth by the Resolution No. 2010-20. The proposed Water Budget will be updated with actual historical use data once the correct data is received from the City Utilities. Please reference Water Budget (Exhibit E) for details.

|---|---|
| Hotel Use 0.13 AFY per Unit at 128 Units | 18.27 AFY |
| Actual Residential Use at 123 Units 19.68 AFY | 8.3 AFY |
| Proposed Landscaping Irrigation | 0.45 AFY |
| Subtotal | 8.75 AFY |
| 9.8% Contingency per SFCC §14-8.13(E)(1) = | 0.86 AFY |
| Total Residential Water Budget Delta | 9.16 AFY |
| Delta | -9.11 AFY |

Water demand offset fees are typically paid upon issuance of building permits for the change of use from motel to residential. Change of building use would result in a decrease of -9.11 AFY.

Fee is calculated at $16,600 per AFY. Since the residential conversion would result in a decrease of water use, thus there is no water offset fee due.

The project will continue to be served by the City of Santa Fe Solid Waste Management Division. Please refer to the Utility Plan for further details.

Open Space and Landscaping

Per SFCC Table 14-7.3-1: Table of Dimensional Standards for Nonresidential Districts, there is no maximum lot coverage requirement in SC-1. However, there are open space requirements in the SCHC Overlay, and the existing site complies.

Per SFCC §14-5.5(A)(4)(b)(v), 50% of lot area must be preserved as open space.

|---|---|
| Gross Lot Area: | 4.58 acres |
| Required: | 4.58 * 50% = 2.29 acres |
| Provided: | 2.30 acres |

Landscaping on the existing site will be improved upon in accordance with City requirements, per SFCC §14-8.4. All of the existing parking lot and street trees are to remain. Additional native and/or drought-tolerant plants will be planted in the landscape strips. Plantings will include a combination of deciduous and evergreen trees, shrubs, and groundcover. The preservation of the existing mature and native vegetation is a top priority. Please refer to the attached Landscape Plan for further details.

Lighting

There are six existing pole lights within the property boundary with additional lighting illuminating the plaza parking lot which is located on neighboring properties. Existing pole light locations noted on Sheet DP-2. Since these pole lights have been in existence prior to effective date of 2011, they are to remain per SFCC §14-8.9. Please reference Exhibit F.

Signage

There are three existing signs, which will remain. One pole sign located at the South St. Francis Drive ROW, a similar sign on the building also facing the ROW, and a 36”x96” rectangular sign mounted between two wood posts at 62” in height above the ground. This sign is centrally located at the entry. Should there be any revision requests to signage in the future, a formal permit application will be submitted for review. Please reference Exhibit G.

Archaeology

The Project is located in the Suburban Archaeological Review District, where a parcel size of under 10 acres and will need no new utility extensions, it does not require archaeological survey or review. Furthermore, since this project is proposing only minor landscaping improvements to the site, there will be no impacts on prehistoric, historic, archaeological or cultural sites.

Fire Protection and Emergency Access

Emergency access requirements are satisfied by the existing 20-ft wide driveway which wraps around the parking lot. There are four total fire hydrants at close proximity to the property: two fire hydrants located on the north side of the property and two fire hydrants located to the south side of the property. Additionally, each of the existing eight buildings already provides an FDC near the main entry to the building. Please refer to Site and Utility Plans for more information.

Early Neighborhood Notification

An Early Neighborhood Notification meeting was held on March 31, 2022, via Zoom. There were approximately 34 participants including presenters and City staff. Notes from the meeting are included with this report as an Exhibit H.

This Santa Fe Homes Program Proposal ("SFHP Proposal") is made this __ day of _____, 2021 by St Vincent's Legacy LLC ("SFHP Developer").

RECITALS

A. SFHP Developer is the developer of 3007 S St. Francis Dr hereinafter referred to as the "Property".

C. SUCCESSORS IN TITLE. SFHP Developer proposes to develop the Property consistent with this SFHP Proposal. In the event that SFHP Developer sells, assigns, leases, conveys, mortgages, or encumbers the Property to any third party, the third party shall be required to execute a SFHP Agreement consistent with this Proposal prior to obtaining any City approvals. SFHP Developer proposes to record applicable regulatory agreements or liens in the public records that will ensure long-term affordability of the SFHP units or fulfillment of the proposed alternate compliance.

SFHP RENTAL UNIT CALCULATION WORKSHEET

The project is in an R-### zoning district, permitting ## units per acre. The project has an area of approximately ## acres. The project is proposing ## rental homes; ## studio, ## one-bedroom units, ## two-bedroom units, and ## three-bedroom units. There are not additional land use requirements for this site.

The SFHP requirement is calculated below:

Total number of units multiplied by (0.15) = the number of SFHP rental units required = ## total units x 0.15 = ## SFHP unit(s) is/are required.

RE: SITE THRESHOLD ASSESSMENT FOR THE SANTA FE SUITES CONVERSION

Dear Ms. Jenkins,

We have prepared a Site Threshold Assessment for the conversion of the Santa Fe Suites (128 rooms) located at 3007 St. Francis Drive, Santa Fe, NM to a 123-unit apartment complex.

The existing motel and proposed apartments were analyzed to determine the traffic generated during the AM and PM peak hours. Traffic Generation Rates were determined using the Institute of Transportation Engineers (ITE) TripGen Web-Based App, Version 1.3.1. The ITE TripGen Web-Based App is based upon the ITE Trip Generation Handbook, 10th Edition. The results are as follows:

| TRIP GENERATION MOTEL VERSUS APARTMENTS | | |
|---|---|---|
| Description | AM | PM |
| Motel (128 rooms) (ITE 320) | 49 | 49 |
| Multifamily Low-Rise Apartments (123 units) (ITE 220) | 58 | 71 |
| | | |
| Difference | + 9 cars | + 22 cars |

The trip generation calculations and the NMDOT STH form are attached. The projected traffic does not meet the threshold for a Traffic Impact Analysis (TIA).

Sincerely,

Eric Cornelius, P.E.

Introduction

Background

Santa Fe Suites is a former hotel located in the San Miguel Plaza on the corner of St Francis Dr and Zia Rd in Santa Fe, New Mexico (see Figure 1). In 2021, using federal CARES Act funding, the City of Santa Fe partnered with the non-profit organization Community Solutions to purchase the hotel and convert the rooms into affordable housing. The project has three main goals:

- Provide affordable housing to help accelerate the City's efforts to end homelessness.
- Offer below market rate rental rates and provide more housing options for rental assistance voucher holders.
- Provide housing for low-income cancer patients via the Cancer Foundation for New Mexico (treatment is available nearby at the Cancer Institute of New Mexico).[1]

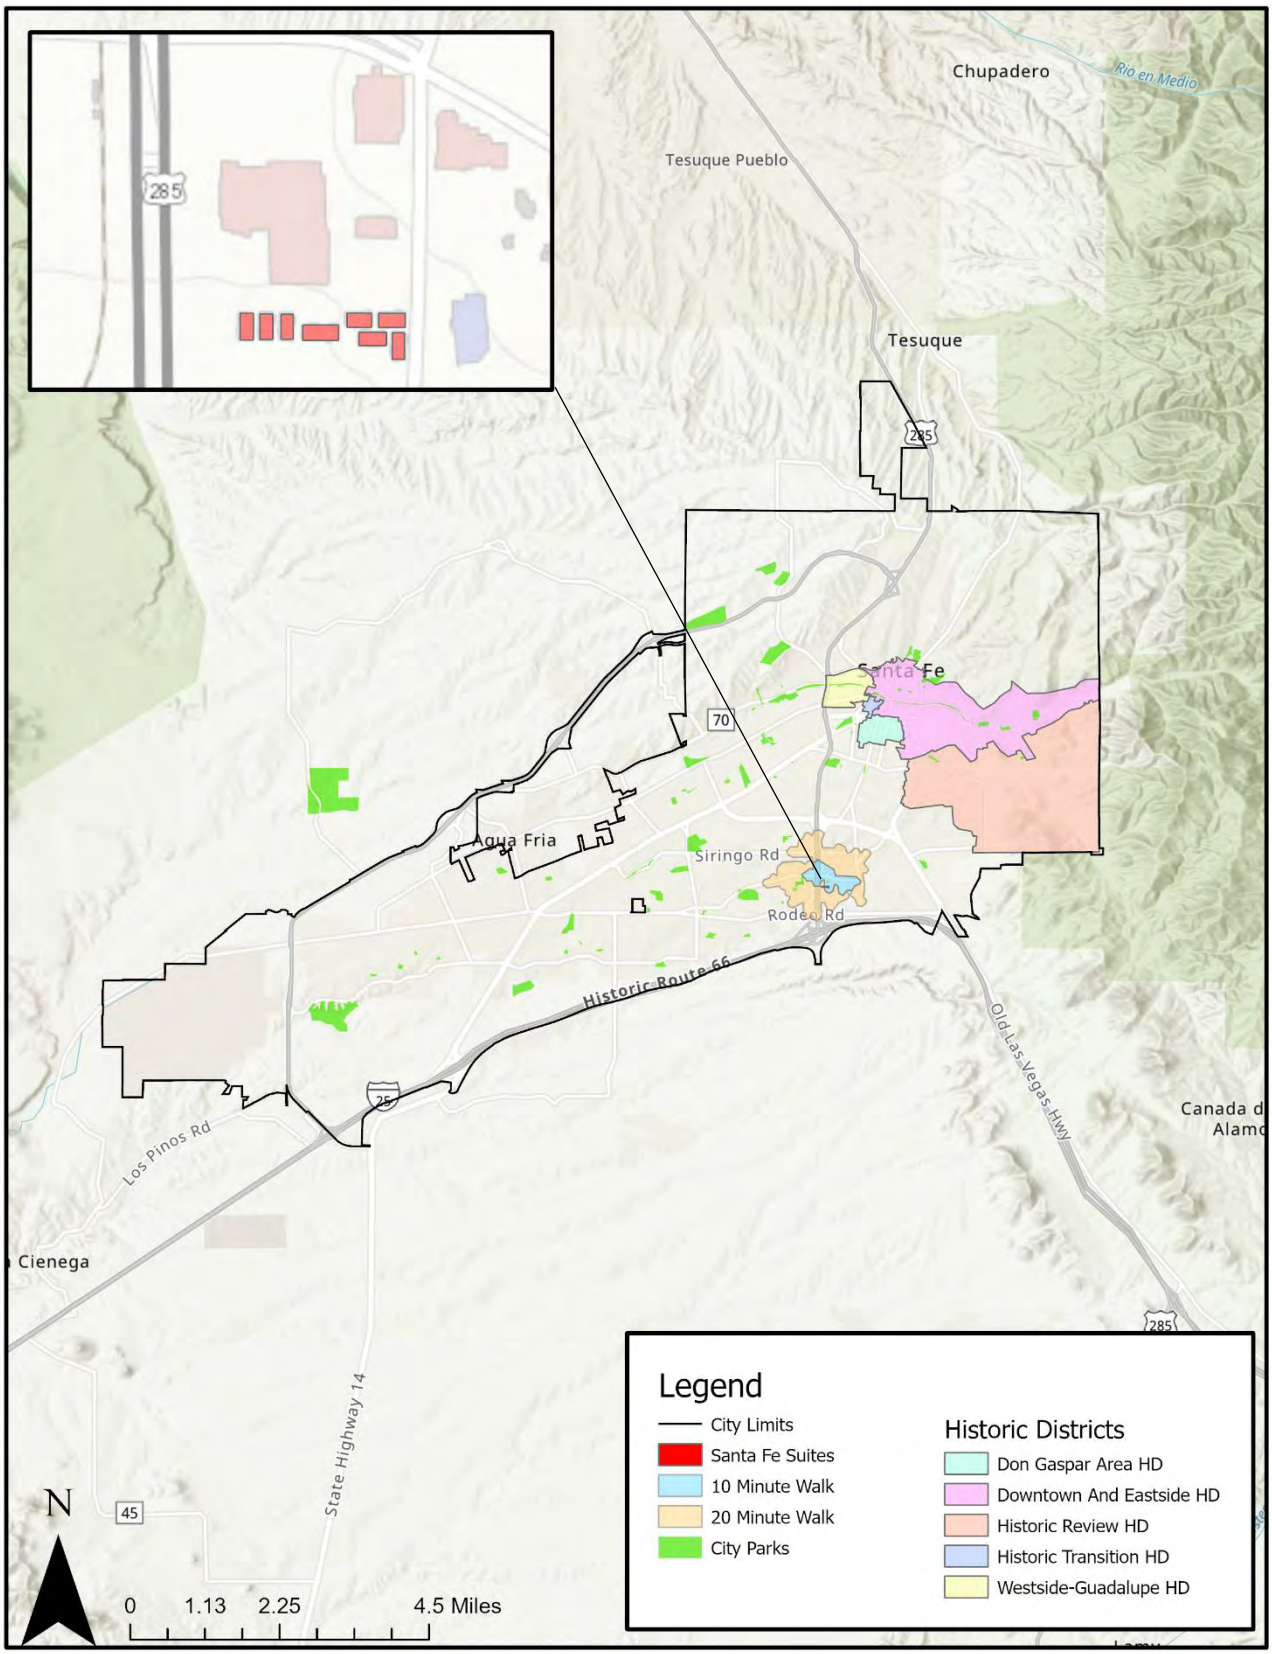

Santa Fe Suites also provides additional services such as job training, counseling, and assistance connecting tenants to other resources.

The project has 122 studio units (300 square feet) and one 600 square foot unit, totaling 123 dwelling units. 115 units are affordable studio apartments, six are affordable units set aside for patients of the Cancer Foundation for New Mexico, and two are reserved for staff. There are 131 parking spaces available at the site, and 12 bicycle parking spaces will be provided.

The change of use from hotel to residential increases the amount of parking required in the Santa Fe Code of Ordinances. This study supports the conversion of Santa Fe Suites to affordable housing by demonstrating that the additional 23 parking spaces needed to meet code requirements for multi-family attached dwelling units are not necessary due to the facility's location benefits and the reduced parking demand associated with multi-family affordable housing.

Study Considerations

Many factors can influence the parking demand associated with residential buildings, including unit size, resident demographics, nearby land uses, and site proximity to transit, biking, and walking infrastructure. This study primarily considers the following factors in determining parking demand and appropriate parking supply for the Santa Fe Suites Project:

1. Santa Fe housing policy and housing needs: Santa Fe has a severe affordable housing shortage. High parking minimums decrease the supply of housing and increase housing costs. While not reflected in Santa Fe's Code of Ordinances, Santa Fe's plans and policies support the reduction of parking minimums in favor of constructing affordable housing.
2. Parking demand for multi-family housing, studio, and income-restricted housing: Vehicle ownership at multi-family affordable housing developments is significantly lower than average. Studio units also generate less demand for parking than larger units.
3. Site characteristics and location benefits: Santa Fe Suites tenants are low- and moderate-income earners, who are less likely to own vehicles than higher-income earners. Furthermore, residents do not need to purchase or own a vehicle while living at Santa Fe Suites to conduct daily activities, as the site is within walking distance of grocery stores, services, and employment opportunities and is served by transit and a network of off-street bicycle facilities.

Current and Required Parking Supply

Existing Parking Supply

The existing parking lot at Santa Fe Suites includes 131 parking spaces. This count includes spaces available in shared parking easements that, per the San Miguel Plaza Development Plan, may be counted towards parking requirements.

Required Parking Supply

Under Santa Fe Code, hotels are required to provide one parking space per room. The code requires 1.25 parking spaces per unit for attached dwelling units under 800 square feet, meaning that Santa Fe Suites would need 154 spaces to meet code requirements under the new use class, creating a shortage of 23 parking spaces for the facility.

Table 1 describes parking requirements and parking surplus/deficits for the old and new use classes.

TABLE 1: PARKING SURPLUS OR DEFICIT FOR VARIOUS USE CLASSES

| Use Classification | Required Parking Spaces Per Unit | Required Parking Spaces at Site | Existing Parking Supply | Percent Above/Below Requirements |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Hotels/Motels | 1 | 123 | 131 | +7% |
| Attached Dwelling Unit <800 sf | 1.25 | 154 | 131 | -15% |

San Miguel Plaza Development Plan

The San Miguel Plaza Development Plan was adopted in 1997 and includes parking requirements for buildings located within the plaza. The plan requires each individual parcel within the plaza to meet parking minimums for its intended use. The plan states that the minimum required parking is either parking minimums determined by City ordinances, or the number of spaces shown on the original site plans, whichever is greater. The original site plan can be referenced in Appendix A: San Miguel Plaza Site Plan.

The Plaza Development Plan also includes permanent parking easements. One parking easement surrounds Santa Fe Suites and can be included in parking counts to meet minimum parking requirements. The other parking easement is for shared use among all San Miguel Plaza businesses, but the plan states that it cannot be used in parking counts for Santa Fe Suites.

Santa Fe's Code of Ordinances requires more parking spaces for attached dwelling units than the number of spaces shown on the original site plans in the San Miguel Plaza Development Plan. Under the new use class, Santa Fe Suites will not be in compliance with Santa Fe code or the San Miguel Plaza Development Plan, as the Development Plan stipulates that whichever parking requirement is greater should be used.

Housing Affordability in Santa Fe

Santa Fe's housing market is characterized by a low supply of housing with an especially acute lack of affordable housing. According to the 2021 Santa Fe Housing Report, there is a shortage of 7,343 rental units and 5,000 affordable housing units in Santa Fe.

Santa Fe also has a 3% vacancy rate, one of the lowest vacancy rates of any U.S. city.[2] Low vacancy rates drive up the price of rent for all income levels and are especially detrimental to low-income households. Due to high rent prices compared to wages, 78% of renters making less than 30% of the area median income are cost burdened, meaning they spend more than 30% of their income on housing costs.

Homelessness is another pressing issue in Santa Fe with an increase in homelessness rates during the COVID-19 pandemic. A point-in-time count of homeless individuals conducted in January 2021 found 723 people experiencing homelessness, a significant increase from previous years. Even so, this number is likely to be an undercount due to the challenges of collecting homelessness data.[3]

Santa Fe Policies in Support of Reduced Parking Minimums

The City of Santa Fe Affordable Housing Plan identifies parking minimums as a barrier to affordable housing development, particularly for multi-family housing. It states that "Although the traditional standard of two parking spaces per dwelling unit may be reasonable for many areas, a lower standard can and generally should be used for affordable housing, multi-family housing, group housing, and special needs housing." The plan further recommends reducing parking requirements as an incentive to encourage affordable housing development.

The City of Santa Fe Land Use & Urban Design Plan also recommends adjusting minimum parking requirements, stating that "One of the biggest contributors to sprawl and poor land management can be found in the amount of land devoted to massive parking lots that are rarely, if ever, full."[4]

Factors Affecting Parking Demand

Higher than necessary parking minimums have been implemented in communities across the United States, resulting in an over-supply of parking that contributes to sprawling development patterns, reduces the amount of land available for housing, and increases the cost of development. Providing one parking space per unit increases development costs by 12.5% and providing two spaces per unit increases the cost by 25%.[5] These increased costs and externalities are passed on to renters through higher rents and decreased housing supply. Meanwhile, parking lots at many locations are rarely, if ever, full.

Research and policies implemented in other communities demonstrate that Santa Fe's parking minimums are higher than needed to meet demand, especially for developments like the Santa Fe Suites project. Parking demand has been shown to be lower than what is typically supplied by municipal codes for multi-family housing, affordable housing, small housing units, and at locations where shared parking is possible.

Multi-Family Housing

While multi-family housing has generally lower parking minimums than single-family housing, Santa Fe's policy of providing 1.25 to 2 parking spaces per unit may still oversupply parking for these types of residences. A study based in Madison, WI studied peak parking demand at 50 multi-family complexes and found that "30 percent of the parking spaces are vacant during peak demand hours"[6], a significant finding because Madison only requires one parking space per unit. If parking at Santa Fe Suites followed the trends found in the Madison study, the building would only need 87 spots to satisfy typical parking demand for multi-family housing.

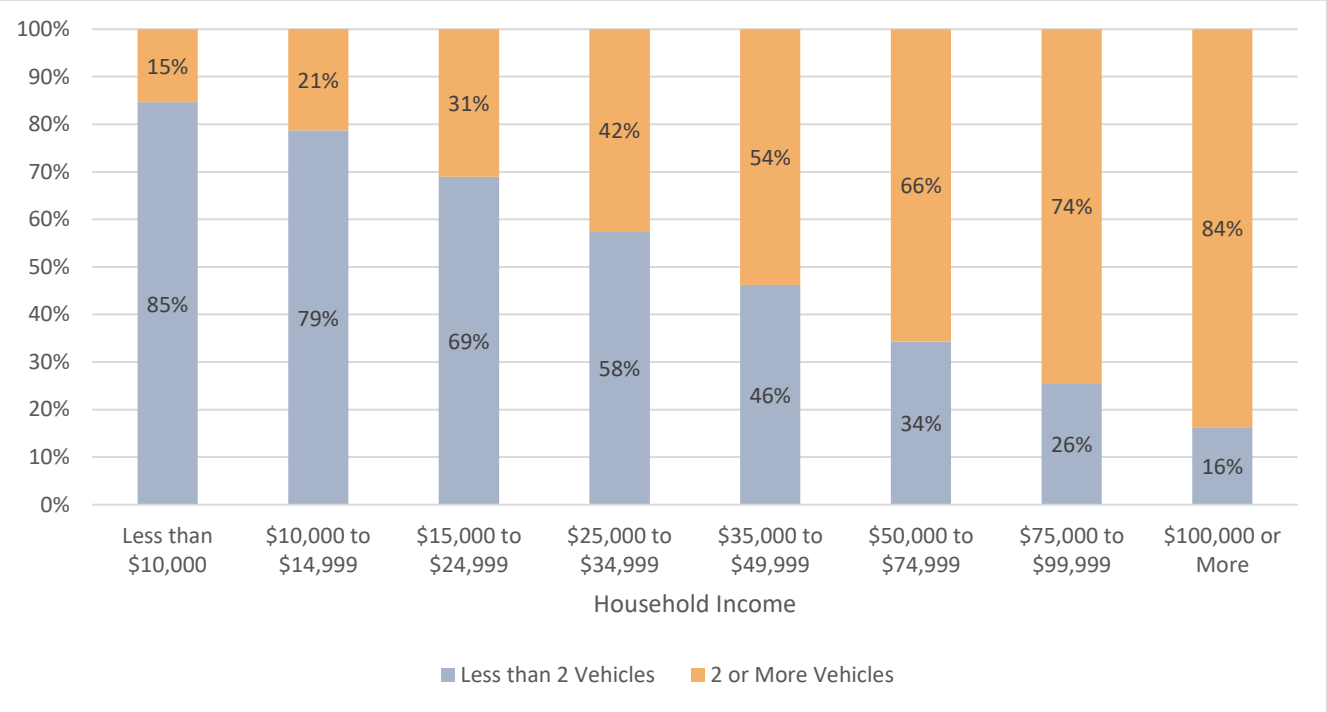

Another study conducted in Palo Alto, California, found that only 0.55 parking spaces per bedroom were used at multi-family affordable housing developments. Proximity to transit further reduced parking demand by 25%.[7] If parking demand for Santa Fe Suites followed demand patterns from Palo Alto, only 68 parking spaces would be needed.

Household Income

According to the National Household Travel Survey, household income has a direct relationship to vehicle ownership, with vehicle ownership increasing as income increases (see Figure 2).

Affordable Housing

Affordable housing developments have been shown to have significantly lower parking demand than market-rate housing. A study from San Diego conducted in 2011 researched how income levels, transit access, land use context, and housing size contribute to vehicle ownership and parking demand. The study found that:

- Parking demand for affordable projects is about one half of typical rental units in San Diego; almost half the units surveyed (47.5%) had no vehicle while another 38.7% had only one vehicle.
- Parking demand varies with type of affordable housing (e.g. single-family housing versus apartment); higher demand is associated with larger unit sizes.
- Household vehicle availability increases with income; however, income may be correlated with other project characteristics, such as project type and size.
- Parking demand is lower in areas with many walkable destinations and more transit service.
- In all of the projects studied, the amount of peak overnight parking used was less than the amount supplied.[8]

Unit Size

Vehicle ownership at Santa Fe Suites is likely lower than 1.25 vehicles/unit, as all but one of the project's units are 300 square foot studio apartments and parking demand has been shown to be lower for studio housing. A study of [8] City of San Diego. San Diego Affordable Housing Parking Study. 2011.

affordable housing developments in San Diego found that, on average, households living in studio apartments owned 0.2 vehicles, while households in two-bedroom units owned 1.2 vehicles.[9]

Many communities across the U.S. have successfully implemented lower parking minimums for studio and/or affordable studio units. Table 2 shows peer cities' parking minimums for market-rate and affordable studio units, as well as how many parking spaces would be required at Santa Fe Suites under each city's municipal code.

TABLE 2: PEER CITY PARKING MINIMUMS FOR STUDIO AND AFFORDABLE STUDIO UNITS

Cities implementing best practices for reduced parking minimums require between 0.5 – 1 parking spaces per affordable housing studio unit. The existing parking lot at Santa Fe Suites would have more than enough parking spaces to meet parking minimums in peer cities.

Shared Parking

Santa Fe Suites is located in the San Miguel Plaza, which includes various commercial uses including medical offices, a grocery store, and restaurants. Parking lots at mixed commercial/residential locations need fewer parking spaces to meet demand when destinations have different peak hours. Medical facilities have peak demand hours during weekday business hours, while residential uses see highest demand at night.[10] Because Santa Fe Suites is located next to several medical offices, it is unlikely that lots for both uses will be full at the same time. Even in the unlikely scenario that parking demand is greater than supply at Santa Fe Suites, excess vehicles could be parked in other lots in the San Miguel Plaza during non-business hours.

Induced Parking Demand

Research on transportation behavior indicates that supplying high amounts of parking leads to an increase in vehicle ownership. A study based in San Francisco analyzed the relationship between parking availability and vehicle ownership at affordable housing developments. Researchers selected apartment complexes that use affordable housing lotteries, meaning that residents were assigned housing randomly and did not select it based on parking availability or other transportation-related considerations.

The study found that tenants at apartment buildings with less parking owned fewer vehicles, and that parking availability did not affect employment or job mobility.[11] Figure 3 shows that the percent of households who owned a vehicle increased with parking availability.

Demand for parking is flexible, as residents will change their transportation behaviors based on parking availability. If the parking lot at Santa Fe Suites has fewer spaces than are required by code, the result will likely be reduced rates of vehicle ownership and higher use of alternative transportation modes such as walking, biking, or riding transit.

Summary

Santa Fe Suites provides small, affordable housing units for low to moderate-income earners. As a multi-family, affordable, studio-sized housing development, it is highly likely that the project will have much lower parking demand than is required by City of Santa Fe Code of Ordinances. Table 3 summarizes the possible range of parking demand at Santa Fe Suites and points to lower parking demand than is already supplied by the existing parking lot of 131 spaces.

Site Characteristics and Location Benefits

Santa Fe Suites residents are likely to own vehicles at much lower rates than average, and Santa Fe Suites' location allows residents to access essential destinations via walking, biking, or taking transit. The site's location benefits reduce the need for vehicle ownership while residents are living at Santa Fe Suites.

Transit Facilities

Santa Fe Suites is less than 900 ft from a Route 6 bus stop, which travels between the Santa Fe Place Transit Center and Downtown Transit Center via Rodeo Dr and Botulph Rd. Route 6 is currently not running on a regular schedule, and riders must call Santa Fe Trails to schedule a pick-up. The site is also within a 20-minute walk of a Route 4 bus stop at Pacheco St/Siringo Rd, which travels between Santa Fe Place Transit Center and downtown Santa Fe on an hourly frequency.

Additionally, Santa Fe Suites is located 0.3 miles from a Rail Runner stop at Zia Road, which provides regional transportation to Albuquerque and smaller communities south of Santa Fe.

Biking Facilities

Santa Fe Suites is ideally located for bicycle travel and its proximity to a network of separated bike trails allows easy and comfortable access to destinations throughout the City. The Santa Fe Rail Trail is located directly across St Francis Dr from San Miguel Plaza and can be accessed at the intersection of St Francis Dr and Zia Rd. The trail runs north/south and connects to downtown Santa Fe as well as to the Arroyo de los Chamisos Trail. The St Francis Trail can also be accessed easily from Santa Fe Suites and is located directly across from the San Miguel Plaza along Zia Rd. There are also bike lanes along Zia Rd to the west of Santa Fe Suites.

Employment

Santa Fe Suites residents can access a variety of employment opportunities within a 20-minute walk. Figure 4 shows employment density based on data from the U.S. Census On the Map tool. There are 1,224 jobs within a 20-minute walk of Santa Fe Suites.

Walking Destinations

Residents of Santa Fe Suites are also able to access a variety of essential destinations within a 10- or 20-minute walk. Destinations within the San Miguel Plaza, which include an Albertson's grocery store and pharmacy, restaurants, and medical facilities, can be accessed within a three-minute walk.

Important destinations within a 10-minute walk include a Desert Sage Academy (elementary school) and Little Earth School (preschool). Destinations that can be accessed within a 20-minute walk include St Michael's High School, Santa Fe Girl's School (middle school), Candelero Park, and several churches. Figure 5 maps the destinations accessible within a 10- and 20-minute walkshed.

Discussion

Santa Fe Suite's parking lot consists of 131 spaces, 23 spaces short of Santa Fe Code requirements of 1.25 spaces/unit for multifamily attached dwelling units under 800 square feet. However, this study demonstrates that the existing parking lot has more than enough spaces to meet demand. Key findings include the following:

Santa Fe's policies support lowered parking minimums to encourage affordable housing development. Santa Fe's policies support reduced parking requirements for projects that create affordable housing. Code requirements for multi-family housing would only require 23 more parking spaces than currently exist. The benefits of providing 115 units of affordable housing and six units for low-income cancer patients clearly outweigh any costs associated with a small deficit of parking spaces.

Parking demand will be lower than the existing supply of spaces at Santa Fe Suites, as multi-family housing, affordable housing, and studio housing are all associated with lower rates of parking demand. Research shows that parking demand at housing developments similar to Santa Fe Suites is substantially lower than Santa Fe code requirements. Furthermore, parking demand responds to the built environment, meaning that demand decreases when fewer parking spaces are provided.

Residents likely have low vehicle ownership rates and do not need a car to access essential destinations. Residents of Santa Fe Suites are very low-income, low-income, or moderate-income individuals. As income is directly correlated with vehicle ownership, residents likely own cars at much lower rates than an average household. Because of the site's proximity to local and regional transit, high-quality bicycling facilities, employment opportunities, and destinations such as grocery stores, childcare facilities, schools, and medical facilities, Santa Fe Suites residents do not need to purchase a vehicle to conduct daily activities.

These findings conclude that the existing Santa Fe Suites parking lot provides sufficient parking supply to meet demand. Santa Fe's affordable housing crisis and growing homeless population showcase the need for housing developments like the Santa Fe Suites project. The clear benefits of providing affordable housing greatly outweigh the costs of supplying fewer parking spaces than are typically provided by Santa Fe Code.

Good Afternoon,

A few things are wrong with this case and I'll start with the fact that I received the letter from "City of Santa Fe", Land use department - only on Friday 5/24/2022.
The letter was sent to me by the petitioner representative, who I think was obligated to send it to the neighbours that may be affected by their employer's request. That does not give enough time for a serious, well thought and organized response. maybe it was done deliberately, maybe not.

Of more serious concern is the fact that the request is asking to make an unbearable situation even worse. Since the "Santa Fe Suites" operating as a hotel was converted to low income housing the parking lot and the neighborhood have changed dramatically. While many of the homeless and deserved low income residents found a suitable place to live, many of their friends are wandering around the premises, loitering and harassing passer byes for change and pan handling.

Our morning routine starts with going around the parking lot and adjacent bushes and shrubs looking for disposed needles and sharps. On the same route we collect a plethora of empty single serve liqueur bottles. Our outside trash containers are overflowing with empty food and beverages containers and that is after our custodians emptied them the evening prior.

Operating a business in this environment turned challenging and frustrating. In the 14 years of operating my business here, I never had to request the help of the police in removing a trespasser who put a tent on our "vacant" property.

The police are visiting here almost on a daily basis. I like the police presence, I do not like the reason they have to come here.

In summary, We object to increasing the population density of the "low income housing". It is beyond manageable now, so I can not and do not want to think of what it will be later.
